WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Four witnesses testified before the senate committee on elections in its investigation of the election of Senator Clark of Montana yesterday. They were D. R. Peeler, a banker of Kalispell, whose evidence related to the bank account of Senator Geiger; W. H. Cockran of Butte, who was called by the defense, but before he concluded was stigmatized by them as a witness for the prosecution; State Senator C. W. Hoffman and Mr. John S. M. Neill, proprietor of the Helena Independent. Mr. Neill had not concluded when the committee adjourned for the day. He denied categorically practically all the allegations of Whiteside involving his name and the latter's assertions concerning the use of corrupt means to secure Clark's election.

Maud S on Exhibition.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Maud S, 2:08¾, for years the queen of the harness turf and still regarded by many good judges as the greatest trotter that ever lived, was exhibited at the Fasig-Tipton sale at Madison Square Garden. All the rest of the trotting stock belonging to the late Robert Bonner will be sold, but his heirs will see that the grand old mare spends the rest of her days in comfort. She is now 26 years old, but is remarkably well preserved and can trot a mile in 2:40 or better. Maud S's mark of 2:08¾ is still the best on record to a high wheel sulky.

Antisuffragists See McKinley.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—President McKinley yesterday afternoon received at the White House a number of the ladies representing the state associations that are opposed to woman suffrage. The ladies were introduced by Mrs. Root, wife of the secretary of war. Their reception by the president was exceedingly cordial. After the meeting the ladies expressed themselves as well pleased both as to the impression the president had made on them and the impression they apparently had made on the president.

Naval Movements.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The navy department has been informed that the battleship Texas left San Juan yesterday for Culebra island. The Monongahela sailed from Martinique for St. Kitts, and the Essex left the latter port Saturday for Fredericksted. The Machias is at San Juan. The collier Nero arrived at San Francisco Sunday, and the Potomac is at Key West.

Y., Feb. 13.—British-American citizens, mostly mill employees who came to this country from Bradford, England, have raised by subscription $1,200 in amounts of less than $10 and have forwarded the contribution to the mayor of Bradford for the relief of families of English soldiers engaged in the Boer war.

A Typhoid Epidemic.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Typhoid fever, supposed to originate in organic matter in the city's water supply, is spreading so rapidly as to be almost epidemic. At the Brooks Memorial hospital there are 25 typhoid patients.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Ali Ferrouh Bey, the Turkish minister, has arrived in this city after an absence of nearly a year and will pay his respects to the secretary of state within the next few days.

Watch Your Kidneys!

They are Filters For the Blood. Impure Blood Causes Disease.

Few people understand the important part performed by the kidneys in filtering the blood. As the blood in its circulation through the body passes through the kidneys, its impurity is left in the kidneys, which in turn empties the secretions into the bladder in the form of urine.

If the kidneys are blocked and filtration of the blood from poisonous or diseased germs is prevented thereby, the result is one or all of the following: Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration, Weak Back, Pains in the Back and Loins, Scalding Dark and Cloudy Urine, Dizziness, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Congestion of the Kidneys, Bright's Disease and Inflammation of the Bladder.

Unhealthy Kidneys Must Be Treated

A medicine is needed that will properly promote the filtration of the blood and check the over-secretion of urine.

GENERAL PILAR DEAD.

Such a Report Reaches Manila—Filipino Army Disbands.

MANILA, Feb. 13.—It is reported that the United States gunboat Princeton visited the Tatanes and Calagan islands, which were omitted from the Paris treaty of peace, being north of 20 degrees of latitude, raised American flags and appointed native governors. It is added that the Princeton found the Japanese flag flying at Bayat island and refrained from landing there, pending orders.

Reports from native sources, which are not confirmed, say General Pio del Pilar, the insurgent commander, died of fever recently.

A number of ex-insurgent officials who arrived here yesterday report that General Rio del Pilar, the insurgent leader, died of fever a fortnight ago in the Morong mountains.

The leaders after his death held a meeting, at which it was recognized that it would be futile to offer further resistance to the Americans.

They therefore disbanded their forces, which are now wandering in small gangs in the hills.

ARMY CANTEEN CRUSADE.

National W. C. T. U. Ladies Get No Help From the President.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union; Miss Anna A. Gordon, vice president at large, and Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis, superintendent of the department of legislation for the society, were granted an interview by President McKinley yesterday. Mrs. Stevens, on behalf of 300,000 members of the W. C. T. U., expressed what she declared was the general dissatisfaction of the people at the decision of Attorney General Griggs regarding the sale of liquor in the army canteen.

While the reply of the president was most courteous and expressed his appreciation of the work of the W. C. T. U., he stated in response to a direct question from Mrs. Stevens that the opinion of the attorney general must be accepted as final.

Antitrust Conference.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—At the close of the first day's proceedings of the antitrust conference called by the National Antitrust league good progress had been made with the set speeches, of which a dozen or more were delivered. The resolutions committee was busy, and last night while the main body of the delegates were listening to the speeches at Central Music hall a set of resolutions was formulated by the committee covering the following points: Government ownership of all railways and telegraph lines, the abolition of all special privileges by legislative enactment, placing on the free list of all trust goods and direct legislation by petition from the people. The discussion in committee was carried out on these lines. An amendment was offered for the taxation of all franchises, but was voted down on the ground that such action would simply legalize special privileges.

Quesada's Report.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The president has received from Senor Quesada, the Cuban commissioner in Washington, an interesting report of the trip which Senor Quesada has just made through the island of Cuba. The commissioner dwells on the willingness with which the inhabitants of the island accept the new conditions brought about by American control. Where for many years there has been a state of war there is now universal peace. The soldiers of the insurgent armies have returned to peaceful pursuits. Cuban generals and other officers are devoting their energies to the improvement of material conditions, the building of roads, sanitation and to the establishment of a stable government.

Recruits For the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—What is virtually a new regiment is being organized at Fort Slocum, New York harbor, for service in the Philippines. The men are all new recruits and are intended to supply deficiencies in the regular regiments in the Philippines caused by death or discharge or other causes. The number, which is about 1,100, includes infantrymen, cavalrymen and members of the hospital corps. Commanded by about 36 officers, they will go to Manila by the Suez route on the transport Sumner. That vessel is now undergoing extensive repairs at the Norfolk navy yard and will start on her long trip soon after the first of March.

Stole Horse, Girl and Money.

WINSTED, Conn., Feb. 13.—Willis White of Colebrook has reported to Chief of Police Wheeler here that Charles White, claiming to be the agent of a patent medicine concern, hired a horse from him last Friday and had failed to return the animal. The police traced the team to Sandisfield, Mass., where, they claim, they found that the man called at the home of Richard Parsons, a farmer, and upon departing Mr. Parsons' 15-year-old daughter went away with him. It was also learned that a considerable sum of money belonging to Mrs. Parsons had disappeared.

Lincoln Day In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—The fifteenth annual Lincoln day banquet of the Marquette club was given last night at the Auditorium hotel, covers being laid for 500 guests. The banquet hall was hung with pictures of Lincoln, McKinley, Dewey, Schley and Sampson and the various generals of the civil war. The president of the club, Herman B. Wickersham, presided. After the president had delivered his address the Hon. George E. Adams spoke on "Abraham Lincoln."

Texas Postmaster Afraid.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The postoffice at Wilmuth, Tex., has been ordered discontinued from Feb. 14 next. This action was taken by the postoffice department as a result of representations by the postmaster there that he wished to resign because of open threats that he would be assassinated. The postoffice officials have no other information in regard to the case.

The Colombian Revolution.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 13.—There are persistent reports current here that the Colombian insurgents are closing in upon Bogota for the purpose of forcing a crisis, which the government is anxious to avoid on account of the disaffection among the military as well as in the civil service. The end, however, is thought to be very near.

ROBERTS' TURN NOW

Will Doubtless Attempt the Relief of Kimberley.

THAT CITY IN GREAT DANGER.

War Office Gives Out General Buller's Explanation of His Third Disastrous Move—The Boers Plan Another Barrier.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Lord Roberts has gathered 35,000 men, with whom, according to the best military opinion in London, he purposes turning the left of the Magersfontein lines near Jacobsdal, entering the Free State, compelling General Cronje to raise the siege of Kimberley, and thus making his first step toward Bloemfontein.

Kimberley, 20 miles away from the Modder river position, is in sore straits. Details of the December death rate show that in a population of 14,000 whites and 19,000 blacks the mortality was 60 whites and 138 blacks per 1,000. The infantile death rate was 671 per 1,000 among the whites and 912 per 1,000 among the blacks. Enteric fever was prevalent.

This frightful state of things in December cannot have improved much, if at all, since, and the fighting power of the garrison must have been greatly diminished.

Meanwhile the bombardment by the Boers has increased, and there is imminent danger of the town falling under the very eyes of Lord Roberts. It is believed in circles close to the war office that he will move at once.

The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts, dated from the Modder river Sunday, Feb. 11:

"I have received a telegram from Buller as follows, dated Friday, Feb. 9:

"'It was necessary after seizing Vaal Krantz to intrench it as the pivot of further operations. But I found after trying two days that, owing to the nature of the ground, this was impracticable. It was also exposed to the fire of heavy guns in positions from which our artillery was dominated.

"'It is essential to troops advancing on Ladysmith by Harding or Mongers drift to hold Vaal Krantz securely, and accordingly we are not pressing the advance by those roads, as I find we cannot make it secure.'"

The Pietermaritzburg correspondent of The Daily Mail, telegraphing yesterday, says:

"A dispatch from Eshowe asserts that a large commando of Boers is encamped near Ngutu, with 80 wagons and nine guns. It is rumored that this force intends to besiege Eshowe, the intention probably being to fortify the Insuzi hills in order to prevent the British traversing Zululand to relieve Ladysmith."

Great Britain, according to the Berlin correspondent of The Daily Mail, is placing large orders for Schwartzkop torpedoes for the admiralty. The orders are ostensibly being executed for Italy.

Scouts have approached within 1,000 yards of the Boer intrenchments at Magersfontein. They have found these strong and ascertained that they are used as dwelling places. Naval gunners are constantly watching the enemy's lines with strong glasses, and they declare that there is an appreciable diminution in the Boer forces.

In Natal the Boer commandoes south of the Tugela occupy Bold's farm and several mines west of Chieveley. Two thousand Boers, with three guns, are advancing through Zululand toward Natal.

A dispatch from Kimberley, dated Feb. 9, says:

"There was a heavy bombardment yesterday, and today the fire of the Boer big gun at Kampersdam has been very trying."

The war office is making preparations to continue the stream of troops for South Africa. Four large steamers have been chartered. Japan agrees to let the Armstrongs transfer to England four naval quick firers that were built for her, consenting to wait for the execution of her own order until the hostilities in South Africa are over. Several European powers, by similar consents as to guns being constructed by Vickers' Sons & Maxim, enable England to secure 100 Maxims.

Two thousand men are constantly employed at Woolwich arsenal, and all the gun and ammunition factories are working night and day to execute government orders. The weekly output of four firms is 4,000,000 rounds.

Famous Painter Dying.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—William H. Beard, the famous painter of animals, is dying at his home in this city. He is 75 years old. About the first of the year his constitution began to weaken, and on Jan. 27 he suffered an apoplectic shock. For a few days it seemed there was a chance of his recovery, but hope has been abandoned. William H. Beard comes of fine ancestry and belongs to a family of painters. On his father's side he is descended from Sir James Beard of England, on his mother's from Sir Lochlain MacLean of Scotland. Born at Painesville, O., in April, 1825, William H. Beard began his professional career about 1846. Ten years later he studied and painted in Europe, and in 1860 he settled in this city.

Lieutenant Higley's Death.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Among the list of deaths in General Otis' report received at the war department was that of First Lieutenant Brainard S. Higley, assistant surgeon, U. S. A., who died at Corregidor island, in Manila bay, on the 3d inst. of acute dysentery. Lieutenant Higley was a native of Ohio and was appointed to the army from that state Nov. 7, 1897. He entered the army medical school in this city immediately upon his appointment and graduated at the head of his class on April 1, 1898.

Another Gift From Rockefeller.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—It is expected that at a dinner to be given at the Hotel Manhattan early next month John D. Rockefeller will announce a further donation of $1,500,000 to Chicago university, making his total gifts to that institution $8,500,000. Mr. Rockefeller, it was said, promised some time ago that if other friends of the university would raise a certain sum he would give $1,500,000. The friends have done their part and are satisfied Mr. Rockefeller will do the rest.

Gunboat's Strange Movements.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The Hongkong correspondent of The Daily Mail says: "The German gunboat Iltis has been engaged for five days taking soundings in the inner harbor of Macao. The proceeding has excited much comment."

COMING EVENTS.

February 17—Social for members of Junior Department of the Y. M. C. A.

New Jersey Is Threatened.

New Jersey must look out or else she will soon be distanced by other states seeking to afford a legal asylum for every corporation—good and bad—that comes along. Since New Jersey took the initiative and several sister commonwealths followed suit in this line of business, numerous lawyers have constituted themselves into professional organizers of corporations, and make a speciality of forming corporations in states that have enacted favorable laws for such concerns.

The card of a New York promoter of this class of business gives evidence that New Jersey is being pushed hard as a favorite for the organization of big corporations, and the rates that he quotes are both interesting and instructive. For instance, he announces that he will organize corporations under New Jersey laws, up to $125 000 at $76; New York laws, up to $50,000, $101; South Dakota laws, up to $10,000 000, $109; Delaware laws, up to $133,000, $76. He even splits the dollar for a "first-class charter from South Dakota up to $10,000,000, book of 100 stock certificates and seal, printed by laws, record book and instructions, $61.50."

It will be noticed that Dakota and Delaware are offering much better "bargains" in the organization of corporations than our own devoted State. It follows that in the natural course of business the corporations are looking to the saving of pennies wherever opportunity affords, and such being the case New Jersey cannot expect to continue in the favor of the great combinations when she has competition that offers better terms. Governor Voorhees is a great admirer of New Jersey's corporation laws on the ground that they net a big revenue for the public exchequer, but if she is subjected to rivalry as Dakota and Delaware statutes hold forth, where will the end be? It behooves the Governor to be on the lookout, else he will see his cherished policy smashed to smithereens by several state governments making a bid for the business that New Jersey alone has had the call on for some years.

By the passage of a measure which has been introduced in the Legislature by Assemblyman Wakelee, New Jersey will take a definite step toward saving the Palisades, providing the Legislature of New York acts in a similar manner. Mr. Wakelee's bill authorizes the Governor to appoint ten commissioners to be known as the commissioners of the Palisades Interstate Park, who shall be confirmed by the Senate. Terms of office to be five years and nothing but actual expenses allowed to them. The commissioners shall have power to appoint president, treasurer and secretary and appoint officers and employes and shall lay out the Palisades as a public park, having power to condemn lands, etc. The act is not to take effect until a similar act is passed by the Legislature of New York. Joint action on the part of New York and New Jersey must be secured to save the historical west shore of the lower Hudson, which equals in scenic grandeur anything in this country, and as the officials of both states have expressed themselves in high favor of the preservation of this noble stretch of ground there ought to be a thorough consideration of Mr. Wakelee's legislative proposition, and if it is found practicable and worthy there should be no delay in putting it into operation.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union feel that they have scored considerable of an advantage in their contention against the interpretation of the anti-canteen law made by Attorney-General Griggs, in the fact that they have passed over the head of Mr. Griggs and will present their arguments direct to President McKinley. President McKinley has granted a special audience to the White Ribboners and the latter will use their most convincing and persuasive arguments to secure the prohibition of the sale of intoxicants in the army. If the temperance women persuade President McKinley to act contrary to the construction of the law arrived at by Attorney-General Griggs, they may feel highly complimented. Up to the present time Mr. Griggs' legal opinions have been religiously adhered to by the Chief Executive, and any variance from that record would be an extraordinary proceeding.

When Col. Bryan described New Jersey as "a robbers' roost for the trusts" and as "a cave where the forty thieves meet to divide the swag," he spoke severely for a visitor, but his graphic words were none the less true and apt to the situation. New Jersey's treatment of great combinations of capital is a disgrace to the State, and will eventually prove a great source of regret to every fair-minded citizen. True, the State is profiting to some extent at the present time, but it is a gain that is being indirectly sweated out of the people and will never stand the test of time.

Senator Kean expresses himself as convinced of the fairness of abolishing spring elections, but he doubts the wisdom of it at the present time. It is evident that the Senator has no desire to offend either side of the argument in relation to the question of abolishing spring elections.

Public sentiment is unquestionably in favor of a City Hall for Plainfield, and the quicker the Common Council brings about the consummation of such an improvement for the municipality the better the people will appreciate it. Let there be no unnecessary delay.

How self-sacrificing it is on the part of Senator Platt that he has permitted Governor Roosevelt to deny himself the nomination of Vice President.

It is figured that the cost of the Spanish War was $355,000,000. But the pension bills are yet to come.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Some interesting statistics concerning the progress of the work of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the world were presented at one of the sessions of the State convention at Passaic last week. The reports showed that New Jersey has thirty-eight associations, with 9,000 members, forty-six salaried officers and fifteen buildings. In the whole United States there are 1,341 associations, with 237,976 members, having 344 buildings, valued at $19,847,930. Great Britain has 91,967 members; Germany, 85,000; France, 3,500; Holland, 7,723; Denmark, 6,250; Switzerland, 10,000; Norway, 3,000; Italy, 1,700; Greece, 50; Belgium, 1,113; Austria, 1,843; Hungary, 1,145; Spain, 150; Portugal, 250; Russia, 2,600; Bulgaria, 50; European Turkey, 25; Asiatic Turkey, 300; India, 5,500; Ceylon, 700; China, 1,500; Japan, 1,600; Persia, 40; Syria, 100; Egypt, 30; Madagascar, 100; South Africa, 2,310; Australia, 1,800; New Zealand, 400.

* * * * *

Frederick W. Bowden, formerly of this city, who is a member of the military band attached to the Second Cavalry, now located at Santa Clara, Cuba, and from whom many interesting letters have been received, has just written another letter in which he says that Uncle Sam's boys are doing well. All are in good health and enjoying life. He speaks of a pleasure trip he took about the island with a companion and of the very enjoyable time he had in meeting some of the natives who had never before seen any of Uncle Sam's boys. They received them hospitably and entertained them grandly. Mr. Bowden says that what the Cubans want and need at present is farming implements so that they can get their farms in condition. He says that most of the farm lands are in bad shape, showing what Spanish rule has done for them and the people. Altogether the Cubans, he says, are very well satisfied with the new order of things and thoroughly believe that they will prosper and do better than under Spanish regime.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

Lincoln J. Carter is a believer in realism to a wonderful extent and nearly everybody who is familiar with the American stage at all has seen one or more of his plays in which the seemingly commonplace things of life are brought before the eye in such an artistic manner that they almost appear as a tragedy. Mr. Carter has given to the people a number of these plays, but probably his greatest success is found in "Chattanooga," the new drama at Music Hall tomorrow night, which deals with the incidents of the battle of Lookout Mountain and recalls the stirring events of the Civil War. He is not only showing a master hand in the cast of the piece, but it is clothed with an array of scenery which is little less than gorgeous. In fact, the scenery of "Chattanooga" has been painted by a special artist from various points of interest around Lookout Mountain, and those who have visited this historic spot will not fail to find all of the beautiful and picturesque scenery which abounds in that section of the country.

* * * * *

One of the novelties of the season is promised in the performance of "The Great Triple Alliance" which will be seen at Music Hall Friday and Saturday of this week and at the Saturday matinee. This is the first combination ever formed in the magic line and introduces three of the world's most eminent magicians, Servais LeRoy, Imro Fox and Fred E. Powell. Accompanying them are a number of high class specialists. The final illusion shown by the "World's Greatest Magicians" awe inspiring imaginable. It is conducted by the French member of the combination, Monsieur LeRoy. By some mysterious means, a living woman is spirited away before the eyes of the audience, and a skeleton substituted. In a second or so more, the self-same woman is brought down from the flies, with a demon pursuing her. The manner in which all this is accomplised is marvelous.

* * * * *

The greatest author-actor America ever produced—Edward Harrigan—will appear at Music Hall, Tuesday, 20th inst., in his great play of "Old Lavender" in conjunction with a new one-act comedy entitled "Nugent the Rubber" and a condensed version of "McSorley's Inflation."

Chemnitz. Die Finanzdeputation der Zweiten Kammer hat die Frage der Nothwendigkeit der Theilung der Kreishauptmannschaft Zwickau einstimmig bejaht und die Wahl der Stadt Chemnitz zum Sitze der fünften Kreishauptmannschaft als zweckmäßig anerkannt.

Elstra. Der Botenfrau Morbitz, welche 84 Jahre alt ist, aber trotzdem ihre Botengänge nach Kamenz prompt besorgt, wurde eine Freude bereitet, indem ihr die Summe von 952 Mark als Altersrente nachgezahlt wurde.

Hochkirch. Der 35 Jahre alte Friseurgehilfe Kosemann wurde auf dem von Kuppritz nach Hochkirch führenden Fußwege in der Nähe des Busches hinter dem Kirchhofe erfroren aufgefunden. Kosemann hat wohl, durch Genuß geistiger Getränke ermüdet, ausruhen wollen und ist so der Kälte zum Opfer gefallen.

Meerane. Der Sohn eines hiesigen Fabrikanten, welcher in Dresden als Einjähriger diente, hat sich daselbst erschossen.

Pegau. In der Ziegelei Carsdorf wurden durch den Einsturz einer Wand aufgeschichteter Ziegel drei Arbeiter verschüttet und schwer verletzt.

Thüringische Staaten.

Apolda. Im „Apoldaer Tageblatt" wird über eine Gerichtsverhandlung gegen Louis Seide und Lina Darnstedt berichtet. Von diesen heißt es: „Sie sollen den Schutzmann Sander aus Jena, welcher im Gasthof zur Tanne bei einem Tanzvergnügen mit Keilerei dienstlich thätig war, beleidigt und gestoßen haben."

Gera. Hier geriethen der Backwaarenausträger Müller und ein gewisser Löffler über eine nichtige Angelegenheit in Streit. Müller lauerte dem Löffler auf der Straße auf und stieß diesem sein Taschenmesser in die Brust und darauf derart in die Stirn, daß sofort der Tod des Löffler herbeigeführt wurde. Das Taschenmesser mußte später aus dem Schädel des Getödteten herausgemeißelt werden.

Schweina. Hier wurde an der Seite Friedrich Fröbels seine Gattin Luise, die ihn über 47 Jahre überlebt hat, beigesetzt. Der Trauerfeier wohnte als Vertreter des Herzogs von Meiningen Schulrath Schmidt bei, auch waren zahlreiche Vertreterinnen von Fröbel-Kindergärten anwesend.

Freie Städte.

Hamburg. Die Hamburger Schifffahrt ist gegenwärtig in bedeutendem Aufschwung begriffen. Im verflossenen Jahre ist die hiesige Handelsflotte um nicht weniger als 40 Dampfer, von 396 auf 436, Dampfer vermehrt worden, und gegenwärtig ist noch eine große Anzahl von Schiffen im Bau. Unter diesen Umständen hat sich hier eine Bewegung entwickelt, welche auf die Errichtung einer besonderen „Schiffsbautechnischen Hochschule" hierselbst gerichtet ist. Eine solche Hochschule existirt bisher in Deutschland nicht, vielmehr ist die Lehre des Schiffsbaues an den technischen Hochschulen mit der Lehre der übrigen Zweige der Technik verbunden.—In der Hammonia-Brauerei brannte ein großer Lagerschuppen und ein Maschinenraum vollständig ab. Der Schaden wird auf 40,000 Mark geschätzt. Der Betrieb der Brauerei ist nicht unterbrochen.

Bremen. Nach einem Beschluß des Geschäftsausschusses des allgemeinen Deutschen Musikvereins findet die diesjährige Tonkünstlerversammlung und das Musikfest vom 24. bis 27. Mai hier statt. Kapellmeister Panzner, früher in Leipzig, wurde als Festdirigent gewählt.—Die „Bremer Nachrichten" theilen mit: „Der Schlosser Heinrich Wilhelm Konrad Düring ist öfter bestraft, ohne daß man ihm das Stehlen hat ablernen können." („Ablernen" ist nicht ganz richtig, klingt aber nett und ansprechend.)

Lübeck. Als ein Ereigniß erwähnt das hiesige sozialdemokratische Parteiblatt die Thatsache, daß in den letzten drei Jahren keine Prozesse gegen das Blatt angestrengt wurden.

The manager of a corset manufacturing company in Chicago, not long since, performed a philanthropic action which has shown gratifying results: "One of my salesmen," he says, "about a year ago came in suffering from a severe bilious headache. I gave him a Ripans Tabule from a box I always keep on my desk, and it relieved him in a short time of his sufferings. He has so much confidence in them now that he has not been without a box of them since that day."

FADS OF FASHION.

New Jewelry Fancies Which Are In Favor—A Fine Dinner Dress.

I think no one can form an idea of the infinite variety of fancy things made for women's special adornment unless the manufactories are visited. This would be naturally a little difficult for most women, but such a visit would be a revelation to them in more ways than one. No one retail store could show even one sample of them all.

Chains, chain purses, buckles, lockets set with steel faceted brilliants, medallion pins to hold miniatures, brooches of exquisite design, fancy combs, hatpins, bangles and ornaments for the hair and an infinite number of stickpins and fancy umbrella handles in every conceivable variety. The medallion pins are quite as handsome in appearance as those found in the grand jewelry stores, and I think them preferable from one point of view. You don't break your heart if you lose them, as you would if they were real diamonds.

There is a new fancy in bangle bracelets in closely woven silver or gold wire. To this is fastened a round ornament representing an ancient silver coin with some classical fellow's head on it. Pretty silver chatelaine purses have lids set with some semiprecious stone or in some cases imitations of emerald, topaz or sapphire. All the medallion pins are to hold pictures or perhaps a pressed flower or four leafed clover. Heart bangles in sterling silver enameled prettily are among the new things. The enameling is done in scrolls on the silver ground.

A new comb has six long teeth, three on each side, with an open space left in the center. Right on those six teeth lies a fancy enameled snake. Another decided novelty for the hair is a pair of outspread wings, all cut in one piece, from tortoise shell. There are holes in the wings, and through these is passed a long pin to hold it on the hair. It is intended mostly for holding a braid.

There are more beautiful fancies in the oxidized and steel and silver chatelaine purses than I can tell in a day. Purses of leather with silver and gold trimmings are really works of art. I noticed particularly a greenish colored alligator purse with rehausse work in silver. The skin had been cut so as to bring a row of little horny humps along the center. The rehausse work on the silver parts was really worthy of a far more pretentious affair than a purse. Some have initials wrought of silver or gold and set with brilliants.

All flat pocketbooks are so arranged that a handkerchief and a pair of gloves can be carried. What they call tray purses are ornamented with metal, and one kind has a regular little padlock and key with a tiny but strong chain.

Many of the prettiest things are made of gun metal mingled with gold. Very many of the new belts narrow down to a mere thread in front to give the present fashionable slope to the waist.

I cannot finish mention of this assortment without speaking of the armlets of flexible gold set with many devices. One of the prettiest is a jeweled butterfly. Many others represent flowers, and the asp is another design, which always finds favor. Some of the cuff buttons are set with semiprecious stones.

I almost forgot to mention a beautiful dinner dress made for a young bride of last May. The dress itself is of faint blue chiffon, ruffled and puffed at the bottom. There is a blue taffeta skirt beneath. Over the chiffon is a full gown of renaissance lace in ivory tint. The waist is a blouse of the same materials, the front being in vest form. An American Beauty rose is placed on the corsage. There is a double box plaiting around the upper part of the chiffon flounce, and this is edged with the narrowest black velvet ribbon.

In one house I saw two beauties of bonnets. They don't call them "ducks" any more. One was of the richest black and white Peking moire, twisted up in something like a turban. There was no trimming but an aigret in front of mingled white and black held by a straw buckle. The other was an immense picture hat of prune velvet with a wrinkled crown and a large panache of black plumes on the left side. Under the brim were three full chiffon rosettes in pale blue. These rested on the hair.

FANCIES OF FASHION.

Dainty Lingerie Is Now Engaging Feminine Attention.

Delicate Creations Designed by American and European Artists—Elegance and Lavishness Seem to Rule the Day.

[Special New York Letter.]

ALTHOUGH the beginning of a new year, it is not quite time yet to write of new fashions, at least with any degree of certainty, and it will be fully a month, perhaps even longer, before the spring modes shall declare themselves in anything like a decided manner. To be sure, there are rumors of many decided changes, any one of which, if carried out, would prove radical in the extreme; but as yet nothing definite is known except to those fashion-makers who are supposed to compose the secret inner circle.

But this cloud, if such it may be called, over the sky of fashion is not without its silver lining, for it is only when fashion is at a standstill that her devotees are given a chance to turn their thoughts and attention from the fascinating theme of gowns and millinery to other matters of equal interest and importance. Just now madame is giving her undivided time and attention to lingerie, and all the leading shops are catering to her wants in this direction in a most lavish and tempting manner. Too much cannot be said in praise of the season's lingerie, both as regards quantity and quality. Sweet simplicity no longer marks the elegance of undermuslins; consequently the price is far in advance of other seasons, and the woman who loves pretty underclothes—and where is there one who does not—will find herself led into all manner of extravagances unless she keeps her wits well in hand.

Many of the handsomest garments—take the new nightdresses for instance—are an intricate mass of fine stitching, and as all of this work is done by hand it naturally adds to the cost as much as it does to the looks. The short yoke nightdress seems to be the favorite style at the present moment. The yoke is made to fasten at the shoulder, exactly like the yoke of a dress bodice, and is usually fashioned of lace insertion or of swiss all-over embroidery. Some of the prettiest models are made with lace yokes, those hailing from Paris in particular being finished with a removable yoke either of colored satin or Persian lawn, the fine mesh of the lace showing to particular advantage over the colored foundation. A dainty night robe that took my fancy was made of Persian lawn, beautifully fine and sheer, and soft enough to be drawn through a ring. The short yoke was pointed instead of round and made of real lace edged all about with a tiny frill of the same. Its beauty was further enhanced by a short puffed sleeve, which was finished at the elbow by a wide ruffle of lace caught up under a full rosette of delicately tinted ribbon. This bit of feminine finery was so high in price as to place it quite beyond the reach of the multitude, but as it was made in the most simple manner possible it would not be hard to copy, and by using cambric in place of the lawn and substituting imitation lace for the real a less costly and much more serviceable gown could be successfully evolved. Another exceedingly pretty night robe on exhibition at the same shop was fashioned of dimity, almost as sheer as the finest imported lawn, cut in the ever popular square neck style and finished in front with a little bolero composed of inch wide insertions of lace and narrow strips of tucked nainsook edged with a frill of lace. The somewhat loose sleeve was made entirely of the lace insertion and tucking, while a distinctly dainty effect was procured by trimming the lower portion with many little ruffles of lace, each headed by lace beading.

For elderly women and others who are prone to feel the cold thoughtful fashionmakers have provided loose, comfortable-looking nightdresses of French flannel, made with wide sailor colors, daintily embroidered about the edge in colored washing silk.

The newest corset cover is made entirely without seams and trimmed with much lace and fine hand stitching. It will not take any time at all for the average woman to discover the manifold charms this waist has over all that have gone before. The simple fact that it is cut entirely on the bias assures at once a perfect fit, while the utter absence of seams makes it easy to fashion and much more easy to iron; and having all these advantages I wonder it was not thought of ages ago.

The wise woman, unless she be the fortunate possessor of an absolutely perfect figure, will flee from the temptations of the pretty French corset cover, which, contrary to all precedent, is put on in front, and crossed in the back, surplice fashion. The prettiest seen thus far were made of fine nainsook and elaborately trimmed across the entire front by many rows of lace insertion, alternating with long tucks of the nainsook.

The long discarded chemise is being slowly but surely restored to something like its old-time popularity and the models brought out this season are prettier and more attractive in appearance than any yet seen, and are desirable in every respect. Many are made in the old-fashioned French sacque, but the most pleasing and very latest are cut to follow quite closely the outline of the figure. The trimming at the top takes the form of a pointed yoke, while in place of the usual sleeve a small point of lace falls over the arm in the most approved manner, while the lower portion, which is supposed to take the place of the underskirt, is trimmed with many narrow puffings and tuckings of Persian lawn and daintily edged with a full ruffle of Valenciennes lace.

A leading shop in the city which receives all the latest Paris models is showing the newest things in knickerbockers, which, as you know, many women substitute for the petticoat when wearing a tailor gown; and very elaborate some of them are. I have seen bright shades of royal blue and coral pink, decorated with fantastic bows of lace at the knee, while others were designed of striped taffeta, green and white for instance, and trimmed with much lace and narrow ribbon. For everyday wear, however, more serviceable ones are shown, made of black satin, neatly finished at the knee with small ribbon rosettes.

But to the majority of women nothing can rival the luxurious froufrou of the silken petticoat or the delightful daintiness of the white cambric or lawn.

Some distinctly swell-looking silk petticoats are made in the old-fashioned Watteau brocades, similar, if not like, unto those used by our great grandmothers for their best gowns. These skirts are finished with a broad flounce of the brocade, trimmed with beautiful old lace, and caught up at intervals by loops of ribbon, or held by dainty beadings of lace.

Other petticoats are fashioned of bright-colored gros-grain silk, simply made with three or four frills, finished with rows of hemstitching. These skirts, while not so pretty and dressy-looking as the lace-trimmed ones, are much more practical for rough and ready wear.

The prettiest white petticoats are made of white French lawn and fasten at the side instead of at the back. They are cut with a deep circular flounce, spaced with tucks and lace insertion. Others are trimmed with a shaped flounce, similar to those seen on the dress and skirts last summer, which in turn is trimmed with five or more tiny ruffles of the lawn edged with Valenciennes lace.

The thing most talked about now in the world of fashion is the 1900 shirt waist. And it is not to be wondered at, either, when one takes into consideration the important place the shirt occupies in the wardrobe of the woman of fashion. The one feature that marks the new shirt as being far prettier than its predecessor is the entire absence of any yoke either at the front or back. For morning wear the daintiest shirts are those made of white or colored linen, while for more dressy wear those fashioned of Persian lawn showing an intricate mass of lace edging and insertion and having a great deal of transparency and airiness about them are quite the proper caper.

GOLF

The plans for the coming season for the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club have not yet been laid out, but it is probable that they will be on much the same lines as those last year. The chairmen of the two most important committees of the club, the golf and the house, remain unchanged and their old policy will doubtless be continued with a few improvements.

Councilman George P. Mellick is the chairman of the new house committee, and the success of his efforts in the past assure a successful social season. Lewis E. Waring, chairman of the golf committee, promises a season even more active than the last. Both chairmen have the selection of the other members of their respective committees, four in number, which will be announced shortly.

There is little to be done at present on the course of the Hillside Club. The twelve acres of land laying beyond the first green, which are the property of the club, are now being cleared of the trees and brush that covers them and will be ready, when the treasury of the club warrants it, to permit the extension of the present course. The view from this now unused land is toward the south and gives a glimpse of Staten Island and the Kill von Kull in the distance.

There are now several holes in the present course that are considered too short. By utilizing this new territory the course can be lengthened to about 5,000 yards and various improvements made to the links.

city would be $25,000, which would probably have to be covered by a bond issue.

Meanwhile the committee has arranged for a conference with the Jersey Central officials which is to be held in the railroad company's offices in Jersey City Thursday afternoon. The committee will then present its plan for the proposed improvements at the station and urge the company to build and also to acquire the Ruhsmore property and make a park on East Fourth street extending to Watchung avenue.

The map of the new thoroughfare will be submitted to the railroad officials as showing what they will try to have the city do in connection with the company's improvements.

Arrangements have also been made for a public meeting to be held in the Board of Trade rooms in the Babcock building Monday evening when everybody will be invited to express themselves regarding the advisability of this projected thoroughfare. The meeting will be held under the joint auspices of the Board of Trade and the Advancement Association.

DIED ON WAY TO HOSPITAL.

Driver Didn't Know Old Man Had Passed Away Till He Got There.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 13.—Just after dinner yesterday the Overseer of the Poor of Cranford placed Daniel Jones, an old man who has been a charge in Cranford for several months, in a coach to bring him to the General Hospital. The Overseer carefully tucked in the old man, and, mounting the box, drove to Elizabeth.

When he opened the coach door he called for the old man to come along. There was no answer and the Overseer discovered that his passenger was sitting bolt upright in the coach dead. Probably no more surprised man existed than the Overseer when he made the discovery.

BURGLAR WOKE UP VICTIM.

Accidental Striking of Watch Chain Against Headboard of a Bed Starts a Lively Chase.

Dr. C. R. P. Fisher, of Bound Brook, woke up to find a burglar taking a watch and chain from the headboard of his bed yesterday morning. The clinking of the chain against the wood awoke Fisher, and the burglar grabbed up a pair of pants and a smoking jacket and started downstairs.

The doctor seizing a revolver followed and when at the head of the stairs turned on the electric switch, which lighted the hall below. The burglar ran toward the rear of the hall, the doctor firing two shots, one of which he believes found its mark. Fisher watched and saw the fugitive run across the lots in the rear of his house and fired two more shots, one of which must also have hit the man, as he uttered a moan and dropped a package he had under one arm. He then disappeared taking with him $17 and the watch.

SPECIAL LAW FOR CITY HALL

Proposed Measure Received the Approval of the Common Council.

MAYOR ROCKFELLOW MAKES MANY APPOINTMENTS.

CHANGE MADE IN THE MAKE-UP OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Former Mayor Fisk and Herman Weber are Named for New Members—President Newhall is Retired—Corporation Counsel Marsh to Examine Legislative Bills.

There was a great amount of important business considered at the regular February meeting of the Common Council held last evening, and it was late when the session came to an end. All of the members were in their seats and promptly took up the business of the evening.

A petition was received from Henry Windham asking to have a transfer made of the license held by Hans Hanson to himself. This is at what was known as Caspar's Hotel A number of Jewish people complained to the Council that they had been constantly annoyed at various times by small boys who use vile language and throw stones, missles, etc., at them at Front and Somerset streets and near the hospital. They had repeatedly called the attention of the police to the matter, but with no result. The matter was referred to the police committee.

Ethan Lanphear recited at length the fact that in 1877 he paid an assessment of $62.91 on the New street sewer, and that another assessment for $95 had been levied. The latter he refused to pay, but the first amount he paid. He asked the Council to cancel an assessment of $20.10 against him as interest.

A protest was received from the members of the W. C. T. U. against the granting of liquor licenses, and another similar petition was received from the members of the Loyal Temperance Legion.

President W. C. Smith, of the Reform Club, in a communication, asked that the assessment for taxes on the Reform Club building for 1898 and 1899 be remitted, as the place was used for religious purposes. Accompanying this petition was a letter from Assessor Hubbard, in which the latter urged that the property be released from taxation.

A communication was received from Smalley Bros., in which they asked that a street be opened from North avenue to Front street adjacent to the property formerly owned by A. D. Thompson and recently purchased by them. They agreed to give $2,000 toward the project. The matter was referred.

At this time Mayor Rockfellow made several appointments. He first appointed C. A. Marsh as corporation counsel for one year. Then followed the appointment of members to fill the expired terms of Henry B. Newhall and J. A. Smith in the Board of Health. The new members selected were C. J. Fisk and Herman A. Weber. Dr. B. VanD. Hedges was re-appointed. The Board now stands W. H. Murray, M. D., B. VanD. Hedges, M. D., F. W. Dunn, C. J. Fisk and H. A. Weber.

A. J. Gavett was re-appointed street commissioner, and W. W. Coriell was re-appointed a commissioner of appeal for a term of three years. Dr. J. H. Carman, as city physician was displaced and Dr. A. F. VanHorn was put in his place. The Mayor appointed J. B. Young as a call man in the fire department to take the place of F. D. Marsh, resigned, but as the fire and building committee was not fully posted on the change the matter was referred to that committee for investigation.

The following special policemen were appointed: School janitors, Thos. Clarkson, S. R. Hope, Chas. Harris, Henry Pugh, Jesse Scull, Joseph Morrison, Frank Helson; church sextons, Isaac Kennedy, Edward Maynard, George W. Dean, Edgar Brokaw, Chas. J. McCarthy, Lewis Peterson, William Downs, J. C. Carney; general special policemen, Arthur McGinley, Edward Martin, James Babbitt, Jas. Bulmer, Wm. Dagnall, Jacob Kriney, Edwin Dobbs, Charles Giese, Harry W. Fraleigh, Dennis Carney, George Rockafellow, Jacob Wagner, Robert McCormick, Nathan Pollard, J. J. Gallagher, Thomas Martin, Samuel Robinson, Wm. Forrestel, Aaron Mattox, Alfred N. Jacobson, Elwood Hoppock, W. J. Monsell, Frank Vanderhoff, Chas. Flynn, Isaac E. Houston and W. J. Eakens.

The Board of Health petitioned for the sum of $681.45 as the regular appropriation for 1900. It was granted.

Chief Doane reported that thirteen building permits had been granted during January. Overseer of the Poor Hansen reported that eighteen applications had been received since last report for aid. There are now twenty-eight beneficiaries.

The eleventh annual report of the Board of Health was received. It showed the city to be free from any epidemic of contagious disease. During the past year there had been 229 deaths. Of this number many were persons 70 years of age and upwards. There were 123 marriages and 269 births. The health inspector had made 1,928 house inspections, and five persons were prosecuted for violations of the health laws. There is now a balance of $166.44 in the treasury. The Board recommended that the Council take up the question of garbage disposal and adopt some method. Regarding the burning of leaves the Board had decided that such a practice is not a menace to health, but to maintain the fair name of the city it should be stopped.

By a unanimous vote the assessment against J. Graham's property on Woodland avenue, under the Martin Act, for $39.92 was marked "assessed in error." The same action was taken regarding the following: On the property occupied and owned by H. Duzenbury, Hillside avenue, for 1888 and 1889; Thomas Currin, property, East Second street, for $3.96; Francis McVey, Manson place, $10.12; William Monsell, Manson place, $5.78; Preston B. Goodfellow, Netherwood avenue, $9.93.

Mr. VanHerwerden offered a resolution fixing the salary of Corporation Counsel Marsh at $1,250, and an extra $750 for additional work in connection with the enforcement of the Martin Act. He stated that during the coming year there would be considerable extra work. He will be obliged to examine property titles and this means a great deal of work.

Mr. VanHerwerden spoke of having Assemblyman Chas. S. Foote forward a copy of every bill passed in the Legislature to the Council so that if any bill affecting Plainfield should become a law the officals would know something about it. He offered a resolution that $20 be appropriated to pay the expense. The bills will be sent to Corporation Counsel Marsh, who will examine them.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution that the city clerk request the Jersey Central Railroad Company to place a flagman at the Rock avenue crossing of the road.

Mr. Coriell offered a resolution that the sum of $800 be appropriated to purchase one thousand feet of hose for the fire department.

Mr. Buckle offered a resolution fixing the salary of the Mayor for the present year at $300.

Mr. VanHerwerden gave notice that at the next meeting of the Council he would move that the regular meeting be held on the first Monday instead of the second Monday in the month. This change back to the former time of meeting is done owing to the numerous complaints made on the part of the city employes who are required to wait for their money.

President Smith announced that the Mayor had asked him to appoint a committee to meet with the sanitary company to discuss garbage disposal. The Council was not willing to have the president take such action until something definite should be presented and the matter was dropped.

He also moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet Wednesday evening, February 28th, when the liquor licenses will be acted upon.

At this time Mr. Buckle presentead resolution which authorized the corporation counsel to prepare the necessary bill to be presented to the Legislature authorizing the purchase of a site of ground upon which to erect a city hall.

To the above Mr. Dumont objected strongly, as he said he would be bound to vote for a city hall if such action was taken, whereas he might not deem it wise to do so.

Mr. Buckle stated that it was necessary to have a special act adopted by the Legislature giving Plainfield the proper authority to go ahead and build a city hall. This they could not do now as there is no act under which they can move in the matter. Mr. Dumont still objected, and Mr. Buckle then presented a bill drafted by Mr. Marsh which is intended to apply especially to Plainfield. This bill provides for the purchase of lands and the erection and furnishing of a city hall, and for the issuance of bonds in the sum of $100,000, and allows the city to borrow money, issue notes from time to time and raise by tax the necessary amount. The notes are not to mature inside of forty years, and it also provides for 5 per cent interest.

After the reading of the above bill Mr. Buckle moved that Mr. Marsh be requested to present the same to the Legislature and secure its passage if possible. This finished the business of the evening.

LIQUIFIED AIR AND ITS MYSTERIES.

Interesting Experiments Witnessed at the Casino.

WAS VERY INSTRUCTIVE.

ENTERTAINED BY FORMER MAYOR W. L. SAUNDERS.

He Explained the Many Purposes for Which Compressed Air Can be Used in a Practical Manner—With His Assistants He Gave Several Illustrations of the Wonders of Liquified Air.

The lecture given last evening by Former Mayor William L. Saunders, under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club, drew a fair-sized audience that comfortably filled the Casino with representatives of the best families of the city.

Mr. Saunders' lecture was on the subject of compressed and liquified air and the many uses to which they are being put. Previous to showing some views by use of a stereopticon, Mr. Saunders entertained his audience with a brief history of the discovery of compressed air, which he said had been put to use long before the Christian Era.

It was not until 1650, however, that compressed air was used to any great extent when a German invented an air pump. One hundred years later Dr. Paton made use of air for various purposes. In the early days of Hero of Alexandria compressed air was used by him to manipulate a fountain jet. But the secret of its use was lost sight of until about 1,000 years later when it was again put to practical uses. It was not until 1855 that Bessemer made use of compressed air to manufacture steel which has been the means of revolutionizing that industry.

Mr. Saunders then explained the stereopticon views which illustrated some of the many purposes for which compressed air was being used at present.

With the assistance of Walter Dickerson, of Orange, and B. O. Ball, of New York, he gave a practical illustration with explanations of the peculiarities of liquified air. This was the most interesting part of the evening's entertainment. A large-sized tank, said to contain about ten gallons of liquified air, was placed upon the platform. With this liquified air all kinds of experiments were successfully tried. The air was dipped from the tank, and while giving off a vapor like smoke was thrown on the floor. The metal dipper was afterwards broken into pieces by pounding it on the platform. The liquified air was used to freeze alcohol into a small ball, while a quantity of mercury was frozen sufficiently hard to be used to drive nails into a block of wood.

A link of sausage was frozen also so hard as to be thrown into the aisle where it broke from its brittleness. A tea kettle was then made to boil while sitting on a cake of ice and many other remarkable things accomplised by the aid of liquified air that completely mystified the audience. But there was no trick in the exhibit. It was a fact and so demonstrated before the eyes of the audience.

GIFT OF $40,000 TO Y. M. C. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Stickler's Offering to the Orange Association.

Charles T. Kilborne, of the Orange Young Men's Christian Association, has received an offer from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Stickler to give $40,000 to the association for building an addition to the Y. M. C. A. building. It is stipulated that $25,000 must be raised.

The board of directors of the association will consider Mr. and Mrs. Stickler's offer at its next meeting.

Only recently Mr. and Mrs. Stickler agreed to subscribe for a free library building in Orange, in memoriam for their son, Dr. Joseph W. Stickler. Last week they sent a check to the Orange Orphan Home of East Orange for $5,000. This money is to be added to the endowment fund.

Rahway Hopeful of New Industry.

The option on the property at Scott avenue, Rahway, which the Chemical Company has held for several months, has been extended thirty days to admit of the perfecting of the title. In order to do this the property owners along the proposed streets through the grounds must sign a paper giving the City Council the right to vacate the streets. Signatures are being obtained rapidly, and the general feeling in the city is that this concern, which employs several hundred hands, will soon be busily engaged erecting its buildings. The tract of purchase consists of 115 acres.

THREE NEW APPLICANTS

PETITIONS FOR LIQUOR LICENSES PRESENTED TO THE COUNCIL.

Scheuer & Company Ask for a Wholesale License—Two Applications for Places Side by Side in the West End.

There was the usual batch of liquor licenses presented at the meeting of the Common Council last evening, and in addition there were three new applications. S. Scheuer & Co., the grocers, applied for a wholesale license, such as they have for all of their other stores. Patrick Galbraith asked for a license for 201 Grant avenue, and the omnipresent Michael Watson asked for a license for 211 Grant avenue

These are the three new applicants, but it is not likely that the Council will grant licenses for two saloons so close together on Grant avenue. It seems quite likely that S. Scheuer & Co. will get a license, as there is a sentiment in favor of dividing up the wholesale business and not allowing one man to do it all.

The regular applicants for licenses are as follows: Daniel Galbraith, 545 West Third street; Jacob Blimm, 39 Somerset street; J. H. Staats, 107-111 North avenue; Henry Haurand, 115 East Front street; Bernard Clark, West Third and Liberty streets; J. H. McVey, 121 123 North avenue; J. E. Beerbower, Park avenue and Second street; John Rafferty, 213 Park avenue; Alex. D. Findlay, 123 East Second street; Eastern Bottling Association, rear 227 West Front street; Frank Linke, front 227 West Front street; Henry Windham, 142-144 East Front street; Charles Schantz, 216 Park avenue.

The application of Henry Windham is not a new one, as this place, on East Front street, has been licensed. This is a change of ownership from Hanse Hanson to Mr. Windham.

These applications will be acted upon at a meeting of the Council to be held Wednesday evening, February 28th.

POLITICIANS SMOKE TONIGHT

Important Gathering of Republicans of Union County in the Casino This Evening.

Even the weather is kind to the Republican county executive committee and will aid in making the smoker of that committee, to be held at the Casino this evening, a success. A number of the invited guests, including United States Senators, Congressmen and members of the two Houses of the State Legislature, have promised to be here, while the sale of tickets to Republicans all over the county has been brisk.

The smoker is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock and will probably last until 11. An informal programme of much excellence has been arranged, and then there will be something from the leaders of the party present.

STUDYING ECONOMICS.

The Plainfield University Centre Continues Its Weekly Study.

The regular meeting of the Plainfield University Centre was held at the Plainfield High School building last evening. Rev. A. R. Main, Miss Grace Petrie and Miss C. R. Yates read short papers on the subjects under discussion. Prof. H. M. Maxson, who was treasurer and on the examining board, resigned as treasurer and Charles B. Morse was chosen in his place. It was decided to take up the study of sociology in connection with political economy and political science.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker Were Hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Baker gave a card party last evening at their handsome residence on Stelle avenue in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Will Baker, of New York. There were sixty present. Progressive euchre was the principal event. The prize winners, who received charming little gifts, were Miss Nancy Lawson, Miss Clark, Mrs. James Hallock, Lewis E. Waring and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges.

Legislators Expected.

When the lower branch of the State Legislature adjourns at Trenton this afternoon, the Assembly will adjourn in a body to attend the smoker of the Republican county committee's smoker to be held at the Casino this evening. One of the special features of the smoker will be a collation.

Mayor Smalley's Message.

At the meeting of the Borough Council Friday evening Mayor Smalley's aunnal message will be presented for consideration. It promises to be an important one, though not a long one.

$100,000 FOR A HIGH SCHOOL

Big Surprise Sprung by the Board of Education Last Night.

COMMON COUNCIL APPROVES OF THE SCHEME.

PRESENT SCHOOL FACILITIES SAID TO BE TOTALLY INADEQUATE.

The Proposition is to Put Up a New High School Building, and Then Utilize The Stillman Building for the Pupils Now Quartered in the Wadsworth School—Statement of the Board of Education.

A great surprise was given the people of Plainfield last evening, when the Board of Education appeared before the Common Council in a communication and asked that they be granted the privilege of borrowing the sum of $100 000 with which to erect a new High School building. To those on the inside this was no surprise, for it has been known that the Board has been planning for this action in view of the inadequate accommodations at the Stillman School. The Board found their communication in willing hands, and after the Council conferred for a short time in executive session they returned to the room and voted unanimously to allow the Board to borrow the necessary amount.

According to a law passed a few years ago the Board is obliged to seek the approval of the Common Council when they desire to borrow money above a certain amount. They were before the Council years ago, when they wanted to make a High School of the Wadsworth building. Their efforts where then defeated by the law which compels them to get the approval of the Council to borrow money. This law was passed at the request of the people who opposed the expenditure of the money. The law was very effective then because the Council was opposed to the expenditure of the money, and thus the scheme was defeated.

As a culmination of all efforts a meeting of the Board of Education was held last Saturday evening when definite steps were taken to present the subject to the Council. The result of that meeting will be found in the communication which follows.

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

Gentlemen—The Board of Education of the city of Plainfield, in pursuance of the act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey entitled An act to amend an act to borrow money, issue bonds, or incur indebtedness for the purchase of lands or the erection of school buildings, passed May Twenty-third, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Ninety-Four, which amendment was passed March 25th, 1895, would request your concurrence and approval in the borrowing of money, and the incurring of indebtedness by this Board to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars, for the purpose of purchasing land, and errecting a High School building.

We desire to erect a building to accommodate about five hundred pupils, affording the accommodation now universally considered necessary for a High School. This will include the following features: Ten class rooms, two recitation rooms, a room for drawing, a large assembly hall, two rooms for library and reading room, a principal's office, four rooms for laboratories and science work, two rooms for offices of Board of Education. This we estimate will require a building three stories high, having the general form of a parallelogram about 80 feet by 150 feet.

It is not proposed to build upon the Wadsworth lot, there being several other good sites available.

The pressing need for a new building will be seen from the following figures of attendance. We have now in the High School 179 pupils. Judging from the figures of previous years, we shall lose about 44 of these pupils during the year by graduation, removal from town, etc. The incoming class next fall will nnmber about 80, which will make the school number about 215 next year.

Even now every seat in all the study rooms of the High School is occupied, and a number of pupils have no regular seats at all, but find a place where they can.

The only relief for this overcrowding is to fit up a room in the attic or cellar of the Stillman High School, but this will be only a temporary relief, since the lower grades are now so well organized that large classes will be entering the High School each year, so the crowding will increase, year by year, and will soon necessitate hiring rooms, wherever they can be found, which will not only be difficult to find but will also be unhygienic and unsuitable for such uses.

There is not a vacant room in any school building in the city except the Lincoln, and that building is nearly full. We have an overflow class in the chapel of the Franklin School, a class in the Wadsworth dwelling house, and seven classes in hired rooms, (in the old church building), and the remaining vacant room in that building will be occupied by a grammar class in the fall.

Before we can go into a new building, we shall be seriously cramped for room. When a new building is ready, the present class in the High School will vacate that building, and all the grammar classes now in hired rooms, can be put in their place.

While a new building is so much needed, simply as a matter of accommodation for the public, we feel that it is also greatly needed to enable us to provide properly for the work of the school. The present conditions are not adequate to the needs of High School work. Some departments of instruction are much cramped in their work, and it is impossible for the school to retain the eminent position it has held in the State, unless it shall be placed under more favorable conditions. We desire especially to provide accommodations for manual training, including wood working, modelling in clay, carving, mechanical and architectural drawing, and sewing. This will give our children a better equipment for doing their life work in these days when mechanical skill and dexterity count for so much. We feel that Plainfield is being left behind in this respect by the other cities in the State. There are already more than twenty towns and cities in New Jersey that give their children facilities in manual training, which our school does not afford our children, because we have not suitable accommodations to undertake it.

The school property now owned by the city has a valuation of about $238,000, on which there is an indebtedness of $75,000, of which $50,000 is in the form of bonds at 4 per cent. interest, and $25,000 in the form of a mortgage on the Lincoln School at 4½ per cent. interest. This debt is being reduced at the rate of $5,000 each year, the present annual levy to cover this payment and interest on the indebtedness being one and one tenth mills.

If the incurring of this additional indebtedness by the Board be approved, provisions for its payment can be so arranged that the first installment will become payable in 1905 at the rate of $4,000, and to continue until the debt is paid, or at a lesser rate, say, $2,000 per annum, from 1905 until 1914 (at which time the present outstanding bonds will be cancelled), making the annual payment of the bonded indebtedness after 1905, $7,000 per annum, and which if continued will cancel the proposed indebtedness in about twenty five years; or at such other rate of payment as the circumstances of the city may make advisable.

J. B. Probasco, President.
F. C. Lounsbury, Sec'y.

Hot Election in Hunterdon.

The township elections in Hunterdon county will be the warmest in many years. Reports from the townships show that candidates by the score have announced themselves for the various offices to be filled. There will be seven Freeholders elected throughout the county. The Democrats now control the Board by a majority of seven, and will make a bitter fight to retain it. In Baritain township, a Freeholder, Assessor, Collector, Constable and three Committeemen are to be elected. The principal fight is for Freeholder. The respective candidates are Contractor William S. Kline, Andrew B. Lare and present Freeholder Amos Thatcher, of Flemington, and William Quick, of Ringoes. The Republicans have not announced their candidates, but it is said that the candidate for Freeholder will be George W. Fulper.

—The Shepherds of Bethlehem will hold a meeting this evening and initiate several candidates.

THE WAR ON TRUSTS

Government Ownership of Railroads Favored.

A SHARP CONTEST IN COMMITTEE

Popular Legislation to Bring About the Result—Movement Now Begun to Wipe Out Every Malevolent Trust In the Country.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—After a heated debate the resolutions committee of the antitrust conference last night decided to report in favor of government ownership of railroads and for their seizure on payment of actual value and without payment for "watered stock or other fictitious values." There was a sharp discussion in the committee and several tilts between members brought on by an effort to make the platform read as it had been drawn up, that the government should seize the railroads on payment of actual value "and without payment for franchise values."

Unanimous action was finally obtained by cutting out the words "franchise values," inserting instead the phrase "watered stock or other fictitious values."

The committee also unanimously favored direct popular legislation as a means of obtaining the result.

The discussion in the committee room far outranked the deliberations of the main body of the conference. Ignatius Donnelly, John P. Altgeld, A. P. McQuirk of Iowa and George Fred Williams urged the committee to strike from the resolutions proposed a statement that any payment for railroads should be exclusive of franchise value.

"This is a long fight," said Mr. Altgeld, "and it will be years before we come to the actual discussion of the proposition on which we are to base payment. Let us not incumber the discussion with it now."

"If we had incumbered the proposition to free slaves with a statement of what we would do with them, we would never have freed them," said Mr. Donnelly.

Henry George, Jr., however, took the other side of the question.

"We are going before the people," he said. "Let us go with the whole plain truth and let them judge of it."

Jerry Simpson also favored this view, declaring that he had had years of experience with this question in Kansas. His declaration brought a warm tiff with Representative McQuirk.

"You are not the only one who has had experience," said the latter.

"Well, I'm no spring chicken, anyway," replied the Kansas statesman.

"Your feathers have all been plucked already," retorted his Iowa opponent, to which Mr. Simpson replied with the old answer to the conundrum about building dams by a mill site.

Many startling statements were made before the committee, among them one by President M. L. Lockwood.

"We are here to fight for a principle. I firmly believe that this gathering is the beginning of a movement which will wipe every malevolent trust from the country within a few years. It is unfair to charge that this is a political scheme planned in the interest of any one candidate or set of candidates. We have members of all parties and classes in our ranks, and we are all working with unselfish motives for the betterment of mankind."

Spanish-American Veterans.

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 14.—General Willis J. Hulings, commander in chief of the National Association of Spanish-American War Veterans, yesterday issued, through Adjutant General W. C. Liller of this city, charters to 42 camps of that order located in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Indiana, Virginia, Texas, Tennessee, Rhode Island, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Washington, New Hampshire, Montana, Alabama, Florida, West Virginia, Missouri and Nebraska.

Boys Dead In a Closet.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The bodies of Charles Beirne, 11 years old, of 117 Edgecombe avenue, and Martin Loeffler, 9 years old, of 119 Edgecombe avenue, were found in a closet in a vacant house at 108 Edgercombe avenue yesterday afternoon, where they were smothered. The lads were playmates. On Aug. 3 last they left their homes to take a swim in the North river. This was the last seen of them, and the parents and police searched everywhere for them in vain.

Frick Fighting Carnegie.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 14.—The threatened suit in equity of H. C. Frick against Andrew Carnegie was filed yesterday in the court of common pleas. Mr. Frick makes the charge against Mr. Carnegie of malevolence, fraud and personal animosity toward Frick. The suit is by H. C. Frick, plaintiff, against the Carnegie Steel company, limited, and the stockholders, the law requiring that all, even those in sympathy with Mr. Frick, shall be included in the suit.

Active Day In Cotton.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The wildest excitement prevailed at the Cotton Exchange throughout the entire session yesterday. No official record was kept of the transactions, but it is estimated that they reached close on to 800,000 bales. This would be near the record. The pendulations of prices were frequent and violent. From the closing of Saturday's market to the highest point there was an advance of 24 to 39 points.

Mrs. Catt Succeeds Miss Anthony.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The National American Woman's Suffrage association has elected Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of New York president of the association for the ensuing year to succeed Susan B. Anthony, who has been active in the battle for woman suffrage for nearly half a century and declined reelection to office.

Land For Yale Buildings.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 14.—George R. Cooley and Flora N. Cooley, his wife, have sold to Yale university property in the block which is to form the new quadrangle, the proposed site for the new administration buildings, for $25,000. This property adjoins the last purchase, which was made from Daniel B. Bradley.

Child's Body Found.

BUFFALO, Feb. 14.—A dispatch to The News from Medina says the body of the 4-year-old son of Rev. R. L. MacFarlane has been found in a raceway. The child had been missing since Sunday.

A TRAGIC DEATH.

Congressman Chickering Leaps From a New York Hotel Window.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Congressman Charles A. Chickering of Copenhagen, N. Y., was found dead on the sidewalk of the Forty-first street side of the Grand Union hotel, Park avenue and Forty-first street, yesterday morning. It is thought that he either fell or jumped from the window of his room on the fourth floor. His clothing was saturated with rain, showing that the body had lain there some time. His head was in a pool of blood, flowing from a gash in his right temple. His brains were literally dashed out.

Mr. Chickering registered at the hotel last Sunday. He had been there many times and was well known to the guests and employees. He complained of rheumatism to the clerk, saying that it troubled him frequently and, on account of the bad weather, the ailment affected him more than usually.

There was no way of definitely ascertaining how the man got to the sidewalk. He could not have fallen out of the window, as the fire escape balcony prevented that. It is conjectured that perhaps Mr. Chickering, in a fit of derangement of the mind from the pains of rheumatism, might have walked out of the window and climbed over the railing, throwing himself to the pavement below.

Mr. Chickering was 57 years old. He was a man of commanding figure, well preserved, well built, of medium height and wore dark hair streaked with gray and dark, drooping mustache streaked with gray. He had strong features.

He represented the Twenty-fourth congressional district in the present house and was also in the last congress. He was born in Harrisburg, N. Y., Nov. 26, 1843. He received an academic education and, Dec. 15, 1870, married Miss Emma B. Stanton of Copenhagen, N. Y., where they made their home. He was a school commissioner in Lewis county from 1865 to 1875; member of the assembly, 1879-81; clerk of assembly, 1884-90; chairman of the Lewis county Republican committee, and secretary of the Republican state committee. He had been in congress since 1893 and served as chairman of the committee on railways and canals in the Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth congresses.

BATH SOLDIERS' HOME.

Investigation Continued In Albany. Attorney General Ruled Out.

ALBANY, Feb. 14.—The investigation of the charges against the Soldiers and Sailors' home at Bath was continued in this city yesterday before the committee of the state board of charities of which Commissioner E. L. Philbin of New York city is the chairman. The hearing developed a sensational feature in a decision by Chairman Philbin that Attorney General Davies had no right to examine any of the witnesses except through the courtesy of the committee.

The witnesses examined were Hon. Fred Collier of Elmira, Captain John F. Little of Bath, Thomas Sage of Elmira, Captain Frank P. Frost of East Corning, W. J. Dean of Buffalo, Chaplain John D. Armond of the home and George W. Wright, a member of the home. Their testimony was that Colonel Shepard was not drunk at times heretofore charged; that he was kind to the inmates of the home and that under his management the quality of food and the discipline and care of the inmates had greatly improved.

The proposed unification of the school system of the state has by no means been abandoned, as has been suggested, and active work for the promotion of the scheme will be begun immediately. A member of the commission appointed by Governor Roosevelt says that the sentiment in favor of unification is unanimous among educators, and all are agreed upon the fundamental points, the difference of opinion being in regard to details. He says the charge that any political advantage is to accrue to any individual or party is ridiculously untrue. Unification is demanded in the interest of administrative efficiency and in the interest of economy. The powers and duties of the two departments now overlap, and unification should save the state $50,000 a year.

Governor Roosevelt is watching with a great deal of interest the progress of the bill to repeal the Horton boxing law. He feels that decent sentiment throughout the state should be so aroused as to render a defeat of the Lewis bill impossible.

Two Notable Speeches.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The financial debate in the senate reached its climax yesterday. Two great speeches, one in favor of the pending senate substitute measure and the other in opposition to it, were delivered and both were listened to by senators with close attention. The first was delivered by Mr. Allison of Iowa, the ranking member of the finance committee. He had been an attentive listener to the speeches delivered on the other side of the chamber, and in the course of his argument he presented his answers to the points raised against the pending senate bill. Mr. Jones of Nevada declared that the bill was vicious and unwarranted, conferring too great power upon national banks and fastening the country to a gold currency. He discussed the question from a historical and philosophical view point.

Sharkey Too Much For Goddard.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—Sailor Tom Sharkey and Joe Goddard, the Barrier champion, met last night at Industrial hall in what was to be a six round bout. Goddard, however, was clearly outclassed and was saved in the middle of the fourth round from an almost certain knockout by his trainer, Jack Dougherty, throwing up the sponge. Sharkey in a series of terrific rushes had warmed things for the veteran until defeat seemed to be due in the next blow, when Dougherty surrendered.

Short Crop of Herrings.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Feb. 14.—The last American herring vessel has left Placentia bay, having abandoned the fishery in consequence of the mild weather. About 40 vessels have failed to secure cargoes, thus involving a shortage of about 50,000 barrels of herring. This result, which is the worst known in ten years, will largely cripple the American dealers concerned in the industry. Moreover, the coast fishermen will lose nearly $100,000.

Across Niagara's Ice Bridge.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Feb. 14.—The Countess of Minto, wife of the governor general of Canada, and a party from the government house made a trip over the ice bridge yesterday morning in a downpour of rain. This afternoon the party took a ride in a private car over the Canadian Scenic line.

THE MANILA POLICE.

Many Filipinos Now Serve as Guardians of the Peace.

Perform Their Duties to the Satisfaction of Their Chief and Have Displayed Great Courage in Trying Circumstances.

Native police were an experiment once at Manila. Now they are a fixture. They carry their revolvers and swing their clubs in an independent manner, hold their heads high and wear yellow shoes with all the dignity of one to the manner born. Col. Williston, the provost marshal, hesitated a long time before he would permit the natives to carry arms. But at last Maj. Tiernan, who belongs to the First artillery by rights, and who is chief of police by virtue of his appointment and ability, persuaded the colonel to select a small number of the natives to patrol the streets that were not as prominent as the Escolta or as public as the Luneta.

Kahki, in a different shade from that worn by the soldier, was chosen as the uniform. At first there was a question as to how they should be armed. Of course it was necessary that they should carry something to enforce the laws of the highway and the city. So they were given clubs. Now, a club is effective so long as it is within reach of the evil-doer, but as there was more or less robbery going on among the natives, it became a necessity to arm the police with something that would shoot. This is how it came about that the native police were armed with revolvers as large as those carried by the American soldiers.

Each policeman wears a cap, says the Chicago Record, and that gives him a military air. His uniform is tailor-made and fits him perfectly. The trousers are long enough to reach below the tops of yellow shoes and sometimes are stuffed inside the lacings. On the breast is a silver badge showing a number and precinct. The officers are designated much as they are in the army, either by stripes on the sleeves or straps on the shoulders. They travel out of their stations in twos, one walking along each side of the street. Some were assigned to the markets and others to public buildings which are patronized by the natives.

The markets were great places for gambling, and may be yet, but that business is carried on under cover. Time was when the dice rattled and rolled out in the streets in broad daylight. Occasionally a native is arrested, however, and a Chinaman does not dare to show his face if he has ever been guilty of throwing the dice. The police seem to pay no attention to pitching pennies—in fact, they indulge in that pastime themselves. But the way the game is played in Manila it becomes one of skill rather than of chance.

One thing these uniformed men do is to keep the streets clean of all dirt and refuse. A garbage wagon daily comes along every street, the native driver rings a bell, and the householder is supposed to send a servant out with the day's accumulation from the kitchen and the stable. It is one of the duties of the police to see that the carabao cart is not kept waiting too long before a door. These men sometimes become oversensitive. Once, while driving along Calle Nuevo, I saw a policeman knock with his club at the window of a residence. The woman came to see what was wanted, and she was ordered to take from the front fence some clothing she was airing.

The men comprising the force are brave. They have been compelled to rush into houses where robbers were at work. More than one has been carried away to the hospital badly wounded in the fights which have followed. Besides this, they have the confidence of the natives and have been able to inform the officials of dangerous plots or the presence of insurgent agents.

All this has resulted in the appointment of more native policemen and the establishment of more stations. Col. Williston is satisfied that the experiment has proved a success. Among other things it shows that the work of reconstruction will be made easy, for there is growing confidence in the ability of the native to administer his own affairs.

Czarina's Cossack Shawl.

The czarina has a shawl which she values very highly. It was sent to her by the ladies of Orenburg, a town in southeastern Russia. It reached her in a wooden box, with silver hooks and hinges, the outside being embellished with designs of spears, turbans, whips, etc., on a ground of blue enamel, that being the color of the Cossack uniform. The shawl is about ten yards square, and exquisitely fine.

Commercial Benefits Derived From Recent War.

WORLD'S MARKETS NOW OPEN TO US

Where England and Germany Kept the United States From Competition It Is Now Ours, and the Lion's Share.

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 14.—President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell university, in delivering an address before the Business Men's association of Ithaca yesterday, spoke at some length on the issues arising out of the Philippine question. Regarding the commercial benefits which the United States is to derive as a result of the Spanish-American war, he said:

"The markets of the world are open to us and receiving our products. The Spanish war gave us a solution to that question. That war was waged to drive from Cuba an effete European power, a government of tyranny. Irony of fate has followed up our late war, and, paradox though it be, we are now an Asiatic power, with new outlets for our products.

"These are hard facts," continued Mr. Schurman, "and as strange as they are true. Where England and Germany kept us from competition it is now all our own, and the lion's share is coming with it. We allowed Africa to be sliced up by European powers. It is our national crime. China has opened the doors to its 400,000,000 human souls for us. Russia, France, Germany and England were dividing that great empire as Africa was divided. We might have lost it. Englishmen were in despair. Their trade was ridiculed by Russia, Germany and France. But the United States alone opened the doors of China and accomplished one of the greatest achievements in her history.

"Our flag is anchored in the Pacific; it is flowing over the Philippines. Henceforth we are to be on an equal footing in Asia with Russia, Germany, France and England. But our mission is not alone to make money there, although Providence dropped the islands into our lap. Eight million people with immortal souls have been redeemed from tyranny of ages, and our mission is to share with them our highest American civilization and liberty. They will accept our flag, our education, and then our mission will be accomplished. It will be their flag and ours, their glory and ours, their pride and ours, emblem of the orient in its highest and noblest form."

Communication In the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—General A. W. Greely, chief signal officer, U. S. A., says that all of the energies of his department are at present being directed toward the establishment of a thorough telegraph and telephone system in the Philippines to meet the constantly growing demand for such service incident to the military operations in the islands. The lack of mail system in the Philippines allows of only telegraphic or telephonic communication, and at present over 100 telegraph and 150 telephone operators are established in the island of Luzon. But as the capture and occupation of each town creates a demand for a means of communication there is an ever increasing need for instruments, operators and other equipment for the offices of both methods.

Mysterious Deaths.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—John S. Peach, aged 40 years, and his wife, Margaret, 27 years old, were found dead in bed at 2426 Ingersoll street, into which house they had moved last Saturday. Poison was the cause of their deaths, but whether it was suicide on the part of both or whether it was a case of murder and suicide the police are unable to ascertain. While it is possible the deaths may have resulted from ptomaine poisoning, the police authorities believe that the stress of poverty under which the couple lived was the cause of the tragedy. The only furniture in the house was the bed on which they had expired and a trunk.

British Soldiers Lost.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 14.—Le Petit Bleu, in correspondence from Pretoria, publishes an extraordinary account of 2,000 British soldiers who, it is said by the writer, arrived toward the end of December last during the retreat from Dundee at the river Maputa, the boundary between Swaziland and Portuguese territory. According to the narrative they had lost their way and wandered for weeks in Zululand, arriving shoeless, in rags and dying of hunger. These soldiers, the correspondent says, were thought to have been shut up with Sir George White in Ladysmith.

Spain Favors the Boers.

MADRID, Feb. 14.—Senator Davilla, in the senate yesterday, questioned the government on the subject of the reported sale to Great Britain of Maxim cartridges manufactured at the Placentia arms factory. He took the opportunity to say that public opinion in Spain was entirely favorable to the Boers. The premier, Senor Silvela, replied that he could not give a definite answer, as he was not aware whether private industry had supplied ammunition to England. He promised, however, to endeavor to obtain the desired information.

Live Stock Values Increase.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The statistician of the department of agriculture has completed his annual estimate of the number and value of live stock on farms. Returns from more than 50,000 correspondents show that on Jan. 1 there were on the farms of the United States 13,537,524 horses, 2,086,027 mules, 16,292,360 cows, 27,610,054 other cattle and 41,883,065 sheep. The total increase in the value of the farm animals of the United States during the last three years exceeds $570,000,000.

A Crook Captured.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 14.—Charles Moran, alias Reed, said to be a noted crook, was captured yesterday when about to blow open the safe in the postoffice at Nanticoke. He was brought before United States Commissioner Hahn in this city and in default of $2,000 bail committed to jail.

Kindling Wood Factory Burned.

BUFFALO, Feb. 14.—Fire at Bradford, Pa., destroyed the kindling wood factory owned by Bedell & Crause, the storehouse of the McAmbly mill and five freight cars. Loss, $60,000; insurance small.

BULLER IN OLD CAMP

Heavy Fighting Near Colesberg For Two Days.

BRITISH WITHDRAW TO RENSBURG

Were Outnumbered by the Boers Five to One and Forced From a Long Maintained Position.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—A dispatch from General Buller giving the casualties at Vaal Krantz was sent from Chieveley camp. This would seem to indicate that General Buller has removed his headquarters from Springfield to Chieveley camp, 15 miles back, whence he started on his Springfield campaign.

It is not known whether any large body of troops remains at Springfield.

This indicates that he has abandoned his intention of crossing the Tugela at the point where he has been thrice badly beaten. He is now where he was when he promised to eat his Christmas dinner in Pretoria.

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Rensburg, dated yesterday, says:

"There has been hard fighting for two days near Colesberg, the Boers making strenuous efforts to outflank the British left. The enemy occupies strong positions from Achtertang through Potfontein to a point five miles south of Jasfontein. The fighting at the outpost camps has been very severe during the last few days. Yesterday the Boers attacked the position of the Worcesters to the south east of Colesberg. Fighting continued all day, and after dark it was considered necessary to withdraw to Rensburg. Our losses are not yet known.

"On the left the West Australians Wiltshires and Berkshires had hot fighting, but held their positions against long odds. The Boer losses were considerable.

"Owing to the growing difficulty experienced by convoys in reaching the camps all of the latter were vacated last night and the troops withdrawn to Rensburg.

"The Boers are burning the farms of the loyalists, but the latter have contrived to get away with their stock."

A dispatch from Rensberg, Cape Colony, dated today, says:

"The Boers are actively pressing around Rensberg. The British force under Lieutenant Colonel Page, consisting of a section of artillery and 150 horse, which reached Slingersfontein Feb. 10, has been compelled to fall back on Rensberg, owing to its eastern flank being threatened.

"The Boers yesterday drove in the British outposts on the western flank, all outposts at Bastard's nek, Hobkirks, Windmill and other points retiring to Maeder's farm.

"Yesterday's retirement of the western outposts included the withdrawal from Coles kop and all the surrounding posts. The Boers placed a 40 pounder at Bastard's nek, commanding the surrounding country, and successfully shelled the British positions. The Boers numbered some thousands and were five to one everywhere fighting occurred. The British are chafing under the necessity of a retreat from their posts, some of which they had held since the new year. The British now have no camp west of Rensberg. They safely brought off the guns from Coles kop."

The friends of Mr. Cecil Rhodes are becoming alarmed at his possible fate and have sent an emissary to see Dr. Leyds, the diplomatic agent of the Boers in Europe, in regard to the probable course the Boers would pursue in the event of his capture. Dr. Leyds assured the intermediaries that the Boers did not intend to kill Mr. Rhodes; but, he added, they would certainly hold him as a hostage until the indemnity for the Jameson raid was paid. In view of the developments since the raid the Boers have also decided to double the amount of the indemnity demanded, so Mr. Rhodes' friends will have to hand over $10,000,000 before he is released.

It is also learned definitely that Dr. Jameson is still at Ladysmith, in spite of all the conflicting reports.

Mrs. Arthur Paget's entertainment last night brought in over £5,000 for the families of the household troops, in which her husband is a colonel of the Scots guards; the Mansion House fund exceeds £690,000. The Daily Telegraph's fund amounts to £119,000, and The Daily Mail's totals up £77,000. These amounts only cover the larger London funds and do not include numerous provincial funds or large amounts being raised to equip volunteers.

The equipment for the yeomanry hospital has just left England for the Cape. The ladies at the head of this charity have now decided to raise funds to keep the hospital going for six months and have issued an urgent appeal to the British residents of the United States.

General Ludlow's Errand.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Among the passengers who arrived on the Ward line steamer Havana from Havana were General and Mrs. William Ludlow, Hon. Robert P. Porter, Dr. Allen McL. Hamilton, S. Scovel and Lieutenants C. Butler, W. and E. Carpenter. General Ludlow, when seen at quarantine, said: "I am on my way home to visit my daughter and her husband before their departure for Europe. I shall go to Washington to see the president on Thursday and expect to return to Havana on the steamer Mexico, which sails from New York on Feb. 24. I expect to remain at my post at Havana until after the elections in Cuba, which occur next May. I know nothing contrary to this plan."

Quiet In Frankfort.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 14.—Yesterday was extremely quiet here, there being no developments in the political situation. The eyes of the leaders on both sides are on Cincinnati, where Judge Taft of the federal court will render a decision today on the question whether the federal courts have jurisdiction in the contest cases.

Margin Dealing Gambling.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 14.—Judge Hirzel of the circuit court at Clayton has delivered an opinion that dealing in margins on stocks was gambling. The decision was rendered in the case of William Mulford, a broker, against J. Schofield, a client.

Train Derailed by Washout.

QUINAPOACET, Mass., Feb. 14.—A passenger train on the Central Massachusetts railroad was derailed by a washout near here last night. Three cars were derailed. Many persons were injured. The engineer and fireman are not expected to live.

THE BEST THEY KNOW.

YOU remember the old lady who rode for the first time on a railway train. There was a frightful collision, but when the rescuers reached her she was quite calm. She said she supposed they always stopped that way. The story well illustrates why so many women are satisfied to live without Ivory Soap. They have never tried it! Naturally enough, they think that annoying odors, sharp chemicals, and wasteful greasiness are common to all soaps.

THE LANGTRY TEA.

Police Prevent Barmaids—Six Thousand Dollars For Charity.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Society and the stage, represented by women of wealth and beauty, crowded the ballroom at Sherry's yesterday afternoon, patronizing "the concert" arranged by Mrs. Langtry to raise funds for the American hospital ship Maine, now in South Africa. Although pretty young women did not sell cocktails and other cheering refreshments at the "American bar," there was a big crush, and a large sum of money was realized.

The ballroom and the communicating corridors and rooms from half past 3 on were crowded with people. The ballroom itself, which was furnished with chairs, was packed to the walls, and it was impossible to follow the programme, in which the best known people of the stage took part. Women were in great preponderance, and they were to a large extent women of the stage.

There were several police officials present also, sent to the affair by Chief Devery in response to the demands of members of the Woman's Christian Temperance union. The police had nothing to do, but they were present for the purpose of watching the "American bar" and if necessary preventing the carrying out of the original plans of Mrs. Langtry and other organizers of the entertainment to have young women dispense drinks.

Instead of young women, the Earl of Yarmouth and several professional bartenders served liquors at 50 cents a drink, including those with such names as "the degenerate smile," "a surprise of love" and "the dumdum."

There was no mistaking the fact that the entertainment had been planned to raise money, even the programmes selling at $2 apiece. Something over $6,000 was said to have been taken in.

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE.

F. J. Swayze Appointed Circuit Judge—Capitol Enlargement.

TRENTON, Feb. 14.—Governor Voorhees sent to the senate yesterday afternoon the name of Francis J. Swayze of Newark as circuit judge to succeed Judge Francis Child. Mr. Swayze is a Republican, while Judge Child, whom he succeeds, is a Democrat. Judge Child was strongly indorsed for reappointment by the Essex county bar. Governor Voorhees says the appointment of Mr. Swayze is a personal one.

The statehouse commission, consisting of Governor Voorhees, State Comptroller Hancock and State Treasurer Swain, made a report under the resolution of last year asking them to investigate plans for the enlargement of the state capitol. The commission with their report will submit plans for a new senate chamber and for a three story addition to the rear of the main building to supply additional office rooms for the various state departments. The estimated cost of the entire work is given as $289,000.

The senate passed the house resolutions respecting the death of ex-Attorney General John P. Stockton. Favorable report was made on several bills in the senate, and then that body adjourned until tomorrow morning, after a futile effort of the Democrats to have adjournment take place next Monday night.

The house passed Assemblyman Mark's bill to make legitimate children born before the marriage of their parents; also the house bill incorporating the town of West Orange.

MOBS IN MARTINIQUE.

Riotous Disturbances Continue In Many Parts of the Island.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, Feb. 14.—The riotous disturbances in this island continue. A house was burned yesterday at Deschamps, and today there were risings at several points. A mob of about 1,200 rioters invaded La Mentin and La Soudor, where they obstructed the thoroughfares to such an extent that travelers were only able to circulate when accompanied by gendarmes.

Some 300 rioters occupy Morne pavilion, and there is an uprising at Riviere Salee, which has no troops to protect it.

A numerous band of rioters has assembled at the Ladilon iron works, four kilometers from here.

A dispatch from Paris announcing that M. Rene Viviani, a Socialist member of the chamber of deputies, has asked for 50,000 francs for the benefit of the strikers has caused a painful impression among the planters.

The board of arbitrators has granted an increase in wages of 25 per cent.

The cane crop is abundant, but the recent events render work impossible, and the loss will be considerable.

WINTER FLOODS.

Great Damage by High Water In New England.

BOSTON, Feb. 14.—The gales of the equinox scarcely have exceeded in force the storm which swept over New England yesterday, leaving in its wake damage by flood that is almost incalculable.

For 24 hours a heavy rain, after wiping away what few traces there were of snow and ice, brought to a climax the most unseasonable winter New England has known for a great many years. Tributary bodies of water which a few weeks ago were so low that the almost unheard of condition of drought in midwinter was threatened have been changed into torrents of more threatening volume than in the usual spring freshets. From drought to flood, with all the damage done at both extremes to the manufacturing, logging and ice harvesting interests, is now added the cost of replacing bridges swept away and of repairing railway and highway beds torn up.

More serious still, there has been loss of life at several points.

In this section the rainfall exceeded one and a third inches, and as the unfrozen ground was sodden from moisture precipitated during a long spell of mild weather most of the fall ran off into the natural drainage channels.

In the northern section, where there was snow on the ground, the rain was absorbed to some extent and will scarcely be noticed, as colder weather will serve as a check. With the end of winter approaching, New England has not yet seen an old fashioned snowstorm.

The most extensive damage reported is along the Merrimac and Connecticut rivers. The blow was fierce along the coast, but shipping, usually less in volume at this season, had ample warning of the storm.

Northern New York Flooded.

WHITEHALL, N. Y., Feb. 14.—The continued rain of the past 24 hours has made the country roads impassable. Several bridges are threatened. The water is higher than in years. Telephone and telegraph lines are badly damaged throughout Washington county. A washout has occurred on the Rutland and Washington branch of the Delaware and Hudson between Salem and Eagle Bridge. Information received here from Essex and Clinton counties states that the water is rising to a dangerous point in all the streams.

WONDERFUL NOME.

Miners May Make Fortunes In Washing the Sands.

FORT PLAIN, N. Y., Feb. 14.—The following is a portion of a letter received here by Irvin Miller, a returned Klondiker, from the postmaster at Nome, Alaska, the latest gold producing find:

"Imagine a strip of sandy beach which will pan from $25 to $500 per day. The water from the ocean is used to wash out the auriferous particles, and there is a chance for every one. Of course there is a strip along the beach about 100 feet wide that belongs to the government for a roadway. But this can be leased from the interior department and is being worked by those who are in need of ready money for the necessaries of life. About eight months ago a crowd of 2,000 miners came in dead broke. They had lost everything they had in the Copper river country, and to them the free gold on the beach was a godsend.

"I have never seen any one who wanted to work clear up less than $25 a day. There are times when rich pockets would be struck and the labor of a few hours would pay $500. Of course this panning by the small pan is not the quickest way to get out the gold. Many of the miners improvise big hand rockers and jig out two or three tons of earth a day."

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Dr. Edward L. Holmes, former president of Rush Medical college, died at Chicago.

Emperor William has subscribed 10,000 marks to promote German emigration to Palestine.

The Fitchburg directors at Boston voted eight to five against the Boston and Maine lease.

Mary K. Shaw, wife of the G. A. R. commander in chief, A. D. Shaw, died at Watertown, N. Y.

Nearly 250 demented soldiers have been sent to Washington from the Philippines within the last three months.

Heavy fighting between the government forces and the insurgents occurred around Barranquilla, Colombia.

COMING EVENTS.

February 17—Social for members of Junior Department of the Y. M. C. A.

Council's Precipitate Action.

The Common Council acted in an unwarrantedly hasty manner last night in giving its approval to the Board of Education's proposition for bonding the city for $100,000 to establish a new high school building. Except to the select few, the plan to build a new school building at a cost of $100,000 was totally unknown, and yet in a matter that involves such great expense and has attached to it considerations of extraordinary importance we find the Council giving its approval in a most precipitate and uncalled-for manner.

The proper course for the Common Council to have pursued would have been to have received the proposition and to have promptly referred it to the finance committee for thorough investigation and consideration. We do not deny but what better school facilities are needed for Plainfield, but a little sober and honest discussion of the subject would not be out of place. Heretofore every proposition to bond the city for improvements of any kind has been accompanied by hearings at which the sentiment of the people could be expressed, and the Council's action last night was an unworthy and unpopular deviation from that rule.

Mayor Rockfellow is greatly exercised at the precipitate action of the Council, and declares that the proceeding is most unfair and indicative of an abuse of confidence which the people impose in it. We believe the general public will share the Mayor's views.

We are not opposed to better school facilities for this city if they are necessary, but we do rebel at the action of the Council in giving its approval to a scheme to bond the municipality for $100,000 before even a small proportion of the taxpayers know that it has been done.

Need of Jury Reform.

The great interest that has been taken in the Molineux trial, and the diversified views that are held in relation to the rendering of the verdict by the jury, has suggested to the Trenton True American that now is an opportune time to secure some consideration for the jury laws of New Jersey, which, it holds, are in serious need of reformation as to the gathering and selection of those available for jury duty. And the True American, with characteristic energy and pointedness, takes up the subject and handles it in a manner that indicates good reasoning. The True American argues that one good effect of the Molineux verdict is to point to the fact that the New York method of selecting juries is far ahead of that employed in New Jersey, where the panels are made up by politicians, and where indictment and conviction are entrusted to men selected by a political officer, often as a means of paying political debts.

As a remedy for the state of affairs which permits of the diversion of justice from its true channel, in order that unworthy causes may be served for the benefit of those who have the requisite "pull" with the official who has the choice of jurors left to his say so, it is suggested that a jury commission in each county, composed of two men, representing the two political parties; required to make up every two years lists of all persons competent in age, character and education to form our juries; and obliged to draw each jury from these lists, would secure juries to which every citizen would be willing to leave the decision of any questions likely to arise.

The spirit of the law, of course, presumes that a sheriff shall hold aloof from influences that have only selfish and dishonest ends to serve. But a sheriff is human—and it is human to err. Often times an error on the wrong side is committed unwittingly enough by the official, but once it is done the wrong has been perpetuated and all the sympathy in the world will not right it. Himself a creature of political dickering in most cases, and unavoidably subject to all the subsequent machinations throughout his administration of the office, it is to be expected that a sheriff is fallible in many respects, and none more so than in the selection of proper juries.

A decent appreciation of the very fabric of the justness and probity of the law—the jury—will suggest that the method through which the system obtains practical form, should be removed as far from politics as possible. Leaving the selection of jurors to the judgment of the sheriff contradicts this idea in a direct manner. It is manifest that a reform is needed, and we believe that the suggestions of the True American are practicable and should take firm root in the mind of the public to be agitated and demanded till a change is secured.

It appears from the Common Council proceedings last night that a special act of the Legislature is required in order that Plainfield may build a city hall. Where the Legislature is called upon to give its approval to a municipal improvement it is the rule to act favorably at the earliest opportunity if the sentiment of the community effected is partial to the plan. There is a strong and overpowering sentiment in this city in favor of a city hall—as near a unanimity on the subject as it is possible to secure—and there should be no question but that the Legislature should enact the proposed measure with as little loss of time as is possible. Meanwhile, the Council should not hesitate, but continue to perfect many preliminary matters that do not need the sanction of strict law.

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal thinks Germany has some design on some part of the American continent, and remarks: "Anyone who likes to use his eyes can see that either the Monroe doctrine will have to be given up or its defence properly prepared for. Any halting between these policies must prove disastrous or at any rate humiliating for the United States."

New Brunswick has the unique distinction of being the only city in New Jersey having no City Hall.—Passaic News.

Come over to Plainfield and we will show you another city in New Jersey that has no City Hall. But we have hopes.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Plainfield is a sadly afflicted community and, singularly enough, the miseries are all heaped on the heads of the men, speaking both figuratively and otherwise. It was told in this column a week or so ago how the prevalence of barber's itch had received the attention of the Board of Health. This, it appears, has been followed by an epidemic of baldness. Some there are who say that the preference which Plainfielders are said to show for front seats at the vaudeville theatres is now meeting its just reward. —Newark News.

The smoker to be given at Plainfield this evening gives promise of being an event in which the Republicans of Union county should have great interest. C. J. Fisk, the Mayor of Plainfield, has determined to make it one of the most pleasant and memorable events of its kind in the history of the Republican party of this county, and Mr. Fisk has a way of succeeding in about everything he undertakes. Such a meeting of the Republicans of this county cannot fail to increase sociability, to promote better understanding, to more closely unify and harmonize the members of the party and in this way to do much good. It is to be hoped that Elizabeth will send a full contingent to the smoker, in courtesy to Plainfield and in honor to herself.—Elizabeth Journal.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

Outside the fact that a strong cast with strong situations go largely towards the make-up of the successful drama, the matter of equipping and staging a performance is an item which enters largely into the completeness and beauty of a play. Lincoln J. Carter is known as a producer of plays in which the three components are carefully attended to. "Chattanooga," his latest play, which will be produced at Music Hall tonight, is pronounced by those who have seen all his former efforts, as the greatest drama he has ever launched. Besides being historically correct, the spot around Chattanooga has given Mr. Carter ample room for setting his play in a most artistic manner. The cast with "Chattanooga" is the very best, and the closing act is a novel of pictorial character, in which a locomotive is sent at full speed from the Confederate to the Union lines with important dispatches.

Servais LeRoy, Imro Fox and F. E. Powell, three magicians, who have been called in England, "The Three Crowned Kings of the Mystic World," have united for the season under the name of "The Great Triple Alliance," which will be seen at Music Hall Friday and Saturday of this week. Their entertainment is said to be of the most unique order, and is supported by a dozen vaudeville performers. The act of levitation, performed by Prof. Powell in the last act, is the prettiest thing in the way of illusions that has been presented since the days of Signor Blitz. A beautiful sleeping girl is made to rise in mid-air, with her slumbers undisturbed: thus reposing on the air, the magician demonstrates absolutely, to the astonished spectators, that she has no support, by passing a hoop over her body from head to foot. This feat reveals all the legendary feats of legitation accredited to the Mahatmas of India. A matinee performance will be given Saturday.

The story of "Old Lavender," in which Edward Harrigan, the famous actor, appears at Music Hall next Tuesday night, is so familiar to theatre-goers the world over as to hardly need repetition, and is universally conceded by the critics to be his greatest effort.

In addition to "Old Lavender" Mr. Harrigan will also present a new one-act comedy, entitled "Nugent the Rubber," and "McSorley's Inflation," condensed to one act. A programme that cannot fail to please all. As Mr. Harrigan has appeared to crowded houses in every city he has appeared this season, it would be well to reserve your seats early at box office.

A prominent physician of New York City, while discussing the merits of Ripans Tabules with a brother M. D., gave utterance to strong expressions of approval, saying: "Several years ago I asserted that if one wished to become a philanthropist, and do a beneficent deed—one that would help the whole human race—nothing could be better than to procure the Roosvelt Hospital prescription, which is the basis of the Ripans Tabules, and cause it to be put up in the form of a ketchup and distributed among the poor." This opinion was given long before the Ripans Chemical Company discovered the better way of reducing the substances mentioned in the prescription to a powder, and compressing them into Tabules more convenient than ketchup and less exposed to injury from temperature or accident. The Ripans Tabules have another advantage: the self-respecting poor need not be indebted to a charity for a medicine that can be bought for five cents.

WANTED—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples (10) one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

WINTER FASHIONS.

Trimmings of Great Elaboration Now Employed.

Cuirass bodices are seen on many of the newest and most elegant gowns. The skirt of such gowns is often plain, but the cuirass is embroidered, incrusted and jeweled with great elaboration. For example, with a skirt of black velvet a black satin cuirass is worn entirely embroidered with black chenille and little pink coral beads. Guipure is used in the same manner.

Jet, crystal, spangles of gold and silver, beads of all colors, detached flowers of guipure, velvet and passementeries are the prevailing decorations for elegant gowns. The most simple gown of cashmere or cloth can be enriched by such ornamentation to an almost unlimited extent. The newest models are new rather in the ingenuity and charm of their decoration than by anything unusual in general form and style. A novelty which is simply a revival may, however, be observed—that is, where velvet forms the trimming of a costume it also may compose the entire sleeves.

The illustration shows a costume of broche chamois silk. The skirt is mounted with a large box plait in the middle of the back and has near the foot three rows of chestnut brown silk fringe with a netted beading. The fitted bodice of broche silk has a collar and revers composed of the netted brown fringe framing a plaited and shirred guimpe of mauve silk. The sleeves are of plain chamois silk covered with a latticework of narrow chestnut brown velvet. The belt is of brown velvet and the cravat of white crape and lace. The hat, of draped and puffed brown velvet, is trimmed with chamois plumes and a fringed scarf of chamois silk. A paste buckle ornaments the front.

Various Styles For Different Persons and Purposes.

Very stout women should avoid tight fitting clothing without ornament, especially in light colors. Black is more becoming to them than is anything else, and open jacket fronts or boleros, showing a plastron, are the most suitable style of bodice.

For young girls inexpensive fancy fabrics, light colors, ruches, ribbons and ruffles are suitable, but no rich goods nor mature trimmings.

Many light cloths are trimmed with dark fur, the two being kept, however, in tones of the same color. Pale gray cloth with chinchilla and beige with otter are some of the combinations.

Scintillating effects in spangles, gold and silver threads, beads, cabochons and jet, with all kinds of metal coloring, are characteristic of this winter's evening attire. The most serviceable gowns of this class are those composed of black spangled tulle over black silk. The upper part of the bodice, with the sleeves, may be left transparent, separate guimpe and sleeves of black silk being provided for wear beneath when the decolletage would be inappropriate.

The cut shows an opera gown of white peau de soie. The redingote skirt is trimmed with applications of guipure and opens over a plaited tablier of white satin. The pointed bodice has a low decolletage and a pointed plastron of guipure bordered with tiny ruches of white satin. The long evening mantle is of panne, richly embroidered at the corners of the front. The round pelerine is trimmed with three ruffles of mousseline de soie, and the embroidered yoke is also edged with three mousseline ruffles. The tall, embroidered collar is lined with mousseline ruches, and the lining of the mantle is of wadded satin.

FASHION HINTS.

Hints Regarding the Up to Date Woman's Wardrobe.

White which is not a pure white, but is tinged with yellow, beige, green, gray, blue, lavender or pink, is employed for ultra fashionable evening and reception costumes. A great deal of jewelry is worn; so the effect is far from being dull.

The tiny capote has reappeared for theater wear and is worn by women of all ages. In contrast with this, the day hats are of the large and heavy order.

Light colored felts, around which are wound little fur animals, are the millinery feature of the moment. Toques of fur and feathers continue to be in favor and require but little trimming, a knot of velvet or a spray of flowers being sufficient. With chinchilla pink rosebuds or bright purple violets are pleasing, the latter also looking well in conjunction with such brown furs as mink and sable.

Artificial flowers are now so beautifully made and perfumed so appropriately that they almost rival nature. These masterpieces are expensive, but far more durable than real flowers, and they are being now much used to replace natural products in the decoration of the costume. Where genuine violets were once tucked in the bodice imitation ones now appear.

The cut shows a girl's costume of mode cloth. Around the foot of the skirt is a little silk ruche headed by three rows of stitching, and another ruche, higher up, simulates a tunic. The blouse bodice is trimmed in front with two vertical bands of guipure edged with silk ruches and has a yoke of guipure, also edged with a ruche. The sleeves are tucked at the top and have a ruche at the wrist. The collar is of plaited silk. The belt is of velvet, with a fancy buckle. The stitched felt hat is trimmed with velvet and ostrich tips.

COLOR AND STYLE.

A List of Tints to Be Worn by Different Complexions.

A Parisian authority upon the subject of dress has just given a list of colors suited to different complexions. For brunettes with a creamy skin and black or brown hair the list comprises ivory white, orange, very pale pink veiled with white lace or gauze, bright red and brilliant black in combination with white or a color. Women with a warm color, brown hair and a brownish complexion are allotted bright pinks, very pale turquoise blue, pinkish lilac, cream and especially such combinations of color as mastic and red gray and pink, brown and blue and, generally speaking, striped effects. For the golden brown locks, with a fair, pale skin, there are black, pinkish gray, periwinkle blue, navy blue, dark red, milk white and very dark green. Rosy blonds should wear golden brown, beige, mastic, ruby, bright violet, all whites, canary yellow and white. Pale blonds are permitted dull black, dark red, all violets, sapphire blue, bright turquoise blue and very pale pink.

A sketch is given which illustrates a gown of olive cloth and velvet. The lower skirt is of velvet, the tunic of cloth. The lower edge of the tunic is trimmed with bands of yellow, and an embroidered motive decorates the side. The cloth corselet bodice is trimmed with bands of galloon and has large revers faced with velvet. The sleeves are also trimmed with galloon. The collar and chemisette are of cream moire. The hat of embroidered velvet is trimmed with flowers and foliage and has an end of lace falling over the hair at the back.

The Metropolitan Stage

Attractions That Attract the City Theater-Goers, and Gossip of the People of the Stage.

"BEN HUR" is having the full success predicted for it, and still requires two box-offices, and still shows all the signs of unusual popularity. Those who see the play do as much advertising for it as does the advertising agent, for it is a production that is not disappointing, that does not continually invite invidious comparisons with the book. It certainly stands as one of the best dramatized novels put on the stage. The scenes are beautiful, the action sustained, the cast competent. The chariot-scene is by no means all of the play; one keeps long in memory the view of Jerusalem, the groves of Daphne, the moon-lit, palm-bordered lake. Artists have set the play for us, artists interpret it, and the merit of both classes of worker is recognized by the thousands that flock to the doors of the Broadway theater in New York, where it is probable the play will continue running until warm weather is upon us, and theater-goer and actor leave the playhouse for seaside and mountain retreats.

Pretty, dainty, merry, clever Cissie Loftus has warm friends among those high up in the theatrical profession. When Ellen Terry first set foot on American soil this season, she immediately hunted up the troubled young lady and warmly espoused her cause.

Miss Loftus, you remember, withdrew from Weber & Field's burlesque company, alleging dissatisfaction with the part assigned her in the new burlesque. Next, just when she was to play Roxanne in Mansfield's company, she fell ill and was obliged to cancel that engagement. Why she canceled, if ever it existed, her engagement with Mr. Robert Stuart Stone, the aesthetic young publisher, of Chicago, deponent sayeth not. One predicament after another has befallen the charming young woman this season, but we trust the tride will now turn. Mme. Modjeska has great faith in Miss Loftus' talents, and is making use of her own fame and long experience to further the progress of her protege. It will give us pleasure to say: "I told you so" when the laurels lie thick on the waves of hair that adorn the brow of winsome Cissie Loftus.

Sir Henry Irving, Miss Ellen Terry and the Lyceum company begin their three-weeks engagement in Chicago February 12. The American tour has been extended six weeks, and the company will not reopen at the Lyceum until late in June. "Robespierre," "Nance Oldfield," "The Amber Heart," "The Bells" and "The Merchant of Venice" will be given in Chicago.

A lily by any other name would be just as sweet, I suppose, as would be the proverbial rose. Still, with reference to the particular lily of whom we are thinking, there is such a thing as changing the name too often. Lily Le Breton began life at St. Helen's, Jersey, in 1852, doubtless as fair and pure a lily baby as one might wish to see. When a mere girl she became Mrs. Langtry, and that was her name till a certain personage made known it was his royal pleasure to change it to the Jersey Lily. About that period various changes came into the life of the simple flower which never should have been transplanted from its native isle. An exotic life works sad havoc sometimes, and simple tastes may give place to vaulting ambitions; love of power; desire for wider praise than that attainable in the daily round of domestic life; the glitter of the myriad lights of the playhouse and the applause of careless admirers. And so the story went on, and the unknown became widely, if not well, known.

In "The Degenerate" Mrs. Langtry plays the part of Mrs. Trevelyan so naturally observers are led to think the part not created for her, but that Mrs. Langtry and Mrs. Trevelyan are one and the same. A gay, mischievous lady of pleasure is presented to us, either most naturally or most artistically. A good-natured, healthy, lively animal, one who may have intellect but makes no pretense, or gives no hint, of the possession of a soul, that is Mrs. Trevelyan as portrayed by Mrs. Langtry. Eat, drink and be merry is the day's programme, and the philosophy that lies at the root of it all does not seem to the lady to be false. A strong body with which to enjoy life, a beautiful face that makes friends for the owner without effort on her part, men to amuse and to furnish amusement, women to outrival, what more could a woman ask for?

Some one speaks of "The Degenerates" as "Mrs. Langtry's Christian Endeavor," and the phrase is such a delightful bit of sarcasm it should be often quoted. You know, Mrs. Langtry assures us her play is not immoral, that it has a high purpose. 'Tis not that pleasures grow at last to pall that is the moral Mrs. Langtry is supposed to convey in this new play, but that the pure feeling of a child may work wonders with the most careless and callous of mothers. To be just, there really is some strong work in the play here, and some fine acting done in the scenes where the girl Una and her mother are together.

Mrs. Trevelyan, a divorced woman, has a daughter, Una, who adores her mamma and thinks her all a mamma should be. While Una is away at school, Mrs. Trevelyan leads a gay life without pang or scruple, but when Una returns and showers upon her all the impulsive warmth of her young heart, shows perfect trust and faith in her, the mother in the lady of fashion awakes and dominates. New ideals soften the heart, influence the acts. She stops playing enchantress to Lord Saumerez and turns him over to his lawful wife. She stops playing rival to Lady Saumerez and puts her ladyship back in the path of virtue as she is about to plunge down a dark precipice. The duke of Orme, a man of the world, depicted as well bred, kindly, wise, tolerant, experienced, but not spoiled, appears on the scene at this juncture and falls in love with Mrs. Trevelyan's nobility. He would have been proof against her beauty, her gayety, her fashionableness, but is overcome by her nobility.

It seems to the superficial observer that Orme might have found nobility without a past, might have obtained for his duchess one whose nobility would stand out equally bright without the dark background. Perhaps in these latter days upon which we have fallen innocence is at a discount. At any rate, we are able to consistently carry out the figure with which we have started, and call to attention the fact that the fairest lilies bloom where the mire at the roots is blackest.

"The Degenerates" no doubt will have great vogue. It certainly is cleverly written, but the flippancy in it is not admirable. Special mention should be given the acting of Frederick Kerr, who plays the part of Orme; of George Grossmup as the half tipsy, wholly foolish nobleman; of Miss Lucy Milner, who is altogether irresistible in her role of happy, affectionate daughter. As we have said before, Mrs. Langtry's portrayal of the degenerate woman cannot be improved upon.

THE ASTROLOGER.

OUR COLONIAL EMPIRE

Current Matters of Interest in Alaska, Porto Rico, Hiawaii and Tutuila.

PORTO RICO'S COMMERCE.

Commercial Figures That Are of Interest at the Present Time.

WITH congress debating the question of commercial revenues between this country and the island of Porto Rico, commercial figures of the island under normal conditions, for which congress is legislating, becomes of special interest.

The exports from Porto Rico when the island was a Spanish colony consisted of sugar, coffee, molasses, tobacco, cattle hides, timber and honey. But of these, sugar, coffee, molasses and tobacco were the principal exports.

In 1895, which is considered a normal year, the value of the sugar exported was $3,747,831. During the same year the value of coffee exported amounted to $8,789,788, and of tobacco $646,556.

Coffee is recognized as the leading product of the island, and there are 122,000 acres in the island devoted to its cultivation, while to sugar there are devoted but one-half that amount of land, and to tobacco but 2,000 acres.

During this same year Porto Rico exports to Spain, then the mother country, were valued at $5,824,694; to the United States, $1,833,544; to Great Britain, $1,144,555; to Germany, $1,181,396; to France, $1,376,087; to Cuba, $3,610,936; to the Lesser Antilles, $625,010, and to all other countries, $828,709, making a total value of exports for the year of $16,424,931.

The value of the imports for the same period amounted to $16,354,854. Of this amount Spain supplied goods to the value of $8,572,549; United States, $1,506,512; Great Britain, $1,765,574; Germany, $1,368,595; France, $251,984; Cuba, $808,283; Lesser Antilles, $1,709,872, and other countries, $371,485.

Of the breadstuffs and provisions imported into the island during that year, this country supplied about one-half, of a total valuation of $1,223,104 of meats and lard imported, $599,513 came from the United States; of a total value of $982,222 of flour imported, this country supplied $521,357.

SUGAR CROP OF HAWAII.

The Amount Produced During the Past Year in the Different Islands.

A STATEMENT of the sugar crop of Hawaii has been prepared recently. The statement shows that 282,807 tons were produced on all the islands, and also shows the number of tons produced on each plantation as well as on each island of the group.

The amount of sugar produced on the different islands of the group was as follows:

Hawaii, 117,239 tons; Maui, 54,389 tons; Oahu, 45,000 tons, and Kauai, 65,807 tons.

The island of Hawaii, which shows the largest production, is by far the largest island of the entire group, and is considered the most attractive point for prospective settlers. The principal town of this island, Hilo, is growing rapidly and many Americans are to be found among its population.

Sugar growing as an industry suitable for settlers is not to be considered as the sugar industries of the island are monopolized by a number of large corporations with from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000 capital.

COCOA CULTURE IN TUTUILA.

Our Little Samoan Island Is Developing a New Industry.

COCOA culture is rapidly becoming the chief industry in Tutuila, our latest acquisition in the Samoan group. The natives have taken to it willingly and a number of plats of cocoa trees have been planted.

The island is well adapted for the culture of the cocoa tree, the dense native forests of the hills and mountains forming excellent protection for the young trees and which may be removed gradually as the trees mature.

In Tutuila but the first returns are being secured from trees planted three years ago, as it takes that length of time before they begin to bear.

In one of the other islands of the group 60 acres of land planted in cocoa trees has during the fourth year brought a revenue of $1,200, while another planter secured a profit of $900 from but eight acres devoted to cocoa trees.

In Tutuila excellent land for the cultivation of the cocoa tree may be had almost for the asking from the natives, and several men from this country have recently acquired some of this land for the purpose of cultivating cocoa on an extensive scale.

THE RUSH TO CAPE NOME.

Sixty-Five Thousand Men Want to Dig for Gold in the New Fields.

REPRESENTATIVES of the different transportation companies engaged in carrying passengers and freight from Pacific coast points to points in Alaska recently estimated that not less than 65,000 people were waiting for the first opportunity to get to the gold fields at Cape Nome, Alaska.

When we consider that the cost of transportation to Cape Nome from these points is $100 for first-class and $50 for second-class fare, we can easily see what this rush to the new gold fields means to the transportation companies, if their estimate is correct. In addition to the cost of personal transportation there are thousands of pounds of provisions and outfits that will have to accompany such a rush of men, and for this the transportation company charges $40 per ton.

For the benefit of any reader who may be numbered among the 65,000 gold seekers we quote a few of the prevailing prices at Nome City, taken from one of the newspapers published there:

Articles.	Price.
Beef, per pound	$0.75 to $1.00
Wood, per cord	25.00 to 50.00
Flour, per cwt	10.00
Butter, per pound	1.00
Canned milk, per can	.50
Canned meats and fruits, about	.75
Maple sirup, per gallon	4.00
Potatoes, per cwt	10.00 to 15.00
Onions, per cwt	10.00 to 15.00
Tomatoes, per can	3.00
Coal, per ton	75.00
Shingles, per bunch	7.50
Lumber, per 1,000 feet	250.00

If they prefer to patronize the restaurants, instead of "keeping house," they can do so by the payment of the following prices:

Articles.	Price.
Steaks	$1.50 to $3.00
Reindeer steak	2.00
Pork chops	1.50
Mutton chops	1.50
Boiled mackerel	1.50
Coffee and doughnuts	.50
Hot cakes and maple sirup	.75
Corned-beef hash	1.00
Pickled pigs' feet	1.00
Mush and milk	.50
Oyster stew, lobsters, etc	1.50
Ham or salmon	1.00
Hamburger steak	1.50
Clam chowder	.75
Sardines, per box	1.00
Chicken tamales	.75
Pork and beans	.75
Cheese, with any order	.25
Ham and eggs	2.00
Three eggs	2.00
Fruit and jams, all kinds, each	.50
Coffee, tea or chocolate	.25
Pies, each	.50
One loaf of bread	.25
Welsh rarebit	1.00
Coffee, with bread and butter	1.00

But these prices may be warranted, when it is considered that men are digging out of the ground from $50 to $300 per day—that is, some men. It is said that nuggets have been found in Anvil creek as high as $300 and $400, and that close to $400,000 was taken out of Snow gulch last season, two men having claimed to have taken out more than $190,000. The Gas-Lit Diamond

Is Indoor Baseball in the Decline? Some History of the Game, Its Abbreviations and Its Rules.

AT ONE TIME indoor baseball, a sport but 13 years old, threatened to become one of the most popular indoor sports of the United States. It obtained vogue from Maine to Oregon, and from the northern tier of states to Georgia, but there are many who think that the gas-lit diamond game is on the decline. Chicago, the city that first gave the pastime to the public, was once the greatest center of the sport in the country. Now it fails to support the organized leagues that were in fierce rivalry for pennant honors. The game is played, but in a comparatively desultory manner. George W. Hancock, familiarly called the "father of indoor ball" because it was his versatile mind that first evolved the "science" of the indoor game, has seen the sport develop from the pastime of members of social clubs to the business of leagues filled with amateurs and professionals. He is still optimistic about the future of the game.

GEORGE W. HANCOCK.
"Father of Indoor Baseball,"

A style that differs materially from that possessed by outdoor baseball players obtains among indoor players. Yet in past years many of the major and minor league baseball players used to play on the gas-lit diamond to keep in condition during the winter months. The indoor player must show absolute abandon in sliding to bases, for in sliding well around the bag he can thrust out his arm and hold the bag. The bunt hit is easier to "get away with" in the indoor game, as the first point of contact between the big ball and the floor determines the fairness of the play. Good bunters in the indoor game are not necessarily the men who lead in this style of play on the grass diamond. Hard drives have to be made with the small bat used to get home runs. The shortstops generally play very close to the batter, for the indoor game right fielder comes up to the diamond and plays what is termed "right short."

If a multiplicity of officers and members of the advisory board amount to anything, the National Indoor Baseball association should be able to overcome the period of depression that has come to the sport and once more put it on the footing that it enjoyed two years ago. The president-secretary of the national association is R. L. (Bobby) Welch, a leading spirit in the Englewood champion team. The treasurer is W. F. Corey, and the vice presidents are W. H. McComb and P. J. Roy. These men, with F. A. Hayner, B. W. Everett, R. B. Paul and E. G. Clark, make up the executive committee. As showing the standing the game has in various localities, the membership of the advisory board is useful. "Ikey" Karel, the old Wisconsin football player, is the member accredited to Milwaukee. W. R. Hartwig is the genius who looks after the game in Baltimore, C. L. Reid booms matters at East Helena, Mont.; V. E. B. Fuller is the Brooklyn member, and J. S. Whyte represents Louisville. Following are some of the other advisory board members, with the cities they represent: L. E. Spring, Owensboro, Ky.; R. F. LeMat, Washington, D. C.; L. A. Jirsa, New York; I. W. Larimore, Denver; W. P. Ott, Savannah; J. W. Jordan, Owosso, Mich.; O. L. Wood, Syracuse, N. Y.; G. J. Thomas, Salem, Ore.; W. H. Peck, Norwalk, O.; J. W. Marquardt, Oxford, O.; F. L. Dole, Concord, N. H.; S. Gausman, Middletown, N. Y.; W. M. McAfee, Alpena, Mich.; R. G. Sunderland, Delavan, Wis.; H. H. Biggert, Berlin, Wis.; N. E. Franklin, Deadwood, S. D.; P. G. Schoch, Ottawa, Ill.; Fred Schaffer, Winona, Minn.; J. W. Milligan, Faribault, Minn.; H. C. Hale, Bayfield, Wis.; F. M. Muhlig, Joliet, Ill.; C. H. Todd, Atlanta, Ga.; C. D. Beard, Port Huron, Mich.; R. S. Smith, Minneapolis, Minn., and F. B. Barnes, Omaha, Neb.

While it is true that the game is being played this winter in cities where it was unknown before, close students of the sport will admit, when pressed, that rowdyism and professionalism came very close to killing the popularity of the sport in centers where it had flourished like the proverbial bay tree. Leagues are in good condition in the New England states, in New York, Maryland, Georgia, Ohio, Indiana, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Oregon, Colorado, Michigan, Kentucky, Illinois and Pennsylvania. The great evil of the game that must be eliminated before it will have reached its past popularity is the proneness of players to use harsh, aye, even worse, language in squabbling with the umpire. The latter official, it may be taken for granted, has a harder time of it than his brother knight of the indicator on the grass diamond. Furthermore, the game developed some fine players whose prowess could be relied upon season after season to bring the team into championship honors. These men began to ask salaries, or, to be more correct, remuneration for their play, and to make the calling a paying one they supplemented these demands with appearances in various teams, often playing under assumed names. This and the growing trouble experienced in getting suitable halls had the effect of putting a damper on the sport in some localities. It became self-evident that leagues that would not live up to agreements and schedules and which were not properly conducted could not be depended upon to foster sport. Guerrilla teams became the vogue, and so widely did this class of playing combinations spread that cities that had eight or ten eight-club leagues suffered until the number of leagues dwindled to two or three. Guerrilla ball reigns where the leagues were once paramount. The Commercial houses maintain indoor baseball teams, and shortages due to small gate receipts are gladly made up by the boys who play on the teams as part of the "profit and loss" account that must follow the sport.

But it must not be said that the skillful indoor player was altogether to blame for his demand of salary. The clubs of the leagues started the players on the downward path of professionalism by their acute rivalry. Anything to win games appeared to be the slogan, and of course batteries were engaged at figures that were comparatively high, when it is considered that the gate receipts were necessarily limited.

However, the storm that broke over these clubs last season is just what was needed to clear the atmosphere. Star players now find that they must pay their proportion of expenses of running a team for "pure sport" or quit the game. If a great many have sought the latter alternative, the result is bound to be of benefit to the faithful who still see in the sport one of the best of the indoor schemes for fun and exercise.

"Bobby" Welch and his associates think that the public likes to see plenty of stick work in the indoor game as well as in the outdoor game, and the twirler of the gas-lit diamond is finding that the rules and conditions are making his work harder and harder as the seasons roll on. In sober truth, the successful twirler at the game as it is played this winter must be a wonder compared to the fellows who appeared in the box in the days when Hancock's rules alone governed the game. The claim is made everywhere that the size of the bat should be increased. The foul bunt should not be called a strike, say the critics, as to call this sort of a bunt a fair hit would be to add greatly to the interest of the game by causing the shorts and the pitcher, and even the catcher, mixed up in frantic efforts to dig out a twisting bunt from right near the plate while the batsman is hurrying to first base. The changes in scoring that have been adopted will prove beneficial, the critics claim, but only as a means of furnishing the various managers with additional data to be used in figuring out ways of strengthening teams.

R. L. WELCH.
President-Secretary National Indoor Baseball Association

President Welch has sent out instructions to his associates on the matter of forming leagues. He calls particular attention to the fact that none can so effectively injure the sport as the players who use vile language and adopt rowdy tactics. Mr. Welch very properly frowns down anything that savors of payment for services, and says that only a wealthy club could afford to continue with such a drain on its treasury. Indoor baseball is essentially an amateur sport, and no credit should be given to a club that is enabled by its possession of funds to buy the services of the best players in the state. Competent officials and umpires who are able to command the respect of both the players and the public should be selected.

"If all the good plans formed for indoor baseball are executed," said President Welch recently, while discussing with me the outlook for the game, "I would not be afraid to say that the game would be as popular in its season as ice hockey and tennis (the court game) or basket ball."

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Among the matters of importance that should engage the attention of the Board of Health is that regarding the practice of allowing scraps of papers to collect and fly about the streets, not only frightening horses, but presenting an unsightly appearance. Scarcely a day passes but what the streets in the centre of the city are filled with papers and one strong feature in favor of abolishing this sort of thing is that the city should have more pride than to allow it to exist.

Thomas Dunn English tells some interesting things about his "Sweet Alice Ben Bolt." One is that he never thought much of the poem himself and was surprised at its vogue. The other is that the music was not original with Kneass, a monument to whom has been suggested by somebody, but was an old German air adopted by both Kneass and by a Philadelphian named Getze. This came near causing a lawsuit over invasion of copyright, but it came out that neither Kneass nor Getze had the right to claim the tune as his own.

To all the seacoast states—and of these New Jersey exposes one of the longest lines to the ocean—the question of the destruction of bird life bears a special relation. Fashion, to which woman, however sensible otherwise, is a willing or an unwilling slave, has decreed in favor of the increase of birds and bird plumage as a feature of ornamentation for hats. The crusade against this outrage appears to have stimulated rather than to have decreased it. The loss has been specially notable in the gulls, which add such a charm to every seascape. "Bird Lore" states that so great has been the demand for gulls' plumage that, in some localities, this beautiful creature has been killed to the extent of 1,400 in a single day on a single island. At this rate it would not be long before a noble seabird, which is not fit for food, would be entirely exterminated. Societies are now forming all over the country to pledge women not to wear any but ostrich feathers, the obtaining of which does not demand the death of the bird, or the feathers of the cocks of the domestic fowl, which are killed for food. But the trouble is that nine women out of ten are so utterly uninformed on the subject of birds that they could never distinguished one kind of feather from another. To save the birds it will be necessary to educate the women, however, willing and sympathetic.

REASONS FOR THE NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

Statement Prepared by Superintendent Maxson.

PRESENT FACILITIES TAXED.

NEW BUILDING WOULD BETTER RESULTS TO BE ATTAINED.

With Better Quarters for the High School, Superintendent Maxson Suggests That Manual Training be Added to the Course of Study—Declares That Increase in Expenses Would be Small.

Accompanying the proposition of the Board of Education to the Common Council Tuesday night with the request for approval of a plan to raise $100,000, by bonding the city, in order to erect a new High School, was a statement from Superintendent Maxson, of the public schools. It formed the basis for the Board's request, and is therefore of great interest. It is as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Education of the City of Plainfield:

Gentlemen—In response to your request for a statement of the present condition of the High School, and the size and appointments necessary in a new building to meet our needs, I would submit the following suggestions.

After making a careful estimate, based on present attendance and on the records for last year, I judge that there will be in the Stillman building next fall, 215 pupils in the High School and 80 or 90 in the preparatory class, making a total of about 300 in the building. In the fall of 1901 there will be an addition of 30 or 40 more. That means that, in the first year of occupation, we shall have from 350 to 400 pupils in the building. In my judgment, the building should be built to accommodate 500 pupils, so as to permit growth in the school for several years

As to appointments, the principal ones are as follows: For study rooms, in which the pupils shall sit, not less than ten rooms, about 26x34 feet; for recitation purposes, two or three rooms about 22x25 feet; for drawing, a room about 25x40 feet; an assembly room to seat 500 persons; two rooms for library and reading room; and a room for the principal's office. The science department, which is one of the most important and practical, would require a room for a chemical laboratory, another for a physical laboratory, and a third for zoology, botany and geology, with a lecture room for demonstration purposes. (With this equipment we could make the science work very much more practical and valuable than is possible with our present building.)

I have expressed to the Board many times my belief that manual training should be included in our course of study; that our children should have the opportunity that so many smaller towns are giving their children, to learn the use of the common tools, to train the hands to work out accurately and skillfully that which the mind conceives, to develop the constructive side of the mind. I think the Board is unanimous in agreement with me as to the desirability of providing for this in a new building; I, therefore, add for manual training two rooms the size of an ordinary class room, (27x34.)

As the High School is the centre of the school system, the new building should include offices for the Board of Education, which is equivalent to two more class rooms, about 27x34. In addition to these there would be the usual smaller rooms for toilets, cloak-rooms, store-rooms, etc.

As to cost I would say that I took occasion recently to examine the High School buildings in two small cities in Massachusetts. These buildings were very compactly planned to accommodate about 400 pupils, without rooms for the Board of Education. There was little or nothing about them that is not considered a necessity for a good High School. While some of the features could be supplied in cheaper material so as to lessen the cost of a building a little, I doubt if it could be lowered very materially and include all the appointments. They were each built three or four years ago and cost $100,000. Today the architects say it would cost about 20 per cent. more to build the same buildings, making the price about $120,000. Several years ago Montclair erected a building for about 500 pupils at a cost of a little less than $100,000, paying $24,000 for the land. At about the same time East Orange built one of about the same size for $107,000. Judging from these facts and from my study of buildings, it is my judgment that to erect a building for 500 pupils, with modern equipment and agreeable architecture, suitable for High School work, will require $100,000 for the building, exclusive of land.

As to the increase in running expenses which a new High School will cause, I would say that there will be very little. Next fall, for instance, we shall have ten teachers in the High School building. In 1901, if there is an increase of 35 pupils, we shall have eleven teachers. A similar increase another year would add another teacher. In each case, the increased cost would be the salary of the teacher, about $800, but this increase will take place whether we have a new High School building or not. Unless you pass a rule, refusing to let pupils enter the High School, the school will grow, whether there is a new building or not. It simply means that if a new building is not provided, then we must hire rooms somewhere for the overflow, as the school increases. This means additional expense for rent, additional expense for janitors for these scattered rooms, and additional expense for fuel. Such rooms will be hard to find; they will be poorly lighted, poorly ventilated, and generally unhygienic for school use, and very inadequate and unsatisfactory. When we get a new building, all of the pupils and teachers in the present High School will go into it, leaving the Stillman Building vacant. The pupils now in the Whittier School, which is a rented building, will then go into the Stillman. The janitor now in the Whittier, will thus be left free, and will be transferred to the new High School. If we introduced manual training, that would require two new teachers, at a salary, say, of $1,400, half of which the State would pay. It would probably take 50 to 75 tons more coal each year, to heat the High School, than it does the Whittier School.

This would make the increase caused by the new building itself: Coal, $300; manual training teacher, $700; total, $1,000. (The other additional teachers mentioned above should not be included in this estimate of increase, since they will be needed whether there is a new building or not.) So, as I said at the beginning, the new building, in itself, would add but little to the running expenses, except as we undertake the manual training work. It is not, as it would be, if, when the new building was erected, we were to collect pupils that are not now in any school, and hire new teachers that are not now in service. When we enter the building we shall take into it pupils already in school and teachers who are already being paid a salary. If the school is not built, these pupils must be taught and the teachers paid just the same salaries that they would be paid if they went into a new school; that is, the new building does not increase the salaries, nor add to the number of teachers, unless it should stimulate the attendance, and make larger additions to the school, and so require additional teachers; but that, I should suppose, would be a blessing that every one would be glad to have.

As to the effect on the tax rate, there will be no increase in the levy this year, only a small increase, if any, in the year 1901, and probably only three tenths of a mill in 1902, when the first full levy for interest on the new indebtedness will be made. The assessed valuation of the city has increased nearly two millions in the last eight years; our indebtedness is now decreasing $5,000 each year. Both these facts tend to lower the tax rate for bonds and interest.

Respectfully submitted,
Signed, Henry M. Maxson,
Superintendent of Schools.

MRS. CLARK DEAD.

Wife of the Aged Fish Peddler in New Providence Has Passed Away.

Weakened by exposure and lack of proper food, old Mrs. Caroline Clark has been fast failing in the old farm house near New Providence. Word was sent to some kindly neighbors Tuesday that the end was at hand and they arrived at the bedside of the dying woman in time to be present at her death. The funeral will be held this afternoon and the interment will be at New Providence.

James Clark, the husband, is confined to his bed and may not be able to attend the funeral. He is weak and it is feared that he cannot live much longer. He will now be entirely alone. His wife was sixty years old.

In Interest of Proposed Street.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade will be held Monday evening in the Board rooms in the Babcock building. The meeting will include a public meeting in the interests of the proposed new thoroughfare connecting North avenue and East Front street. It will be under the joint auspices of the Board of Trade and the Plainfield Advancement Association.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR NEW STATION HERE

Important Conference to Be Held This Afternoon.

ACTION EXPECTED SOON.

DR. RUSHMORE IS WILLING TO SELL HIS PROPERTY FOR PARK.

The New Station Is Only a Question of Time—Will be a Handsome, Substantial Structure—Plans For the Proposed Park—Would Develop That Section of the City Very Much.

After several years of agitation in behalf of a new station on the south side of the Jersey Central Railroad tracks, there is a good prospect that the officials of the Jersey Central are willing to act in the matter. This afternoon a conference will be held in the company's offices in Jersey City, when a joint-committee of the Board of Trade, the Plainfield Advancement Association and other prominent citizens will meet the railroad officials and talk the matter over. A favorable result is confidently expected.

There have been conferences before but they have accomplished practically nothing. This one is expected to bring about the long-wished for improvement. The improvement consists in more than the mere erection of a new station south of the tracks. It is hoped that the railroad company will purchase the property on the corner of Fourth street and Watchung avenue, now occupied by the lumber yard and mill of Rushmore & Co., and convert it all into a park with a handsome entrance to the station from the south and east.

The property in question is owned by Dr. Rushmore, of Park avenue, who, it is understood, is willing to dispose of the property at a reasonable price and thus allow the improvement to go forward. The securing of this property at a moderate price has been the great stumbling block in the way of the improvement heretofore.

It has been a well-known fact that it was only a question of time before the railroad company would act in the matter and provide separate arrangements for the convenience of their passengers on both sides of the track. The dangers of the present system are realized and the company is anxious to take the steps toward greater safety when they think the proper time arrives. It will be the aim of the committee this afternoon to prove that the proper time has come.

It was stated some time ago by the railroad officials that, when the improvement was made, the new station would be a substantial one. It will probably be modeled after the same style of the new stations of the company placed at Elizabeth, Westfield and Somerville. They are not only well equipped for the convenience of the passengers, but are architectually a success as well.

The new station would become the principal one here and would eclipse the present structure in beauty and equipment. The general idea would be modeled after the double stations at Elizabeth which are now each complete in itself.

The establishment of the new station, which would take all the east bound traffic, would raise the property valuations in that neighborhood. The great stream of vehicles and foot passengers which now pour into North avenue from under the Park and Watchung bridges would then turn into Fourth street and across the new park to the station. When the army of commuters returned, they would, of course, leave by the way of the present station.

The committee which is to confer with the railroad officials, is unanimous in its advocacy of this new improvement. While there is some division of opinion regarding the opening up of the new thoroughfare with a passageway under the tracks for vehicles as well as foot passengers, there is none at all regarding the new street. The question of two small tunnels or one large one is of little importance in comparison with the whole improvement and every effort will be made to secure the new station and park whether or not it is decided best to open up a new thoroughfare between North avenue and East Front street.

Woman Hit by a Train.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, February 15.—Nora McAuliff, 69 years old, living at No. 624 Trumbull street, was struck by a train on the Central Railroad yesterday and was thrown many feet. Her skull was fractured and her body was cut terribly. She attempted to cross the tracks and did not hear the train approaching. She probably will die of her injuries.

STOLEN WALLETS FOUND

REMAINS OF PICKPOCKETS' RAID ON BRYAN DAY.

Three Pocketbooks Found in Flush Tanks of City Hotel Toilet Rooms, But the Valuables Were All Gone.

Three pocketbooks were found in the flush tanks of the toilet rooms at the City Hotel this morning. An investigation of their contents showed them to be undoubtedly those taken by the gang of pickpockets who plied their trade so successfully during the time of Col. Bryan's visit to this city last week. There was a varied assortment of articles in the wallets, but everything of immediate value was taken.

The discovery was made by Robert Sills, the colored porter at the hotel. All night the valve to the flush tank refused to work and he started to investigate this morning. In one tank were two pocketbooks and in the other a pocketbook and a pair of socks. The socks were rolled into a little package and wrapped up in paper.

One wallet was evidently the property of Henry V. Dunham, of New Market, for his name appeared on many of the papers it contained. There were several notes, one of which had been partially paid, a safe combination, and some bills. Peter Lane, of Somerville, who is interested in the woolen mills there, was the owner of a second pocketbook. Besides some papers, a return ticket from Plainfield to Somerville, stamped February 7th, 1900, was found in it.

The name of C. L. Honeyman appeared several times on the papers contained in the third wallet but there was no clue as to where he lives. The only suggestion was a bill for mason's materials made out by a dealer in Far Hills. He also had a safe combination. There was no clue to the owner of the socks.

TO REPAIR TROLLEY BRIDGE.

Freeholders of Middlesex County Inspect Albany Street Structure at New Brunswick.

The Board of Freeholders of Middlesex county yesterday afternoon inspected the Albany street bridge, which County Engineer Dougherty had declared to be in a dangerous condition. The Board found that the ancient pier supporting the heavy iron portion, over the Delaware and Raritan canal, was in bad shape. The pier on the west end bulges out considerably, and an eight foot excavation has been made in it by the water. Another pier was noticeably washed out, and this will also receive immediate attention.

Arrangements will soon be made for the removal of three trusses recently placed under the bridge to support it, and the piers will be replaced as soon as possible. As the Freeholders have already used up their bridge appropriation this will necessitate a special sum being set apart, but as the bridge is the most important one in the county there can be no doubt but that some requisite financial action will be at once taken.

OPPOSED TO THIS SCHEME.

Councilman Corieli Not in Favor of City Acquiring Garbage Plant.

It is said that the Plainfield Sanitary Company is desirous that the city should buy their plant and take hold of the business of collecting and disposing of garbage. At the meeting of the Council last Tuesday evening Mr. Corieli put himself on record as being opposed to the scheme, and no doubt other members feel the same way. With the many other important things on the carpet the Council is hardly ready to take hold of garbage disposal, although it is one of great importance.

Soft Spots in Macadam to Be Fixed

Several soft spots in the macadam pavement on West Front street, near the Dunellen line, are to have the immediate attention of Street Commissioner Gavett. They are caused by the frost coming out of the ground and have been bad places for passing horses. A Telford foundation of large stones will be laid in those places and then covered with the regular surface of fine stone.

REPUBLICANS SMOKED, TALKED AND ATE.

The County Committee's Smoker Was a Big Success.

FOUR HUNDRED MEN THERE

CITY JUDGE WM. N. RUNYON WAS IN GREAT DEMAND.

An Informal Programme Was Given and Was Followed by a Collation—The Most Important of the Invited Guests Were Not Present, But Most of the County Leaders Were on Hand.

For nearly three hours last evening four hundred Republicans from all parts of Union county chatted, smoked and enjoyed themselves generally at the smoker of the county executive committee, held in the Casino, this city. While the committee was disappointed in not having all the dignitaries present who were expected, the attendance was large and there was not the slightest doubt as to the complete success of the affair. There was some political talk, but the general conversation drifted from that topic.

This was the second of a series of three smokers given by the county committee. The first was held in Elizabeth a month or more ago, but the gathering last evening was declared even a greater success than the first. The third will be held in Rahway next month.

Although the smoker was announced to begin at 8 o'clock, it was nearly 9 o'clock before the crowd was on hand. A big delegation came up from Elizabeth. It numbered over a hundred and included all the Elizabeth leaders, except the Governor, Senator Kean and Congressman Fowler, who were detained by other engagements. Rahway sent several well-known Republicans and Roselle, Cranford and Westfield had a good representation. Summit and several of the small townships were not represented.

Assemblyman Wakelee, of Bergen county, Republican leader in the lower house of the State Legislature, was one of the guests of honor. Union county's three Assemblymen and most of the county officials were also present.

The two local members of the committee of arrangements, City Judge William N. Runyon and Former Justice William Newcorn, had their hands full in looking after the guests. Judge Runyon acted as master of ceremonies and shortly after 9 o'clock called the gathering to order and announced the first number on the programme. It was a comedy sketch by two Elizabethan amateurs, C. J. Buzby and O. R. Graham, Jr. They were gotten up as colored men and had some very funny things to say. Besides the funny stories and jokes they told, there were some local hits.

Assemblyman Wakelee was next introduced and said a few words. He was followed by a rag time composition, sung by its author, L. J. Tonnele, Jr., of Metuchen. Senator Charles A. Reed talked a little politics interspersed with apt stories. The recent visit of Col. Bryan was referred to, and his reference to William McKinley as the next President brought out ringing applause. A dialect sketch was given by G. W. Boschen, Rahway.

Former Assemblyman Geo. Squier made a little speech to Chairman Charles N. Codding, of the county committee, and presented him with a handsome set of silverware in a large oak chest, the gift of his Republican friends in the county. The gift is valued at $400. Mr. Codding thanked his friends in a neat speech.

A song by Charles Kraemer, baritone, of Rahway, illustrated by stereopticon views, ended the regular entertainment, after which there was provision made for the inner man. Salad, sandwiches and coffee were served. Throughout the evening, however, cigars and a variety of liquid refreshments were circulated. Nearly everybody smoked and a great cloud of smoke soon filled the room.

Loud calls were made for Judge Runyon, who finally was dragged out of the ante room, where he was busy seeing that everybody was properly served. He sang the famous ditty of the sayings of one remarkable parrot, of the "Irish Jubilee," and of a series of blows that "almost killed father." The audience was delighted.

Later in the evening John D. Barr, of Elizabethport, sang a favorite melody, while the crowd joined in the chorus.

Among the familar faces noticed at the Casino during the evening were State Senator Charles A. Reed, of North Plainfield; Assemblyman Wakelee, of Bergen county; Assemblyman Charles S. Foote, of Plainfield; Assemblyman Ellis R. Meeker, of Elizabeth; Assemblyman Chester M Smith, of Westfield; Sheriff Robert G. Houston, Surrogate George Parrott, Warden Charles Dodd, Former Assemblyman George Squier, City Treasurer James Morrison, Assembly Journal Clerk Noah Morrison, Factory Inspector J. E. Tucker, Former Freeholder Fred Miller, Former President of the Council John D. Barr, C. H. K. Halsey, County Committeeman James White, Deputy Internal Revenue Collector George Van Voorhis, County Committeeman Robert Waterbury, County Committeeman John Seibert, District Court Clerk James C. Calvert, County Committeeman Jacob Spencht, County Committeeman John Arnold, and David McBride all of Elizabeth; Tax Collector Charles E Reed, Clerk of the Board of Freeholders S. Rusling Ryno, of Rahway; Freeholder James Hope, Alderman Henry Krouse, Alderman W. W. Birdsall, Gustave Price, of Roselle; Chief Clerk of Sub-Treasury E. W. Hale, R. C. Plume, County Committeeman James H. Warner, David Everett, Edward Bookhout, of Cranford; Former Assemblyman Charles N. Codding, Overseer of the Poor Fred Decker, Charles H. Denman, George W. Peck, George W. Peck, Jr., Isaac Seeley, C. P. Wilcox, John Dorvall, L. E. Westbrook, George Marsh, of Westfield; Former Sheriff George Kyte and County Physician Westcott, of Fanwood; Freeholder Robison and Township Clerk E. L. Hand, of Scotch Plains; Mayor George W. Rockfellow, Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Former Assemblyman Roger F. Murray, Ernest R. Ackerman, Former Assemblyman W. R. Codington, City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, Postmaster E. H. Bird, Former Postmaster Wallace Vail, Surrogate H. Newton Spencer, Former Judge Nelson Runyon, Former Judge William M. Stillman, Deputy County Clerk B. Frank Corieli, Chief T. O. Doane, Chief George W. Grant, Sergeant Patrick Kiely, Former Assemblyman J. B. Coward, Freeholder W. A. Westphal, Former School Trustee O. L. Jenkins, Former Councilman L. B. Woolston, Councilman Robert L. Lee, Councilman J. F. Buckle, Councilman R. I. Tolles, J. W. Murray, Sr., J. Fred MacDonald, Justice V. W. Nash, George J. Tobin, Councilman William Gloak, Director of Board of Freeholders J. Frank Hubbard, Dr. E. W. Hedges and Dr. T. S. Davis, all of Plainfield.

Among the newspaper men present were Editor Charles McBride, City Editor Jos. D. Lowden and L. E. Hendrickson, of the Elizabeth Journal; H. A. Pearson, newspaper correspondent at Elizabeth; R. M. Stickle, of the Union County Standard; A. G. Anderson and A. V. W. Hankinson, of the Westfield Leader; Editor Frank W. Runyon and F. E. Whiteside, of the Plainfield News; Walter C. Dobbins, Henry J. Telford and Charles B. Morse, of the Plainfield Press; Editor J. E. Warner, of the Cranford Chronicle; Editor S. D. Drake, of The Real Estate News and Union Star.

The committee of arrangements consisted of City Judge W. N. Runyon, of Plainfield, chairman; Chas. H. Denman, of Westfield; Assemblyman Ellis R. Meeker, of Elizabeth; William Newcorn, of Plainfield; S. Rusling Ryno, of Rahway.

WATCHUNG'S MAIL.

Old Carrier, Jacob Blimm, Resigns on Account of Small Compensation.

After carrying the United States mail between Plainfield and Warrenville for several years, Jacob Blimm has given up the contract as the result of the trouble over the Watchung mail. The allowance for taking the latter was so small that last week Mr. Blimm announced that he would continue no longer. Temporary arrangements have been made with David S. Dunavan, of this city, and he is transporting the mail at present. New arrangements will have to be made shortly, however.

Municipal Engineering on File

A very practical addition to the list of scientific periodicals taken at the Plainfield Public Library in connection with the Babcock collection is the journal called "Municipal Engineering." It is attractively printed and well illustrated, and covers such subjects of general interest as good roads, street construction, sanitation, waterworks, parks and sewers. A file of the completed volumes of the magazine will soon be added to the circulating department of the Library.

Inspecting Trolley Lines.

Colonel E. W. Hine, of the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, went over the proposed route for the road between Westfield and Rahway Tuesday, and looked over the Rahway Street Railway, lately purchased by his company. Work to connect Westfield and Rahway will be commenced as soon as the weather will permit.

ANTI-SPRING ELECTION BILL STILL HELD OFF.

No One Has the Courage to Launch the Measure.

SCHOOL BILL ALMOST READY

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE HOBART MEMORIAL EXERCISES.

Attorney General Griggs Will Deliver the Address, and the Biggest Dignitaries of the Land are Expected to be Present—Several Bills Introduced to Amend the General Township Act.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 15.—The Legislature adjourned for the week yesterday afternoon, after spending the day in the transaction of routine business of no special importance.

At the morning session the joint committee appointed to arrange the memorial services in honor of the late Vice-President Hobart officially reported in both Houses that the services would be held in the Assembly chamber at 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of Wednesday, February 21st, and that Attorney-General John W. Griggs would deliver the memorial address. Invitations to be present have been extended to President McKinley, the Cabinet, the New Jersey Representatives in Congress, the President of the United States Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives, together with the Judges of the Courts of New Jersey and other State officers. Senator Johnson is chairman of the Senate Committee and Jones of the House Committee.

The general school bill, more familiarly known as the "Stokes bill," is not likely to be introduced before next Monday night. As prepared it contains some radical changes from the act introduced last year, but it still seems to meet with considerable opposition.

Nobody has yet had the courage to launch the anti-spring election bill. Yesterday afternoon a delegation of the municipal employes of Paterson came to Trenton and labored with the Passaic Assemblymen, urging them to introduce the bill. Assemblyman Stalter, who is one of the youngest members of the House, appeared to be the only one on whom they made an impression. He agreed with their argument that something ought to be done to insure their tenure of office as well as that of their fellow-Republicans in Newark, not to mention the possible help it would be to the workers in Hudson. When told of a pilgrimage made to Washington yesterday by two employes of the Newark Board of Works, he was almost ready to introduce the bill. When told that the pilgrims had gone to secure the assent of Senator Sewell to the bill, Mr. Stalter suggested that it would be well to await the pilgrims' return. His constituents saw their error, but they were timid about forcing action, and decided to wait until next week in hopes of more favorable action.

Included among the several bills introduced was an amendment to the General Township act, which in substance provides that all township committeemen heretofore elected shall serve until the township election held in the year his term expires and for which he was elected. At the next election of township committeemen, where the term has been for one year, townships shall elect such officers for one, two and three years and thereafter for three years each.

Hot shot was fired into the Republican camp yesterday afternoon by Assemblymen Benny and Abbett, who found fault because the Committee on Judiciary refused to report Mr. Abbett's resolution, offered two weeks ago, providing for the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people.

When the resolution was introduced Mr. Abbett was assured that it would be promptly reported, but it is the evident intention to bury it.

Mr. Benny scored the Republicans for their unfair treatment of the Democratic minority, and insisted that the members of the House should be given an opportunity to vote on the Abbett resolution, but the vocal bombardment of the Republican forces went for naught.

Blood Poisoning from Stockings.

Mrs. Charles Walker, of Lewis street, Rahway, died yesterday from blood poisoning. Mrs. Walker about two weeks ago cut a corn until it bled. She was wearing black stockings, and it is supposed the dye was poisonous. A week ago the doctors amputated a part of the foot. Mrs. Walker was fifty seven. She leaves a husband and five children.

BRILLIANT FORWARD MOVEMENT.

Many Men Prostrated by Heat—Reconnoissance at Springfield Without Gain to Either Side—British Defeat at Slingersfontein.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The war office has issued the following further message from Lord Roberts, just received:

"Dekiel's Drift, Feb. 14, 8:10 a. m.—General French left this point at 11:30 yesterday morning with three brigades of cavalry, horse artillery and mounted infantry, including several colonial contingents, in order to seize a crossing of the Modder, distant about 25 miles. He reports by dispatch, dated 5:35 p. m., that he has forced a passage at Clip drift and occupied the hills north of the river, capturing three of the enemy's laagers, with their supplies, while General Gordon of the Fifteenth hussars, with his brigade, who had made a feint at Rondeval drift, four miles west, has seized it and a second drift between that and Clip drift, together with two more laagers.

"General French's performance is brilliant, considering the excessive heat and a blinding dust storm which raged during the latter part of the day.

"Owing to the rapidity of his movements General French met with but slight opposition, and his losses were small. Lieutenant Johnson of the Inniskillen dragoons is the only officer reported severely wounded.

"The Sixth division was last night on the north bank of the Reit at Waterval drift and is moving to support the cavalry. The Seventh division is here and will go on this afternoon.

"Four officers and 53 men had to be sent last evening in the returning ox wagons to the railway line, prostrated by heat and exhaustion."

An official dispatch from General Buller at Chieveley announces a reconnoissance at Springfield, resulting in no gain of ground on either side, but causing the wounding of Captain Hamilton Russell, Lieutenant G. Churchill and ten men. In addition, Lieutenant Pilkington and six men were captured.

The dispatch contains detailed accounts of what appear to be unimportant operations. They only tend to throw light on the situation by proving that the Boers are actively following General Buller's every move.

The Daily Chronicle publishes the following dispatch from Mafeking, dated Jan. 29:

"The Boers shelled the women's laager for two hours on Saturday, Jan. 27. Boer women, warned by the spies evidently went into the trenches, clapped their hands and hurrahed when the shells fell near the English women. Lady Sarah Wilson was slightly wounded.

"Major Gould-Adams and Captain Wilson received contusions from shell fragments."

THE SLINGERSFONTEIN FIGHT.

Boers In Overwhelming Numbers Force British to Retreat.

RENSBURG, Feb. 15.—Before dawn Monday the enemy opened an attack upon Slingersfontein, assaulting with musketry the hills on the northeast held by three companies of the Worcesters under Captain Hovel.

The artillery began at sunrise. The Boers approached in great numbers, estimated at seven to one. The British, under good cover, sustained the attack throughout the day. Meanwhile two big guns on the west opened upon the British at daylight and fired for half an hour when a British howitzer silenced them with lyddite, the British artillery firing with precision.

Then another Boer gun to the north opened on the Royal Irish rifles, but rather ineffectually, as the rifles had good cover. The shelling continued all day, and in the evening the Boers brought up a 40 pounder in order to bombard the camp from a hill to the north. The attempt was plainly visible, as the gun could be seen being drawn up by 18 oxen.

With the Boers surrounding the British in overwhelming numbers and having artillery it then became evident that it would be impossible to retain Slingersfontein, which the British evacuated under cover of the darkness, falling back upon Rensburg.

Governor Tanner Has a Relapse.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Feb. 15.—Governor Tanner, who has been ill with a severe attack of stomach trouble, has had a relapse, due, it is believed, to exposure by leaving the executive mansion and driving to the polls and voting at the Republican primaries last Saturday evening. He is confined to bed and is very weak. He is denied to all visitors.

A Sheet Steel Combine.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 15.—The combination of iron and steel sheet manufacturers is now announced as practically assured. Representatives of 25 firms heavily engaged in the making of steel and iron sheets have agreed on a plan of organization that will take in 160 of the 215 mills of the country.

FINANCIAL BILL SAFE.

Test Vote In the Senate Reveals Majority In Its Favor.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Throughout yesterday the senate had the financial bill under discussion. After 2 o'clock the debate proceeded under the ten minute rule and at times became spirited and interesting.

Late in the afternoon a test vote indicating approximately the majority on the passage of the bill was taken. Mr Chandler (Rep.) of New Hampshire offered an amendment to authorize the president to appoint commissioners to any international bimetallic conference that might be called, and it was defeated by a vote of 45 to 25.

The Chandler proposition out of the way, the discussion proceeded on the amendment brought in by the finance committee providing that the provisions of the bill are not intended to place any obstacles in the way of international bimetallism. The Democratic senators arraigned the Republicans for reporting the amendment, declaring they were insincere and that the proposition was intended to hoodwink the people and to catch votes.

No vote on the amendment was reached. The final vote on the amendments and the bill will be taken some time today.

It was the intention of the Republican leaders of the house to call up the Porto Rican tariff bill today, but there was such a demand for time to discuss various questions during the general debate upon the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, which was called up yesterday, that Mr. Payne gave notice that he would allow the Porto Rican bill to go over until Monday.

Given's Thunder Given Away.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Suit at law to recover damages amounting to $70,000 was instituted yesterday by Walker Given against Frank W. Palmer, public printer. Mr. Given states that in 1892 the Republicans in congress used his copyrighted book, "The Tariff Riddle," as a campaign document, printing it in the form of speeches in the Congressional Record. Eighty thousand copies of the Record containing his book were printed when, after an investigation, its publication was stopped. Arrangements, he says had been made for the sale of 10,000 copies of the "Tariff Riddle" to the Republican national committee, which refused to buy them, as they could be obtained without charge in the Congressional Record. For this and other sales lost on account of its free distribution Mr Given asks for the damages mentioned.

Spanish Prisoners Home.

BARCELONA, Feb. 15.—The Spanish steamer Alicante, which arrived here last Sunday from Manila, has landed 1,100 Spaniards, most of whom were formerly in the hands of the Philippine insurgents. The Spaniards say that the Americans are in control only of Manila and the immediate neighborhood, being unable to take the offensive in the interior of Luzon. They assert that Aguinaldo forced the "Filipino government" to release the Spaniards. On the other hand, another steamer just arrived from Manila reports that when she left there was no doubt that the Americans were gaining ground materially in the interior districts.

The Knit Goods Protest.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15.—The committee appointed at a recent meeting in New York of American knit goods manufacturers to protest against tariff reduction on knit goods in the proposed French reciprocity treaty has forwarded to Senator Davis, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, the result of its conclusions. Copies were also forwarded to President McKinley and all members of the house and senate. The committee states that the industry extends all over the eastern, middle, middle western and southern states, employs over 100,000 persons and represents an investment of about $75,000,000.

Dull For Rubber Goods.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 15.—The continued depression in the rubber trade has so seriously affected the business of L. Candee & Co. of this city in common with other concerns manufacturing rubber goods that the factory will close the latter part of this month and will not reopen until April 1 at the earliest. Upward of 1,600 hands will be thrown out of employment. The factory has been running on half time and less for about a month.

Secretary Wilson Will Not Resign.

To reproduce fruits, and flowers as fair
As if laid on by Nature's own hand,
Unique designs both opaque and round,
And Japanese figures on gilded ground
And fantistic Beardsley lines are found
In a bewildering array.

From any design your fancy may choose,
The walls of the cottage are covered with ease,
It's not our custom, but the wealthy to please.
We have beautiful papers at a low price,
Although not so gorgeous, are artistic and nice.

Plainfield citizens praise Doan's Kidney Pills
Kidney sufferers appreciate this.
They find relief for every kidney ill
Read what this citizen says;

Mrs. M. A. Hall of 219 Prescott place says; "For several years I had a dull aching pain across my back at times extending to my hips. I was compelled to lie in just one position all night and stooping, lifting or bending forward aggravated the pains. A kidney weakness which was very distressing and inconvenient also existed and though I used different remedies that were recommended to me I obtained little if any relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly endorsed in our daily papers and procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. It was not long before I felt great relief and I was suprised how quickly the pain in my back disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cent a box. Foster-Milburn Co. Buffalo, N. Y. sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's, and take no other.

NEW REVOLVING CLOCK.

Unique Timepiece Invented by a Philadelphian Is Based on Scientific Principles.

In the unique clock here shown, the invention of a Philadelphian, the usual order of affairs is reversed, and the dial, which is here represented by three globes, is made to revolve while the hands are stationary. Three globes, on the equators of which are marked the divisions of time, are used; the lower one representing the hours, the next one above, the middle one, the minutes, and the top one the seconds. The globes are suitably mounted so as to offer the least possible friction to their revolution. Mr. Jaeger, the inventor, mounts the clock mechanism in the lower globe on a web extending across its greatest diameter, the globe being made in two sections. The hands are carried on a support rigidly attached to the base and carried up behind the globes. The spindle that transmits the motion to the globes, through suitable gearing, runs through holes cut in the framework that supports these hands. Aside from its unique feature, it is evident that such a clock would be very convenient, indeed, for reading the time, and, when suitably illuminated, it obviously would be the clock par excellence for use at night or in the sick room.

TRIUMPH OF SCIENCE.

Pest of Locusts in South Africa Rendered Harmless by a New System of Inoculation.

Inoculating locusts with diseases is the latest triumph of science. Some years ago it was noticed by the Cape department of agriculture in South Africa, in those territories in South Africa where the locusts are particularly plentiful and destructive, that many of the insects were killed by a queer fungus which covered their bodies, grew rapidly and caused their deaths within a few days after its appearance. A practical and clever scientist belonging to the department conceived the excellent idea of studying the disease, not for the usual purpose of curing it, but to propagate it. Recently these efforts were successful, and now the fungus spores are sold to farmers in South Africa by the Bacteriological institute in Graham's Town for sixpence a tube.

A few weeks ago about a hundred locusts were taken from a swarm which infested the neighborhood and had been destroying every green thing in sight. The fungus disease was injected into the bodies of the captured insects, and they were liberated again. On the next morning hundreds of the locusts were seen dying everywhere, and the following day the disease had spread so wonderfully that the sand dunes were covered with the bodies of the insects.

Another way of communicating the disease is to catch young locusts and to immerse them in lukewarm water containing a solution of the fungus. They fly away after the treatment, and pass their troubles on so well that their friends and relatives die in swarms.

Wonders of the Ocean.

Sir John Murray recently summed up the latest discoveries concerning the ocean. The deep sea, he says, is a region of darkness, as well as of low temperature, because the rays of the sun are wholly absorbed by the superficial layers of water. Plant life is absent, but animal life is abundant in those night-haunted depths. The majority of the deep sea animals live by eating mud, and by catching the minute particles of organic matter which descend from above. Many of the mud-eating animals are of gigantic size compared with their allies in shallow waters, but they are the prey of rapacious enemies armed with peculiar prehensile organs. Some deep sea fishes are blind while others have very large eyes.

Time of Birth and Height.

According to Combe, boys born in the months of September, October, November, December, January and February are not so tall as those born in other months. Those born in November are the shortest. Girls, according to the same authority, born in December, January, February, March, April and May show a less length of body than those born in the remaining months. Those born from June to November are taller, but the tallest are born in August. To some extent these facts are attributed to economic conditions, for a child born in summer has generally better food and air.

Tons of Flowers Used.

Vast quantities of flowers are gathered for perfumery purposes. It is estimated that each year 1,800 tons of orange flowers are used, besides 930 tons of roses, 150 tons each of violets and jasmine, 75 tons of tuberose, 30 tons of cassie and 15 tons of jonquils.

Ammonia Gas Motor.

There is a new railroad car that by its own motion compresses ammonia gas to liquid, which, in going through the pipes, expands and produces the necessary coldness in the air.

MR. MACRUM SPEAKS

English Officials Snubbed Him In Pretoria.

MAILS WERE OPENED AND SEARCHED

Thought This Country Should Know the Facts and Came Here to Explain—Hints at Secret Anglo-American Alliance.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The following signed statement is given out by Charles E. Macrum, formerly United States consul to Pretoria:

"The situation in Pretoria was such that, first, as an official I could not remain there while my government at home was apparently in the dark as to the exact conditions in South Africa. Secondly, as a man and citizen of the United States I could not remain in Pretoria, sacrificing my own self respect and that of the people of Pretoria while the government at home continued to leave me in the position of a British consul and not an American consul. I want to say right here that there was not one single request made of me through the department of state looking to the care of British interests in Pretoria which I did not fulfill and report upon according to my orders. On the other hand, American interests in South Africa were in that condition which demanded that the department of state should be cognizant of them.

"I issued the statement received from the state department that Americans must remain neutral. In the face of this Americans were continually going to the front and taking up arms in the cause of the Boers.

"It was over four weeks from the time the war opened before I received a single mail dispatch from my government or a personal letter. The mail for the Transvaal had been all stopped at Cape Town by order of the high commissioner. When this mail was finally forwarded to me, after Colonel Stowe, the consul general at Cape Town, had secured its release, I had the humiliation as the representative of the American government of sitting in my office in Pretoria and looking upon envelopes bearing the official seal of the American government opened and officially sealed with a sticker, notifying me that the contents had been read by the censor at Durban. I looked up international law, but failed to find anywhere that one military power can use its own discretion as to forwarding the official dispatches of a neutral government to its representative in a besieged country.

"The gross misrepresentations which had been going on before the war and after it opened were of such a serious nature and would require such detailed explanation that on the 6th of November I filed a cable to the department in code stating that I wished leave of absence in order to visit the United States. I set forth in this cable that my vice consul had enlisted in the Boer army; that a Mr. Atterbury, an American whom I had known very favorably for more than a year, could take charge of the office until my return. In reply to this dispatch, which was forwarded without delay, I received from the department a reply advising me that my presence at Pretoria was important to public intercsts.

"On the 6th I telegraphed again acknowledging the receipt of the cable and advising the department that the situation was not critical; that Mr. Atterbury was competent; that my presence in America was important. No reply was received, and I wired again on the 11th, stating that no reply had been received, and again urged a favorable reply. No reply was received to this. On the 14th of November I again wired the department, stating that I could not leave without permission; that I would forfeit my post if the reasons which I would make to the department did not prove satisfactory. This cable was delayed by the censor until the 2d of December, when I had advices that it had just been forwarded. On the 4th of December I received a reply from the department to my cablegram of the 14th, which I had been informed two days previously had just been forwarded. It read as follows:

"'You may come home. Put Atterbury temporarily in charge. Department will send man from here.'

"I appreciated the seriousness of the conditions in South Africa to the extent that on my way to Washington, believing that I was still the consul in Pretoria, I refused to make any statement that would in any way involve the department or embarrass it. My one object was to lay the information before the department as to the true state of affairs in South Africa.

"Instead of this I find Secretary Hay, whether acting upon the reports in the newspapers or upon advice from the British government or some other motive I do not know, saw fit not to wait until I could present my reasons in person and has been a silent or conniving partner to discrediting reports of my official acts. I come home to find an attempt has been made to tear down my personal reputation. I wish to state right here that when I accepted my post as consul I knew nothing of any secret alliance between America and Great Britain and that I had seen nothing in the regulations which made the consul of the American republic subject to the whims and caprices of an English military censor at Durban. I came to America with a motive of which I am not ashamed."

INJUNCTIONS DENIED.

Judge Taft Says Kentucky Contests Must Go to State Courts First.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 15.—In the circuit court of the United States Judge W. H. Taft denied the motion for a preliminary injunction in both of the cases from Kentucky.

While the court held that no injunctions would issue under these bills, yet it also held that after the cases had been heard in the state courts they could get in on error for review in the United States supreme court. After the decision was announced former Governor Bradley and his associate counsel announced that they were unable to state what would be the next step of the Republican state officers of Kentucky. Counsel for the plaintiffs held a long consultation after the announcement of the decision. Governor Bradley and his associate counsel, after their consultation, said they had no doubt either of the ultimate possibility of a hearing of these cases in the United States supreme court, as indicated by Judge Taft, or of the final result, but at present counsel could not say what would be the next procedure.

Governor Taylor's View.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 15.—When informed that Judge Taft had denied jurisdiction, Governor Taylor gave out the following signed statement:

"The decision of Judge Taft holding that his court has no jurisdiction in the case of the minor state offices does not affect the merits of the case. He does not determine that the petitioners had no merits in their cases, but only that his court could not take jurisdiction and right the wrong. If he had held that he had jurisdiction it would have all been over, for the outrages were so glaring that the Republicans would have won hands down. The decision in said cases does not in the least affect my case."

Both sides in the Kentucky political feud got into the courts yesterday, and it looks as if in the near future there will be a legal adjudication to the recent election which will at least prevent any further appeal to force. The Democratic move was expected. The Republican move was wholly unexpected, because from the start of the trouble it has been asserted with vehemence that the courts were absolutely controlled by the Goebelites and no Republican could get justice in them. Governor Taylor's appeal is to the state courts and not to the United States courts and was filed two hours before the Democratic appeal.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Eight persons were injured, one fatally, in Chicago fires.

The highest water in 25 years was reported from Whitehall, N. Y.

The Dewey arch fund secretary reported $157,477 subscriptions to date.

The Oceanic broke her record in the passage from Queenstown to New York.

It was reported in Chicago that holders of olive oil were trying to corner the market.

Another flood was feared at Clinton, Mass. The Boston and Maine railroad was tied up at that point.

A large warehouse in the Canadian Pacific railway yards at Prescott, Ont., was totally destroyed by fire.

The secretary of war has ordered the establishment of a semimonthly transport service between San Francisco and Manila.

Several persons were frozen to death, trains were snowbound and telegraph wires down as a result of the blizzard in England.

Floods Receding.

BOSTON, Feb. 15.—The flood in New England was rapidly receding under the influence of drying winds and freezing temperature, and in another 24 hours most of the streams will have returned to their normal high water mark. The damage caused by an unusually heavy rainfall is being repaired except at points on the large rivers where great masses of debris or gorges of ice blocked the natural channels and caused abnormal flow age over usually well protected territory The most interesting of these floods was at Montpelier, Vt., where the Winooski river at the confluence of a small tributary above the city, by reason of two miles of blocked ice, was turned into the city streets, doing much damage.

Freshet at Albany.

ALBANY, Feb. 15.—Albany is experiencing the greatest flood since 1857, when the water in the Hudson rose 19 feet above the normal and did great damage here. The flood attained a height of 14 feet 2 inches, which is 17 inches higher than was attained in the big freshet of 1893. It is estimated that over $500,000 damage has been caused, as all the merchants along lower Broadway in the wholesale district were caught unawares and their goods were damaged. In the lumber district in the north end wholesale piles were carried away, and a scene of devastation remains. All the traction lines in the city are tied up, as the power house is flooded.

Dress Slasher Deported.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15.—Max Krebs known as "Jack the Slasher," who has cut the dresses of many ladies in Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia and Washington and who was arrested in the latter city for cutting the garment of a lady was brought here yesterday and placed aboard the steamship Roland, which sailed for Bremen. Regarding the strange mania Krebs, who is at times quite sensible, says he cannot account for it, but that the moment he sees a well dressed woman he becomes imbued with a desire to cut her dress. He has been known to follow a woman several blocks, awaiting an opportunity to slash her garment with his sharp knife.

Carnegie Playing Golf.

FERNANDINA, Fla., Feb. 15.—Mr Andrew Carnegie, who is visiting his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lucie Carnegie, at Dungeness, on Cumberland island, spent the day up the island. He left the house shortly before noon in company with several friends. Late in the afternoon he telephoned Colonel Page, manager of the estate, from a lodge house several miles away. Mr. Carnegie was informed by Colonel Page that several newspaper men were desirous of having an explanation from him on the Frick suit, but his reply was, "Say to the correspondents that I am playing golf and that I broke my golf record yesterday."

Cheap Fare For Veterans.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—At a meeting here of the Central Passenger association it was decided to grant a cent a mile rate for the veterans and their friends who will attend the forthcoming encampment of the G. A. R. in this city.

HOW ARE YOUR KIDNEYS?

It wouldn't be a half bad idea to ask yourself this question every morning—how are your kidneys? If the sole of your shoe get thin and a hole appears, you straightway have a patch put on. But how about your kidneys? Do you ever wat them? They are the most important organs of the body, because the blood constantly is passing through them all day and all night. They are the filters of the system and remove poison from the blood If they are neglected the poison spreads, then comes Bright's Disease and perhaps death. Watch Nature's signs—backache, pain in the loins, scalding dark urine, headache and sleeplessness If you have any of these beware, your condition may be serious.

Don't experiment, but get the best remedy.

THE TREAT BILL.

Hearing Closed on the Bill to Tax Savings Bank Deposits.

ALBANY, Feb. 15.—Contrary to expectations, the hearing on the Treat bill to tax deposits of savings banks in excess of $1,000 before the taxation and retrenchment committee of the assembly yesterday was decidedly brief, only one person appearing in opposition to the measure. This was A. V. DeWitt of Albany, who stated to the committee that he was the agent of the New York State Savings Banks association, which body had delegated him to say to the committee that the association was opposed to the bill.

Edward Ryan, representing the Catholic Mutual Benefit association, of which he is secretary, asked that if the bill became a law benevolent associations be exempted from its provisions, as their reserve funds were placed in savings banks and would suffer heavily thereby.

His attention was called to the fact by Mr. Farrell, a member of the committee, that the bill read "individual depositors" and would not affect associations.

Peter D. Johnson of Albany, representing the Patrons of Industry of Albany, spoke in favor of the bill, which, he said, would benefit the poor depositors, who were by far in the majority in the savings banks.

The hearing was then declared closed, and the bill was taken up in executive session, but no action was taken.

An Early Adjournment.

ALBANY, Feb. 15.—As the result of a conference between Governor Roosevelt and B. B. Odell, chairman of the Republican state committee, it was announced unofficially last night about the hotel corridors that the final date for adjournment of the legislature had been fixed for March 23. It was said by legislators who are in close touch with the leaders that Mr. Odell had told the governor that the organization desired an early adjournment in view of the coming double campaign and that the party desired to go before the people in the state campaign on national issues only. Such important measures as the mortgage tax bill, the charter revision commission bill for New York city and the Lewis bill repealing the Horton law are to be sacrificed, and in addition to this no canal improvement bill will be introduced this session. In fact only local bills are to be considered.

The Health of Havana.

HAVANA, Feb. 15.—General Wood has appointed a board to decide under what method the municipal elections shall be held. Eight cases of yellow fever are now under treatment, which is unusual for this time of year. During the first few months of 1899 there were practically no cases reported. The weather has been exceptionally warm for the last seven or eight days, and the Cuban doctors attribute the existing cases chiefly to this fact. It is also pointed out that while American energy has already partially cleaned away the dirt accumulation of many years, the process of removal brought to activity germs that had long been quiescent. Havana is in a very healthful situation so far as climate is concerned. If this were not the case the death rate would be enormous, considering the way the people live, crowded in like animals and in the very midst of filth. There are hundreds of cesspools in which refuse is steadily accumulating, and although these are cleaned regularly there is a percolation into the subsoil.

Bryan In North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 15.—Colonel Bryan lectured at Chapel hall yesterday to the students of the State university. At the request of Colonel Bryan an admission fee of 25 cents was charged, with the object of raising $250 for the establishment of an annual prize to be given for the best essay on the "Science of Government." The Nebraskan spoke in Memorial hall, and there was a great crush for seats. Later in the afternoon the colonel spoke without charge from the balcony of a hotel, where he was heard by 2,000 people. "Pending Questions" was the subject of Colonel Bryan's lecture.

Island Revenue Collection.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Responding to a resolution of inquiry, the secretary of war has sent the senate copies of all proclamations and orders issued in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines in relation to the collection of revenue in those islands. The secretary says the system adopted for auditing accounts in all these islands is the same as that employed in the receipt and disbursement of the revenues of the United States. Reports are made at stated intervals to the war department. He says the portion of these insular revenues has been covered into the treasury of the United States.

No Display at Chickering Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—At the request of Mrs. Chickering, wife of the late Representative Chickering of New York there is to be no congressional funeral in connection with the interment of the deceased congressman, and the senators and representatives named as an escort have been notified that the congressional party will be abandoned. This is the only case in recent years in which the formalities of such a funeral have been dispensed with, and it is due to the views held by Mr. Chickering and his wife against the ceremonious character of such affairs.

Exports and Imports.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The monthly statement of the imports and exports of the United States issued by the bureau of statistics shows that during January, 1900, the figures were as follows: Merchandise, imports, $75,826,975, of which $32,946,280 was free of duty, the gain over January, 1899, was about $17,500,000; exports, $117,620,930, gain over January, 1899, about $2,000,000; gold imports, $1,988,272, decrease $4,000,000; exports, $5,691,290, increase $836,000; silver, imports, $2,130,335, decrease $1,000,000.

Southern Floods.

GRIFFIN, Ga., Feb. 15.—The heavy rains of the past few days seriously interrupted railway traffic, the first train over the Southern for two days reaching here last evening. Many bridges, dams and trestles have been carried away. The rainfall in one day in this county was 3.39 inches. All streams are out of their banks, but it is believed the highest point has been reached.

Clock Makers' Strike Settled.

WATERBURY, Conn., Feb. 15.—The strike at the factory of the Waterbury Clock company has been settled, and all the men returned to work this morning The strike was precipitated a week ago when 100 adjusters went out.

CLOSED IN A STORM.

Antitrust Conference Has a Lively Session.

SOME STRANGE DOCTRINES FAVORED

Free Homes For the People Instead of Private Ownership — Universities Receiving Funds From Trust Magnates Attacked.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Stormy scenes characterized the sessions of the national antitrust conference preceding the final adjournment last night. The climax came when Delegate Joseph Parker, a middle of the road Populist, surprised the conference with a resolution pledging the delegates to vote for no party that does not stand for government ownership and the principles of direct legislation. The Democratic leaders interpreted this as an attack on William J. Bryan and were on their feet in an instant to block the move. A score of delegates took the floor, and all tried to talk at the same time.

"You must not stifle free speech here," was shouted.

"Everybody must be heard," was the warning that came from a delegate in the gallery.

Chairman Monnett was in doubt as to what to do. Disorder reigned for ten minutes, and then Chairman Monnett used the gavel and temporarily adjourned the convention.

Another whirl of excitement took place after the reading of the report of the committee on resolutions when Delegate Quinn of Illinois offered an amendment to the declaration of principles calling for the repeal of all laws sustaining the right of citizens to private property with a view to giving every citizen a free home. A long wrangle ensued over the disposition of the amendment. Captain W. P. Black, Tom L. Johnson and others appealed to Quinn to withdraw the amendment, but he refused. After much discussion, during which Quinn was denounced as a disturber by delegates on the stage, Chairman Monnett put the motion to adopt the report. He was in doubt, and two ballots were taken.

Finally he declared the report of the committee adopted, and the ruling caused a thunder of disapproval. Delegate Quinn during the uproar appealed from the decision of the chair, and his motion was seconded. The vote was put, and Chairman Monnett was sustained by a large majority.

A strong attempt was made at the conference to offset the partisan effect of the resolutions adopted Tuesday denouncing the pending currency bill. Frank S. Monnett, permanent chairman of the conference, made a speech in which he declared that the movement for public ownership of public utilities was being carried on by the Republican party as well as by the Democratic party. "In the Republican northwest," said he, "65 per cent of the public utilities are owned by the public, whereas in many southern Democratic states less than 5 per cent are so owned.

"I would remind the convention that Ohio, which is the state of the president, is also the state of the author of the Sherman antitrust act. If we have Attorney General Griggs, we also had an Attorney General Olney."

The convention was enlivened also by an attack by Professor Bemis on "universities whose endowments come from trust magnates."

The professors in these institutions, said the ex-professor of political economy at Chicago university, do their best, but cannot overcome this handicap. As a remedy he advocated the establishment through the legislature of chairs in state universities devoted to the study of the trust question.

A number of set speeches were heard at the morning and afternoon sessions, and the night session, which wound up the three days' conference, heard as many of the remaining speeches that had been prepared as could be read in the time that was left.

Martinique Riots Augment.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, Feb. 15.—The situation grows worse rather than better in spite of the concessions by the employers. Work is stopped, and the strikers, urged on by the ringleaders, are becoming more menacing and exacting. M. Hayot, a prominent leader at Petit Bourg, with his family, has arrived here, abandoning his plantation and effects. There are upward of 2,000 rioters in the Petit Bourg district, and as there is a considerable supply of liquor accessible it is feared that the night will witness scenes of violence. The governor having declared himself unable to afford the desired protection, the commandant made an urgent appeal, and at 6 o'clock last evening the entire local brigade of gendarmerie was called into requisition.

The Buffalo Dock Strike.

BUFFALO, Feb. 15.—Notwithstanding the efforts to settle the differences between the Union Drydock company and their employees the strikers are still out. About 50 men were at work yesterday, about 300 being on strike. Superintendent Gaskin said that the increase demanded by the men was about 20 per cent. As things are at present, he continued, we cannot afford to pay this advance. We are now paying higher wages than are paid at any other port on the great lakes.

President's Reception.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—President and Mrs. McKinley gave the final card reception of the season at the White House last night, the guests of honor being the army, navy and marine corps. The attendance was very large and the reception the most brilliant of the season. The decorations were chiefly an unusually profuse display of the national colors, in the center, facing the blue parlor, where the president received his visitors, hung the flag of the admiral of the navy.

To Resume Naval Repairs.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The navy department is now in position to resume work upon the naval vessels at navy yards which was suspended by the exhaustion of the repair funds. The deficiency appropriation bill carries about $2,500,000 for this purpose, and orders have gone out to the yards to resume work. The order will result in the employment of many men.

Transvaal War Relief Fund.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The New York general committee of the Transvaal war relief fund has raised so far $12,900.52, which will be forwarded to London to be applied to the lord mayor's fund.

The High School Propcsition.

Because we criticised the precipitate action of the Common Council in approving of the request of the Board of Education for the right to issue bonds against the credit of the city to the amount of $100,000 in order that a new high school building may be established, it should not be taken for granted that we are opposed to the city securing better school facilities What seemed to deserve criticism was not the final action of the Council in aiding the plan which the Board of Education has recommended and now proposes to carry out, but the manner in which that decision of the Council was arrived at. As pointed out yesterday in this column, there was no the deliberate consideration of the proposition by the Council that a proper appreciation of the functions of the Councilmanic office in its attitude to the people should demand.

No matter how meritorious or imperative the Board of Education's proposition may be, it is a dangerous precedent to establish for the Common Council to provide for an improvement which the taxpayers are called upon to pay $100,000 for without even apprising them of the burden till it has been legalized.

No such proceeding has ever before been witnessed in the municipal history of Plainfield, and we hope that it will never be again.

Dismissing the Council's unusual action in relation to the matter, and looking at the proposition from the standpoint of whether it is a proper plan to pursue, it must be admitted from all the information at hand that there is serious need of enlarged quarters for the accommodation of the children who are entitled and who deserve the best school education that the city can give. It would be foolish to reason that anyone beside those directly concerned in the management and conduct of the schools are better able to tell what is required, and while there may be divergent views in this respect the opinions and suggestions of the Board of Education and the Superintendent of the public schools must be regarded with great weight. Superintendent Maxson has delved into the subject with great energy and thoroughness, and in the statement he has prepared, which is printed in another column of today's Press, he argues in favor of the proposed new high school building with convincing force.

Plainfield's public school system is a pride to the city, and has done a worthy share in attracting and keeping a class of residents that have tended to put the city in the forefront of it's class in the State. It will not do to allow the schools to stand still. The excellence of the system must be kept up by improvements that are demanded from time to time to accomplish that result.

Edward W. Bemis, of the Bureau of Economic Research, gives the New York Times an interesting account of a successful experiment in municipal ownership. The city of South Norwalk, Conn., is operating its own electric light plant, and the seventh year of the experiment speaks volumes in favor of public ownership. The city has sold, says Mr. Bemis, 111,925 electrical units, for commercial lighting, for $5,304 78, or for 4.7 cents per unit. As a sixteen-candle power incandescent light only uses a unit in twenty hours, this means a charge of less than a fourth of a cent of an hour, as compared with the common charge in private companies of two to four times that. Nevertheless, with these receipts and with $60 a year paid to the lighting fund by the city for each of the arc lights of a little over 1,400-candle power, burning 1,900 hours, the plant not only paid all operating expenses and interest of 4 per cent. on the cost of the plant, but had left, invested in cash and in the plant, 5 per cent. more.

The movement set on foot by the officials of the Central Railroad of New Jersey to secure a rule whereby the drawbridges over the Newark bay can be closed for two hours every morning and afternoon when the passenger traffic is the heaviest, forms a proposition that is so worthy that it seems odd that it has not been proposed before this. The idea commends itself to the thousands of commuters along the line of the road in most emphatic terms, and if consummated it will prove of great advantage many times in the course of a year. It is an unfair rule when a trainload of several people, either on the way to or from business, are held up for from five to fifteen minutes to allow a cumbersome old sailing or steam craft, with a cargo of brick or baled hay, to pass through the drawbridge at a snail's pace.

Senator Reed's bill to prevent the attaching of a co insurance clause to fire insurance policies has awakened the companies and disapproval of the proposed law is being voiced by them. Such legislation, it is claimed by the insurance men, will compel a readjustment of rates that will compel policy holders to bear a greater burden. It is argued by those who do not favor the proposed law that if the use of the co-insurance clause is prohibited, fire companies will be forced to increase their rates, as the present rates are based on the expectation that the clause will be continued in use. If rates are raised, contend insurance men, the increase will be a general one, compelling the 990 persons who don't have losses to pay more for their protection along with the one who does.

Assemblyman Abbett has introduced a series of bills in relation to punishment that should be meted out to murderers, the most important of which is the one providing that the electric chair be substituted for the scaffold in the execution of convicted and condemned murderers. The scaffold is a relic of the past, and a revolting one, too. If the law demands a life for a life, let the criminal's earthly existence be cut short by electricity, and the State delivered from the horrors of the operation roughly described in the judicial language addressed to the guilty individual as "hung by the neck till you are dead."

Congress proposes to appropriate nearly $24,000,000 to pay the salaries of the men in the employ of Uncle Sam for this year.

BADGER HAS RETURNED.

Joy Prevails in the Mills Family Since the Scotch Terrier Came Home.

Badger, like the Prodigal Son, has returned. Badger is an intelligent Scotch terrier, a pet in the family of E. W. Mills, of East Fifth street. Several days ago Badger became a truant from home and was absent for several days. In consequence there was sorrow in the Mills household. Miss Luella grew despondent over the absence of her pet, her sister, Miss Fanny, was almost beside herself with grief, while the head of the house and his good wife became absent-minded and refused to be comforted. But Badger knew a good thing when he saw it. While wandering about in the eastern portion of the city his dogship came across a copy of the Daily Press containing the ad. of his disappearance. Like all good dogs Badger came to a realization of his forlorn position and wisely decided to return home, which he did yesterday much to the joy of his mistress. While the Misses Mill did not literally kill the "fatted calf," they did give vent to their gratification in unspeakable terms by sundry hugs and expressions of endearment.

Last night Badger was given the best meal he has had in several days and from now on his every whim will be indulged. His movements when outside the family circle are now closely watched.

Alston Dennis was elected chief, Matthias Miller first assistant chief and Thomas O'Neil second assistant chief. At 4 o'clock Tuesday morning an electric light wire became crossed with one of the fire-alarm wires and the result was that the fire bell rang for fifteen minutes until Foreman Chamberlain, of the Hook and Ladder Company, could get to the fire house and shut off the current. Many of the firemen ran to the fire house thinking that a big fire was in progress, as the bell rang so long.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

The attraction at Music Hall tomorrow and Saturday night and Saturday matinee, will be "The Great Triple Alliance." The days when an exponent of magical mystery could go out with a few tables, and an assistant, one or two trunks of paraphernalia and a stock of old jokes as an accompaniment and secure crowded houses, have passed away with the death or retirement of these professors of the mystic art. A new treatment of necromancy has been devised and its application will be seen in the performance given here by "The Great Triple Alliance" composed of Servais LeRoi, Imro Fox and Frederick Powell, the three great exponents of diablerie and necromancy now before the public. Their performance could be strictly termed necromancy up to date. Messrs. LeRoy, Fox and Powell, in the performance which they have devised, have called into aid the best elements of the drama and spectacle, wonderful mechanical inventions, combined with magical surprises of diablerie thus bringing the mystic art upon a plane of the highest theatrical productions. In addition to the magic portion of the performance a number of high-class entertainers are carried by the company.

The New York Tribune said of Edward Harrigan, in his play of "Old Lavender," which will be presented at Music Hall next Tuesday night: "'Old Lavender' abounds in jolly music and quaint phrases; in the catching fun and the lively passages which have done so much for the success of Mr. Harrigan's local plays. It has pathos as well, and the picture which the author-actor gives us of the warm-hearted, whole-souled boon companion, brought by the wrong doings of others to the clutch of severest poverty and distress, touches the source of tears, though the cheery manner in which he bears misfortune and the grotesque way he has of putting his moralizing, go to the springs of laughter. No other man on the stage could play such a part as Edward Harrigan plays this, with a finish, a delicacy, a sympathy that are admirable."

Thousands of sufferers from chronic stomach and bowel troubles have testified that their recovery dates from the time they were induced to try Ripans Tabules through reading just such an advertisement as you are reading now. A case in point is that of a young lady of Hillsboro Bridge, N H. who writes as follows:

I am twenty-five years of age and was long troubled with faint and dizzy attacks. I doctored with different physicians, but they gave me no relief. Was just about ready to give up all hope when I saw Ripans Tabules advertised in a Boston paper. I purchased a box and before I had used them a week, I found great relief. I can freely recommend Ripans Tabules to all persons afflicted with my ailments and I shall never allow myself to be without the Tabules.

WANTED—A case of bad breath that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

CONFESSION OF A PALMIST.

An Amateur Tells What the Effect of Her Readings Is Upon Some People.

A young woman who worked her way into the hearts, but not the pocketbooks of a large circle of friends and chance acquaintances by her talent as a fortune teller was recently moved, at the witching hour of twilight and afternoon tea, to betray deep-buried confidences.

"Indeed," she said, "merely for the study of human nature, it pays to master the mysteries of the hand and to pose, either seriously or otherwise, as an oracle. My old nurse taught me the tea cup—that is, to read the grounds—and I picked up the 'cards' from a German governess I used to see. But palmistry is the most fun, because even the steadiest and most conventional people are believers in it. It is a science, though the gypsies, who were once its greatest exponents have brought it into disrepute. Ther are certain tricks of the trade which I allow myself, merely to relieve its monotony, for you know you get tired of the line of the heart, the line of luck, and so on, with variations.

"I can size up people immediately, and have positively developed the 'inner eye' that the eastern students talk about. It is merely concentration. For instance, there crowds up to me in a group of silly, chattering men and women a sad yet pensive person on the wrong side of 35. Her—for it is almost always a she—her 'aura' is plain enough, a sort of depressing gray. I refuse to tell her anything in public, but I win her lifelong devotion by a private reading of marvelous accuracy. It is pretty safe to tell people that they had chances to marry long ago and will have soon again. It does no harm and often great good, for a general 'fixing up' mentally and physically frequently results and brings the very thing I dared to prophesy.

"Then there is the ambitious young fellow, with clear eyes and tremulous smile, who walks off with the step of Julius Caesar when I tell him he will succeed. And the married belle of mature years, who is trying to 'bluff' her new friends with details of her past, the peaceful, dear old lady, whose face is as sweet and smooth as her rosy palm, the woman with a mission or a career, and the old fellow whose hand and features are a sure 'give away' of a checkered past. The middle aged man, who has lost both illusion and fortune, is the hardest subject to deal with, for he will watch me as I scan his lines to see if I am not a fraud. But once I win him he is my strongest adherent.

"Strangely enough, happily married couples are not angry when I foretell a second marriage to either man or woman, and widowers are generally provoked when I say that they will remarry. A widow, unless she is very old and 'cappy,' usually smiles mysteriously and blushes when I hint at another affinity. If I can once guess how many children an elderly lady has had she will vote me a witch. After all, quickness of intuition and tact are the essential talents of an amateur soothsayer, who asks no fee and pleasantly entertains both young and old."—N. Y. Herald.

FASHIONABLE GOWNS.

Originality of Effect the Most Desired Characteristic.

The aim of the most elegantly dressed women is not so much to follow the exact line of fashion as to adapt it to their own individuality and while retaining the general characteristics to devise unique details which shall make their apparel different from that of others. For example, one woman will have the decolletage of her evening gown outlined by a piping of scarlet velvet which contrasts dazzlingly with the skin. Another will cut the edge into fantastic forms which rest upon the shoulders in points or scallops with an odd effect. An unusual arrangement of flowers, a daring combination of colors—these are the resources for obtaining original results.

The costume illustrated is of moss green velvet. It has a plain skirt under a tunic, the tunic being ornamented with stitched bands of turquoise panne. The velvet bodice is fitted at the back and made rather full at the waist in front, the collar being continuous with the revers. The short, scalloped basque is of turquoise panne, as is the vest, which closes with gold buttons. The little plastron is of embroidered white satin, and the collar is of white satin with a gold clasp. The sleeves are of green velvet, with turquoise bands at the wrists, and the belt of green velvet with gold nail heads. The draped toque of green velvet is trimmed with coques and choux of turquoise panne. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE ART OF DRESS.

Why Frenchwomen Excel In That Particular.

Frenchwomen above all others understand the art of dressing, because they understand how to subordinate fashion to their own individuality. Paris is the fountain head of fashion, but those fashions which are universally copied are not the most elegant. The Parisienne, instead of following fashion, makes it, and for herself alone. She selects nothing simply because others wear it, but out of the multiplicity of styles offered by the modistes, the stage, the manufacturers, she chooses those items of form, color and decoration which best set off her own particular attraction. She is learned in her own charms, and whether the chief of them be fine eyes, hair, figure or complexion, she dresses up to it and displays it to the greatest advantage. It is in this nice instinct of selections that American and particularly English women are often lacking. They wear a color or a style because it is the prevailing mode, not because it becomes them—indeed it is sometimes most hopelessly unsuitable and conceals or detracts from the beauties they really possess.

The cut shows a costume of periwinkle blue peau de soie. The skirt is ornamented around the foot by applications of periwinkle blue velvet, embroidered with silver. The tunic, which is bordered by five bands of blue velvet, forms a deep point in front and passes upward to disappear under the box plait, which occupies the middle of the back. The bodice has a yoke and guimpe of guipure over white satin, the edges of the bodice being trimmed with three bands of blue velvet and two rows of silver buttons in front. The top and wrists of the sleeves are similarly trimmed. The collar is of white satin; the belt of blue velvet.

BICYCLES and MOTORS

BIG BICYCLE STABLE.

Located Under the Roof of a Shed in the North Court of the National Treasury Building.

One of the greatest bicycle stables in the country is located inside of the walls of the treasury department in Washington. It is under the roof of a large shed built in the north court of the treasury building and has a floor area of about 10,000 square feet.

In ordering the construction of the shed the only purpose the secretary of the treasury had was to provide added protection for the extensive vaults under the court where a hundred million dollars or more silver coin and bullion is stored. Moisture was finding its way into these vaults, and pending authorization by congress for the reconcreting of the vast subterranean area a wooden roof over the space was decided upon, says the New York Telegraph.

To the captain of the watch occurred the happy thought that if the roof were raised a few feet higher than the architect's plan contemplated the hundreds of bicycles which then incumbered and blockaded the corridors might be conveniently and safely stored there. He suggested the change and it was made.

Now the 1,900 employes of the department, or such of them as may be addicted to the bicycle habit, have stalls for their wheels, each being assigned to a special number. Nearly 500 wheels are stabled there from nine to three every day. The sight is one worth seeing and is one of the curiosities of Washington about which few outside of the department have ever heard.

PUMP IN CYCLE HEAD.

An Invention Which Certainly Is Unique, Even Though It May Not Prove to Be a Success.

The hollow tubular frames of bicycles have attracted the attention of the army of inventors, and it has been proposed at different times to use them for the storage of oil for lighting purposes, for benzine for power purposes, and for sundry other similar services. Now, Sir Herbert H. Pattee, of Philadelphia, patents the idea of constructing a pump in the front head for use in inflating the tires.

This hollow stem is finished on the inside to adapt it for use as the pump barrel. Means are provided at its lower end for connecting it with the valves on the tires, a flexible detachable tube being suitable for this purpose. The handle bars carry the air pump piston, and when they are elevated and depressed, after loosening the nut that usually locks them fast to the steering head, they serve the purpose of the usual pump handle. It is evident that such an arrangement is practically as convenient and effective as a foot pump, yet it does not encumber the machine in any way. A flexible rubber tube could, of course, be run through the rear forks for convenient inflation of the rear tire.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Temperance in Wheeling.

It is probable that if cycling were practiced with the same degree of moderation as walking, and in a correct, upright position, it would be no more hurtful, even to the victims of heart trouble. Four miles, say at the rate of five miles an hour, could be done by a delicate person with less fatigue than one mile could be covered afoot, and the superior exhilaration of the wheel would tone up the system better. Wheeling is pleasure; walking is drudgery—that is the difference. Walking is harmless, but footracing would not answer at all for an invalid. The same distinction may be made between slow pedaling and scorching. It is the abuse, and not the use, of the bicycle that produces injury.—Golden Days.

The First French Automobile.

Automobiles are not as novel as is commonly supposed. The first automobile successfull constructed was the work of Cugnot, in France, in 1769. And this vehicle, completed more than a century and a quarter ago, comprised every essential of the most perfect automobile of to-day. It was in reality a steam carriage, but as the mechanical appliances within the reach of the inventor were far inferior to his idea it was rudimentary and defective. Nevertheless it ran, and ran so well that it broke down the inclosure of the ground on which it was tried. As M. Cugnot's invention was not followed up automobiles were not seen again in France until 1885.

Latest Telephone Receiver.

A new combination of the receiver and transmitter of a telephone is arranged in the following manner: The transmitter is set in a small box, while the receiver is fixed to the inside of the door, or lid, of the box, so that when the door is open the receiver is placed in a position without being touched by the hand, and conversation can be carried on.

FAMOUS OLD COACH.

History in Its Broken-Down and Wrecked Box and Wheels.

First Vehicle That Gave to Early Black Hills Mining Camps Regular Communication with Eastern Civilization.

At the side of one of the main thoroughfares of the present Deadwood, S. D., there stands an old, broken-down, worn-out stage coach which has a history of histories. It is loved by many an old-timer in the Black Hills, because it was the first messenger between the western line of civilization and their newly-acquired home among the rugged mountains. It was some time after the first man entered the hills before a regular stage coach was put on between any of the cities along the border of civilization and the Black Hills mining camps.

During the year of 1876, two years after the arrival of the Russell expedition at Custer, the organization of the Cheyenne and Black Hills stage line was effected and the first stage coach was sent out from Cheyenne for Custer. The Indians were unusually troublesome at that time and the proprietors of the stage company were fearful lest their venture might come to a disastrous end because of the ravages of the redskins.

One day in the summer of 1876 this first stage coach was started out from Cheyenne with a load of passengers and baggage, and with the famous driver, "California Charlie," and four strong horses. A constant lookout was kept for Indians throughout the journey, but there was no incident worthy of mention on the long trip and the coach reached Custer City in safety. The miners of that camp went wild over the event and the old town turned out that night for a genuine celebration.

The following day "California Charlie," who had kept a level head during the festivities of the night previous, made preparations for a return trip to Cheyenne. There were enough would-be passengers to fill the coach several times and lots were drawn, there being 12 lucky numbers. About nine o'clock on a July day, "California Charlie" cracked his whip over the heads of his leaders and the start was made across the wilderness which lay between Custer and Cheyenne.

OLD DEADWOOD COACH.
(First Vehicle Running Between the Black Hills and Civilization.)

Everything went well until the stage coach reached an old creek bed a few miles out of Custer. Here, without a moment's warning, a band of Indians in war paint sprang from ambush and commenced pouring in a heavy fire upon the coach and passengers. "California Charlie" plied his whip and there was a run of a few miles, with the Indians in hot pursuit. The driver suddenly dropped over in his seat and fell into the boot of the coach dead, a bullet having gone through his head. The horses came to a standstill and stood waiting for a word from the driver.

The Indians came up behind the coach on a mad run and in a moment the coach was surrounded. The 12 passengers were numb with fright. Some sat like blocks of stone. Others, with more grit, attempted to shoot out of the coach windows at the dodging Indians. It seemed to be the delight of the redskins to tease their prisoners. They would ride up near the coach and fire directly at the passengers, care being taken seemingly that the bullets penetrate a coat sleeve, hat or seat cushion.

Finally two of the Indians dismounted from their ponies, and, going up to the horses on the coach, cut them loose and with a wild yell drove the frightened teams, with harness on, away. That was the last seen of the Indians or the horses.

The passengers walked 12 miles back to Custer. A posse pursued the Indians, but their start had been too good. Next day the coach was brought back to Custer for a fresh start for Cheyenne, the trip being accomplished without any trouble.

The same coach made frequent trips to Custer during the summer of 1876, and on September 25 of the same year the first run was made into Deadwood. The distance from Deadwood to Cheyenne was about 300 miles, through an intensely hostile country. As soon as the stage route was thoroughly established traffic became heavy. For a number of years, up to 1881, all of the bullion from the Homestake company's mine was shipped out under heavy guard by this stage route. It was a perilous trip to make with the gold bricks, and nervy men went with the driver as guards.

The coming of the railroads to the Black Hills marked the decline of the stage coach and the different lines were soon devoid of traffic.

DOGS AS PEACEMAKERS.

They Maintain Order and Enforce Harmony Among a Lot of Quarrelsome Roosters.

Peacemaker Brothers are two beautiful harlequin dogs that belong to a man named Rickett, a resident of Deal street, in Frankford. Mr. Rickett is a chicken fancier and Peacemaker Brothers guard his fowls as collies guard sheep.

Sheep, though, are amiable. They never fight, and the collie has an easy task with them. But chickens are quarrelsome, particularly the male birds, and in a fight they will quite eat each other up if no one is around to interfere. Peacemaker Brothers have been trained by Mr. Rickett to do the interfering.

All day long they loiter with the chickens, in the meadows of Frankford, and no sooner do two cocks begin an engagement than one of them comes cantering up, pushes in between the warriors and stands there, gazing dreamily far away, until in disgust the cocks go, one to the north, the other to the south.

Frequently the wily birds will stroll a great way off and then come together again by a wide, roundabout circuit, hoping thus to escape the eyes of Peacemaker Brothers. One dog or the other is sure to see them, though, and fights to a finish are unknown among the Ricketts chickens. Their owner taught them this trick.—N. Y. Journal.

GOOSE SHOWS SENSE.

An Authenticated Anecdote Which Indicates That Animals Possess Reasoning Power.

A writer in Our Animal Friends relates several anecdotes that show the intelligence of animals and birds. The following are among them:

At Ardglass, County Down, Ireland, is a large tract of turf coming to the edge of the rocks overhanging the sea, where cattle and geese feed; at a barn on this tract there was a low inclosure, with a door fastening by a hook and staple to the side post; when the hook was out of the staple the door fell open by its own weight.

One day I saw a goose with a large troop of goslings coming off the turf to this door, which was secured by the hook in the staple. The goose waited for a minute or two, as if for the door to be opened, and then turned round as if to go away, but what she did was to make a rush at the door, and, making a dart with her beak at the point of the hook, nearly threw it out of the staple. She repeated this maneuver and succeeded at the third attempt, the door fell open and the goose led her troop in with an air of triumph.

How had the goose learned that the force of the rush was needful to give the hook a sufficient toss?

A number of pigeons were feeding on a few oats that had been accidentally let fall while fixing the nosebag on a horse standing at bait. Having finished all the grain at hand, a large pigeon rose, and, flapping its wings furiously, flew directly at the horse's eyes, causing the animal to toss his head and in doing so of course to shake out more oats.

I saw this repeated several times; in fact, whenever the supply on hand had been exhausted.

Had to Replace the Hat.

The German emperor likes to study the character of his group of small sons, and to that end has given them a room next to the one he uses for business purposes. A certain great scientific man, having an interview with the emperor, left his hat in the adjoining hall. There the little brothers discovered it, and the crown prince, explaining to the younger ones that papa "sometimes sat on his opera hat and it came all right again," proceeded to give a practical illustration of this statement. The emperor's door suddenly opened, and "papa" and the professor appeared. Then there was an inquisition on the hat, and the crown prince went off to buy the professor a new one out of his meager pocket money.

A BOY'S PHEASANTRY.

How a Bright Chicago Youngster Makes Considerable Money in Quite a Novel Way.

Wallace Evans, a slender, 13-year-old lad in knickerbockers, owns the largest pheasantry in the west, selling 800 eggs in a season and hatching nearly as many birds.

Such an enterprise, conducted by a boy is generally a makeshift, but the Evans pheasantry is perfect in construction, having about 175x200 feet under wire, with the latest improved hatcher and houses. It is divided into a network of special yards, every gate closing and locking automatically, so there is no danger of the birds escaping.

The flock of gold pheasants is a gorgeous sight with their brilliant yellow heads, capes of orange and blue, lined with vivid green, scarlet bodies, burnished wings and long graceful tails, dotted with black. They are a fad among the fanciers, and their price is increasing, as they now bring $30 a pair.

The beautifully plumaged hen lays 30 eggs in a season, which are worth ten dollars a dozen. He has a large number of English pheasants, furnishing a fine contrast to the golden beauties. They lay from 50 to 75 eggs, which are readily sold for five dollars a setting.

His covey of quails would make a hunter's heart leap, as they fly to cover with a whirr of wings and warning cries. The old birds were imported from Tennessee, where thousands of the luckless birds follow a trail of grain leading into a wire-enclosed corral and are then shipped to breeders.

In the center of each yard is a neatly stacked pile of brush and straw which affords a native retreat for all the birds. The English pheasants are very hardy, and frolic in the snow and ice like children, but the golden hover in their houses in bitter cold weather.

Wallace also raises canaries on a large scale, and his aviary is an ideal place, for the songsters never dream they are imprisoned. Their breeding cage is a building 15x20 feet, filled up with branches and boughs, where they build their nests like wild birds and their play cage is 20x30 feet. A red squirrel with a splendid brush is their sole companion.

Then there are fancy chickens. Golden Polish, with dazzling feathers that look as if they had been dipped in gorgeous dyes, and black Polish white-crested fowls, whose snowy bonnets are like nodding chrysanthemums. Fear is unknown in the pheasantry, even the timid quail comes at his whistle. He will have a large exhibit at the fourth annual show of the Chicago poultry and pet stock exhibition in January, and expects to add to his fine collection of first prize ribbons.

Taken as a whole, the pheasantry reflects unbounded credit on its boyish proprietor, who, in addition to having the sole care of it, is finishing the eighth grade course in the Oak Park school.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Both Were After Berries.

An Oregon woman was picking blackberries when she encountered a black bear on the same mission. The bear seemed to think the woman was an intruder on his premises, and the first thing she knew he gave her a cuff that knocked her down. Fortunately she had with her a shepherd dog, which created a diversion in her favor by nipping the bear's leg. This gave her a chance to rise and hunt up a club, with which she whacked the bear on the nose. Upon recovering from his amazement the bear knocked her down again, and again she arose and hit him. The dog also fastened on in a fresh spot, and the bear intimated that he had enough by retreating with the dog still hanging on. Presently the dog returned, and then the woman concluded to postpone the berrying until a more favorable occasion. When she went out next day she carried the pail slung on a gun.

SPORTING.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Daily Press Bowling League.

	Games Won.	Games Lost.	High Score.
Roselle Casino.....	7	2	911
Westfield Club.....	6	4	866
Park Club.....	5	7	864
Cranford Casino....	4	11	863

The last of the regularly scheduled games in the Daily Press Bowling League will be rolled at the Roselle Casino alleys this evening when the team from the Cranford Casino rolls three games against the home team. There are still two series of three games each that have been postponed from their regular dates. There is little doubt as to the result of the games this evening. Roselle is particularly strong on its own alleys and is likely to take all three games. When the Roselle team rolled in Cranford they succeeded in defeating the home team two out of three. So three straight from Roselle is generally anticipated.

BROKE HIS KNEE-CAP.

Serious Injury That Befell a Roselle Man on His Way to Republican Smoker.

Charles O'Dell, of Roselle, broke his knee cap last evening by a fall down the steps at the North Avenue station. He arrived with a crowd of politicians on the 8:08 train who were bound for the Republican smoker at the Casino. As he started to descend the flight of stone steps at the western end of the station, he stumbled and fell against the mail cart that stood at the bottom. His knee-cap was broken.

Several physicians were summoned. Temporary splints were placed on the injured leg and he was taken home on a train.

BOTH ACQUITTED.

Angelo Maloni Failed in His Charges Against Alleged Assailants.

John Kelly and Charles Edwards, of Westfield, recently indicted for an alleged assault and batterty on Angelo Maloni, who were tried in the Circuit Court Tuesday, were both acquitted.

The assault for which they were tried was alleged to have taken place at Westfield on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 5, and resulted in Maloni receiving a scalp wound on the back of his head and a severe gash across the forehead, necessitating the attention of Dr. Frederick A. Kluch.

The assault was said to have occurred in front of a saloon door.

The plaintiff swore that Edwards struck him with a brick, knocking him down, but was not positive as to Kelly having attacked him, whereupon the case against Kelly was nolle prossed. The jury was out but a few minutes when it returned a verdict acquitting Edwards.

New Brunswick, February 15.—President Austin Scott, of Rutgers College, yesterday afternoon received from J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, an offer to present to the college a bronze copy of the bust of Homer. SENT TO REFORM SCHOOL.

Stanley Childs Before Judge Vail Yesterday—Niblo Palmer Has Disappeared.

At the court of special sessions yesterday Judge B. A. Vail directed that Stanley Childs, the 14 year-old incorrigible, committed to jail from this city Monday, be sent to the Reform School. This was done partly at the request of the boy's mother.

He would have gone to the Reform School long ago, it is said, if it had not been for his mother, he being the only child.

Niblo Palmer, an Italian who was some time ago arrested at Roselle for an atrocious assault on a fellow countryman, and afterward released on bail in the sum of $500, failed to put in his appearance, whereupon the bonds which had been furnished were declared forfeited.

Niblo Palmer is the same Italian who about a year ago was convicted of assaulting James W. Hope, of Roselle.

That Palmer has fled the State there appears to be no doubt, but as to where he is no one knows.

Michael on Hand Again.

Regarding the application of Michael Watson for a liquor license, it cannot be said that it is strictly a new application. Last year this place was licensed to Michael Welsh, although it is said that Mr. Watson conducted it. This year the latter applies for a license, as he has done time and again. He never succeeded in getting a license, but it has been hinted that this year he will be successful.

The Assessment Reduced.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Feb 15—The case on appeal of Brokaw Bros., before the State Board of Taxation, was considered by the Board Tuesday and the original assessment on 200 acres of land in North Plainfield township amounting to $6,200 was reduced to $1,000. The details of this case were published last week. Senator Reed represented Brokaw Bros., the clothiers, of New York, and succeeded in securing a satisfactory settlement of the case before the State Board.

Members of the Board of Trade and Advancement Association Meet First Vice-President Warren, Who Assured Them That a Handsome Passenger Depot Would be Constructed This Spring.

Plainfield is to have another passenger station, and it is to be built this spring. This has been decided by the board of directors of the Central Railroad. The fact was made public by Charles H. Warren, first vice-president of the road and chairman of the board of directors. The information was conveyed to some of the citizens of the city at a joint conference of a committee from the Board of Trade and the Plainfield Advancement Association and the officials of the Central Railroad held at the company's offices in New York yesterday afternoon.

The committees consisted of Mayor Rockfellow, of Plainfield; Mayor Smalley, of North Plainfield, and president of the Advancement Association; L. B. Woolston, president of the Board of Trade; Assessor Chas. H. Hand; Frank H. Smith, president of the Common Council, and James Buckle, chairman of the police committee of the Common Council. There was also present George J. Tobin, Albert I. Smalley and a Daily Press reporter. It was expected that Former Mayor Fisk would accompany the committee, but illness in his family prevented.

The conference was held at 3 o'clock in the directors' room in the Central building at Liberty and West streets. The Plainfield contingent went to New York on the 2:12 train. They were taken by H. W. Doughty, who has charge of the Central's real estate, at once to Vice-President Warren who received them courteously. After being presented to that official the committee was ushered into the directors' room, where Mr. Warren asked them their pleasure.

Mr. Woolston broke the ice by stating that the citizens had been given to understand that the Central Railroad Company had for sometime contemplated making important improvements at Plainfield, notably the construction of another passenger station at the south side of the tracks and opposite the present one at North avenue. If so, the committee had some suggestions to offer in regard to the same.

At this point Mr. Warren pointed to the rough draft of a map in front of him and interrupted Mr. Woolston to state that the officials of the Central were already making arrangements to construct another depot at North avenue and had the matter under advisement with a view of building the new station this spring. Mr. Woolston said the committee was pleased to learn of the good intentions of the company regarding the new station. In this connection he wished to ask if the company had considered the purchase of the Rushmore property and converting the property to the south of their tracks into a park and otherwise beautifying that portion of the city. Mr. Woolston said that he had understood that the company had made Dr. Rushmore an offer for the property.

Mr. Warren laughed at this statement and said there was nothing whatever in such a rumor and he did not know where it orginated—certainly not from any official of the Central company. He said that Dr. Rushmore had been to see the company about the sale of the property, but that he had not been given any incouragement. Mr. Warren said that the Central people did not wish to acquire any more land in front of the North Avenue station.

The company had decided to build another passenger station this spring, and had notified Rushmore & Co., to take up the spur track now being used by them, and to vacate the property now leased for the switch.

At this point in the conference Mr Woolston unfolded a map and also the committee's pet project—the building of a new street from Sycamore street through to Front street. Briefly the Central officials were enlightened on the subject. When Mr. Warren comprehended what was contemplated he shook his head vigorously and said:

"What, you purpose making a street under our tracks! No, no, gentlemen, that will never do. I can say to you in all candor that we cannot think of such a thing as building a 30-foot tunnel for vehicles beneath our tracks. The cost would be too great to contemplate, and I cannot see the benefits that would result from such an undertaking. The proposition cannot be entertained for one moment."

Mayor Smalley then explained in detail how an effort was being made to improve the city by constructing the proposed extension to Sycamore street. But all explanations did not serve to enlist Mr. Warren's interest in the project. He gave the committee to understand very plainly that the Central Railroad Company was not in favor of the enterprise.

Continuing, Mr. Warren said in relation to the new passenger station that it was the idea of the company to have a single tunnel constructed beneath the tracks that could be entered from either station. As to buying additional land to beautify the railroad property and make a park he did not think it would be done, at least not at present. He said he considered the Rushmore property altogether too valuable for the railroad company to acquire simply for the purpose of making a handsome park.

The question of closing Church street at the railroad crossing came up for discussion. Mr. Warren said the company was anxious to have it done, and he expressed the wish that the Common Council would eventually give them the relief desired, as now it was dangerous and a menace to the public safety. The committee, however, opposed this, both Mayor Rockfellow and Mr. Hand stating that they considered the keeping open of this street a public necessity from the fact that many teamsters were compelled to use Church street owing to the railroad bridge at Washington street being too low.

Much discussion followed with reference to Church street and the Rushmore property. Regarding the latter Mr. Hand told Mr. Warren that he thought it was for the interest of the railroad company to purchase the property and beautify the surroundings. Mr. Warren said that the Central Company did not feel that it was incumbent upon them to do more for the public than was consistent with good service to the patrons of the road and he considered that the citizens of Plainfield were now getting first class service.

Regarding the proposed new passenger station, Mr. Warren said that no definite plans had yet been made, but he gave the committee to understand that the company was about to let the contract and that work upon the structure would be begun early in the spring—possibly by the first of April.

As to what style of station was to be built, Mr. Warren said that that had not been decided upon. Some of the officials of the road had suggested a building of unique design with an exterior of large sized pebble stones. Whatever style was adopted he assured the committee of a handsome structure with all modern conveniences and one with which the citizens will be satisfied. The tunnel connecting the two stations will be heated and lighted.

Before the conference was brought to a close Mr. Warren said he wished to impress upon the committee the importance of letting the Central officials know whether the city of Plainfield intended to push by way of condemnation proceedings the matter of the vehicle tunnel beneath the company's tracks. If so, it would make considerable difference with their plans for the proposed new station. Mr. Warren intimated that the idea of building the new depot would probably be abandoned, for this year at least, if such was the case. He said a tunnel for vehicles would entail an additional cost upon the company that it could not afford.

The conference was a pleasant one, and the committee left satisfied that Mr. Warren was acting in good faith, and that the citizens of Plainfield will see a new passenger station erected this spring and ready for occupancy not later than August.

To Arrange to Receive a Minister.

A special meeting of the Presbytery of Elizabeth has been called for Saturday afternoon, March 3d, at 3:15 o'clock, to be held in the lecture room of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, to make arrangements for receiving Rev. Henry Elliott Mott, from the Presbytery of Buffalo, and to arrange for installing him as pastor of the Westminster church.

Affected With Nervous Prostration.

Mrs. William A. Woodruff, of East Second street, is detained at her home with nervous prostration, which is a reaction of too close application to her work when in charge of the Charity Organized Association work, which she was compelled to give up a short time ago.

EXTENSION OF RAILROAD

NEW ORANGE LINE TO BE CONTINUED THROUGH TO MILLBURN.

It Will Furnish Passenger Facilities for a New Territory, and Run Close to the Baltusrol Golf Club Grounds.

The branch of the Jersey Central Railroad, known has the New York and New Orange Railroad, that now extends to New Orange, in Union county, connecting with the main line at Aldene, is to be extended, it is said, about six miles, running through a portion of Westfield and touching both the north and west ends of Springfield township. To reach the latter point, it will pass through a vast amount of new undeveloped territory, and will touch within a few hundred yards of the Baltusrol Golf Club grounds. One of the chief disadvantages from which the golf club has suffered has been its inaccessible location, several miles from any railroad facilities.

The branch will furnish passenger facilities for all of this territory, and residents of the various locations, particularly Springfield and Millburn, expect that the competition thus resulting with the Morris and Essex will lead to a reduction in freight rates. The plans for the extension now provide for a single-track road, and the route has been outlined and plans prepared by the company's engineers.

PRIZE FOR PATRIOTIC ESSAY.

Miss Mary Locke's "Battle of Princeton" Awarded the Honor in the High School.

The birthdays of Lincoln and Washington were jointly observed this morning at the Plainfield High School with special exercises. The most important event of the exercises was the the announcement and award of the prize of $5 in gold by the Plainfield Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution for the best essay on the "Battle of Princeton." The competition was open only to students in the High School.

Mrs. Wilson W. Smith, regent of Plainfield Chapter, made the presentation speech and the prize was awarded to Miss Mary Locke, honorable mention being given to Miss Ruth P. Maxson and Miss Iola Moore. The judges in the contest were Mrs. Bowland Cox, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. J. K. Myers, and Mrs. Wilson W. Smith. They had great difficulty in deciding as the three best essays were of almost equal merit.

The exercises also included declamations by Walter Squires and E. A. Janes, a recitation by Miss Madeline Evans and singing by the school. An address was made by Rev. A. C. Nickson, who spoke on the lessons to be learned from the lives of America's two great national heroes and presidents.

Most of the members of the Plainfield Chapter, D. of A. R., were present at the exercises besides a number of other visitors.

TO ERECT ONE STORY BUILDING

But if New Street is Opened a $40,000 Block Will Go Up.

Smalley Bros., who recently purchased the property on North avenue, formerly owned by A. D. Thompson, have decided to erect a one story building on the property temporarily. Mayor Smalley, one of the owners, said this morning that if the city would open a street from North avenue to Front street he and his brothers would at once commence the erection of a $40,000 building on their newly-acquired property.

A Site for New High School.

Now that it seems probable that Plainfield is to have a new High School building, the question of where it will be located is one that is coming into prominence. Numerous sites will be proposed, but one that has already appeared in that connection is the Embury property at the corner of East Front and Church streets, opposite the First Presbyterian church.

Entertained by Miss Lucky.

The members of the Thursday Night Euchre Club were entertained last night at the home of Miss Mary A. Luckey, of Lafayette place. As usual, euchre occupied most of the time. Miss Grace Teller and Brereton Platt won the first prizes. Music and refreshments followed. The club will next be entertained by Miss Lillian A. Force, of Duer street.

To Go to California for Her Health.

Mrs. William H. McGee, of Westervelt avenue, who has been very ill for a long time, will start next Wednesday for California, where she will remain until next summer. She will be accompanied by Miss Karner, a trained nurse. Mrs. McGee is now convalescing and the change it is believed will be greatly beneficial.

—The regular meeting of the Board of Trade will be held Monday evening in the Board rooms.

NEWARK CONFERENCE.

METHODISTS WILL GATHER IN PATERSON IN APRIL.

Bishop Vincent Will Preside and Important Work Will Be Done—Delegates Will be Chosen to General Conference.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Paterson, Feb. 16—The forty-third annual session of the Newark conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will convene at the Market Street church in this city Wednesday, April 4th. The proceedings of this body generally last about one week.

This will be the fourth time the conference has met in Paterson in forty-three years. Its first meeting here was in 1864 at the seventh session; then again in 1874, ten years later; then it came once more, in 1890, six years later, and now after a period of twenty years it again meets here. All the former sessions were held at Market Street church. The bishops who have presided here were Simpson, Haven and Wiley, all since deceased. This will be Bishop Vincent's first administration over the affairs of the Newark conference, though he lived within its bounds, at Plainfield, when elevated to the Episcopal office.

This will be a very important session of the conference, for there will be elected this spring the delegates to the general conference, which will meet in Chicago in May. These include laymen as well as clergymen, and the lay electoral conference will convene Friday of that week to choose their delegates. There are five clergymen and two laymen to be elected, and there is considerable agitation going on among the ministers these days as to who will be chosen to represent them.

The layman will also elect three more provisional delegates so that if equal representation is granted to the lay element at this meeting of the general conference then three others can be telegraphed for and take their seats beside their brethren. It is a question whether equal representation will be had at the coming session or not until 1904. It is more than probable that Rev. Dr. Buttz, president of Drew Seminary, and Rev. Dr. Spellmeyer, pastor of Roseville church, Newark, will be chosen, and it is also likely that two presiding elders will go.

There are but two ministers in the Paterson district that will have to move because of the time limit. They are William Stout, at Hibernia, and C. X. Hutchinson, at Newton, both having served their respective charges five years. In the other districts those who will have completed five year terms are: F. S. Simmons, at Park church, Elizabeth; J. H. Timbrell, at Raritan; W. R. Neff, at Milford, Pa.; J. S. Gilbert, at Spring Valley, N. Y.; W. C. Kinsey, at Dashiell Memorial, Newark, and J. W. Ryder, at Union street, Newark.

The committee of local pastors, headed by Presiding Elder Krantz and Rev. Dr. Meeker, is hard at work making arrangements for the meeting, and Rev. Charles Waldron will prepare the conference directory.

Delightful Euchre Party.

Last Wednesday afternoon a progressive euchre party was given by Mrs. F. O. Herring, of Park avenue, in honor of Valentine's Day, and in every particular it was a great success. The decorations were elaborate, consisting of a collection of the prettiest valentines to be found. There was a large assemblage of Plainfield society folks and nineteen tables were used for the game. Miss Mellick won the first prize for the women, and Mrs. Howard Fleming the second. Other prizes were awarded to the following: Mrs. W. L. Saunders, Mrs. Frederick H. Andrews, Mrs. William T. Kaufman, Miss Conklin, Miss Fanny Cox, Mrs. Alex. Gilbert, Mrs. Ames and Mrs. John Gray Foster.

Moving to a Water Front.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 16.—There is considerable disappointment in Elizabethport over the announcement that the Babcock & Wilcox Co. is to remove to Bergen Point, because it is unable to secure the necessary water front here. The Riparian Commissioners have awarded the company 635 feet on the shore line between Hobart and Ingram avenues, Bergen Point, for $17,000. The only condition is that the company build a plant covering 150,000 square feet within a year.

Mr. Andrews' Successor at Hope Chapel.

A change has been made in the officers of the Sunday school at Hope chapel. Fred H. Andrews resigned as assistant superintendent of that Sunday school to be made superintendent of the Sunday-school of Warren chapel. Ira Winthrop Travell has since been elected assistant superintendent of Hope chapel. Henry C. Squires is superintendent at the latter.

DRAMA DEAR TO ACTORS.

COLORED PEOPLE PRESENTED UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

Given in a Clever and Realistic Manner in Bethel Chapel, Which Was Crowded to its Utmost—Those Who Took Part.

The most successful entertainment ever given at Bethel chapel was that of last evening when scenes from Mrs. Stowe's celebrated "Uncle Tom's Cabin" were presented under the auspices of women from the Crescent Avenue church and Bethel chapel. Every part of the entertainment was well given, and the attendance was the largest in the history of the chapel. The capacity of the church was taxed at 8:15 o'clock and the doors were then locked and no one else was allowed to enter. It was a quarter of an hour later when the entertainment commenced and from that time until after 10 o'clock the audience was entertained by the various scenes presented in this historical production. All of the principal scenes from the play were given in a realistic manner in-so-far as the small platform would permit.

To those who took too much praise cannot be given as each character was finely portrayed. The characters and those who essayed them from Bethel chapel were as follows:

Uncle Tom	Thornton Langford
Aunt Chloe	Hulda Jones
Dinah	Hester Barrett
Mose	Willis Cox
Pete	Harry Gordon
Polly	Ellen Elliott's baby
Mandy	Carrie Somerset

"MIXED DOUBLES."

Ladies and Gentlemen Participated in Bowling Match at Park Club.

Something new in the line of bowling was held on the Park Club alleys last evening. A "mixed doubles" bowling match was held and a number of members took part. As is suggested by the name, the ladies and gentlemen were paired off together and rolled against each other, the aggregate score of each pair being counted.

This novel form of entertainment was decidedly popular and ten teams contested. The honors of the evening went to Miss Adelaide G. Ball and H. D. Hibbard. The sum of their scores amounted to 299. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ball were second being 22 pins behind.

The scores were as follows:

Miss Adelaide C. Ball. H. D. Hibbard	299
Mrs. F. H. Ball. F. H. Ball	277
Miss Lida vanHerwerden. C. L. Nichols	243

AMONG THE NABOBS.

Mayor Smalley to Become a Resident of Washington Park.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley has decided that in the future he will hold no malice against the residents of Washington Park, for he is at an early date to become one himself. Yesterday he purchased the Bunting property at 94 Mercer avenue, and he expects to move there with his family about March 1st. He will erect a barn on the property for his trotters. This is a valuable piece of property.

Entertained Lodge Members.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sheppard, of West Fifth street, entertained Friendship Degree Lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, at their home on Wednesday evening, when a social time was enjoyed by all. Many pleasant features added to the enjoyment of all, and before the members left for their homes a bountiful collation was served.

Councilman Mellick's Purchase.

Wm. B. Fiske has sold his residence, 218 LaGrande avenue, to Councilman George P. Mellick, of that street, and is moving out today. He will take up his home in Brooklyn.

ALL FAVOR MOLINEUX

ELDER BROTHER OF ROLAND MOLINEUX IS AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Is Superintendent of the Lehigh Valley's Coal Storage Plant—A General Favorite With His Employers—Lives in Metuchen.

South Plainfield has taken a decided interest in the Molineux trial and has felt much sympathy for the young man, Rowland Molineux, who stands convicted of murder in the first degree. The particular cause for this interest is the fact that Leslie Molineux, elder brother of the convicted murderer, is superintendent of the coal storage plant of the Lehigh Valley Railroad located at that place.

The coal storage plant is a large one and a large force of men is employed to operate it. The superintendent, Mr. Molineux, lives in Metuchen.

Superintendent Molineux is a decided favorite with all his men. He has the reputation of being a kind and fair employer and no one in South Plainfield speaks of him but in the highest terms of praise. When the plant is completely stocked or there is a shortage in the supply of coal so as to necessitate the shutting down of part of the works, it is a well-known fact that Mr. Molineux always looks after the interests of the men with families as far as he is able and the single men are always the first to be laid off. Other little acts that show he takes some thought of the interests of the men under him have been noted.

Mr. Molineux has been very firm in the belief of the innocence of his brother, and he has often talked of that subject to his intimate associates at the storage plant. Regarding Counsel Weeks' course in not making a defense, Mr. Molineux has said that Mr. Weeks consulted with twelve of New York's most prominent criminal lawyers before taking that course. From the general trend of the case, they expressed a belief that the case was going against Molineux. They believed that another trial was certain, and so advised Mr. Weeks not to sum up.

"SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE."

Pleasing Musicale and Tea Given by the Dorcas Circle of King's Daughters.

A pleasing musicale and tea was given yesterday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock at the home of Mrs. B. O. Bowers, 400 Franklin place, under the auspices of the Dorcas Circle, King's Daughters, which is one of the oldest circles in the city. The object of the affair was to raise money to assist in the support of the city nurse.

One of the very pleasant features was the musical programme. There were piano solos by Miss May Whitney and Miss Lillian Richardson, and Miss Bertha Whitney, elocutionist, gave several charming recitations. Miss Bertha V. Willis, accompanied on the piano by Miss Sadie Mae Howell, gave several pleasing soprano solos. Miss Mears, of this city, also sang several well-known selections.

The decorations used throughout the rooms consisted of pink and green. In the dining room Miss Arleen Crane poured chocolate and Miss Moss poured tea. They were assisted by Miss Lillian Oakley, Miss Anna Clark and Miss Jessie Littell. Miss Anna Wyckoff and Mrs. Fred Stack were in charge of the cake table, while Mrs. Edward S. F. Randolph and Mrs. Frank Howland took charge of the candy table.

The Dorcas Circle is about eleven years old and during its existence has accomplished much good. The officers are: President, Miss Edith B. Littell; vice-president, Miss Anna Wyckoff; secretary, Miss Lillian Oakley; treasurer, Miss Arleen Crane.

To Settle a Dispute.

At the regular meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders held this week Messrs. Lutkins, Codington and Mobus were appointed a committee to consider the matters in difference between the Board and the contractors on the Harlingen road, which has been in dispute. Another meeting of the Board will be held on March 14th.

A Pleasant Affair.

The Misses Lue and Ella Lunger entertained a few of their friends at their home on Watchung avenue, last evening, in honor of their guest, Miss Edith Wolverton, of Schenectady, N. Y. The evening was spent in playing games and music, after which refreshments were served.

Dog Fight.

There was a gathering of sports from this city and Newark in a barn at Piscataway town last evening to witness a bout between dogs representing the two cities. They weighed in at 22 pounds. The bout was won by the Plainfield dog.

ROSELLE NOW SURE OF PRESS TROPHY.

Won Three Straight From Cranford Casino.

GREAT WORK BY MULFORD.

CLINCHED HIS HOLD ON HIGH AVERAGE SCORE.

Three Games In The Daily Press Bowling League Rolled at Roselle Last Night — Roselle Won Them All With Big Scores — Mulford Rolled Over 200 For Every Game.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Roselle, February 16.—There really wasn't much use of the Cranford Casino team bowling last evening. For three games, the Roselle Casino combination went galloping along with their visitors floundering along somewhere in the rear. Three games were rolled here in the Roselle Casino alleys in The Daily Press Bowling League and Roselle won them all by anywhere from 71 to 147 pins. Roselle now has the trophy assured. Three straight defeats by the Park Club and three victories for Westfield in a match with the Parks would take the score but that is almost out of the range of possibilities. Mulford also clinched his hold on the high average score after some great rolling.

On the first frame of the opening game, Roselle went to the front by 39 pins. In the next frame, it was 79 pins while the third showed Roselle leading by 109. In the fifth, Cranford braced up enough to take twenty pins off Roselle's lead. The sixth was another clean frame for the visitors and thirty pins more was chopped off. The Roselleites promptly did a little better and the lead hovered about the hundred mark for the rest of the game. Roselle winning out by 97 pins. Mulford had a clean score, 204.

Roselle started in on the second game at a pace that would have landed the score well above 1,000 if it had been continued. In their second frame, there were four strikes and one spare. Mulford made a triple header while Shangle scored for consecutive strikes. Such rolling landed the total at the end of the fifth frame at 489.

Such a game was not destined to last. The splits began. Mulford was up against one on the seventh, while Captain Smith suffered in that frame and in the succeeding one. Cranford meanwhile was plodding away far in the rear over a hundred pins behind. Roselle braced again for the ninth and tenth frames and made a strong windup. They won by 147 pins. Shangle and Smith both fell down after their wonderful five frames, but Mulford managed to score 208, and would have gone twenty pins higher, but for the unfortunate split.

The first frame of the last game saw Cranford ahead for the first and last time in the series. A small majority of seven was swung over to a lead of two for the home club. By the fourth frame there was 35 pins difference between them, and Roselle made small but frequent additions to that lead.

Mulford started in again in great form, but in his seventh he missed an easy spare. He recovered himself and scored strikes on the last three frames and also wound up with three. That took his score to 237, the best that has been made in the league this season. Sharp, of Cranford, followed his example on the last three frames and the windup, making 213. Roselle finally won easily by a majority of 71 pins.

The individual scores were as follows:

Between Sidewalk and Gutter.

The Daily Press, in referring a few days ago about the sidewalks on Somerset street as regards the amount of water that collects and stands there during or after a heavy rain, should have said that the trouble lies between the sidewalk and the gutter. The water runs from the several properties on the walk, and the raise in the ground between the walk and gutter will not allow it to run off into the gutter to be carried away. In most cases the property owners could remedy this trouble with a very little work.

WAR NEWS SCARCE.

Silence Enjoined Upon Correspondents With Roberts.

CRONJE'S COMMUNICATIONS CUT OFF.

It Is a Question Where He Will Make a Stand—Operations Suspended at Other Points—War Office Orders New Batteries.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—As the wires are closed to correspondents with Lord Roberts and as nothing further from him has been communicated to the public, the military adepts spend their time in studying maps, topography and figuring out the possibilities of Lord Roberts' communications and what there is left for the Boers to do.

General Cronje's communications with Bloemfontein have already been cut. The best news England could hear would be that he elects to give battle among the low hills and ridges west of Kimberley. Should he determine not to do this, he must raise the siege of Kimberley and retreat to a point where he would prefer to fight.

This retreat could be a long detour around the head of the British advance to Bloemfontein; or, as seems to military students more practicable, he could withdraw to the north, using the railroad for his guns and heavy baggage, moving to Fourteen Streams station and thence into Transvaal territory.

The Boers have made no preparations to defend Bloemfontein, and there is no particular reason why General Cronje should risk a battle to protect the capital of the Free State.

Operations elsewhere are apparently suspended. A correspondent, wiring from Chieveley Feb. 13, says, "We are still hopeful of relieving Ladysmith." Colonel Baden-Powell, in a dispatch from Mafeking, dated Jan. 29, after mentioning matters already sent out by correspondents, gives his total casualties up to Jan. 25 as follows: Killed, 5 officers and 60 men; wounded, 8 officers and 123 men, missing, 34 men.

No word has been received regarding General Gatacre's 12,000 men at Stormberg. The impression is that these forces are on the way to Lord Roberts.

Mr. Chamberlain's announcement in the house of commons of the intention of the government to encourage the Zulus to defend themselves from the Boers is a contingency the Boers seem to have anticipated, as they have been doing everything in their power to win the good will of the Basutos, who have thousands of good rifles. The Boers gave 2,000 Basutos a safe conduct. If the British let loose one tribe the Boers will probably let loose another.

The war office has issued orders for the formation of 21 new batteries and three battalions of infantry.

The cabinet council was in session yesterday for two hours. It will meet again today. This is quite unusual.

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, telegraphing Wednesday, says:

"It is reported here that the British have evacuated Rensburg and retired to Arundel."

The Daily Mail has the following dispatch from Lourenco Marques, dated Wednesday:

"A prominent Pretoria citizen just from Ladysmith informs me that the Boers are rapidly damming Klip river. Two thousand Kaffirs are employed in the work, and they have deposited 10,000 sand bags already. They are only able to work at nighttime, as they would be under British fire. This citizen, however, believes that the operation will be futile."

The correspondent of The Times at Lourenco Marques, telegraphing Wednesday, says:

"The republics are now obtaining substantial supplies of sugar, coffee and flour through a Delagoa Bay firm, and further heavy consignments are expected within a fortnight. It is believed also that munitions are still passing."

The house of commons last evening adopted the government's military scheme by a vote of 239 against 34, the minority consisting chiefly of Irish members.

STORY OF A FIGHT.

One Who Was at Colenso Tells of Terrible Loss.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 16.—A private letter has been received here from a captain of the Royal Dublin fusileers written from Frere camp after the battle of Colenso. It is written on the margins of a copy of the Natal Witness containing a description of the battle. The captain writes:

"My regiment lost in killed and wounded 216 out of about 800, but behaved splendidly. This, I fear, is to be a terribly costly war in lives, and I know we will have many more serious battles before us. The fire at Colenso was terrific, and the bullets were like hail. How any of us ever came back from the front alive is a wonder, but the men returned as slowly and steadily as they would on parade. My regiment has lost nearly 600 in killed, wounded and prisoners since the war commenced, but distinguished itself at Glencoe and also at Colenso. The heat is terrific—living under canvas—and the discomfort great, but if we can only do what we have come to do—end that infamous government of South Africa and make it a free country—all our losses will not have been in vain.

"The Boers, though kind to our wounded, looted all the bodies of our dead, stripping them of their uniforms, and they cut off poor Henry's (his lieutenant who was killed) finger in order to get his ring. They also fired on our ambulances."

Another British Loss.

MISS ANTHONY HONORED.

Large Demonstration In Washington to Famous Woman Suffragist.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Several thousand people, including the delegates to the National American Woman's Suffrage association, which has just concluded its annual session here, assembled at the Lafayette Opera House yesterday to do homage to Susan B. Anthony, the veteran worker in behalf of the enfranchisement of women, who today celebrated the eightieth anniversary of her birth. Grouped on the platform were the national officers of the association and the pioneers in the equal rights movement who are alive. The stage decorations consisted of the four starred flag of the suffragists, palms and cut flowers.

There was a long programme replete throughout with stirring tributes to Miss Anthony's great career, while tears and applause mingled as the voices of the speakers rang through the theater, recounting the hardships and struggles and at last the crowning achievements of the veteran worker. Eighty children, boys and girls, passed in single file across the stage, each depositing a rose in Miss Anthony's lap as they passed her, one for each year of her life.

Addresses conveying greetings from various state associations and other bodies were made, the speakers including Mrs. Humphrey Gaffney of the National Council of Women of Illinois, Mrs. May Wright Sewell, president of the International Council of Women; Rev. Ida C. Hulton, from the ministry; Diana Hirschler, the law; Lillian M. Hollister, representing the business women; Coralie Franklin Cook, the colored woman; Ellen Powell Thompson, the District of Columbit Equal Suffrage association, and Rev. Anna Howard Shaw and Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, the greetings of the world. The greetings and gifts from the enfranchised states were made by Mrs. Warren, the wife of Senator Warren of Wyoming; Virginia M. Shafroth of Colorado, a magnificent silver loving cup; Emily S. Richards of Utah and Nell C. Woods of Idaho. The gift from Wyoming was a gold enameled flag, four large diamonds representing the four enfranchised states.

Chickering's Suicide Doubted.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 16.—The relatives and friends of the late Congressman Charles A. Chickering of Copenhagen, who was found dead on the sidewalk in front of the Grand Union hotel, New York city, Tuesday morning, are of the opinion that the representative did not leap to death with suicidal intent. They believe that he was either a victim of foul play or was frightened by some delusion and attempted to escape. They say that an investigation of the affair will be made. The Standard prints a statement to this effect signed by Mrs. Chickering, Dr. H. H. Cramer, S. E. Stanton, a brother of Mrs. Chickering, and J. S. Mitchell, private secretary of the deceased man.

Rosebery's Statement Denied.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The statement of Earl Rosebery that in December overtures were made to the United States for an alliance is not substantiated here. Officials of the administration are at a loss to understand the report and express the opinion that some mistake has occurred. So far as the United States is concerned, they declare no offer of an alliance has been made, but they could not say anything about Germany, to which country, according to the London dispatch, overtures for an alliance also were made at the same time.

Why He Left South Africa.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—Charles Grote, an American of Dutch descent, who until a short time before the breaking out of the war in South Africa was employed as an engineer in the Geldenhuis mines, near Johannesburg, stated that he appealed to Charles E. Macrum, ex-consul at Pretoria, for a permit enabling him to stay in the country until his American papers could be sent to Pretoria, but owing to the fact that Consul Macrum was unable to communicate with the United States he was compelled to leave South Africa.

OH, MAMMA DEAR!
did you hear that Woolston & Buckle has the finest wall paper in town. With Kaleidoscopic change on lovely backgrounds?
Daisies blossom on paper of azure blue,
Roses bud and bloom on an ashen hue,
Lillies of the valley are scattered on green
And flowers of all tints are everywhere seen
On colors exquisitely blended with care
To reproduce fruits, and flowers as fair
As if laid on by Nature's own hand,
Unique designs both opaque and round,
And Japanese figures on gilded ground
And fantistic Beardsley lines are found
In a bewildering array.
Transform your bare and hideous walls
Into dreams of beauty as profuse
As covered Granada's famous halls,
From any design your fancy may choose.
The walls of the cottage are covered with ease,
It's not our custom, but the wealthy to please.
We have beautiful papers at a low price. Although not so gorgeous, are artistic and nice.

BRYAN IN THE SOUTH.

Advocates His Favorite Doctrines In South Carolina's Capital.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 16.—William Jennings Bryan, accompanied by a committee of legislators and citizens that went to Charlotte to meet him, arrived here at 11:30 yesterday. The party traveled in a special car tendered by the Southern railroad.

Mr. Bryan was driven to the home of Colonel Willis Jones, where he was entertained. At 1 p. m. he addressed the members of the general assembly and a large concourse of people, many having come from all sections of the state. He spoke for two hours from a stand erected at the south entrance to the statehouse.

Mr. Bryan affirmed that he would continue to advocate free coinage of silver till the people of the United States got their rights. Fully half his time was devoted to an attack on the so called imperialistic policy of the government. This elicited frequent applause.

"That, my dear sir," replied the farmer, "I know very well; but are you aware that Lake Leman is the more synonymous of the two?"—Bombay Guardian.

FRENCH WIN A FIGHT

Sudan Leader Rabah Defeated and Wounded.

OPPONENT OF FRENCH EXTENSION.

Rebel Leader Driven From Strongly Intrenched Position After a Desperate Battle—Two or Three Thousand Natives Slain.

PARIS, Feb. 16.—M. Decrais, the minister of the colonies, has received a telegram from the governor of the French Kongo, M. H. de Lamothe, announcing the defeat in battle of Rabah, the principal chieftain of the central Sudan, by a French expedition.

Rabah has long been the strongest opponent of the extension of French influence in the Sudan. He was formerly a slave of Zobehr Pasha, himself a great Sudan ruler, but revolted and formed a kingdom of his own in central Africa, subjugating potentate after potentate until he became head of a vast empire. His career of victory gained for him the name of the "African Explorer." The French have been fighting his power for years, and yesterday's dispatch announces his overthrow.

It appears that he was strongly intrenched at Kouna, between the French Kongo and Lake Tchad, which is the objective of all French expeditions, whether across the Sahara from Algeria or from the French colonies in West Africa and the Kongo. Kouna was defended by 12,000 men, with 2,500 rifles and three cannon.

After a desperate fight, according to the dispatch, the French demolished the fortress. Two of Rabah's cannon were destroyed by the French shells. Rabah, who was wounded during the fight, fled six hours before its conclusion.

The commander of the French expedition, however, admits that practically half of his own force was placed hors de combat. Forty-three Senegalese sharpshooters were killed and four Europeans, including Captain Robillot, and 106 Senegalese were wounded.

The commander of the expedition says in his report:

"We only had altogether 320 rifles, so I thought it inadvisable to continue the march to Lake Tchad. Captain Robillot occupies a 45 cantonment at Tounia."

The commander of the expedition returned to Bangue to inform the governor of the defeat of Rabah. He reports that the result will be very important, as Rabah is completely demoralized by his losses, estimated at between 2,000 and 3,000 killed.

The Clark Case.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Highly sensational testimony was developed yesterday in the investigation by the senate committee on privileges and elections of the election of W. A. Clark to the senate from Montana. Justice Hunt, a Republican member of the Montana supreme court, testified that his family physician, Dr. Tracey, had made what he (the justice) regarded as an attempt to have him consider a $100,000 bribe to favor Lawyer Wellcome, one of Mr. Clark's attorneys, in the disbarment proceedings against Wellcome. The witness did not, directly, at least, connect Mr. Clark with this bribery proposition, so the latter's counsel, ex-Senator Faulkner, moved to strike the whole testimony from the record, but did not succeed.

Another Kentucky Case Suit.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 16.—Following the lead of Governor Taylor, who on Wednesday brought suit for an injunction against Governor Beckham, claiming to be governor of Kentucky, and General John B. Castleman, claiming to be adjutant general of Kentucky, Lieutenant Governor John Marshall yesterday filed suit for an injunction against Governor Beckham and against Lillard H. Carter, president pro tem. of the senate, now meeting in this city. The suit is similar in its general averments to that of Governor Taylor. No application has yet been made for a restraining order in either case.

An Antitrust Journal.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—A weekly paper to be known as The American Antitrust Journal, the launching of which was sanctioned at the recent antitrust conference, will appear tomorrow. The committee selected W. T. Biggs as editor and Daniel L. Cruice as business manager. The Journal will contain not less than 16 pages, and the first issue will contain the full proceedings of the recent conference. The paper, it is believed, will be self supporting, and any funds over and above the expenses will be turned into the propaganda fund of the league.

Bank Assets Sell Low.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Assets of the defunct Chemical National bank of Chicago, representing a face value of more than $900,000, were sold at auction by Receiver William C. Niblack for $487.75. The assets represented bills receivable, judgments in favor of the receiver, amounts due from national banks (disputed balances), stocks and overdrafts.

Connecticut River Bridge Destroyed.

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., Feb. 16.—A portion of the bridge that spans the Connecticut river, connecting Enfield and Suffield, was carried away by the flood yesterday afternoon, and one life was lost. Hosea Keach, the station agent at Enfield, had a very narrow escape, as he was carried on a portion of the wreckage more than half a mile before he was rescued.

Fined For Overwork.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 16.—The Hargraves mill was fined $50 in the district court here for violation of the 58 hour law in employing young girls at night work. State Inspector Tierney was the complainant, and the labor men are highly pleased over what is looked upon as a test case. The mill company entered an appeal.

A Blow to Prizefighting.

ALBANY, Feb. 16.—Without debate the Lewis bill repealing the so called Horton law, which permits prizefights in the state, was passed in the assembly yesterday by a vote of 92 yeas to 35 nays. The understanding is that all the debating on the measure will be done in the senate.

Schurman Speaks at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 16.—President Jacob G. Schurman of Cornell university, who was one of the United States commissioners to the Philippines, addressed the students of Yale last evening in College hall on "The Philippines." There were nearly 1,200 students in attendance.

Senate Passes Currency Bill by Large Majority.

ONLY TWO AMENDMENTS ADOPTED.

All Forms of United States Money to Be Maintained at a Parity With the Yellow Metal—All Currency to Be Redeemable in Gold.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The senate substitute for the house currency bill was passed by the senate yesterday by the decisive majority of 46 to 29. Prior to the final passage of the bill amendments were considered under the ten minute rule. Only two of these amendments were adopted—viz., one offered by the finance committee keeping the door open to international bimetallism and one by Mr. Nelson of Minnesota providing for national banks with $25,000 capital in towns of not more than 4,000 inhabitants.

The bill as passed consists of ten sections. It provides that the dollar of 25 8-10 grains of gold, nine-tenths fine, shall be the standard unit of value and that all forms of United States money shall be maintained at a parity with it, and that treasury notes and greenbacks shall be redeemable in gold.

The secretary of the treasury is to set apart a fund of $150,000,000 in gold for the redemption of these notes, and to maintain this fund at a figure not below $100,000,000 he is empowered to sell bonds of the United States bearing interest at not exceeding 3 per cent.

It shall also be the duty of the secretary of the treasury, as fast as the standard silver dollars are coined, to require an equal amount of treasury notes and to issue silver certificates against the silver so coined. Under certain provisions, too, gold certificates shall be issued against the gold held in the treasury. No United States notes or treasury notes shall be issued in denominations of less than $10 and no silver certificates in denominations of more than $10.

The secretary of the treasury is also authorized to refund the bonded debt of the United States in 30 year bonds bearing 2 per cent interest, the principal and interest of these bonds to be paid in gold. The 2 per cent bonds shall be issued at not less than par. Any national bank, by depositing with the United States bonds of this country, shall be permitted to issue circulating notes to the face value of the bonds deposited, no bank being allowed to issue circulating notes in excess of the amount of the paid in capital stock of the bank.

After the passage of the financial bill the senate made the Hawaiian government bill the unfinished business.

The house completed 26 of the 124 pages of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill without amendment. During the general debate, which closed at 4 o'clock.

Mr. Wheeler of Kentucky offered a resolution saying that "the secretary of state is directed to inform the house of representatives concerning charges of Charles E. Macrum as consul of the American government informing the state department that his official mail had been opened and read by the British censor at Durban, and, if so, what steps, if any, have been taken to obtain an explanation and apology from the British government."

Runaway Boy Detained.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—As a result of a cable message from Lord Salisbury, premier of England, to Sir Percy Sanderson, British consul general in this city, Alfred R. Harris was detained in this city upon the arrival of the steamer Marquette. Harris, who is only 17 years of age, came to this country in company with his elder brother, Robert. Young Harris, who traveled under the assumed name of Arthur Harrison, at first denied his identity, but finally admitted that he had left his home in Surrey, England, where his father is a wealthy stock broker. Sunday he will be sent back to England on the Marquette.

Prison Officials Ignore Taylor.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 16.—The clash between the Democratic and Republican branches of the state government was emphasized last night by the prison officials releasing John Seals, a Louisville convict, on a pardon issued by Governor Beckham. Deputy Warden Punch was acting warden, and when the pardon papers were presented to him he ordered Seals released, and the latter left the city last night. Douglass Hays, a Knott county convict, recently pardoned by Governor Taylor, is still in confinement, the prison officials refusing to recognize Taylor as governor.

Porto Rico Courts.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 16.—It is generally understood here that the Washington authorities intend vesting the insular courts with jurisdiction in cases where foreigners are involved. The sentiment of Spanish residents is against this step, they believing that justice is only obtainable in a provisional court. In the opinion of a prominent military authority no court here has jurisdiction over the foreign consuls.

A Gift to Pennsylvania University.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16.—Provost Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania has announced that a gift of $25,000 has been made to the university by Mrs. Thomas McKean of this city. The gift is made in memory of Mrs. McKean's father, the late George M. Wharton, and is a contribution toward the cost of the new law school building, which is to be formally opened and dedicated on the 21st inst.

Dr. Pearsons' Generous Offer.

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—Dr. D. K. Pearsons of Chicago, who intends to give his fortune to charity before his death, has made an offer to the Congregational Educational society to give $15,000 to the general treasury provided the society will secure $30,000 additional from friends of its work.

State Convention at Albany.

ALBANY, Feb. 16.—It is stated here that the Republican state leaders have decided upon Albany as the place at which to hold the state convention, at which the four delegates at large to the Republican national convention will be selected.

Severe Earthquake In Peru.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 16.—At 6:55 a. m. yesterday a severe earthquake shock, causing great alarm, was felt in this section. In the course of the day the river Rimac flooded its banks in the outskirts of Lima, endangering life and property.

Spain Will Not Yield Dispatches.

MADRID, Feb. 16.—Count Almenas, in the senate yesterday, asked the government to communicate to the senate the dispatches exchanged before the Spanish-American war between the government and the United States through the Spanish naval attache in Washington, Lieutenant Jose Sobral. The minister of marine, Senor Gomez Imaz, refused to make public such documents on the ground that to do so might interfere with the good relations existing between Madrid and Washington. He said that the government would not communicate the dispatches even to the senatorial commission charged to examine into the responsibility for the loss of Spain's colonies.

To Restore a Famous Line.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 16.—A bill appropriating $5,000 to be added to a like sum already appropriated by the state of Pennsylvania for the purpose of restoring the Mason and Dixon's line, which had been unfavorably reported by the finance committee of the senate, was called up in the senate yesterday by Senator Williams of Harford county. After a struggle the vote by which the unfavorable report had been adopted was reconsidered and the bill substituted for the unfavorable report. Three Democratic senators voted with the Republicans. The bill will probably pass the senate and it is thought will get through the house by a narrow margin.

Another Tax Bill.

ALBANY, Feb. 16.—Another proposition for tax legislation has been submitted in a bill introduced by Senator Ebberg and which was prepared by the West End association of New York. It provides for the abolition of the present system of equalization by the reduction or increasing of the total assessed value of real estate. By the terms of the bill introduced yesterday the state tax is apportioned to the several counties in the proportion that the total taxes laid in each county bear to the gross amount as the taxes laid in all the counties during the preceding year. The bill permits each county to use its discretion in the assessment of mortgages.

Princeton Prizes Announced.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 16.—The successful contestants in the Baird prize contest held in Murray hall have been announced. In the oratorical contest David Laurence Chambers of Washington was awarded the Baird prize of $100. Charles C. Miller of Trenton received the $50 prize as being the second best speaker, and Herbert Kingsbury England of Washington, N. J., was given the prize of $30 for delivery. In the disputation contest the first prize of $40 was won by Joseph Addison Jones of Passaic, N. J., and the second prize of $30 was awarded to Joseph Hall Hill of Edgewood Park, Pa.

The Martinique Troubles.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, Feb. 16.—M. Hayot, the Petit Bourg planter who came here with the members of his family, having abahdoned his plantation and effects, parleyed for 48 hours with the rioters before leaving. They wanted to kill him. Fifty soldiers arrived yesterday and dispersed rioters at various points. No instructions have been received from the home government, and people fear a fresh collision. The cruiser Troude has just left. At Marin the factory continues working. There is considerable anxiety at St. Pierre.

Naval Movements.

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 16.—The United States armored cruiser New York, the battleship Texas, the gunboat Machias, the auxiliary gunboat Vixen and the collier Cæsar are off Culebra island surveying and exercising. Landsman Rhodes of the auxiliary cruiser Dixie, who died of typhus, was buried here yesterday with naval and military honors.

A BOLO ATTACK.

American Garrison Defeats Three Thousand Insurgents.

MANILA, Feb. 16.—During the night of Feb. 5 3,000 insurgent bolo men who had been armed with Mauser rifles attacked the American garrison at Daraga, in southern Luzon. Re-enforcements were sent from Albay, whereupon the main body of the enemy made an attack on Albay and burned a number of houses.

The Fortieth volunteer infantry, which is stationed at Albay, retired to a convent and fired volleys at the rebels from the roof. The insurgents surrounded the convent and attempted to set it on fire, but were routed by the shrapnel thrown by a mountain gun which was worked from one of the windows.

The detachment which went to Daraga took refuge, with the Spaniards, in the town hall and fought the rebels all night. Finally the insurgents retreated, leaving 71 dead on the ground. The American loss was 2 killed and 5 wounded. One of the wounded was an officer.

An expedition commanded by General Bates and consisting of the Fortieth and Forty-fifth volunteer infantry regiments and Keiley's battery, with pack animals for transport purposes, sailed today for the island of Camarines, southeast of Luzon. The expedition, which required six transports, was convoyed by the cruiser Baltimore and gunboat Marietta. These vessels will co-operate with the army in the operations in the province of South Camarines. Meanwhile General Kobbe is clearing the rebels out of North Camarines from Abbak to Nueva Caceres.

Ex-President Harrison Swindled.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 16.—It is being related here that both ex-President Harrison and his wife were systematically robbed and otherwise swindled during their visit to Paris last summer when the general was engaged in the Venezuelan claims affair. The ex-president was asked about the matter, and he confirmed the story, although he said he did not know that it was abroad and did not authorize it. He now thinks that a young Frenchman who acted as his valet was the swindler or—if not that he knew all about the larcenies. Aside from sums of money that the ex-president missed the boldest and most accomplished operation consisted in a series of forgeries perpetrated on Mrs. Harrison. During the summer she looked for some drafts due on some private investments of her own. They never came. Quite recently the drafts came to her with her name fairly well indorsed on them. The amounts of the various drafts and the name of the forger could not be learned. General Harrison would give no details beyond saying that the story was substantially correct.

No Truth In the Story.

ALBANY, Feb. 16.—In regard to the report that the Republican majority had determined upon a final adjournment of the legislature on March 23 and that all big measures which might occasion debate will be laid aside in consequence Leader Allds of the assembly states emphatically that no such policy is contemplated. "It is desired," he said, "that the legislature should adjourn as early as possible, but no important measure, and especially none of the big financial measures, is to be sacrificed." Chairman B. B. Odell of the Republican state committee, who is in the city, was asked concerning this story and stated that the report that any important legislation was to be sacrificed to an early adjournment was news to him.

Eight Hour Rule Opposed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Representatives of the shipbuilding, armor plate manufacturing and steel concerns which furnish supplies to the government were heard by the house committee on labor in opposition to the bill fixing an eight hour day on government work, including that done under contract. J. K. McCammon and ex-Representative Payson argued that this was a form of paternalism and that it would operate toward a confiscation of the plants. The hearing will be continued on the 23d inst.

Tortured to Death by Filipinos.

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—The special cablegram to The Globe from a staff correspondent at Iloilo says: "It has just been discovered as the result of an investigation that three Massachusetts soldiers of the Twenty-sixth regiment, United States volunteers, have been tortured to death by insurgents. The men were Dennis Hayes, William Dugan and Michael Tracey, privates of Company F, under Captain William M. Tutherly."

The Central's Honest Stand.

A delegation of representative business men of this city went to New York yesterday and interviewed First Vice-President Warren, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, in the hope that the company could be interested in the project of opening the proposed new thoroughfare from North avenue to Front street to the extent of constructing a street tunnel under their tracks at the North Avenue Station. The consummation of such a idea would be to make a continuation of Sycamore street from its present termination at Fourth street.

Mr. Warren's attitude when this proposition was submitted to him was the personification of honesty, frankness and straight-dealing. In polite but emphatic language he said that the company would not consider for one moment the idea of undertaking such a improvement.

There was verbal sparring, no "beating around the brush," no saying that they would "cross that bridge when they came to it," but a brief and convincing response which allowed of no false hopes being raised in the minds of those seeking to enlist the aid of the company. The candor of Mr. Warren was refreshing and gratifying. Too often men acting under the same circumstances would have said something that would encourage the promoters of the scheme without committing the railroad company either one way or the other. Then when the time for decisive action arrived, the company would say that it meant one thing and the committee would insist on a contrary version. The result, of course, would be the stirring up of bad blood, and a disastrous ending of the pleasant relations that now exist.

As long as the railroad company has made up its mind to go so far in the improvements at the North Avenue station, and no farther, we are glad that the position was stated so firmly and explicitly by Mr. Warren. It is a stand that Plainfielders will appreciate.

The disappointment the committee of citizens experienced because of the attitude of the railroad company towards the street tunnel scheme, was largely dissipated by the statement that the company had plans underway by which it was intended to commence this spring the construction of another depot on the south side of the tracks, to accommodate eastbound traffic. It has been intimated heretofore that this action was to be taken, but now that the news comes direct and authoratively from such a high official as Vice-President Warren it cannot be doubted. The appreciation that Plainfielders will show for this improvement is forecasted by the constant and earnest demand that has existed in relation to it for several years past.

The average person looks upon the sign posted in street cars and other public conveyances prohibiting expectoration within such vehicles as either a "bluff" or a dead letter. The experience of a man in Bayonne puts another and rather unusual view on the case, however. The individual in question offended against the law, and after repeated warnings to desist the disgusting practice of sprinkling the floor of a trolley car with a mixture of salava and tobacco juice he was delivered into the arms of a guardian of the peace at the behest of the indignant and outraged conductor. When haled before the court having jurisdiction in the case the culprit was fined $10. Doubtless the cadi sought to make an example of this case, trusting that the result would prove a deterrent to the further violation of the law in respect to promiscuous spitting. The habit of expectorating in vehicles used by the public is a nasty and reprehensible one, and if there were more conductors and more judges like those in Bayonne there would be a reform soon effected.

Percival E. Nagle, New York's new street cleaning commissioner, is being attacked as a politician and a sport with an unclean record. He has pointedly said that he intends to make votes for Tammany Hall by his administration of the department; not, however, by cutting off the heads of present subordinates and substituting others who have more political favor, but by keeping the streets clean and thus winning the approbation of the public. If he succeeds in this purpose he will have performed a master stroke for Tammany. Col. Waring showed that the streets of the metropolis could be kept clean, and if Nagle keeps his resolution and does likewise he may rest assured that whatever he has done of an unenviable nature in the past will be lost in the whirlwind of praise that will greet him over the result.

The bill for the creation of Hawaii as a territory, just reported to the House, is worth thinking over carefully, suggests the Paterson Press. It gives United States Senatorship, in full equality with the 7,000,000 American citizens of New York, the 6,000,000 of Pennsylvania, or the 5,000,000 of Illinois, to the 31,000 Kanakas, 24,000 Japanese, 21,000 Chinese, 15,000 Portuguese and 3,086 Americans who make up the population of Hawaii.

Some effusive friend of the Molineux's has suggested that a popular subscription be started to aid the gallant old General in the defense of his son. The suggester may mean well enough, but that sort of sympathy is misplaced. The sturdy old war-horse who has stood by his son with all the love, confidence and devotion that human nature commands, is the last man in the world to acquiesce in any such movement.

In granting a salary of $300 to Mayor Rockfellow, the Common Council has acted graciously and wisely. The duties that devolve upon the Mayor, and the time that is required to attend to them if they are looked after conscientiously and to the best interests of the municipality, make the scriptural teaching that the "laborer is worthy of his hire" particularly applicable to the office.

At a feast of the paper makers in New York last night Senator Gallinger delivered a facetious address, and wound up by admonishing them to "go on and make paper cheap, but don't overdo it." The Senator's advice is a waste of words, as every newspaper publisher can testify. The paper makers, acting as a trust, have shoved rates up 100 per cent in the past twelve months.

"Golden Rule" Jones of Toledo says: "The kind of trust I believe in is Uncle Sam's big trust—the postoffice. At one end of a car you may see a railway mail clerk working for $1,000 a year, and eight hours. At the other end you may see an express messenger working fourteen hours a day for $60 a month." That is the kind of argument that everyone can understand and appreciate.

Andrew Carnegie is nothing if not consistent. He has said being poor is a blessed heritage, and now he doing his best to help his partner Frick to reach that condition by scaling down the latter's holdings in the big iron works to a beggarly $6,000,000.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Feb. 16.—The cosy little Apgar hall is a perfect bower of beauty this week. The handwork of the ladies of the M. E. church has transferred it into a handsome room in which are displayed the skill and taste of the women folk of that denomination. The occasion for this decoration is the bazaar being held under the auspices of the Epworth League. The hall is tastefully decorated and contains many booths loaded with hundreds of useful and fancy articles, many of them donations from the merchants and citizens of Plainfield and Dunellen. In the supper room, patrons of the fair can be supplied with both the substantials and delicacies of the good cooking of the ladies of the parish. At the many handsomely decorated booths may be found winsome lassies ready to coax into the coffers of the fair the loose change of the patrons of the affair.

The general committee consists of J. Emmons Henry, chairman; Burt Apgar, Ruliff Fisher, Rev. E. S. Jamison, Linn Apgar and Miss Lulu Gise.

At the fancy booth is to be found Mrs. E. E. Jamison, chairman; the Misses Etta Gise, Lizzie Herlich, Lulu Gise, Mary Gise, May Apgar, Mrs. J. E. Henry, Mrs. Arthur Vail.

The supper table is presided over by Mrs. Firman Gise, chairman; Mrs. John Kennedy, Mrs. Eick, Mrs. Philip Smith, John Kennedy, Burt Apgar, Mrs. Kirchner, F. H. Gise, Mrs. Henry Vail, Mrs. Fisher, Harry Apgar, Charles Vail, Ernest Peters, Fred Giddis.

Quilt and Comfortable—Mrs. John Kennedy, chairman; Mrs. Todd, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Henry Vail, Mrs. Emily Apgar.

Fruit and Candy—The Misses Emma Apgar, chairman; Nellie Brown, Ethel Jamison, Gilbert Herlich, Rubie Smalley.

Lemonade well—Miss Nellie Vail, chairman; Harry H. Vail, Miss Bessie Vail, Miss Mabel Lewis.

Fish pond—Miss Mabel Jamison, chairman; Miss Lulu Adams, Charles Adams, Stephen Kennedy.

Decorations and booths—Mrs. Geo. Richardson, chairman; Peter Apgar, George Richardson, John Kennedy, Mrs. Mattis, Burt Apgar.

Fortune telling—Miss May Apgar.

Music—Mrs. E. S. Jamison.

Door committee—Linn H. Apgar, chairman; Ruliff Fisher, Phillip Smith, Ray Apgar.

This evening the Banjo Club will furnish the music, and tomorrow evening the Ladies' Orchestra will entertain the patrons with choice music.

The proceeds of the fair, which will continue this and tomorrow evenings, are to be devoted to the pastor's salary.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs Peter Mohan, of this place, for the marriage of their daughter, Anna Marion, to John J. Hague, next Wednesday, the 21st, at 4 o'clock p. m., at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at Plainfield. A reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents the same evening.

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

"The Great Triple Alliance," Messrs. LeRoy, Fox and Powell, who have earned the title of The Worlds Greatest Magicians, begin their two nights engagement at Music Hall tonight, and we are assured that an entertainment equal to the best ever given by those pastmasters of necromancy, Hermann and Kellar, will delight all who attend. The performances of Messrs. LeRoy, Fox and Powell have met with highest praise from the press and public of cities where they have lately performed, and they are seldom seen in suburban towns. They carry with them most complete, elaborate and expensive paraphernalia, scenery and accessories, and are unexceptionably clever in all their work, gifted also with a flow of language which is half the charm of entertainments of this nature. Their first part is a series of Fantastic Problems, among which will be: "The Farm Yard Scene," "The Spiritualistic Table," "The Growth of Flowers," "Changing of Pigeons' Heads," "Experiments in the Art of Palming With Billiard Balls," "Producing Coins From Space," "Cards From Yourselves in Large Quantities," "The Adventures of a Lady's Handkerchief" and many others. Closing with the production from space of the Anglo-Saxon Flags, 'Old Glory." Watch closely. "The more you watch the less you'll see, the less you see the more you watch." This will be followed by olio of specialties by their high-class vaudeville artists and will follow some hypnotic experiments, more magic and a spectacular illusion said to be highly sensational. This same bill will be repeated tomorrow afternoon at the matinee, which is given for the special accommodation of ladies and children, for which reduced prices are announced as per advertisement. An entire change of bill will be given tomorrow night.

Manager Maze Edwards, after several weeks negotiations with A. G. Delamater, manager for Edward Harrigan, the famous author-actor, has at last succeeded in arranging for his appearance here, at Music Hall, Tuesday night of next week, in "Old Lavender," a play which is familiar to the majority of playgoers throughout the English-speaking world and which was played by Mr. Harrigan at his New York theatre for over one hundred and fifty nights to capacity business. His supporting company this season includes several of the orginal cast, and the scenery is especially fine. All of Dave Braham's original songs and music will be rendered. Taken all in all this is undoubtedly the theatrical event of the season.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

South Plainfield, Feb. 16.—George Blackford, the young man who had the smallpox, has entirely recovered and the house has been fumigated by the Board of Health and the family are at liberty once more. The man who did the fumigating for the Board of Health complimented Mr. Blackford and family for the care they had taken in keeping everything connected with the sick room out of the way of all but the patient and nurse. Mrs. Blackford, stepmother of the sick man, took care of him. Not even a dish from the sick room went into the other part of the house. Mr. Blackford says he would rather have a case of smallpox in his family than one of scarlet fever. A queer coincident is that there was a case of smallpox in this same house 63 years ago this winter.

A small amount of oil applied to the worn parts of the bell on the schoolhouse would relieve the nerves of the children and teacher. As it is now the squeaking of the worn parts can be heard as plainly as the sound of the bell itself.

It is said on good authority that the Lehigh Valley stage will reduce the fare after March 1st to 25 cents for a round trip. It is to be hoped they will.

Work on the storage is slacking up some this mild weather.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Die Strenge, mit der die Wiener Polizei jetzt gegen die Pokerspiele vorgeht, hat, wie die „Wiener Arbeiterzeitung" mittheilt, einen bestimmten Grund. Es soll nämlich ein Baron Erlanger in einem Klub in einer Nacht eine fabelhafte Summe (man spricht von 500,000 Kronen) gewonnen haben; der Verlierende war ein Fürst Trauttmansdorff. Die Sache ist ruchbar geworden und hat in hohen Kreisen sehr verstimmt. Und deshalb erinnerte sich nun die Wiener Polizei, daß es im Strafgesetz einen Paragraphen gibt, der gegen Hazardspiele gerichtet ist.—Georg Müller, der erste Tenorist der Wiener Hofoper, ein geborener Frankfurter, vollendete sein 60. Lebensjahr.

Aradacz. Gelegentlich eines Tanzfestes sind in Folge Herabstürzens einer brennenden Petroleumlampe drei Tänzerinnen verbrannt, mehrere haben schwere Verletzungen erlitten.

Baden. Kürzlich hat sich der elfjährige Johann Ortner, um den fortgesetzten Mißhandlungen seiner Eltern zu entgehen, auf den Dachboden geflüchtet, wo er erst nach einigen Tagen mit vor Kälte erstarrten Füßen aufgefunden wurde. Man mußte dem bedauernswerthen Knaben beide Füße, die völlig abgefroren waren, bis zu den Knöcheln amputiren. Die Eltern wurden dem Kreisgerichte Wiener-Neustadt eingeliefert.

Budapest. Der Stadthauptmann von Enta Rottenbücher erschoß wegen Untreue seine Frau und dann sich selbst.

Graz. Der 23jährige Friedrich Stadler, der sich fälschlich für den Redakteur von Wiener Zeitungen ausgab und Schwindeleien verübte, wurde zu acht Monaten Kerkers verurtheilt.

Karlsbad. Baron Anton Vlkanova jun., ein sehr bekannter Sportsmann, zuletzt Inhaber des Reitinstituts dahier, ist nach Transvaal gegangen, um dort an Seite der Buren gegen die Engländer zu kämpfen.

Miskolcz. In Mezökövesd ermordeten zwei junge Bursche, die Brüder Toth, ihren eigenen alten Vater aus Rache, indem sie ihn mit Beilhieben erschlugen.

Preßburg. Der Eingang des zur Zeit im Umbau befindlichen Tunnels bei Preßburg ist durch einen von der raschen Schneeschmelze herbeigeführten Bergsturz verschüttet worden. Zur Beseitigung des Hindernisses sind alle Maßregeln getroffen worden. Der Personenverkehr wird durch Umsteigen aufrechterhalten. Der Güterverkehr ist eingestellt.

Wald. Hier explodirten im ersten Stockwerk eines Gasthauses Dynamitpatronen, die ein Arbeiter eines Steinbruches unerlaubter Weise zum Trocknen mitgenommen hatte. Der Explosion fielen fünf Personen zum Opfer; das Haus wurde zerstört. Der Arbeiter ist verhaftet.

Bern. In dem Jahresbericht des oberländischen Verkehrsvereines wird eine approximative Berechnung der Bruttoeinnahmen der Hotelindustrie für das Berner Oberland in der abgelaufenen Saison 1899 gegeben. Dieselben stellen sich darnach auf 11,570,000 Francs, wovon allein 3,800,000 Francs auf den Platz Interlaken entfallen. Die Zahl der Hotels und Pensionen im Berner Oberland wird mit 276 angegeben.—Die Festungswerke am St. Gotthard erfordern pro 1900 einen Kredit von 496,810 Francs gegenüber 477,360 Francs, die im Jahre 1899 hierfür ausgegeben wurden. Für die Werke bei St. Maurice sind 417,737 Francs vorgesehen. Die Centralverwaltung und die Verwaltung der einzelnen Festungswerke am Gotthard beanspruchen 95,810 Francs, während die Bewachung 203,500 Francs erfordert.

Zürich. Der Züricher Feuerbestattungsverein hat beschlossen, das ihm gehörige Krematorium unentgeltlich der Stadtgemeinde zu Eigenthum zu übertragen unter der Bedingung, daß die Stadt allen in Zürich verstorbenen Personen, sofern es verlangt wird, kostenlose Kremation zu Theil werden läßt; die Kremation auswärtiger Leichen hätte zu derselben Entschädigung, wie bisher, zu erfolgen. Außerdem verpflichtet sich der Verein zu einem Beitrage von 30,000 Francs an ein zweites von der Stadt binnen fünf Jahren zu erbauendes Krematorium.

Graubünden. Die Gemeinde Bergün-Latsch hat ihre Wasserkräfte und die alten Eisengruben im Val Tisch der Firma Frote u. Westermann verkauft. Der Betrieb der Quellen soll bald begonnen werden.

SALT LAKE CITY.

Picturesque Features of the Home of a New and Strange Religion.

Salt Lake City "lieth four-square." In the midst of the city, within a vast inclosure girt by stout yellow ramparts, looms the House of the Lord—four gray walls and six gray towers, their slender spires half reminiscent of lovely Peterboro—mysterious, repellant, yet fascinating, a Gregorian chant done in deathless granite. Forty years was the temple in building. Beside the temple crouches the tabernacle—a squat brown turtle shell set hard upon countless red pillars. Near by is another inclosure, walled like the first and buttressed with cobblestones, where tithing is taken and coin counted out, and where, in the ealier day, Brigham Young made his home and incidentally the home of his incalculable wives. There in the highway raises the tall plinth which supports the bronze statue of Brigham himself. Then to the four points of the compass run the stately broad streets of the Mormon capital, lined with superb shops, adobe cottages and occasional really magnificent homes, and shaded by never-ending rows of tall, shivering Lombardy poplars, "planted by rivers of water" drawn in little irrigation ditches from the melting snows of the mountains. And round about the city those naked crags leap into high heaven—blue in the crystalline luster of the upper atmosphere, caressed by lagging cloud drifts, crested a gleaming white by the same storms that drop rain to the valley to brighten the purple asters. Such, in a word, is Salt Lake City—the city of uncrowned Caesars and tiaraless popes, the Rome of a new and strange religion.—R. L. Hartt, in Atlantic.

EVENING WRAPS.

Cloaks of Various Kinds For Evening Wear.

For evening wraps, which are frequently of great elaboration, plush, brocade, satin, velvet, panne and cloth are all employed in light, medium and dark shades and even in black. If a woman goes out a great deal in the evening, she must have more than one wrap, as what is suitable to accompany demitoilet will not harmonize with elaborate full dress. A long, loose redingote attractively trimmed will answer for the less important occasions, but for large balls or the opera a wrap or cape of more pretentious description is required. Dark fur on light colored material is much liked as decorative effect at present on both simple and elaborate wraps.

The richest wraps are lined and trimmed with mousseline de soie. When used as a lining, this material is shirred, gathered and plaited until it is a mass of fluffiness and is really very warm. At present it is preferred to a plain fur lining and is sometimes more costly.

The illustration given today shows some models of sleeves for evening gowns. The first, of velvet or panne, is of half length and is trimmed with embroidered galloon, which forms Louis Quinze bows, one of which retains a fall of pearls at the elbow. The edge is finished with a frill of gauze. The second, of guipure de venise, is open on the outside and laced by narrow ribbon forming loops at the elbow and shoulder. The third is composed of a bow of spangled tulle held by a cluster of flowers, a drapery falling from the bow across the top of the arm.

THE WARDROBE.

Long Evening Wraps—Their Style and Decoration.

The favorite form for evening wraps of the more elaborate order is that of the full length cape curved in at the back and held to the figure by ribbons tied around the waist. There are no sleeves, of course, and the lower corners of the front are largely rounded off so as not to interfere with walking. A capuchon which may be put on or detached at pleasure is the usual adjunct, and almost invariably there is a high, flaring collar which protects the neck and much of the head. On each side of the front, between the lining and the goods, a sort of pocket is often inserted to serve as a muff.

It is better to avoid heavy trimming for these wraps, as it renders them burdensome. If it is not desired to trim them all around, the decoration may be placed at the edges of the two fronts. The inside of the collar must also be fully trimmed. Lace mingled with fur is always elegant. Light linings are preferred, and even when the material of the cape is cloth white satin or white mousseline de soie is usually chosen as a lining.

The cut shows a visiting costume of otter velvet. It is a princess gown, closed at the left side and slightly draped at the waist. Large clasps of elaborate metal embroidery fasten the gown. The tight sleeves are plaited at the top and have metal applications at the waist, and the collar is also enriched with metal applications. The hat of pearl gray velvet is trimmed with otter velvet and has a metal motif in front which retains a fan aigret of pearl gray silk.

Shoes For the Monkey.

A Washington police court, says The Green Bag, had occasion to pass upon the momentous question whether the proprietor of a monkey can be compelled to furnish it with shoes. On the complaint of some benevolent idiot Pietro Florello, by profession a hand organist, was hauled into the temple of justice to answer a charge of cruelty to animals, in that he was utilizing a barefooted monkey in the collection of his precarious income. After a careful research into the law of domestic relations the court reached the conclusion that Signor Florello was under no legal obligation to furnish his friend with footgear, and the case was accordingly dismissed.

PLAITED COSTUMES.

Increasing Vogue of This Style of Ornamentation.

The question of plaits is becoming extremely important. Beginning with skirts, they have gradually invaded every part of the costume—bodices, boleros, sleeves, collars, even coats. The plaits are of the bonffant order, but are flat and so arranged that the gown clings as closely to the figure as if they did not exist. The plaited costume is always made upon a plain, perfectly fitted lining. In some cases the material may be plaited—and stitched, of course—in the piece and cut afterward like plain goods. In other cases, however, the plaits require to be laid over a dress form in order that they may be adjusted to the lines of the figure. The fitted lining is first placed upon the form; then the plaits are laid and pinned or basted in place, and after they are properly arranged they are stitched to the lining.

The quality of the goods also influences the plaiting. The thinner and lighter it is the more numerous the plaits may be, and vice versa.

A picture is given of a new coat model. It is of cloth and is tight, with a very long basque and rounded fronts. It has immense revers and opens over a double breasted vest of white cloth which also has large revers and is fastened with two rows of gold buttons. The tight sleeves have turned back cuffs of white cloth. The collar is of velvet, the cravat of lace. All the edges of the coat are finished with stitching.

FANCY DRESS.

Coiffures For Dinners Where Guests Come In Character.

This winter sees a revival in Paris of the fancy dress dinners and balls of which that lively city never grows tired. Now is the accepted time for them, and until Lent there will be a constant succession of gayeties. A favorite style of amusement is a dinner at which the fancy dress effect extends no further than the head, the rest of the costume being of the ordinary evening type. As only the upper part of the toilet is much in evidence at dinner, this simplifies matters very much. Some historical person is chosen, or an allegorical character, or, in fact, anything suitable for any fancy ball, and the head is dressed in accordance as far as possible. Wigs, hats, turbans, all accessories which can aid the representation, are admissible. This is a far easier method of indulging in fancy costumes than an entertainment where the entire toilet is to be in character.

A picture is given of a complete costume of the period of 1825. The scant skirt of myrtle green silk has a deep flounce cut in points and headed by a large ruche. The flounce falls over a facing of plaid silk. The bodice, plaited in front, has a pointed decolletage falling off the shoulders surrounded by a deep bertha of lace. The half length sleeves are full, and the gloves have openwork tops. There is a belt fastened by an oval buckle, and around the neck is a ruche of plaited mousseline de soie. The enormous hat is covered with stretched myrtle green satin with a ruche and bow of green ribbon and a cluster of flowers under the brim. A bag of plaid silk is carried.

OPPOSED TO LYNCHING.

New Governor of Mississippi Is a Bitter Enemy of Mob Law and Its Many Evils.

Gov. A. H. Longino, Mississippi's new anti-lynch law executive, is a comparatively young man, a native of Mississippi, a former legislator and a citizen whose reputation as no lover of the negro makes his words on the question of lynching of peculiar interest. He expressed a genuine abhorrence of those outrages that are classified under the term lynchings, and called attention to the increase in their number in his own state.

The new governor is not yet 44 years old. He is eminently a self-made man.

HON. A. H. LONGINO.
(The New Governor of the State of Mississippi.)

His parents were poor citizens of Lawrence county, and were unable to give to their son an education such as his ambitions desired. This, however, did not deter him or discourage him. He labored day and night to pay for the schooling he received in Mississippi college at Clinton. He had hardly finished his education when he was offered the chancery clerkship of his county. This was his first public office, and he improved his opportunity by becoming an active worker in local and county politics. While still a very young man he was elected state senator, and displayed remarkable ability in the numerous and spirited debates in which he participated during those days when the state was trying to establish the supremacy of the white race in government.

Gov. Longino when he left the senate was appointed district attorney for the southern district of Mississippi. In 1896, when Gov. McLaurin was inaugurated, he appointed Mr. Longino chancellor of the Seventh chancery district. This office he resigned last May in order to launch himself in the race for the democratic nomination for governor. As chancellor he gained the prestige in the delta counties and the piney woods counties which enabled him to secure these counties to his side for the nomination.

Mrs. Longino, the wife of the governor, was formerly Miss Marion Buckley, a beautiful and accomplished society girl of Jackson. It is expected that the executive mansion will shine as a social center during the term of Gov. Longino. His wife is certainly capable of making a brilliant success of her opportunities as a hostess. The Longinos have three sons and one daughter.

ORIGINAL RESIDENCE.

Singular Architecture of an Oklahoma Man's House Now in Course of Construction.

Charles Babcock, of Guthrie, horseshoer, alderman and an admirer of pugilism, is building the most remarkable house in Oklahoma. Babcock's house is three stories high and as round as a silver dollar just from the mint. The upper stories are each smaller in diameter than the one below. On top of the third story is a staff, crowned with a glittering ball. The lower floor is divided into three rooms, each resembling in shape a slice of pie. Along the wall of one room is a narrow stairway to the second story.

One of Babcock's troubles is to get his furniture to fit. If his beds and tables and chairs and sofas were round he could arrange matters with less difficulty. Somebody has remarked that a stranger would walk himself to death trying to get into the house on a dark night, going continually in a circle, in an attempt to find the door.

Babcock will complete his house by building a circular porch entirely around it. His home is in West Guthrie and commands a pretty view of the Cottonwood valley. Babcock drew his own plans and is proud of his architectural production. He said that he built the house just to have one different from any other.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 18—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

(Topic.—The sin of liquor selling. How end it? —Hab. ii, 1-15. (Quarterly temperance meeting.)

Habakkuk was one of the most graphic and pointed writers among the Hebrew prophets. He incidentally in this chapter describes the enormity of what we may call liquor selling today by using it figuratively to describe the havoc and devastation caused by the triumphant and conquering Chaldeans. The figure was pointed in his day, but today it may be reversed. The devastation of the Chaldeans may illustrate to us the enormity and cruelness of the liquor traffic, only that the latter is a thousandfold worse, and the woe of God pronounced upon the Chaldeans may be looked upon as God's woe upon those that give their neighbors strong drink and put the bottle to their lips.

The saloon is the most dangerous factor in American national life today. It is often an outlaw and the harborer of outlaws. It is a lawbreaker and an educator of lawbreakers. It ruins homes, hearts, lives and souls by selling to man that which robs him of reason and judgment.

How is this traffic to be ended? No one but God knows. When we face this gigantic evil, we feel like crying out, "How long, O Lord, how long?"

Two possible ways of ending liquor selling suggest themselves:

1. The manufacture and sale of all intoxicating liquors as a beverage could be prohibited by law and the law enforced. This would soon end liquor selling. Men could not sell what they did not have. Prohibition will prohibit if those who execute the laws are faithful to their vows. It has never had a fair trial, but wherever tried has been more of a success than most people imagine. Prohibition has come the nearest of any other solution offered to stop liquor selling and if it were a law in all our states would reduce liquor making and selling to a minimum. License is a failure. It neither reduces the amount made nor the amount sold, but simply increases the revenues of the few who secure licenses.

2. Men may be so educated that there will be no demand or sale for intoxicating drinks. This will also stop liquor selling. Do away with liquor buyers, and there will soon be no liquor sellers. This is the distinctive work of the church and of Christian Endeavor. The church is not a political machine, but a school for education and training. The task seems hopeless, but "all things are possible with God." Liquor selling will never cease until liquor drinking ceases or until the public conscience is so aroused against this gigantic curse and evil that its extermination shall be demanded. Public sentiment makes laws and enforces laws. In this campaign the church should take the lead. It should teach the young the enormity of the drink evil. It should earnestly strive by the power of the gospel to reclaim the lost and by every means should try to arouse the sleeping consciences of men against this evil and create such a strong public sentiment against it that the saloon will have to go.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Let the good citizenship committee have charge of this meeting. Get a temperance speaker, if possible, to deliver an address. If not, have brief addresses: (1) "The Open Saloon," (2) "The Licensed Saloon," (3) "The Prohibited Saloon," (4) "Education and the Saloon."

Bible Readings.—Ex. xx, 13; Lev. x, 8, 9; Num. vi, 1-14; Judg. xiii, 1-14; Prov. xx, 1; xxiii, 29-32; Mnth. xviii, 7; xxvi, 41; Luke i, 13-15; Rom. xiv, 7-23; 1 Cor. iii, 16, 17; vi, 10; Gal. v, 19-26.

Duty Measured by Ability.

We all come short of our duty in one way or another. Some come very far short of their duty; others, however, not as far as we might think or as they perhaps think, for let it not be forgotten that duty is measured by ability. No one is held responsible for what he is not able to do. The ought does not attach to the impossible. No one ought to do what he cannot do, but every one ought to do what he is able to do in and for the kingdom of our Lord. The standard of duty is consequently as various as individuals are various. Ability is the measure. — Reform Church Messenger.

The Danger of Going Too Far.

Overdoing is undoing. A cake burned to a crisp is as much a failure as a cake half baked. An audience wearied, confused and vexed with too many points in a sermon or too many addresses at an anniversary is an audience hindered instead of helped. It is a great faculty to "make things go," but one of the ways to do it is to stop before going too far.—Churchman.

Need Careful Study.

Though I am an old doctor of divinity, to this day I have not got beyond the children's learning, the Ten Commandments, the Creed and the Lord's Prayer, and these I understand not so well as I should, though I study them daily, praying with my son John and my daughter Magdalen.—Martin Luther.

God Gives Power.

Consecration is not the act of our feelings, but of our will. Do not try to feel anything. God is working in you to will, whether you feel it or not. He is giving you power at this moment to will and to do His good pleasure. Believe this and act upon it.—Meyer.

Advance Fearlessly and Bravely.

If you trust in God and yourself, you can surmount any obstacle. Do not yield to restless anxiety. One must not always be asking what may happen to one in life, but he must advance fearlessly and bravely.—Prince Bismarck

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 18, "The Sin of Liquor Selling." Text, Hab. ii, 1-17.

"Woe to him that giveth his neighbor drink and maketh him drunken."

Perverted appetites for intoxicants have for ages led men of all grades of intelligence and in all climes into an indulgence which has ever resulted in disaster and disgrace to individuals and the community. Vice, poverty, disease, crime and ills beyond calculation are accompaniments of the use of the beverages. Even those most enslaved recognize the degradation they suffer. Some loathe themselves, but are powerless to improve. The magnitude of the ruin in any case is appalling. All bodily vigor and beauty blight under the touch of the curse. Mental faculties flame up with unwonted brilliancy and shrivel. All purity of soul and delicacy become leprous and turn to hideous deformity. The evil has no single redeeming feature.

How end it? That is the momentous question of the hour. Persuasion to reformation has done much and can do much more, but multitudes who would be pure and strong fail in the face of open and persistent temptation. Exhaustion in many kinds of business makes a craving for stimulants. Custom commends their use. To resist the temptation requires not only clear conviction of the evil effect of their use, but also strength of purpose and mind to oppose custom and to brave sneers of associates in many cases.

Social circles have not all banished the wineglass. Too many of the young acquire the fatal appetite in the circles of fashionable society. No home, however wealthy or refined, is secure from the menace to its peace and happiness presented by the saloon as it exists in our midst. Clubs are, if possible, greater evils in a community than the open saloon. The very selectness and exclusiveness make the gilded iniquity all the more fascinating and deadly.

False logic and false economy in dealing with the traffic so as to make it a source of governmental revenue make the problem of suppression and extermination all the more difficult. People who would not manufacture or sell will rent buildings for the sale of liquors and argue that they do no harm. Avarice and lust are the twin pillars which uphold this temple of Dagon. Oh, for a Samson to heave them off their bases!

For Others' Sake.

You think you are too busy or too tired to go to the week evening prayer meeting. Engagements press so, and days are so short. Business and social duties are taxing in city and country. Then, too, one can live a Christian life if he doesn't go to every meeting. One can't be expected to do nothing but go to church. Besides, the meetings lately have been so dull, few of the young folks come and the services are slow and dragging. That's the excuse.

How would it do to talk with God a little on your knees about it? Tell Him the trouble and ask Him to give a little more time. More likely than not He will show you how to get rid of some of your hurry and engagements and find time for meeting fellow Christians in worship. Some need it even if you don't feel the need. For their sakes deny self a trifle. Use your talents in adding interest to singing, prayer and speaking. Ask others to come. Be prompt, be regular, be helpful. Sit up front. Take part. Do it for others and find the benefit it will do you.

Is It Practicable?

That is the question asked so frequently of late. Can the teachings of Jesus be carried out in everyday life? Will it not ruin business? Can one remain in society and still be a Christian? Does it not become impossible in these days to apply literally the principles of the New Testament? "In His Steps" has had the largest circulation of any book written in recent times. Thought is awakened, and interest in the possibility of applying the sermon on the mount to daily life is aroused. The signs of the times point to a more earnest desire to make religion practical rather than theoretical. "What would Jesus do?" is on many lips. Not a few are resolved to ask in every doubtful situation just that question and to decide each time in accordance with His will, so far as they can know it. They believe it possible to love God with all the heart and the neighbor as oneself.

"I Will Arise and Go."

That's what takes moral nerve. There is no harder thing in all this world to do than to get up from among the swine, ragged, hungry, filthy, weak, faculties impaired and love perverted and will strengthless, and say, "I will go to my Father."

The very fact that men do rise and go and get there does much to strengthen faith in human nature. The far country lost ones are all around us. Contempt and condemnation are what they get from the larger part of the people. Ought we not to have more compassion on them?

Understood.

Thou know'st, Lord—
Thou know'st my life's deep story
And all the mingled good and ill I do;
Thou see'st my shame,
My few stray gleams of glory,
Where I am false
And where my soul rings true.

Lord, I am glad
Thou know'st my inmost being,
Glad Thou dost search the secrets of my heart.
I would not hide
One folly from Thy seeing
Nor shun Thy healing touch
To save the smart.

Only, dear Lord,
Make plain the path of duty.
Let not my shame and sorrow weigh me down,
Lest in despair I fail to see its beauty
And, weeping vainly,
Miss the victor's crown.

—Henry W. Hawkes.

DARK SIDE OF LIFE.

Strange Hospital Incident Which Furnishes Food for Thought.

Leroy Mason, Reared by an Old Colored Servant, After Mamma's Death Becomes His Real Mother's "Adopted Son."

[Special Washington Letter.]

VERY many strange things happen in large cities, and the telling of them all would fill various libraries with stories of real life, and "of the making of books there would be no end."

The foundling asylums are interesting places to those who are inclined to reflection and contemplation, because therein we see the beginnings of the lives of men and women who are to take their places in the affairs of the immediate future. No matter how well the waifs may be reared, they never know the real meaning of the word "home." They see other children with fathers and mothers, but they must live in ignorance of their own ancestry. That one thought alone incites the mind to pity and compassion.

Men forget their children and desert their wives in the mad race of life. Women cling to their offspring as long as they can hold them to their breasts. They also cling to their husbands "for better or for worse," even after they have found them to be much worse than they could have anticipated. Therefore it is that we have such deep sympathy for both mother and child when they are deserted. But no human being can fully realize the condition of a little one bereft of both father and mother.

Not long ago there came to one of the hospitals of this city a negro woman of middle age, bearing in her arms a white child only a few weeks old, begging shelter for the child and for herself because she was sick and threatened with malarial fever. The negro woman was given a cot in the free ward and the white child was taken in charge by one of the nurses. The woman soon became delirious and was seriously ill with typhoid fever. Two months passed away before she was able to leave the hospital. She said that the baby had been given to her to care for, but she would not tell the name of its parents.

When she was able to leave the hospital she asked permission to go to her rooms to get new clothing for the white baby, saying that she would return within an hour. She was permitted to go. Two weeks have passed away and she has not returned. The little waif was finally turned over to the care of sisters of charity in charge of an orphan asylum. It will grow to manhood and never know who were its father and mother.

Of course the child will never know the true meaning of the word "home," and what the future portends for it nobody can dare to foretell.

The average reader will say that there are thousands of such cases, and that is true. This incident is narrated simply to point a moral and adorn a tale. Those who sin forget the effects of their wrong-doing. They forget that there is a time coming when everything will be laid bare before the awful tribunal of conscience, when "the rich and the poor shall be gathered together, for the Lord is the Maker of us all."

The little baby referred to may have a life of goodness or the reverse. Its parents cannot tell. But this little one has had many predecessors like unto itself ushered into the mystery of life; and of one of them this story is told to show the effects of the abandonment of children.

Leroy Mason is a white boy nine years of age, who attends one of our public schools. He is a handsome little fellow, always standing well in his classes, and always punctual in attendance upon the school sessions. He never invited any of the children to his home, and the teacher never saw his father or mother. A few days ago he was found begging on the streets, begging food for his mother, who, he said, was very sick and probably dying.

The case was reported to the police department, and was investigated by the board of children's guardians. The boy led an inspector to an attic with two rooms in the heart of the city, opposite the patent office building. There, upon a little straw pallet, lay the suffering "mother" of this little boy. She was a negro woman, upwards of 80 years old, and was manifestly in a dying condition. She was taken to a hospital, and the boy was given to one of the ladies in charge of home missionary work. This lady gave him a comfortable room and attended to his wants with maternal care. She learned from the boy that he had written letters to certain parties for his "mother," but he would not give any further information.

The old negro woman when taken to the hospital declined to tell anything of his parentage. Her name is Lucy Mason, and the little white boy took her name. This faithful old negro "mammy" had worked and toiled for the boy, until she broke down in health. Then the little fellow neglected his school, stayed away from his Sunday school, and took care of her, until he was obliged to go upon the streets and beg for aid. Woman and child were apparently devotedly attached to each other, and both of them cried when they were separated.

The officers of the police force and the ladies of the missionary society shook their heads and admitted that in all of their experience with fallen and suffering humanity they had never known nor heard of such a case. The old negro woman said that the child was given to her to keep, that she knew its parents, but she would not give their names nor say anything which would enlighten the authorities. She said that she knew she was dying, and she would die contented if she could only be assured that some kind person would care for "her boy." She said that when Leroy Mason was only six weeks old he was given to her, and that she had promised to never tell anyone anything about his origin.

"I was a slave," she said, "and I lived with the family until after the war. Then I came to Washington because the family was scattered, and I was free. But I always loved the family, for all of them were kind to me. I will never tell anything about them, for they were good people always, and I loved my little mistress."

That was all, save that she said she belonged to the Mason family, took her name from that family, and that Mason was the correct name of the boy. She also said that she had lived in Virginia. Inasmuch as the Mason family of Virginia is a large family, it was, of course, well-nigh impossible to ascertain to which branch of that family little Leroy belonged. The mystery was not solved by these slight admissions.

But the boy was in the hands of a good kind woman, who soon gained his confidence. She told him that his "mother" would not live, and that his parents must be found, in order that some one might be required to care for him. Finally he said that his "mother" used to receive letters, which were read to her by colored girls and sometimes by white gentlemen who were called in to her attic rooms for that purpose. His "mother" had urged him to study hard at school, in order that some day he might read letters for her, and write letters for her. Within the last two years he has been able to read her letters for her, and write letters in reply. But he would not tell anything unless his "mother" gave him permission to do so. He was taken to the hospital several times to see her, but the old woman adjured him never to tell. He persisted in his silence, saying that he would never disobey her.

He had not only been sent to school, but he was one of the beloved little attendants of Calvary Baptist Sunday school, and his teachers were all interested in him; particularly when they ascertained, through the daily papers, that there was a mystery concerning his birth and parentage. He was well bred, well mannered and manifested the refinement of gentle breeding. His old guardian had been reared as a house servant in a Virginia family, and those house servants in the old Virginia families well knew how to bring up children.

At last old Lucy Mason died in the hospital, carrying with her to the grave the mystery of Leroy Mason's parentage. But fortunately she had lived long enough to have the little fellow read her letters and answer them for her, and he knew his mother's name and address. The lady who had taken him into her home then convinced him that, inasmuch as his "mother" was gone, and what he might say could do her no harm, but would benefit himself, he gave the desired information, and himself wrote a letter to his real mother, telling her that he was alone, helpless and in charge of strangers. The letter was addressed to Buffalo, N. Y.

An answer came quickly. His mother is married; happily married. She has a family, and will take Leroy as her "adopted son" with the consent of her husband. How this matter will be cleared up in the domestic atmosphere is not known. But the little fellow is to have a home at last, with his real mother.

But what of his future? Poor little fellow! He is to be the "adopted son" of his own mother. Truly truth is stranger than fiction.

SMITH D. FRY.

It Would Seem So.

"It's a long lane that has no turning," remarked the man who owns a book of popular quotations.

"Now I should think," said the other fellow, "that a long lane would be more likely to have turnings than a short one."—N. Y. Journal.

VARICUS SPORTS.

There is a prospect that a novice gymnastic contest will be started at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium shortly. The contest last year included ten events which were run off two an evening every two weeks. The contest lasted so long that the interest began to flag. If one is held this year, it will be run off on three nights, four of the easiest events one night and three of the other two events on the other two evenings. There is quite an interest shown at present in the prospect of such a contest.

BASKET BALL.

Now that there are practically two basket ball teams in the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, there has been a desire on the part of many to see the two teams meet in a friendly contest The old players are confident the even with the lack of practice they can defeat the new players without trouble while the latter are equally certain that they could make a good fight for victory should the meeting be allowed. There is little prospect of the game taking place, however. While both teams would be glad of the chance for a game, it is believed by some in the association that such a match would excite too much rivalry and that the game would take on features that would not be desirable. So the question of supremacy is likely to remain undecided.

ROD AND GUN.

A sparrow shoot will be held at Campbell's road house this afternoon. Tom Brantingham and Ed Campbell will shoot a match of twenty-five birds for $25 a side.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Among the papers contained in one of the wallets stolen by pickpockets at the time of Bryan's visit here and afterwards hidden in the flush tank in the City Hotel toilet rooms, was a clipping from a newspaper. After the finders had read the clipping they were greatly impressed with the wisdom of he that lost the wallet. The clipping contained the following bright thought:

You may find honesty among thieves, truth among liars, and wisdom among fools, but you will never find a spark of manhood, womanhood or principle in the meddler. The liar may chronicle the truth by mistake, the fool may say wise things by accident, but the man who noses around and mixes up in other people's affairs will ever remain the same contemptible, unprincipled cur.

Rahway, Feb. 16—The board of directors of the new Rahway National Bank have decided to call for 50 per cent. of the amount of the stock subscribed for the new institution. The amount called for is payable at an early date, which indicates that they are getting ready for business. Bank furniture is being placed in position in the room in the Exchange building, which was used by the old National Bank here years ago.

There are rumors that a new State bank is to take the place of the Union County Bank, which closed its doors January 6th after a run of two days by its depositors. Cashier Sherwood is said to be managing the organization, but he refuses to disclose who is behind the scheme.

Funeral of Late J. O. Campbell.

Wednesday afternoon last the funeral of the late J. O. Campbell was held from the home in the Babcock building. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass was in charge of the service, and was assisted by Rev Mr. Burch, of New York, who for many years was a personal friend of the departed. The latter offered an impressive prayer, after which Dr. Snodgrass spoke of the life and character of Mr. Campbell. The remains were placed in the receiving vault at Hillside and will be interred at the the convenience of the family.

Touched a Tender Chord.

The efforts that are being made by a number of charitably-disposed women of this city to raise funds with which to send Wm. Cosgrove from the hospital to his home in California, has touched a respondent chord in the hearts of other women who are charitably inclined. Yesterday afternoon a lady called at this office and left $3 to be used for the above purpose, and it will be forwarded to the women who have the matter in charge. The donor does not care to have her name mentioned in connection with the gift.

An Aged Man Drowned in a Well.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, February 16.—Andrew Streeter, aged seventy years, was drowned in his well at his home in Pattenburg yesterday. Mr. Streeter went to a chicken house to care for his fowls. As he was gone a long time the family became alarmed, and began a search, which resulted in the finding of his body in the well. It is believed that the old man attempted to dip some water from the well, and, becoming unbalanced, fell head foremost into it.

Mayor Smalley Decides Not to Send His Message Till After the Borough Election—Annual Reports are Presented and Borough Books Found to be in Ex cient Condition by Experts.

The annual meeting of the Mayor and Borough Council was held last evening and it was principally taken up with the presentation of reports and the discussion of disbursements and expenditures of money. The Mayor decided that he would wait until after the borough election before he presented his annual message, and he could then make such recommendations as he thought wise for the coming year's work.

A petition was received from Chas. Hyde and others asking for a crosswalk on Brook avenue. Patrick Eagan asked the Council to look after the sidewalks between Grandview and Mountain avenues on Westervelt avenue, which he claimed are in bad condition.

Mr. Clark, chairman of the street commit ee, presented his report which showed the receipts during the year to be $367.17, outside of the appropriation, of $3,500. The disbursements were $3 524.65. There is a balance on hand of $340.52 Mr. Rogers, chairman of the fire, water and lamps committee, reported that the sum of $1,287.32 had been expended in the fire department, $1,264.75 in the water department, and $4,981 44 for street lighting. He also submitted a communication from E. L. Suffern, the expert, who had examined all books and accounts of the borough and found them correct, with one exception, and that was that Collector Brown had charged himself with $1 more than was necessary. He also paid a compliment to Harvey G. Thorn, who had assisted him in the work. As Mr. Suffern had given his services gratuitously, a hearty vote of thanks was extended to him through a resolution.

Mrs. Burtis, chairman of the committee on marshals, reported that the force consists of four regulars and fifteen specials. During the year seventy-eight arrests were made and $206.59 was received from fines. The sum of $59.56 was expended for commitment papers, meals and incidentals, and special mention was made of Special Marshals Block and Reagan as being the only specials to make arrests Everything was reported to be in the best of condition.

The annual report of George F. Brown, as collector and treasurer, was the presented. It is as follows: Cash balance, February 9d, 1899, $634.50; Watchung avenue, $471.21; borough fund, $163 29; received from taxes, $55,526.74; interest and cost, $2,483.57; licenses, fines, etc., $2,830 52; Watchung avenue, $18 816.48; bills payable, by note, $15,700. Total recepts, $95,357.31; total cash, $95,991.81; disbursements, borough general fund, being amounts paid over on warrants for various funds described in Clerk Rowley's report, $40,375.73, total amount; Watchung avenue bonds, $19,000; interest on Watchung avenue bonds, $1 246 56; fire department bonds, $500; interest on loans, $563.33; bills payable, by note, $17,700; Board of Education fund, $15,586 78; Board of Health, $479.53; total, $95,451 93; balance February 3, 1900, borough account, $252 19; Watchung avenue, $287 69; total, $539.88; total cash, $95,991 81; cash on hand, $539 88; unpaid taxes, $10,267.29; less Board of Health, $204, and Board of Education, $6,160, making a total of $6,364 that the Board of Health and Board of Education have not received. This amount has not yet been collected.

Overseer of the Poor David R. Weaver reported a balance of $118 43 on hand out of an appopriation of $1,800. At this time Mayor Smalley stated that he did not think it wise to confirm the appointments of the commissioners in the widening of Somerset street as there is a chance that a majority of the property-owners may sign to dedicate the necessary amount of land, and this matter was therefore laid over for the present.

The question of how much will be needed for the several departments for the next year was then taken up and discussed at some length. In some instances the appropriations were reduced. Mayor Smalley stated that during the year Watchung avenue from Grandview to Mountain avenues, Duer street from Linden avenue to Greenbrook road, and Westervelt avenue from Summit to Mountain avenues, should be macadamized and he thought the street appropriation should be increased. The whole amount thought necessary was decided upon as $20,100, divided as follows: Police, $3 000, reduced from $4,000; fire, $1,800, same as last year; roads, $4,500, increase of $1,000; lights, $5,000, same as last year; water, $1,300, same as last year; poor, $1,500, reduction of $300; incidentals, $2,000, reduction of $1,000.

Mr. Rogers stated that he thought it would be necessary to purchase some new hose for the fire department, hence he thought the appropriation should remain the same for fire purposes. It was also stated by Mr. Clark that the sum of $400 had been saved last year in borough engineer work, under the plan adopted by the street committee, which was commended. It was decided by the Council to have 1,200 copies of the borough report published and distributed throughout the borough. This concluded the business and the meeting adjourned. The borough report will be out next week.

Exhibition of Photographs an Interesting Feature of a Congregational Church Sociable.

Maurice A. Audsley's exhibition of photograps was one of the interesting features at the Congregational church last evening on the occasion of the sociable given by the ladies of the Christian Endeavor Society and which was under the direction of Mrs. Alex. Miller, Mrs. J. P. Emmons and Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux. There were other "photos" shown too that were the work of both the young women and men who attend this church. Besides the display of the amateur artists there was also an entertaining diversion of book-guessing by way of the illustrations. During the evening Mr. Audsley rendered several violin solos in a very acceptable manner. Musical selections were also given by others that were pleasant features of the affair. Light refreshments were served before the close of the entertainment which proved to be one of the most delightful of those occasionally provided by the young people of this denomination.

A Fine Showing.

We recommend to our readers a careful perusal in today's issue of the history of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, as exemplified in its twenty-fourth annual statement. Figures tell a history; they are facts, and therefore are always interesting and entertaining to business men. Probably no single industry in the financial world has had such a rapid rate of growth in the last few years as life insurance. This growth, truly wonderful, can in a large measure be justly attributed to the Prudential. For years this company has conducted a campaign of education, demonstrating to the masses the value of life insurance as a means for protection of the home and the family. The popular way in which this all-important subject was, and still is, presented, served admirably to gain popularity for life insurance in general and for the Prudential in particular. The policies issued by the company supplied a need which had been keenly felt. The following is quoted from the statement: Assets, $33 946 760, an increase over previous year of more than $5,000,000; income, over $20,000,000; surplus, more than $6,000,000; new business, over $222,600 000. Total amount of insurance in force, $502,201,485.

AN OLD TIME FAVORITE.

ED. HARRIGAN TO BE AT MUSIC HALL NEXT WEEK.

He Will Present "Old Lavender"—A Minstrel Troupe Will be Seen Washington's Birthday—Good Repertoire Coming.

Manager Maze Edwards announces two splendid attractions for the coming week, the first of which will be presented Tuesday night and marks the first appearance in many years of the favorite and well-known author-actor, Edward Harrigan.

Mr. Harrigan has been justly termed, by W. D. Howells, the Dickens of America, and will present his wonderful character creation of "Old Lavender." Mr. Harrigan acts this strongly pathetic, yet grotesque character in all its phases with rare skill. His impersonation is as remarkable for elaboration and delicacy as it is for humor. It is a wonderfully natural piece.

On Thursday—Washington's Birthday—two great holiday performances will be given by the Culhane, Chase and Weston Minstrels, in conjunction with the famous St. Felix Sisters who are for the first time in many years, united in their presentations and work. No better minstrel company is before the public than the Culhane, Chase and Weston organization. They number 45 people all told, every one an artist, and make up two magnificent uniformed bands who appear in the street parade. Everything connected with the company is novel and complete and the beautiful "first part" scene, is said to be a marvel of the painter's art. The Three St. Felix Sisters have won reputation in Europe and America, and are vocalists and dancers of the highest rank. With the minstrels they introduce a novelty singing and dancing act in black face, costumed in lavish manner, with electric and scenic effects, marvelous lights and colors. There will be a matinee performance at 2:15 in the afternoon and again at night.

For the week commencing February 26th, the Macauley-Patton Company make their first appearance in a repertoire of new plays. No better endorsement could be given than the following from the Wheeling, W. Va., Press.

"The Macauley-Patton company opened a week's engagement in "The Minister's Son" at the Opera House last night. The fact that the "Standing Room Only" sign was early placed in the lobby is evidence that the company is going to repeat its unqualified success of last season. It can truthfully be said that the Macauley Patton company is among the best of the many r pertoire organizations that have visited this city."

Mony novelties are promised in months of March, April and May, and our amusement seekers will have no cause for complaint for lack of first-class theatrical entertainment.

GETTING EXPERIENCE.

Normal School Senior Taking the Place of Sick Teacher at Franklin School.

Miss Ina Wright, a senior at the Trenton Normal School, is spending a month in the Plainfield public schools for observation and practice. She is now taking the place of Miss Florence Turton, of the Franklin School, who is confined at home with the mumps. Miss Wright's month will expire next week, and she will then be succeeded by Miss Louise Smith, another senior, who will spend a month here. It is part of the regular Normal School training for the young women to spend a month in some large public school to see the practical workings of the school system.

In the absence of Miss Carrie Runyon, teacher of the High School preparatory class at the Stillman Public School, on account of illness, Miss Potter, of New York, is acting as substitute. Miss Remington, a member of the senior class at the Trenton Normal School, was in charge of the class for a week and then returned to her studies. Miss Runyon is still quite ill, and it may be several weeks before she will be able to return to her duties.

Elizabeth Man Missing.

Earnest Lucking, a well-to-do milkman living in Third avenue, Elizabeth, is missing. He went to Keron's livery office Monday night and had him send his horse and wagon to the farm on Salem road for milk. It is feared Lucking has committed suicide.

DUER STREET TO BE OPENED TO THE CITY.

Mayor Smalley Has Taken Up the Project.

NEED ONLY TO RAISE $500.

IT IS THOUGHT THAT THIS WILL BE SUBSCRIBED.

The Sentiment of City and Borough is in Favor of the Improvement—It is Thought That Union and Somerset Freeholders Will be Glad to Erect Necessary Bridge Over Brook.

Once more the project of extending Duer street into this city has been taken up and there is every reason to believe that this time it will be a success, for the borough's enterprising and progressive Mayor is back of it. Through the efforts of Mayor Smalley a petition was started last evening for the purpose of securing subscriptions to the amount of $500. If this amount is pledged for the project the balance of the expense, whatever it may be, will be provided for and thus the success of project will be assured.

The benefits to be derived from this improvement cannot be estimated, and there is a general sentiment in favor of it from both borough and city people. The persons who own the property on the city side have always stood willing to assist in the opening and extension of this street, and they will no doubt stand true to that purpose now.

The expense attached to the work of extending the street is comparatively small when the benefits are considered, and Mayor Smalley is being commended heartily for having taken up the scheme with the idea of pushing it through. There seems to be no reasonable doubt but what the necessary $500 will be raised in a short time, and then the work can be started and completed during the early summer The opening of the street will give borough people a short cut to the postoffice and the principal stores on Front street without having to go a considerable distance around the block.

If the street is opened there is no doubt but what the Board of Freeholders of both Union and Somerset counties will gladly consent to erect a suitable bridge over the brook and put something there that will be a credit to both borough and city. So far assurances have been given that the money can be raised. Those who contribute will do so with the understanding that the money will be returned if the project is not successfully carried out within a prescribed length of time. This proviso will excite enthusiasm and assist greatly in the enterprise.

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL.

Blind Evangelist Converting Many at Monroe Avenue Church.

The meetings at Monroe Avenue church this week have been largely attended and exceedingly profitable. The young people of the Sunday-school and of the Junior League have been especially influenced for good, many of them having dedicated themselves to the services of God.

The preaching and singing of Rev. Thomas Houston are of an almost irresistable power. He will preach to families tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

He will also preach at the evening service at which time an opportunity for uniting with the church will be given to those who desire to do so. Monday evening Mr. Houston will tell the story of his life.

Bought 100 Lots at Garwood.

The Aeolian Organ Company recently purchased 100 lots of the Garwood Land and Improvement Company. The property is situated on the south side of the Central Railroad tracks, and, it is said, houses will be erected for the men to be employed at the organ works. Mr. Votey and Mr. Perkins looked over the property and were identified in the transfer of the land. The lots are scattered on all streets on the south side.

Borough Councilmanic Candidate.

It is predicted by the knowing ones that Harrison Coddington will be a candidate for re-election at the coming borough election for Councilmanic honors, and that J. E. McClintock, of Fairview avenue, will be a candidate for the position in the Council now held by Murray Burtis. These nominations will be made by the Republicans.

A Quick Lunch Place.

F. A VanNest, of Bound Brook, has rented the vacant store at 206 Park avenue, and is fitting it up for a lunch room, where he will serve regular meals and a quick lunch to the business men and others.

RUSHING THE SEASON.

LAWN FESTIVAL OF EPWORTH LEAGUE WAS A GREAT SUCCESS.

Held in Basement of First M. E. Church and Attended by Young Folks in Pronounced Summer Costumes.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church defied the elements last evening and held a summer lawn festival. The guests came in summer costumes of white while special arrangements were made with the thermometer which remained in the vicinity of eighty degrees all the evening. Fans were brought into requisition and few of the young women, braver than the rest, even appeared with parasols intended, it is supposed, to protect them from the glare of the gas lights.

It was altogether a most unusual and unseasonable kind of a social but it was new and made a decided success. The affair was held in the basement of the church. Numerous evergreen trees were on every hand, two grass plots, one at either side of the room, were defended from rude treatment by warning signs, "Keep off the grass." These signs were afterwards appropriated by the young women for fans and taken home as souvinors. Flags and Japanese lanterns gave a bright appearance to the place.

The young people of the church entered into the spirit of the affair with much heartiness. The young women came in white and light gowns while the young men donned their white duck trousers and straw hats. The temperature of the room was kept well up and those who came in winter toggery realized the fact.

By way of entertainment there was a peanut hunt arranged on novel lines. James A. Stafford was the most successful and received a "peanut man" for his pains. Mrs. L. M. French won a bag of peanuts for having the poorest luck.

Everybody participated in a clothespin race, which was wildly exciting, and the remainer of the evening was devoted to conversation, bean bags and refreshments. The latter consisted of sandwiches, pickles, coffee and chocolate eclares.

The affair was arranged by the social committee of the Epworth League.

A CLEVER PERFORMANCE.

LeRoy, Fox and Powell Combination One of the Best Shows of Its Kind Ever Seen Here.

The performance given in Music Hall last night by the LeRoy, Fox and Powell combination was one of the best things of its kind ever witnessed in this city. The show won the appreciation and approbation of the audience from beginning to end. It is not too much to say that the members of the company are the finest artists in their line that were ever seen in this city. Messrs. LeRoy, Fox and Powell are not exceeded in cleverness and originality by either the late Hermann or the living Keller, both of whose names are associated with the best in the line of mystic acts. Their tricks and demonstrations last night were entertaining to a high degree, and were new and novel.

In conjunction with the performance of the magicians there were four other acts presented by talent that is not excelled in the best theatres in New York—in fact, the performers all frequently appear in the metropolis and are general favorites there. The work of Marini as a shadowgraphist was marvelous, and easily gives him the title of being the premier in that line. Keough and Ballard, in a travesty that displayed their versatile talents to good advantage, were pleasing, but the act that made the greatest hit was the musical skit given by Leiliott, Busch and Leiliott. The stage is surfeited with musical teams, but none that the writer has seen equals in comedy and excellence of music the trio with this company. Zazell and Vernon gave a comic bar performance that has no superior in either the silent fun of the performers or the wonderful feats that they go through The company should be greeted with a large house at tonight's performance.

ACT OF A DRUNKEN MAN.

Alleged Pickpocket Admits He Was Intoxicated and the Justice is Lenient With Him.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, February 17.—Robert Snyder, a well-know character of this place, was arraigned before Judge Clark yesterday morning, charged with assault and attempted pocket picking. The charge was made by George Layton, hostler at Emery's Hotel, who swore that Thursday night upon his return from Plainfield he stopped at Walpole's Hotel. Layton and Snyder got into conversation and had several drinks together, becoming quite 'chummy." Layton swore that Snyder's hand began getting nearer and nearer to his pocket, into which he had just put $4. Snyder's hand finally found the pocket and attempted to get into it. Layton remonstrated at this attempt at familiarity. During the struggle his pants were ruined. The matter rested until yesterday morning, when Layton appeared before Judge Clark and asked for a warrant for Snyder's arrest. The man was found at his shoemaker shop in the rear of the postoffice and brought before the Judge. After hearing the evidence of several witnesses and the prisoner's own admission that he was so drunk he did not know what he was doing, the Judge decided to discharge the prisoner with a severe reprimand and a warning that such a familiar act would not be tolerated again.

CAPTAIN DAVEY DEAD.

He Was Engaged in the Merchant Marine Trade, But Had Lived Quietly for Some Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Feb. 17—Captain Frederick Davey, aged 71, died at his home at Weston last Thursday night after an illness of only five days from heart and kidney trouble. Captain Davey was born in England, but had lived in this country for the past fifty years, when not engaged in sailing his vessel on the seas. He was engaged in the merchant marine trade and at the time of his death owned an interest in several vessels, although he had not actively participated in business for the past twenty-five years, having accumulated a good-sized fortune. A widow, three sons and two daughters survive him. One son, Wm. K., is in South America. The funeral will be held from his late residence, at 3:30 p. m., tomorrow. Interment in Bound Brook cemetery.

FAVOR STREET WIDENING.

The Improvement Proposed for the Borough is to be Approved by Property Owners.

The executors of the Peter Wooden estate on Somerset street and Richard Boyce are two of the latest signers to the petition for the widening of Somerset street. Several others have promised to sign at an early date. In connection with the widening of the street a false report has been circulated to the effect that those who have dedicated the necessary amount of land in front of their property will have to pay a large assessment. This is not true. There are now only two or three objectors who own much property, and it is hoped that they may join the majortty soon and agree to sign the petition and thus save considerable expense.

To Promote Sunday-School Work.

At a Sunday-school meeting to be held in the First Baptist church next Monday evening, the general subject of ways and means of promoting the object of Sunday-school work in Plainfield and vicinity, will be discussed, among others, by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. J. O. McKelvey and George E. Hall. All Sunday-school workers are earnestly invited to attend, and superintendents are asked to give notice of the meeting.

Robbed His Trousers.

Halstead Compton, of West Front street, reported to Chief Grant yesterday that some unknown person had entered his home and stole $20 from a pair of trousers which were hanging in closet. The trick was a clever one and there is little hope of catching the thief.

New Organ for Grace P. E. Church.

The officials of Grace P. E. church have purchased a handsome new church organ to replace the one that has been in use for so many years. It is hoped by the members that the new organ will be in position by Easter.

Thirty-one Conversions.

The revival meetings at the Mount Olive Baptist church closed with thirty-one conversions. Part of the number converted will be baptized tomorrow night, and the remainder Easter Sunday night.

LAST FORMAL DANCE BEFORE LENT BEGINS.

Third Assembly Held Last Evening at the Casino.

WAS A GREAT SUCCESS.

AN EXTRA ASSEMBLY WILL BE HELD EASTER MONDAY.

The Last of the Series of Society's Formal Dances Was Held Last Evening—Many Present—Complete Success of the Assemblies—Great Credit Due to C. E. Brooks—The Decorations.

The last of the assemblies, the most important social event before the beginning of the Lenten season, was as successful as the others in the series of society's formal dances. It was held last evening at the Casino and the usual throng of young people crowded the ball-room and the clubhouse adjoining. The regular subscribers were present besides a number of special guests, principally from out of town, and the evening passed off without aught to mar its pleasure.

When the announcement was first made in the fall that the assemblies would be resumed this season after an absence of two years, a doubt was expressed by some as to their success. That doubt was speedily dispelled and the assemblies have proved a complete success. Most of it is largely due, however, to the efforts of Charles E. Brooks, who has superintended the arrangements and made them so complete.

Last evening's dance came after a week of comparative quietness in local society circles. Last week the dance in the barn of Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk and the meeting of the Cotillion Club at the home of J. W. Reinhart were held. Everybody was ready for the assembly, however, and a brilliant gathering of those foremost in society was the result. The guests numbered more than a hundred and fifty and needed all the Casino to accommodate them. As usual the rooms in the clubhouse adjoining were thrown open for the convenience of the guests, and in them the local was served.

Despite the fact that it was the last of the dances, Mr. Brooks was inflexable regarding the time of closing. The music began at 8:30 o'clock and closed at 1 o'clock.

While this ends the series of assemblies, the great popularity of the series has induced the patronesses to arrange for another on Easter Monday night which will be independent of the present series and will yet be on the same lines and under the charge of Mr. Brooks. The subscribers for the dances now ended will probably all participate in the Easter dance together with the many young people who are now away at college and boarding school.

The patronesses for these series of dances are as follows: Mrs. Charles E Brooks, Mrs. Rowland Cox, Mrs. M. E. Edgerton, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Pliny Fisk, Mrs. William T. Kaufman. Mrs. Sylvanus L. Schoonmaker, Mrs. Henry M. Stockton and Mrs. H. P. Talmadge.

CRONJE ON THE RUN.

General French Reaches Kimberley and Pursues Him.

GREAT REJOICING IN ENGLAND.

General Roberts Believes the Boers Have Abandoned Their Position at Magersfontein—A Decisive Move Indicated at Colenso.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—General Cronje, with a start of a day or two, is seemingly in full retreat from Lord Roberts, moving northward. General French, with the cavalry, simply staid over night in Kimberley and then pushed on to get in touch with the retiring enemy. A long Boer wagon train is moving toward Bloemfontein, followed, presumably, by a large force of British infantry. In their hasty departure the Boers lost quantities of supplies and ammunition.

Military opinion here is that Lord Roberts will not push far after the Boers immediately, because of transport problems and the need of rest for the troops. He has to feed 70,000 persons in his army and the whole Kimberley population. He must rebuild the railway from Modder River to Kimberley and revictual the latter.

General French lost a few men only in action, but the forced marches and heat have probably made many ill. Numbers of remounts must be provided.

Lord Roberts has wrought a genuine preliminary success, and the impression is that he has done enough for the present. He will need to prepare for another strike.

All over England tonight there have been evidences of public joy. In every theater and public meeting, around the railway stations and in the streets there have been expressions of gladness and jubilation over the news. The newspapers are editorially rejoicing.

Those who read the news closely see only one disturbing factor in the Cape situation, and that is the pressure of the Boers toward Lord Roberts' line of supply through De Aar, which was never more important than now. The Boers under Commandants Delarey and Grobler are making a persistent effort to penetrate to the railway. They have pushed General Clements back to Arundel and have outflanked him. All are within 60 miles or two days' hard march of the Central railway. Doubtless Lord Roberts has left considerable forces along the line and can send back more if necessary.

The war office announces that General French reached Kimberley on Thursday evening.

Following is Lord Roberts' message to the war office, which is dated Jacobsdal, Feb. 16, at 2 a. m.:

"French, with a force of artillery, cavalry and mounted infantry, reached Kimberley this evening, Thursday."

A dispatch from Riet river, Orange Free State, dated Feb. 14, says:

"General French, in command of the cavalry division and with a strong force of horse artillery, left Modder river Sunday morning for Rambam, 12 miles east of Enslin, where the whole division concentrated. The next day he made a rapid march to Riet river, where a party of Boers contested his passage at Dekiel and Waterfall drifts. After some hours' shelling General French drove the Boers away and crossed the river.

"Yesterday (Tuesday) the column continued its march to Klip and Rondaval drifts, on the Modder river, where again a short engagement ensued, General French shelling the Boers vigorously and forcing a passage. The Boers precipitately retired, leaving five laagers in the hands of the British, besides a great quantity of cattle and 2,000 sheep.

"The rapidity of General French's march and the overwhelming nature of his force enabled him in spite of the difficulties of water transportation to thoroughly outwit and surprise the Boers. The British casualties were slight."

General Roberts also sent the following dispatch:

"Jacobsdal, Feb. 16.—I have good reason to believe the Magersfontein trenches have been abandoned and that the Boers are endeavoring to escape. General French is scouring the country north of Kimberley. One of General Kelly-Kenny's brigades of infantry is in pursuit of a large Boer convoy moving toward P[illegible]

"[illegible]mmerantein."

The following dispatch from General Roberts fills the gaps in the earlier dispatches:

"Modder River, Feb. 16.—The Sixth division left Waterfall drift early yesterday morning and marched here, going on the same evening to Rondeval drift to hold the crossing of the Modder river and leave General French free to act.

"Shortly after arriving here the mounted infantry visited Jacobsdal and found it full of women and children, with four of our wounded men, doing well.

"On the way back the mounted infantry were attacked, and nine men were wounded. Colonel Henry and Major Hatchell and ten men were missing. Both officers were subsequently found at Jacobsdal slightly wounded."

The war office has just issued the following from Lord Roberts:

"Jacobsdal, Feb. 16.—Much gratified on arrival here to find admirable hospital arrangements, made by the German ambulance corps under Drs. Kaettner and Hildebrand, who, with their staff, have shown the greatest kindness to our wounded, as they have to the Boer wounded. Some of our wounded have been here since December. Some were brought in yesterday."

The Daily Telegraph has the following dispatch from Naauw Poort, dated Feb. 13 and delayed in transmission:

"Very severe fighting occurred on both our flanks near Rensburg. The enemy greatly outnumbered our troops, being about 4,000 in number. They attacked the Worcestershire regiment on their hill and with desperate determination charged home, only to experience such a heavy Maxim and rifle fire from our men that the death roll of the assailants must have been considerable.

"A patrol of the Enniskillen dragoons was surrounded by some 500 Boers and gallantly cut its way through without losing a man, but a company of New South Wales mounted infantry was unfortunately annihilated, most of the men's bayonets, however, bearing the impress of sanguinary conflict with their foes.

"Colonel Conyngham was shot through the heart at the outset of the engagement. The enemy chose the time of the moon's setting for their onslaught. Out of five colonial officers only one returned to camp.

"A strategic and concentrative move back to Arundel has been decided upon. Our guns from Cole's kop have been safely moved, one Maxim being destroyed to prevent its falling into the hands of the enemy. Nine wounded officers and 33 men were brought into the Naauw Poort field hospital. Our death roll at present is not known."

The Pietermaritzburg correspondent of The Daily Mail, under date of Feb. 15 says:

"There are indications of a decisive move at Colenso. I hear that the Boers rely on their intrenchments and barbed wire entanglements along the principal roads to check Lord Roberts' progress in the Free State. The roads to Ladysmith are studded with these formidable barriers.

"A British scouting column blew up the contents of the magazine at Nkandhla, Zululand, to prevent its falling into the hands of the Boers. The magazine contained a large supply of dynamite and ammunition."

A correspondent of The Daily Mail at Naauw Poort, telegraphing Wednesday and describing the evacuation of Rensburg, says:

"Two companies of the Wiltshire regiment, in withdrawing from Kloof camp lost their way and are missing. Their whereabouts, however, are pretty well known, and they will probably be relieved tonight.

"The Boer losses around Colesberg on Monday are reported extremely heavy."

The Times has the following dispatch from Arundel, dated Wednesday:

"Two companies of the Wiltshires that were on outpost duty failed to join the force before the retirement from Rensburg, and their absence not being noticed on the parade they were eventually cut off."

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Lourenco Marques, dated Feb. 15, says:

"Heavy fighting has occurred at Ramah in the Free State, not far from Nopetown, Cape Colony. The Boers say they held all their positions, the British finally retiring."

Road Open to Jacobsdal.

OUTSIDE JACOBSDAL, Orange Free State, Feb. 17.—The road between Modder River and Jacobsdal is now open. The distance is only nine miles. The road is available for sending re-enforcements and supplies.

When the Boers evacuated Jacobsdal, they were obliged to pass over a ridge, where they afforded a splendid mark for the British guns, which showered shrapnel upon the retreating enemy.

The convoy which was attacked at Riet river had been countermanded, but the order did not arrive in time, and the experience was a very warm one, although the Boers did little material damage.

As General French, with the strengthened division, pushed forward toward Kimberley he found the beleaguering Boers deserting their position at Alexandersfontein, thus allowing a portion of the Kimberley garrison to occupy and intrench the place.

Boer Account of the Fighting.

PRETORIA, Feb. 17.—The Transvaal government has made public the following official dispatch:

"Wednesday at Rondeval drift, in the neighborhood of Jacobsdal, the federal troops were engaged in a severe fight with 2,000 British who were trying to reach Kimberley.

"Commandant Delarey continued the engagement until Thursday morning, the federal casualties being five wounded. After another two hours of hard fighting it is reported that the British retired, leaving Colonel Henry dangerously wounded. Colonel Henry, with his servant, was taken to Jacobsdal."

An official dispatch from Colesberg says there was fighting on Tuesday, Feb. 13, and that the British had 60 killed and wounded and lost 80 captured. The federal forces had no casualties during the fighting.

Quiet Around Ladysmith.

HEAD LAAGER, Near Ladysmith, Feb. 17.—The British from Chieveley have been bombarding the Boer forces at Blaauw Krantz, east of Colenso, since Tuesday afternoon, the bombardment continuing throughout the night. The Boers responded with rifle fire. Particulars are lacking. All is quiet around Ladysmith.

Fewer Saloons In Manila.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 17.—Fred L. Gregory, late of Company F, Thirteenth Minnesota volunteers, takes issue with a recent statement of Chaplain Frank M. Wells of the First Tennessee regiment to the effect that since American occupation there were 400 more saloons in Manila than under Spanish rule. Gregory's regiment was detailed for police duty in Manila, and Gregory was for three months inspector of the license department. He declares that instead of there being more saloons there are fewer, owing to the strictness with which they are made to pay licenses. Some large saloons for the accommodation principally of the soldiers were opened in the business district, but over 200 low groggeries where crime lurked and where the deadly Filipino drink "beno" interdicted by General Otis was sold were entirely wiped out.

Germany Snow Bound.

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—For the past two days terrific snowstorms have raged throughout Germany. They have been very fierce along the Baltic coast and in the eastern districts of the empire. Great damage has been done to shipping, although details have not yet been received. In a number of places the snow is deeper than at any time before in a decade. Thousands of telephone and telegraph connections have been broken. The street traffic in Berlin is greatly impeded, and other cities have suffered seriously.

Wool Market Opens Well.

BOSTON, Feb. 17.—The Commercial Bulletin today says of the wool market: "The new American clip has opened at Phenix, A. T., at 15@16 cents. Last year these wools sold at 10 cents. The advance, therefore, is 50 per cent, a substantial gain to the grower. Last year these wools were chiefly consigned. This year they are being bought nearly as fast as they are shorn."

A Pool In Pine Lumber.

NORFOLK, Feb. 17.—It is said that the entire pine lumber interests of Virginia and North Carolina have been pooled. Dr. J. O. White of Camden, N. J., is reported to have been the promoter and to have consummated the deal at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York, on Thursday.

Choynski Whips Maher.

HIT AT CIVIL SERVICE

Representatives Indulge In the Usual Joke.

SIM'S PENSION SLANDER REFUTED.

Hot Debate Caused by Assertion That Northern Soldiers Were More Anxious For Pensions Than Those of the South.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The house yesterday indulged in its annual joke by striking from the legislative appropriation bill all provision for the civil service commission. This action is taken each year in committee of the whole, where the members do not go on record, and the provision is then invariably restored when the bill gets back into the house, where members have to respond to their names upon a roll call. The vote to strike out was 75 to 67. Today the house will reverse this action as usual on a yea and nay vote. Most of the time of the house beyond that occupied in the discussion of the civil service law was devoted to attacks upon the speech made by Mr. Sims (Dem., Tenn.) on Wednesday, in which he furnished some figures of the pension office, showing the number of applications for pensions filed by soldiers of the volunteer regiments engaged in the Spanish war to show that the northern soldiers were much more clamorous in that regard than the southerners and attributed this to the debauching of public sentiment in the north on the pension question. Mr. Pearre (Rep., Md.) raised the storm by a reference to those figures and the statement that hundreds of Massachusetts soldiers who never smelled powder had applied for pensions. This brought out an indignant reply from Mr. Fitzgerald (Dem., Mass.), who detailed the record of the Massachusetts volunteers in the late war. He was followed by others who defended the record of the soldiers from their several states. Considerable temper was displayed during the debate.

Consideration of the financial measure having been concluded, discussion of the Philippine question was resumed in the senate. Mr. McEnery (Dem., La.) strongly opposed the permanent acquisition of the islands and believed the United States ought to relinquish them as soon as the authority of this country had been asserted.

Mr. Stewart took a pronounced position in favor of the admission of the products of any of the island possessions of the United States free of duty.

The bill providing a form of government for the territory of Hawaii was read, but beyond that formality nothing was done with it.

Congressman Chickering's Funeral.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 17.—A special to The Standard from Copenhagen says: "The body of Congressman Chickering lay in state at the family residence from 9 o'clock yesterday morning until noon. The plain black casket was almost buried in flowers which the affection of sorrowing friends had supplied. During the time that the remains of Congressman Chickering lay in state the body was in charge of Assistant Sergeant-at-arms Moore of Wisconsin, who represented congress at the funeral. The private funeral was held at the family residence at 1:30 in the afternoon and was attended only by a few intimate friends and relatives. A half hour later the public service was held at the Methodist Episcopal church and was conducted by the Rev. John G. Benson of Turin, Rev. A. C. Danforth of Clayton and Rev. Dr. Fritts of this village, all former pastors of the lamented congressman."

Fewer Troops For Cuba.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Secretary Root has determined to continue the policy begun by General Leonard Wood of reducing the force of United States troops in Cuba, and during the coming spring there will be a heavy reduction of the existing force unless there should be some untoward change in the present highly satisfactory conditions there. Naturally in making this reduction there will be no occasion for the retention in Cuba of the present number of officers of high rank, and it is intimated at the war department that by the beginning of next summer it will be possible to manage all of the military remaining in Cuba through one general officer, acting under the direction of Governor General Wood.

Socialists May Unite.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 17.—It is possible and even probable that the Social Democracy and the Socialist Labor parties will amalgamate at the national convention of the former here March 6, the new organization retaining the name of the Social Democracy. A committee of nine, with Max Hays of Cleveland as chairman, will be here to speak for amalgamation on the part of the Socialist Labor party, which has 15,000 members. The organizations have like aims and purposes. The Occidental hotel has been selected as headquarters. Eugene V. Debs, Mayor Chase of Haverhill and Mayor McCarty of Brockton, Mass., have engaged rooms.

Germany Prosperous.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Richard Guenther, consul general at Frankfort, has submitted some figures relative to German commerce to the state department to show the general prosperity among all classes in Germany. He shows that the exports from Germany for the nine months of last year ending Sept. 30 were $728,000,000, an increase of $41,000,000 over the corresponding nine months in the preceding year. He declares that every branch of industry and commerce and the agricultural classes have participated in the benefits of this expansion.

Will Probe Macrum Affair.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The state department has taken steps to make sure of the position it has assumed toward ex-Consul Macrum in anticipation of an inquiry from congress, by directing an investigation into every phase of the allegations contained in that officer's statement, including especially a thorough investigation of the conditions under which the consular mail and cable service were conducted.

Ordered to Alaska.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Feb. 17.—Captain Howell, commanding Company I, Seventh United States artillery, stationed at Fort Ontario, has received orders from the war department ordering the company to Alaska for service. A battalion of the Seventh, including Company I, will leave in a short time.

MOLINEUX IN SING SING.

Sentenced to Death, He Declares His Innocence.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Roland B. Molineux, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Adams on Dec. 28, 1898, was sentenced by Recorder Goff yesterday to die in the electric chair in the week beginning March. 26. The young man's demeanor when sentence was passed was in keeping with his conduct during the trial and when the verdict was rendered against him. He was very white, but apparently undaunted. Before the sentence was pronounced Molineux's counsel made the usual formal motions for a new trial, but the motions were denied by the recorder.

Before sentence was passed Molineux started to address the court. Recorder Goff stopped him and then, at request of Molineux's counsel, permitted him to speak. Molineux then made a brief address in which he declared his innocence of the crime, denounced yellow journalism, which he said had put a price on his head, and denounced the district attorney for the attack on his wife, an attack which he said was damnable. Molineux said:

"I am not guilty of the crime of which I have been convicted or of that other crime. I never had a murderous motive, and these hands never penned the address on the poison package or wrote any of the other disputed writings. But my situation is not what affects me most. I denounce and condemn the action of the district attorney in his cowardly attack on the pure and lovely woman who bears my name. It was the action of a coward."

The condemned man was taken to Sing Sing during the afternoon. His counsel said after the verdict was rendered that they did not believe Molineux would be made to comply with all the regulations regarding the dress and appearance of convicts. They believed that their notice of appeal would act as a sufficient stay to prevent all the degradation which convicts usually undergo.

This appeal will prevent the execution of Molineux's sentence for months and maybe for a year, whether or not a new trial is granted.

BRITISH MISSIONS.

Statistics Suggested by the Coming World's Missionary Conference.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Fifty-eight leading British missionary associations and societies and 79 small missionary bodies will be represented at the world's missionary conference to be held in New York April 21 to May 1. Their comparative statistics have been received. Only 13 of them, or less than one-fourth, were in existence before Queen Victoria ascended the throne. Since 1837 British contributions to missions have increased fivefold.

There are now more than 1,384 men and women, inclusive of the wives of missionaries, as the representatives of British missions in China, the total number of Protestant missionaries there from Great Britain, Europe and America being 2,442. The number of known converts when the treaty ports were opened to foreigners in 1842 was six. It is now about 90,000. The acquisition of territory has not been more remarkable than the growth of the British churches in heathen lands. Wherever the trader has gone the missionary has gone also, so that British missions are worldwide in their extent.

Fully two-thirds of the entire company of missionaries are employed in India and China, because these two countries number more than 600,000,000 or more than one-half of the nonchristian population of the world.

The heathen population of her majesty's dominions has increased by fully 60,000,000 or 70,000,000 during her reign, while the converts from heathenism in all parts of the world, after a century of missionary work, probably do not number more than 2,000,000. Two hundred versions of the Scriptures in whole or in part have been prepared during the last 60 years by British missionaries. There are now 500,000 pupils under instruction by representatives of British missionary societies; 1,500 Christian women engaged in bringing Christian influence to bear upon the daughters, wives and the mothers of heathen communities; 250 Christian medical practitioners.

Virginia Railroad Consolidation.

NORFOLK, Feb. 17.—By a deed just recorded here the Norfolk and Southern Railroad company becomes the owner of the Norfolk, Virginia Beach and Southern railroad for $520,000 and other valuable considerations the nature of which is not stated. This is regarded as a consolidation of the Vanderbilt railroad properties in this section, New York Central interests having some time since acquired the Norfolk, Virginia Beach and Southern and the Norfolk and Southern having passed to Vanderbilt control within the past few months.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS.

Larger Trade Than Ever at This Season—Wheat and Cotton Advance.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Business continues larger than ever at this season in amount of payments and on the whole as large as ever in retail deliveries, though new transactions do not yet give assurance that it will hold at the same rate. Conditions affecting new orders and contracts have changed in some respects most favorably, while other changes tend to restrict operations for a time, but a conservative judgment of the conflicting tendencies appears to warrant strong hope.

Important branches of business are hindered by labor troubles of which the building trade strike at Chicago affects the greatest number of contracts for industrial products and the labor and wages of the greatest number of men. Circumstances do not yet promise its speedy ending, and in some other branches of industry prosperity and advancing prices seem to have rendered controversies more frequent.

The rise of cotton to 8⅛ cents has caused such increase in receipts and in purchases for export that reaction would ordinarily follow. Goods have been further advanced, and it does not appear that the demand for them has been strengthened.

The rise in wheat also brings out larger western receipts, in two weeks 5,444,299 bushels against 6,236,166 last year, but Atlantic exports, flour included, in the same weeks have been only 3,645,408 bushels against 6,192,407 last year. The price closed half a cent higher for the week. Corn exports of 6,241,000 bushels against 4,807,325 for the same weeks last year seem to justify the rise of 1½ cents, as western receipts fall a little below last year's, in two weeks 11,035,973 bushels against 12,058,979 last year.

Heavy sales of sole leather at Boston, exceeding 100,000 sides, at a reduction of half a cent in price, with unusually large sales of hides at Chicago, also at lower prices, indicate that the dealers and consumers who have looked for cheaper boots and shoes may be satisfied. Heavy imports of hides at New York have some influence and are in part due to the famine in India.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Brazil refused Bolivia's demand to pay the expenses of fighting the rebels in Acre.

The Rio Janeiro authorities declared Argentina and Portuguese ports free of the plague.

The formal ratifications of the Samoan treaty have been exchanged between London and Berlin.

The Nero broke the record for deep sea soundings, a depth of nearly six miles being reached at one time.

The German authorities at Tsintan fort have sent troops to Kiau-Chau to guard the railroad engineers from Chinese rioters.

The hearing of Governor Beckham's injunction suit against Governor Taylor, in Kentucky, was postponed by agreement of attorneys.

No new plague cases were reported in Honolulu, and the health officials granted permission for schools, churches and places of amusement to reopen.

The ashes of Walter S. Blanchard, founder of the Corinthian Yacht club, were scattered to the winds from the mainmast of the ship Shenandoah, in San Francisco bay.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

TOPEKA, Feb. 17.—Two men were instantly killed and three frightfully injured by the explosion of a locomotive boiler in the Santa Fe roundhouse yesterday. The explosion was caused by compressed air, which was to be used as the motive power in the "midget" locomotive, a small switch engine. Beardsley, one of the injured men, was letting the air into the boiler when the explosion occurred. He had just turned on the pressure, and it is thought that not over 100 pounds was in the boiler. The force of the explosion blew the front end of the boiler against the wall, tearing away the window casing and wall, making a hole 12 feet wide and about 20 feet high. The boiler was blown from the truck and fell 20 feet away. The dead men were horribly mangled, their heads being blown from their bodies.

Ice Causes Railway Wreck.

HELENA, Mon., Feb. 17.—Owing to the icy condition of the track a freight train on the Northern Pacific became unmanageable and soon after reaching Iron Ridge tunnel jumped the track. The engine rolled down the mountain side 200 feet, and the rest of the train is piled up in the tunnel. The engineer, fireman and one brakeman were badly cut and bruised. Brakeman Hurenden, who was on top of the train trying to stop it, is missing and is doubtless in the debris. It will take 24 hours to clear the track.

Veteran of Civil War Drops Dead.

SANDY HILL, N. Y., Feb. 17.—John S. Smith, 70 years of age, dropped dead yesterday at this place. His son was killed in a sleighing accident on Wednesday, and it is supposed that Mr. Smith was overcome by the death of his son. John S. Smith was a veteran of the civil war, having been a member of Chrysler's cavalry. He was the only soldier rescued from the transport North America, which was lost off Cape Hatteras in 1864 while en route from New Orleans to New York.

Judge Taft Goes to Washington.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—Judge William H. Taft of the United States circuit court of appeals and recently appointed as president of the Philippine commission, has left for Washington and will remain there one week for conferences with the president. It is thought that other members of the commission will be appointed while he is in Washington.

Democrats Will Return to Frankfort.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 17.—The Democratic legislature will adjourn to Frankfort. This conclusion was reached yesterday, but a quorum not being present in the senate prevented the carrying out of this plan. There will be a quorum, it is expected, today, when a concurrent resolution will be passed to resume sessions at Frankfort.

Costly Fire In South Dakota Town.

A CANADIAN IN CUBA

Pacific Railway President Invests In Island Property.

A COUNTRY "LAVISHLY ENDOWED."

Cabinet Members Praise Governor General Wood and Declare That No Breach of the Peace Will Occur Under His Rule.

HAVANA, Feb. 17.—Mrs. Horatio Rubens gave a dinner yesterday in honor of Sir William Van Horne, president of the Canadian Pacific railway, at which all the members of Governor General Wood's cabinet, accompanied by their wives, were present, together with a number of prominent bankers. In responding to the toast to his health Sir William said he was particularly pleased to meet Cubans of such political and financial status and to have an opportunity of expressing to them the high expectation he had regarding the future of Cuba.

"You have a country," he said, "lavishly endowed by nature, and I have been greatly surprised at what I have seen during my tour—a tour in representation of large interests that are willing to invest under certain guarantees. I would particularly urge upon those having the matter in charge the importance of looking into the mortgage laws, because at present most of the owners of land in Cuba desire to borrow on the security of their property, but the condition of the law is such as to make this impracticable."

All the members of the cabinet spoke, declaring, among other things, that great strides were being made in gaining the confidence of all classes through the methods pursued by the governor general. They assured Sir William Van Horne that there would be no breach of the peace in Cuba and that all property interests would be absolutely protected. Assurances were also given him that a speedy and economic procedure would be established with respect to foreclosures, thus inclining investors to make agricultural loans.

In the course of the day Sir William Van Horne had an interview with General Wood, whom he informed that he had invested in property near Manzanillo, where he would erect large sawmills.

General Wood has authorized the re-establishment of the Havana Stock Exchange. Stockbrokers will be notified that if they wish to follow this calling they must make application within 30 days.

General Wood has ordered all the documents relating to the Dady contract to be sent to Senor Estevez, secretary of justice, for examination and report.

After the Democratic Convention.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The contest for the honor of entertaining the Democratic national convention of 1900 is beginning to assume practical shape by the arrival in Washington of representatives of the cities offering their hospitality. The committee will meet at the Raleigh hotel on Washington's birthday, and the headquarters of most of the delegations will be there. The city of Milwaukee, which intends to make a strong bid for the convention, already has several of its representatives on the ground in the persons of ex-Governor Peck of Wisconsin, Mayor David S. Rose of Milwaukee, National Committeeman Wall and ex-Congressman Somers. The Milwaukee people believe their principal competitor in the effort to secure the convention will be Kansas City, which intends to make an earnest effort to obtain it.

A Daring Robbery.

NORFOLK, Feb. 17.—A special from Greenville, N. C., to The Virginian-Pilot says: "J. J. Laughinghouse, one of the most prominent planters of Pitt county, N. C., was assaulted and robbed by four negroes. Mr. Laughinghouse came to Greenville to dispose of his tobacco. He spent the night with his son, Dr. Charles Laughinghouse, leaving for his home at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. While crossing a swamp seven miles from town the negroes, armed with an ax and pistols, sprang from the bushes and relieved him of $500 in cash and $6,000 in Norfolk exchange, but did him no bodily harm, after which they fled into the swamp. The sheriff at once telegraphed for bloodhounds, which were taken to the swamp and put on the trail. Nothing has since been heard of the posse."

Spain Raises Tariff Rates.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—In a new Spanish tariff just put into effect considerable increase has been made in the duties on a number of articles now exported from the United States to Spain. Consul General Day at Barcelona has reported this matter to the state department. Typewriters which formerly paid a duty of about 50 cents now pay from $13 to $20. Phonographs, formerly unenumerated, are now taxed 64 cents per pound weight. All kinds of electrical, scientific and office labor saving apparatus are now classed under heavy rate, plus 20 per cent war tax. The duty on paraffin has been doubled, making business impossible for America. Duties on lubricating oils from the United States are also increased to a point that will entirely stop all importations.

A Nebraska Postmaster Short.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 17.—Frank G. Simons, postmaster at Seward, was arrested and brought to Lincoln last evening, charged with a shortage of $3,830. Simons, who has long been prominent in state politics, admitted his shortage to Inspector Sinclair. David Figard, one of Simons' bondsmen, when informed of the shortage and asked to take charge of the office, dropped dead.

Killed by a Gun Wad.

ABERDEEN, S. D., Feb. 17.—Charles E. Brewster of Bath, this county, was killed while drilling a militia company of which he was captain. While in front of his men he gave the order to fire, blank cartridges having been served out. A gun wad struck him behind the ear, and he soon after died.

Now that the prize-fighters are to be driven out of New York by the act of the Legislature in repealing the Horton law, the Newark News sounds a note of warning for New Jersey in the fear that a surreptious attempt may be made to secure the passage of a law by the State Legislature that will make the highways and byways of this commonwealth a stamping ground for the pugilistic professionals who have disgraced the Empire State. Such an abuse of Legislative power would mean dire results for those who had a part in it. And the average Jersey Legislator has too dear a love for office-holding and political power to induce him to risk his future career by becoming identified with any such efforts, even if his conscience would tolerate it.

A bill of universal interest to rural inhabitants in all sections of the country has been introduced in Congress. The measure provides that all contracts for carrying mail on star routes shall include the deposit in the proper boxes placed on the line of the route for this purpose without charge to the addressee of any mail matter that may be intrusted to the carrier for such distribution by any postmaster on the route. The carriers are also required to collect all mail and deliver it at the nearest postoffice. If this bill becomes a law it will give to every resident along country mail routes the benefit of free delivery.

"Farmer Orator" James E. Martine has accepted an invitation to speak at a dinner to be given by the Jersey City Democrats on the evening of Washington's Birthday. The subject assigned him is "In Union County There is Strength." From a Democratic standpoint we should imagine the "Farmer Orator" has got a tough job ahead of him. If he can prove that there is strength in the Democratic party of Union county today, determined in the light of what it has got in the way of offices or perquisites, he will have to resort to logic that is not suggested by a cursery view of the situation.

Governor Voorhees' failure to reappoint Judge Child as Circuit Court Judge in Essex county, after the latter had been recommended for retention by all elements who concerned themselves over the matter, has caused a rude shock to the confidence that many placed in the Governor.

The "benevolent assimilation" that the Puerto Ricans are to be subjected to may work very finely for a selfish lot of little Americans, but it is hardly typical of the whole-souled spirit which we all like to associate Uncle Sam with.

The people of North Plainfield are models of good behavior. Though the local Canada is growing rapidly, the borough officials have deemed it wise and proper to reduce by $1,000 the appropriation for police protection.

The outstanding loans of the Bank of Spain are $19,700,000 less then they were a year ago. It is evident that Spain has immediate use for the $20,000,000 paid by the United States for the Philippines.

A New York club woman declares she would be a mugwump if she were a man. Evidently the woman has no desire to hold office.

The present Legislature is doing nobly at meeting, talking and adjourning. But of laws it seems to have none.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest to Plainfield.

Plainfield's Board of Education and Common Council have voted to expend $400 000 for a new High School for that city. No wonder that city continues to grow in population, wealth and all that is desirable.—Rahway Advocate.

Visitor Was Surpised.

An enjoyable surprise was tendered last evening to Miss Mary Long, of Martinville, by her brother, F. A Long, of Summit avenue. Miss Long was invited to Plainfield for the purpose of attending a party, and the invited were to meet at Mr. Long's home. At the proper time there was a host of people who called and it was some minutes before Miss Long realized that the affair was in honor of the anniversary of her birthday. Then the evening was passed in playing games and listening to phonographic selections given by Willard Ross. Before the affair came to an end a collation was served.

Must Pay for Benefits Received.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 17—The commission of six Freeholders from Union county who investigated the short shore road in Linden township that passes by the Mountain Copper Works, approved of the action of the Surveyors of Highways and the assessment they had put upon the copper company for the benefits derived by it. The company claimed the assessment on its property was excessive, and, at its request, the commission was appointed to look into the matter. The road examined is 3,300 feet in length.

Miss Kuhn Resigns.

Miss Carrie E. Kuhn, after a service of eight years as head of the millinery department in Boehm's dry goods establishment, severs her connection with that store this evening. During her connection with Boehms, Miss Kuhn has made many friend and it is largely through her skill and excellent taste that the millinery department has developed such a large business. Miss Kuhn expects to have charge of the millinery department of a large department store in New York.

The Sin of Liquor Selling; How to End It

Will be the subject of an address by Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., Monday evening at the Christian Endeavor meeting in Trinity Reformed church. The doctor is particularly qualified to speak on the subject and no doubt the meeting will be largely attended. Miss Etta Raybert has kindly consented to sing a solo before Dr. Lewis' address. Visitors are always welcome.

No Longer "On the Road."

Harry G. Adams, who for nearly thirty two years has been a commercial traveler, has decided to give up life "on the road" and has opened a merchandise brokerage office at 205 West Front street, where he will be pleased to see his friends.

Baking Powder Economy

The manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have always declined to produce a cheap baking powder at the sacrifice of quality.

The Royal is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price, and is cheaper at its price than any similar article.

Samples of mixtures made in imitation of baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or given away in grocery stores. Such mixtures are dangerous to use in food, and in many cities their sale is prohibited by law. Alum is a corrosive poison, and all physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

IN HONOR OF VISITORS.

Mrs. James R. Joy Introduced Her Guests to Many Plainfield Society Women.

The informal reception given yesterday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock by Mrs. James R. Joy, at her handsome residence, 80 Myrtle avenue, in honor of her sisters, Mrs. E. G. Ashmore, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Herbert Welch, of Middletown, Conn., was one of the pleasant society gatherings of the mid-winter season.

There were about 175 guests in attendance. Mrs. Joy and her sisters were assisted in receiving by Mrs. J. G. Foster, Mrs. D. M. Groendyke, Mrs. D. M. VanVleet, Mrs. Henry McGee, Mrs Charles Horne and Mrs. Walter McGee.

In the dining room, which was prettily decorated in pink and contained a profusion of palms, the Misses Alice Rose, of Brooklyn, Elsie Horne and Persis Snodgrass assisted in pouring tea. The function proved a delightful affair and those who were Mrs Joy's guests found her a most charming and agreeable hostess.

Purchased a Trotter.

Thomas Brantingham, of Avon Park, purchased the three-year old horse, "Marine," for $200 at the sale at the Madison Square Garden, New York, yesterday.

Scarcely an hour in the day but what we place something in the new goods on sale. Every train brings big boxes and bales of them fresh and crisp from the mills and factories, the latest and brightest ideas of America and Europe's most famous designers. Some of these goods are so strikingly pretty and such excellent values that best choice goes almost as soon as we open the cases; so you will do well to come in often these days,—just drop in and look about even if you have no idea of buying for we are always glad to entertain you and give you a pleasant welcome.

DRESS GOODS. Not all the new things are in yet, but enough are here to show you a pleasant foretaste of the grand assortment that is nearing completion every day.

The gay stripes are strongly predominant this season and our leader is a variety of these beautiful effects in drop stitch or plain at 25c the pair.

THEN WE HAVE a Ladies' 25c black Hose that contains more worth for the money than any other we know of. It's a good full rich value for 25c the pair.

LADIES' FANCY NECKWEAR Dainty chiffon, soft clinging silk and filmiest lace lend beauty undescribable to the new conceits in neckwear. The flowing ends are first in fashion but there's lots of other charming effects, 50c, 98c and $1.50.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Westfield, Feb. 17—Some of the bowlers in the teams rolling in The Press Bowling League are, it is understood, protesting at the action of Fred P. Condit, of the Westfield Club, who has raffled off a gold watch which he won as first prize in the Social Club head-pin bowling tournament. Mr. Condit is one of the best bowlers on the Westfield Club team and has put up some very good scores during the past season. His action in raffling off his prize places him in the professional class, and the club will probably have to secure another bowler to take his place.

The members of the Hook and Ladder Company will dine at the North Avenue Hotel the eve of Washington's Birthday and will have with them as guests Township Treasurer C. W. Harden, Chairman J. Alston Dennis and Committeeman Martin Welles. They will also entertain the officers of the Westfield fire department, Bucket and Engine Company and Empire Engine Company.

John C. Henry, of Westfield, has been granted a valuable patent for improvements on electrical motors.

The Westfield public schools will be closed Washington's Birthday and the Friday following.

"There's nothing in the store which sells as well as Ripans Tabules do. The demand is as regular and steady as for anything we carry in stock. Young and old, male and female seem to buy them. In fact, they seem to be in general demand. Not only that, but the demand seems to come from all classes. The advertisements create the demand, but their merits back it up."

Bicycling Makes You Taller.

It has just been announced as a startling fact that cycling makes the legs grow longer. Of course. The strange thing would be if it did not. The left hand of a violinist is usually longer than the right hand, because of the increased exercise of the fingers. However, now it has been recognized that cycling adds inches to the legs, it would be well if parents were more careful in regulating the wheeling of their children. It is too common a thing for little ones to get astride bicycles much too large for them. This, if persisted in, means malformation and disproportionate growth.—London Chronicle.

Ohio's First Convention.

The first constitutional convention in Ohio contained as delegates five who afterward were elected governor of the state and four who became United States senators. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Deer Barrel Marks.

The crosses of Xs on a barrel of beer signify degrees of quality nowadays. But originally they were put on by those ancient monks as a sort of trademark. They were crosses in those days, and meant a sort of oath on the cross, sworn by the manufacturer that his barrel contained good liquor. —Boston Budget.

It is unlawful for a Chinese woman to walk on the city walls of Peking, but it is an exercise in which the Americans and Europeans indulge without objection, upon days when they are open to the public.—Albany Argus.

FASHION HINTS.

The Latest Ideas In Accessories of the Costume.

Toques composed entirely of flowers are among the new models. These are not particularly small, in fact are of medium size, the body being made of one kind of flower, with an aigret arrangement of another kind. For instance, a toque of violets set close together without leaves is trimmed with a tall cluster of tea roses, with foliage.

Belt buckles are now objects of art and are often very expensive even when composed of imitation stones and ordinary metal. No wide belts are worn, but otherwise the variety of clasps and buckles is great and range from broad solid or filigree arrangements almost covering the front half of the belt to a simple open buckle of gun metal with absolutely no ornamentation. A sort of greenish gold metal is much used this season in combinations with dull silver metal and is a novelty which is very attractive.

RECEPTION TOILET.

In spite of the excessive use of jewelry and the revival of antique ornaments earrings are very little seen, which is a significant symptom of a general advance in matters of taste.

A picture is given of a gown of hortensia broche silk in two tones. The skirt is laid in four plaits at each side of the tablier, and in the middle of the back is a double box plait. The front plaits are fastened down by buttons. The close bodice, buttoning at the side, is ornamented by a draped fichu of hortensia crepe de chine with fringed edges. A brooch of brilliants fastens the fichu at the side. The yoke and collar are of guipure de venise over hortensia silk. The outer part of the elbow sleeves is of guipure, the under part of plaited broche silk. A scarf of crepe de chine with fringed ends forms the belt.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

JUVENILE STYLES.

Pretty Attire For the Use of Young People.

Mother Hubbard gowns still prevail for very little girls. Of cashmere, henrietta cloth or fine, silky serge nothing can be prettier for ordinary or nice wear. The most frequent decoration at present is a large, flat collar of the same material as the gown falling below the shoulders and bordered with guipure or a bertha of some sort.

Little, loose sacks of gray, blue, mastic or beige cloth with big pearl buttons are much used for little girls. They have not, however, vanquished the long cloak, which is not only a great protection from cold, but serves to cover the gown beneath so that the same one may serve for house and street wear. These cloaks are finished in the tailor fashion with strapped or doubly stitched seams. Cloth is not the only goods employed, heavy cheviot or serge cloaking or diagonal being often chosen as more serviceable. A capuchon lined with plaid silk is a frequent addition when double faced golf cloaking, which requires no lining, is not used. This capuchon is usually made separate and fastened on by buttons under the collar so that it may be taken off when it is not desired.

YOUNG GIRL'S GOWN.

The young girl's gown illustrated has a plaited skirt of white voile opening over a front of guipure over white silk. The fitted bodice of white silk has a yoke of guipure over white silk and a horizontally plaited plastron of voile. White silk ruffles with pinked edges are arranged in bretelles, a tiny ruche of white silk forming a beading. The elbow length sleeves are of guipure over white and are finished with a pinked ruffle. JUDIC CHOLLET.

TRADING WITHOUT MONEY.

London Reformers Who Propose by Business Methods to Abolish Artificial Poverty.

Some cooperative reformers of London have started an odd experiment. The scheme in question is the work of the Cooperative Brotherhood trust, limited, and they have hit upon a very ingenious plan for trading without money. Before explaining what this is, however, it would be well to state their reasons for adopting it, which are something more than merely sentimental objections to current coin.

One result of our present system of currency is that money has a value far beyond any of the commodities it represents. The demand for it has increased more of late years than has the supply, and the result is that a man who has no money at all stands to-day but a poor chance of getting any, and a fairly good one of "going under," though he may all the same be able to do useful work that his fellows need. To-day there are some thousands of men all able to produce something of benefit to the community and yet all of them idle, merely because they lack money.

Take the case of one of these. For the time being all the vacant jobs are full and he is unable to get employment. Now, unless he has money enough to set himself up in a small business or money enough to extensively advertise his goods, it is useless for him to produce any. He does not know how to get anyone to buy them if he does. Accordingly he drifts and drifts, and finally becomes a member of what is apparently the surplus class. Only apparently, however, for really while he is unable to find people who want his goods there are plenty who are only too willing to consume them. Only, like himself, they cannot purchase because, for the time being, at any rate, they are without money.

The result is that both the potential consumer and the potential producer have to stand idle, though both have labor force and are capable of producing something of use to one another. Without money, however, they cannot do this, and what happens is that an artificial poverty seizes both of them and their energies are paralyzed. It is this artificial poverty the the Cooperative Brotherhood trust, limited, have set themselves to abolish, and they do this by bringing the idle consumer and the idle producer together and exchanging the labor of one for the labor of the other. They manage to effect this in a very clever way. In connection with the trust an exchange circle has been started, and this is the medium through which all the labor products are exchanged and in the following manner.

We will say a carpenter has become one of the unemployed. He is out of work and has not enough money to set up in business for himself, but he joins the exchange circle and puts his name down on the directory. He offers to supply tables, chairs, or whatever it is that he can most easily make, and offers at the same time to do odd jobs. Then some other member of the circle who is in need of the thing he offers buys it and pays him, not in money, but in barter notes and to which he has become entitled by the work he himself has executed for a third member of the exchange circle. These barter notes not only entitle the bearer to as much as their face value of the goods in the circle, but also to such goods as are in the store, and these include groceries and provisions, clothes, hosieries, furniture, athletic requisites and nearly everything except alcoholic beverages. If the holder of any particular barter note desires to realize it in cash the committee endeavors to oblige him. But it is, of course, preferable that he should take it out in food made by other members, as only in this way can the circle be self-supporting.

Of course the success of the circle largely depends on the number of people joining it. Obviously the goods cannot be exchanged without at least a fair number of exchangers. But, though yet in its infancy, it is vigorously developing, and the fact that tradesmen are accepting barter notes instead of cash augurs well for it.—Pearson's Weekly.

Fortunes on Finger Nails.

In the days when fortune telling was more in vogue than at present, the shape and appearance of the finger nails were looked on as having reference to one's destiny. The nails were first rubbed over with a mixture of wax and soot, and, after being thus prepared, were held so that the sunlight fell fully upon them. On the horny, transparent substance were supposed to appear signs and characters from which the future could be interpreted. Persons, too, with a certain description of nails were supposed to possess certain characteristics. Thus a man with red and spotted nails was of a fiery, hot-tempered disposition, whilst pale, lead-colored nails denoted a melancholy temperament. Ambitious and quarrelsome people were distinguished by narrow nails. Lovers of knowledge and liberal sentiment had round-shaped nails. Conceited, obstinate and narrow-minded persons were possessed of small nails, lazy, indolent individuals of fleshy nails; and those of a gentle, timid nature of broad nails.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

THOUGHT THERE WAS WAR.

The Gunboat Wilmington's Salute in the Amazon Depopulated a Village.

In describing the course of the United States steamship Wilmington up the Amazon river E. H. Coleman relates the following amusing incident:

Six days after her departure from Manaos the Wilmington reached a point where the Solimoes ends and the Rio Maranon and Rio Javari, which form it, begin. The Rio Javari has the distinction of serving as the boundary line between Brazil and Peru for some 1500 miles, and close to its junction with the Maranon is a small town, Tabatinga, at which is maintained a force of Brazilian soldiers, who have the monotonous task of guarding the frontier.

The Wilmington fired a national salute as she slowly approached the station and sent a boat ashore to exchange the usual courtesies. On gaining the little wharf extending out from the bluff banks in front of the town the officer in charge of the gunboat's cutter noticed with some surprise that the crowd of spectators previously observed on shore had entirely disappeared.

There were several Brazilian soldiers at the landing, and one of these ventured to approach the naval officer. The Brazilian seemed greatly disturbed, and from the actions of his companions it was evident they felt unaccountably alarmed.

"Senhor," exclaimed the former, hastily, "we are without news, and we beg that you will enlighten us at once."

"News of what?" was the American's puzzled reply. "I am sure I—"

"Then there is no war?" broke in the soldier.

"Not in this part of the world."

"But you fired?"

The Wilmington's representative stifled his desire to laugh and gravely explained the gunboat's presence and her well-meant courtesy in expending so much powder.

"I am delighted," finally confessed the Brazilian, "but, senhor," he added, "you have depopulated the village. All the natives have fled to the jungle, and I doubt if we can induce them to return until you are gone. Senhor, those guns, they echo yet!"

A mile or two above Tabatinga several huts were noticed near the river's bank, but the most careful scrutiny with glasses could not discover signs of life. It was plainly apparent the salute of the Wilmington had badly frightened every Indian within hearing.—Ainslee's.

A VENERABLE TOWN.

An Old-World Town That Was Founded 600 Years Before Christ.

It is not an American city, whose inhabitants put on airs because it was founded 250 years ago! but a really old world town ten times as aged. The city of Marseilles is about to celebrate the two thousand five hundredth anniversary of its foundation by colonists from Phocaea. The exact date of the foundation of Marseilles can hardly be determined; but the Marseillaise cleverly make out a case in favor of the time about 600 years before Christ.

In celebrating its twenty-fifth centenary Marseilles wished to entertain hospitably the mayor of the city of Phocaea, its mother city. That intention raised the question: What had become of Phocaea? In its day the Ionian city of Phocaea, in Asia Minor, was a place of at least 150,000 inhabitants. It was one of the most enterprising maritime cities of antiquity, and its ships led the way to the Adriatic, the Tyrrhenian and Iberian seas. It planted the town of Massalia, which the Romans called Massilia, the Provencals Marsillo, and the French call it Marseille.

The geographers agree that ancient Phocaea is represented at the present day by the little Turkish town of Karadja-Fokia, or Nova Foggi, not far from Smyrna. The ancient city, like ancient Massalia, has handed down its name to the present day.

So an invitation was sent to the principal local functionary at Karadja-Fokia to attend the celebration at Marseilles. But he was compelled to respond that Phocaea had so far fallen from its ancient wealth and splendor that it could not raise enough money to send its chief magistrate to France.

The mayor of Athens and the syndic of Rome were also invited, and they have been able to accept. They will behold, in the swarming population of the third city of France, a people who still retain traces of the Ionian Hellenic blood which the founders of the city took in their veins from Phocaea.—Youth's Companion.

An Octopus Plague.

A correspondent writes as follows from Rivage de Questichou, a small watering place on the coast of the Cherbourg promontory: "For the last two or three months this coast has been visited by a perfect octopus plague. They have ruined the fisheries, and many men have laid up their boats in despair. They devour everything, even the crabs and lobsters and oysters and all shell fish. The other day a man employed at the large oyster beds near here told me he had that day found one that had eaten 18 oysters that tide. The shore is strewn with octopi, and the other morning along high-water mark I counted 63 in a distance of 200 yards. A friend here measured one, and it was 5 feet 7 inches across the tentacles, but there are far larger ones than that. Some of the suckers are as large as a two-shilling piece. They are most loathesome beasts. Unless the cold winter destroys them there will be no bathing next summer along the coast."—Pall Mall Gazette.

FLOWER ARRANGEMENT.

A Knowledge of the Conditions Under Which They Grow Is Indispensable in Japan.

In Japan the art of flower arrangement is as highly regarded as music, poetry or painting, and in order that one may become expert therein it is deemed necessary to devote quite as much attention, time and study to this as to any other form of art. We look upon flower arrangement in general as merely the result of individual taste, but a Japanese regards it from a very different point of view. He is governed in this accomplishment by numerous and well-defined rules which can only be acquired by long and patient study. It would be impossible, without this knowledge, to compose an arrangement of flowers which would meet with the approval of competent critics. It would, in fact, be quite as hopeless as for a musician to compose great masterpieces of music without previous training and careful study. The art of flower arrangement is not only practiced by women and girls, but by men as well, for it is an accomplishment indispensable to all who would make any pretense to learning and culture.

In spite of the fact that flowers are so inseparately associated with everything Japanese, it would be a mistake to assume that Japan is a land of flowers, for wild, as well as garden flowers, are far more profuse in many sections of this country. Japan is, however, rich in cultivated flowers, that are grown in great profusion in garden and nursery in the suburbs of all the cities. Flower sellers, carrying their fragrant burdens in huge baskets, are met with everywhere, and they are patronized by the poor as well as by the rich, for the prices are now enough to bring them within the reach of all. Although there are many varieties of flowers, few, comparatively, are used in flower arrangement, for the Japanese limit their choice to those with which they are most familiar and such as are most closely associated with the different months or seasons, seldom or never using rare or unknown flowers. The reason given for this is that a thorough knowledge of the character of the flowers and the conditions under which they grow is indispensable, in order that a proper and effective use of them may be made. The following may be mentioned as the popular flowers of Japan, and most closely associated by the Japanese with the different seasons of the year. The first to appear is the plum blossom, which is hailed with delight as the harbinger of spring, and enjoys, therefore, the greatest popularity. The plum is closely followed by the cherry blossom, which almost rivals the former as a favorite. The next, and the last of the spring flowers, is the wistaria. Summer's flowers include the peony, iris and the lotus; while autumn claims one of the chief favorites, the chrysanthemum, and also the morning glory.

Certain flowers are considered lucky and others unlucky—the latter including all such as are supposed to possess poisonous qualities. I found, for instance, that one of the wild flowers, a beautiful scarlet lily, known as the shibuta-no-hanna, which I greatly admired, was regarded with disfavor and was never used for decoration or flower arrangement for the reason that it was a flower of ill-omen. On the other hand, a favorite arrangement, formed of a combination of pine, bamboo and plum blossoms, is symbolic of good luck and everlasting happiness. It is frequently used on festive occasions and figures conspicuously in the New Year decorations that are arranged over gate and doorway.

Great quantities of cut flowers were used for embellishing the houses of the wealthy, and a blossom of some kind was nearly always presented to a guest at a banquet, just as at the present day we are given our "buttonhole" at a house party—a pretty custom and an ancient one. In his tomb Nekht is depicted presenting Thotmes III. with a huge bouquet, five feet high, and composed of papyrus, lotus flowers, cornflowers and poppies, interspersed here and there with fragrant fruits of the mimusops, a tree not now found in the gardens of Egypt but well known at the present day in India. Some of these garlands have been found in the ancient cemeteries of Egypt, buried with the dead.—Theodore Wood, in Scribner's.

Horse Racing on the Stage.

In racing scenes the horses do run at full speed; they run, however, not on the fixed stage, but on what may be called treadmills, which keep the horses in front of the house for longer or shorter periods according as they are moved quickly or slowly. A picket fence, placed between the audience and the course, not only makes the scene more realistic; it also hides the mechanism of the treadmills. This fence has contributed in another way to add to the effect by being moved in opposition to the direction of the horses, and so lending to their apparent speed. As to the sounds made by the footfalls of horses to be heard as though passing outside an interior scene, they are reproduced by the dried hoofs of dead horses, or wooden imitations mounted on handles and hammering against surfaces of stone, gravel, sod, or whatever the occasion may demand. They are also more elaborately manufactured by revolving a cylinder with pins protruding from the surface. These pins are arranged, like the spurs on a hand organ roller, to imitate trotting, galloping or walking when struck against other substances. If the sound of a carriage is to be added to the trampling of horses, wheels are run on sand.—Cassell's Magazine.

BARBED WIRE IN THE WEST.

What the Introduction of Wire Fences Has Meant to Man and Beast.

A few years a villager down in Illinois bent a bit of iron about a strand of fence wire, and noticed that his cattle avoided it. Out of this idea grew a system of fencing which has preserved our pine forests a few decades longer, but which brought to an end many decades earlier the glorious free days of the open and unfenced west. The great cattle ranges, over which roamed one of the most independent populations ever seen on earth, could never have been fenced by rails, or stone walls, or boards of pine. It was difficult enough for the spider-like genius of advancing civilization to keep them fenced with the ever-renewing web of the fatal wire against which the wild men of the early days rebelled so strenuously. Yet mile by mile, thousands of miles after thousands of miles, the cheap and easily-spun web crawled out across the west and held it hard and firm. You can never uncoil the deadly web, neither can you replace the victim which it strangled.

Little more than a dozen years ago the writer was with a party hunting for buffalo calves in the upper part of the Panhandle of Texas, where we knew of a little herd still remaining of those great animals, even then considered virtually extinct. It was a weary and desolate land, where between water-hole and water-hole lay 60 or 70 miles of absolute desert. Not a tree broke the endless monotony of the plains. The soil was like flint. The sky had for months been guiltless of a drop of rain. It was a region so utterly unsuited for the habitation of mankind that these last few representatives of a passing race of great American animals had chosen it as their final place of refuge, thinking that perhaps they would never again hear the sound of rifle shot or see again the face of man. Yet one morning as we faced the sun of another waterless day we came upon a line of strong wire fence, coming from where no man could tell, and running in one unbroken line to the uttermost limits of our vision! It was no delusion, no miracle, no wonder of the wild mirage. It was an accursed fact. It had no right there, on that free land, where even the wind had swept for ages unfettered by so much as a leaf or stem of straggling tree. As we marveled and muttered at this thing we saw, in the red light of the east, a little moving band of great forms which we knew to be those of the buffalo. They saw us also, and with the instinct of a generation of persecution swept away at once in flight. Across their line lay this fourfold abomination, this corded barrier, this new thing, this infamy never before dreamed of on these free plains. Close bunched, the buffalo struck it with the force of a heavy locomotive and crushed through and over it as though they passed so many straws. Ah, there was a thing dramatic, admirable, out there on that faraway desert! It was the old west rending the net of the retiarius, casting aside the strands set for its undoing and standing on unhindered, free! Seeing the beauty of this spectacle, our best roper, a cowpuncher born on the old range, rose in his stirrups and took off his hat to cheer the buffalo as they lumbered on. For 20 panels the fence lay flat, and we rode across it. Along its inner side was a path worn inches deep by the feet of countless antelopes, cut off by this fence from their ancient way to some unknown water-hole. No man of our party felt glad at this evidence of approaching civilization, this fence thrusting out into the wild land. Every man was partisan for the buffalo and the antelope, and exulted at this prostration of their enemy, though knowing with sorrow how brief must be their little victory.—E. Hough, in Century.

COST OF FUR RUGS.

Some That Are Very Expensive and Extremely Difficult to Obtain.

Fur rugs are expensive luxuries. The orders for perfect lion skins are sometimes very hard to fill, but the very highest of prices are paid for these rugs with the beautiful heads attached. An order for a fine Lichtenstein Hartebesti, or African deer head, may take a year to fill. Special prices are charged on such an order, as the remainder of the animal is rendered useless even for museum collections, and $250 to $500 is not an unusual price.

Rug skins without the heads do not bring one-quarter the price of those with the heads attached. The most perfect lion skin, having a rich color, handsome manes, all the claws, mounted, with the full whiskered head attached, brings as high as $3,000, and no fine ones are to be had for less than $1,000. Nearly all of them have some imperfections, because the superstitious natives usually cut off the heads, or the whiskers, ears, and sometimes the claws, before they sell them to traders, having a superstition that if these go out of the country in which they live the entire species will become extinct.

The favorite head rugs next to the lions are the tigers, the white and cinnamon bears, Russian grizzly, leopard, jaguar, wildcat, lynx, fox, ocelot and panther, costing from $150 upward. Buffalo skins have become scarce at $250 apiece, while the beautiful heads alone now bring as high as $1,000.—N. Y. World.

In After Years.

"Why, what's the matter, Nellie?" asked her maiden aunt.

"Oh, auntie," replied the bride of a month, "it's too provoking for anything. Tom treats me just as if I were a child."

"Well, don't mind a little thing like that, my dear," said the old lady; "when you get to be my age you will remember it with pleasure."—N. Y. World.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

Edward Harrigan, unquestionably the greatest author-actor America has ever produced, will be the star attraction at Music Hall Tuesday night next. Mr. Harrigan is too well-known to the theatre-going public throughout the entire civilized world to need any introduction to play-goers, as his truly great and natural character creations once seen are never forgotten. The programme offered on this occasion is a particularly generous one, consisting of "McSorley's Inflation," condensed to one act; a new one-act comedy by the famous author, entitled "Nugent, the Rubber," with a condensed version of "Old Lavender." The supporting company includes several members of the old New York Stock Company, which tested the capacity of Harrigan's New York Theatre for many years. Special scenery is carried for each production. Dave Braham's tuneful music, introduced at each performance, is as popular as ever and not the least feature of the programme.

ROMANTIC AND HAPPY.

Young Couple Find Their Path Bright After Being Married in a Secret Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Ather Blaine Miller, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., were guests yesterday of Mr. Miller's aunt, Miss M. V. Stickle, of this city, and in connection with their trip there is a bit of a romance. The couple, who are quite young, are enjoying their honeymoon. Mr. Miller was a student at the Eastman Business College, Poughkeepsie, and his bride, Miss Bessie Kepler, also attended school in the same city. They recently concluded their studies and decided to get married without the knowledge of any of their relatives.

They were married a few days ago at Poughkeepsie, and left the city very unceremoniously. They came to New York and from there went to Baltimore, from which place they sent word to their folks concerning the marriage. Mrs. Miller's mother came on at once and met the couple at Baltimore. She was delighted with the marriage, although she would have preferred that her daughter wait until she was older. However, she offered no objection, and she gladly gave her blessing.

The other relatives upon hearing of the marriage also gave their blessing and the young couple are gratified to learn that their act did not bring down the displeasure of their relatives. The groom is quite well-to-do, and is very popular. His wife is a charming young woman and is also very popular among a large circle of acquaintances who will be surprised to learn of their marriage. The couple left last evening for Newark, where they will visit relatives for a few days, and from there they will return home.

Union, when "House to House Visitation" and other subjects of interest will be discussed by prominent S. S. workers of our city. All are invited.

GROUND HOG KNEW HIS BUSINESS ALL RIGHT

Big Snow Storm Came at Fag End of Winter.

TROLLEY LINES TIED UP.

TEN INCHES OF "THE BEAUTIFUL" LAYS ON THE GROUND.

City Street Cars Were Able to Keep Running, But Suburban Service was Temporarily Stalled—Central was Not Bothered Much—Street Commmissioner Gavett was Prepared for the Storm.

The ground hog was right, after all. Sunday would have found him struggling through a foot of snow with all the wintry accompaniments of a low mercury and formidable north wind, had he not turned back at the glimpse of his shadow Candlemas Day.

Although sadly belated, the first real snow storm of the season put in its appearance Saturday, and is now in full possession. For such a stranger it is remarkably healthy, and has every appearance of being here to stay for some time. It wasn't any ill-natured blizzard to interrupt traffic and general inconvenience the land, but a real old-fashioned snow storm, accompanied by some biting cold weather.

With February half gone and remarkably mild weather, there were some who believed that Dame Nature had really forgotten to provide any real winter. But when the Plainfielders woke up Saturday morning, they found the little flakes falling steadily and the ground already white. All Saturday the snow continued until close to the hour of midnight when the storm ended and most of Jersey was hidden under a white coat, variously estimated at from eight to twelve inches in thickness.

As the storm decreased in energy, the north wind swept down and threatened to heap up the snow in great drifts to the general inconvenience of all. But the snow was too heavy to drift much, while the wind remained at a fairly moderate pace and comparatively little trouble resulted in this part of the State in consequence.

TROLLEY LINES TIED UP.

Snow Storm Handicapped Suburban Service More Than it Did the City Lines.

The local trolley system continued its service with an effort, while the suburban trolley lines of the Elizabeth and Westfield and the Brunswick Traction Companies were temporarily tied up. Plainfield itself felt no serious effects. Most of the sidewalks in the central part of the city were cleaned early yesterday morning and the Sunday crowd of church goers, somewhat smaller than usual, however, had little difficulty in reaching the various houses of worship. The weekly holiday, coming directly after the storm, gave plenty of opportunity for cleaning up before the usual business activity was resumed this morning.

The wind was brisk during the closing hours of the storm but it died away with the snow to be resumed with increasing force at the first signs of morning. In the fields and open spaces where the wind had full sweep, there were drifts but the deepest of them did not reach over three feet. In the city, however, the drifts were of little importance. The snow was by no means ideal for sleighing but it packed in time and the sleighs began to put in an appearance as early as Saturday afternoon. Yesterday they were out by the score and the merry jingle of the bells was to be heard on every side. Today, many of the tradesmen have utilized runners while numerous plans are being laid for pleasure parties this evening.

The trolley cars of the Plainfield Street Railway Company ran on any old time Saturday afternoon. With the assistance of the scrapers on the cars they managed to keep running, however. The horse scrapers were called out at nightfall and were kept usy until after midnight. Although there were delays, all the lines, including the one to Cranford, were kept open until midnight and then the cars were lodge safely in the car house.

Half a dozen of the horse scrapers were active in the early morning hours and soon the cars ran on nearly schedule time. The Scotch Plains line was only opened as far as Leland avenue in the morning. Beyond that point a three foot drift interfered with the traffic. Superintendent Adelman turned his attention there after getting the city lines in full operation and opened the line through to Westfield during the afternoon. This morning, traffic with Cranford was resumed.

Early in the season, arrangements were made along the line for the clearing of the tracks in case of a snow storm. One four horse scraper went to work Saturday night at the B. and O. crossing east of Cranford. Other gangs started at Cranford, Westfield and Scotch Plains. Little could be done that night on account of the high wind which drifted the snow over the tracks as soon as it was cleared away. Yesterday work was resumed at all points and now the line is working again.

The Brunswick Traction Company suffered badly. Only a week ago a fire in the carshed destroyed all their plows, and Superintendent Radel thought it too late in the season to necessitate the purchase of more. As a result all the lines of the Brunswick Company were tied up Saturday night. Those in the city of New Brunswick were cleared yesterday with horse-scrapers. The suburban lines were effectively blocked, however. The line to Bound Brook was first opened, and it is expected that cars will be running from Bound Brook to Dunellen and to Somerville tonight or tomorrow morning.

CLEARING THE STREETS.

Street Commissioner Gavett Had Everything Arranged for Just Such a Storm as Came.

When it is considered that a large amount of snow fell in this city and the storm was a severe one, Plainfielders have great reason to feel thakful that they suffered so little trouble and inconvenience. According to a prearranged system, adopted by Street Commissioner Gavett, each one of the city's employes knew exactly what to do. The streets were divided among the men and in this way travel was kept open and crosswalks were kept clear. Of course, during the storm it was useless to do anything, but as early as 4 o'clock yesterday morning the men were out cleaning off crosswalks. The gang was divided, some going to the east end of the city, some to the west end and another gang in the the Netherwood district. In the Netherwood section a snow-plough was used, and with a gang of men the crosswalks were cleaned and in many instances sidewalks also. The work was done in such a systematic way that residents suffered no inconvenience in getting about yesterday.

Throughout the main part of the city crosswalks were cleaned early, and Commissioner Gavett was surprised to see how quickly and generously the people responded and cleaned off their own walks. This was a great help to the street cleaning department and was appreciated very much. Before noon yesterday all of the principal crossings were cleaned off and one could scarcely find a sidewalk that had not been cleaned.

Commissioner Gavett's men were unable to do much yesterday in the way of cleaning gutters in the business part of the city, but this was attended to this morning, and the odds and ends of the work are being looked after by the city's employes under the commissioner's direction. The latter is agreeably surprised to learn that the storm did so little damage here, and that the people of the city experienced so little trouble. His new system certainly worked well, and the people have cause to feel grateful for the excellent work done by the street cleaning department.

This morning under the direction of Commissioner Gavett the surplus snow along Front street, thrown up by the trolley snow ploughs, is being removed by the city employes. The greater part of this expense will be paid for by the trolley company. This work was completed this morning and this afternoon the sidewalks are being looked after, and persons failing to clean their walks are receiving a call from the police.

CENTRAL NOT BOTHERED.

Trains Were Able to Run on Schedule Time, But Ferries Were Delayed Somewhat.

Judging by the great amount of snow that was falling and the high velocity of the wind throughout the night it was supposed that the Jersey Central Railroad would be severely bothered and handicapped in the movement of trains, especially as regards the through fast trains from the west. Much to the delight of the company this was not true and at no time during the storm or afterward was any train delayed over ten or fifteen minutes. It was expected that there would be trouble in the yards at Jersey City, but very little difficulty was experienced there and the trains were able to start on time. There was some trouble on the ferry and the boats were delayed a considerable length of time during the early part of Saturday evening.

It was not even necessary for the

INDIVIDUAL WORK IN DAILY PRESS LEAGUE

Mulford Leads For Best Average Score.

HAS INCREASED HIS LEAD.

C. D. SMITH HAS TOP PLACE IN AVERAGE SPARES.

Few Changes in the Standing for Individual Prize in Daily Press Bowling League for Highest Average Score—Mulford, of Roselle, Leads With Townley, of Westfield, in Second Place.

The marvelous rolling of Mulford in the three games rolled in The Daily Press Bowling League at Roselle last week left no doubt as to the winner of the high average prize in the league this season. With an average score of 189.4, Mulford now stands well above any of the other competitors for the individual prize offered for the highest average score. It is only a comparatively short time ago that he was a novice on the Roselle Casino alleys. Then he was placed upon the team representing that club with some doubt as to his ability to hold the pace. Now he stands at the head of The Daily Press league as by far the best bowler in any of the included clubs.

The standing in the individual average score contest, revised to include the scores of last Thursday evening, shows but few changes. Mulford, of Roselle, still is first and has increased his lead from 182 7 to 189 4. He has so far rolled fifteen games, in six of which he made 200 or better. His low score was 161, and his best 237, rolled last week.

W. M. Townley, of Westfield, is second and is likely to remain so unless Captain Charles A. Smith, of the Roselle team, makes a remarkable showing in his remaining three games to be rolled on the Park Club alleys. Sharp, the Cranford veteran, was third, but a change was looked for there as Captain Smith was only a few points behind and was expected to do well on his own alleys last week. Smith advanced himself to Sharp's old mark but the latter also climbed up a few points and still remains in third place.

Patterson, of Roselle, dropped down from seventh to eighth place advancing Hibbard, of the Park Club, to seventh. Johnson, of the Parks, fell behind as both Shangle and Dumont rose above him.

The averages of those still eligible for the prize, having rolled the required proportion of games are as follows:

	Games Rolled.	Average.
Mulford, Roselle	15	189.4
W. M. Townley, Westfield	15	175.2
Sharp, Cranford	15	171.7
C. A. Smith, Roselle	15	171.2
Bates, Cranford	15	164.4
C. D. Smith, Westfield	15	161.6
Hibbard, Park Club	12	162.1
Patterson, Roselle	15	161.8
Thiers, Park Club	12	160.3
Forster, Westfield	15	159.6
Condit, Westfield	14	159.2
F. O. Ball, Park Club	12	158.9
W. Smith, Westfield	14	156.0
Dumont, Cranford	18	152.3
Shangle, Roselle	15	152.0
Johnson, Park Club	9	151.1
Barry, Cranford	15	147.6
VanBuren, Park Club	8	144.2

Captain Chauncey D. Smith, of the Westfield Club, leads in the contest for the highest average number of spares per game. He is well in front. The other Captain Smith, of Roselle, remains second in line, and his average has been slightly improved. Patterson, of his team, made a decided jump from eighth to fourth place, while Mulford, another of the Roselleites, fell down from fourth to fifth place. The Park Club team remain bunched at the wrong end of the list. Those who have rolled the requisite number of games to qualify for the prize are as follows;

	Games Rolled.	Average Spares.

Champion, of Atlantic Highlands.

Conger, county clerk of Middlesex county, has been elected Grand Vice-chancellor. The election of Elmer E. Margerum, as grand keeper of records and seal, over George E Pierson, was a great surprise. CITY HALL OBJECTORS.

FOUR COUNCILMEN OPPOSED TO THE IMPROVEMENT.

Messrs. Dumont, Mellick, VanHerwerden and Clifton are Against the Idea of Bonding the City to Pay for Building

It is reported on the best of authority that the city hall project has four opponents in the Council—Messrs. Dumont, Mellick, Van Herwerden and Clifton. Their objection to the idea, it is said, is the increase in tax and the necessity of bonding the city for such large amounts in one year. However, there are enough members in the Council favoring the project to carry it through, and a member informed a Press representative this morning that as soon as the law giving the necessary authority is passed, the work of building would commence within thirty days. He said there was not enough opposition in the Council to defeat the building of the city hall.

CHAPEL ANNIVERSARY.

Religious Workers of This City Will Aid in the Celebration at Washingtonville.

Next Thursday afternoon the tenth anniversary of the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel at Watchung will be celebrated in an appropriate manner, and a number of Christian workers from this city will attend and assist in the exercises, which promise to be very interesting. E L. Bonny, of Waahington Park, superintendent of the Sunday school, will preside. There will be violin duets by Robert W. Barnes and George Spier; baritone solos by Edson C. Martin; cornet solos by Robert Davis; soprano solos by Mrs. Samel Case, and there will be five-minute remarks by various pastors from this city, and an address by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church. An interesting feature will be the historical report, which will be read by Richard Rogers, secretary of the chapel. There will also be other features. In the evening a social will be held and a musical programme will be presented.

It has been arranged to run a stage from this city and those who are to take part will make the trip in the stage. Others desiring to attend can take the trolley cars to within a short distance of the chapel, and a cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested.

OUT IN SNOW STORM WITH SCANT CLOTHES.

Strange Condition That James Anderson Was In.

HE WAS NEARLY FROZEN.

FOUGHT THOSE WHO WERE TRYING TO HELP HIM.

Staggered Into West End Fire House, Where He Became So Violent That it Was Necessary to Call a Policeman—When Arraigned in Court He Was Unable to Explain His Conduct.

As the firemen on duty at the West End Engine house on West Fourth street were closing up for the night Saturday at midnight a man staggered in out of the storm. He wore only an undershirt, trousers and shoes and was covered with blood. One eye was closed. He had apparently been exposed to the cold and storm for so long that he was half-dazed.

The firemen placed him against the radiator and he gradually recovered. As he recovered from the cold he began to talk incoherently and to struggle. Finding that he was getting dangerous Patrolman Higgins was summoned.

Higgins recognized the man as James Anderson, of West Third street, who is employed as a coremaker at the Pond Tool Works. He has borne an excellent reputation. Higgins tried to take him home, but Anderson became so violent that the officer had to use force. Anderson seemed temporarily insane, and it took the united efforts of the policeman and the firemen to hold him until a hack could be summoned. Then Higgins took him to the station house.

Anderson was released yesterday noon by the Mayor, and appeared before City Judge Runyon this morning. He pleaded guilty to the charge of drunk and disorderly, and the Judge suspended sentence on account of his previous good character.

Anderson could in no way account for his injuries or for the loss of his clothing. He remembered going to the home of a friend to attend a party and that was all. The police say that the party ended in a fight.

The Board of Trade of Somerville has resolved to petition the U. S. Army Board to keep the draw bridge closed from 7 to 9:30 a. m. and from 4:30 to 7 p. m. The committee on Transportaion, Messrs. Stewart Kenney, C. H. Bateman and Samuel Ayres, were delegated to meet with the Newark Board of Trade today to take action with that body in the matter.

The young celebrant received a number of very nice presents in honor of the occasion.

For Benefit of Children's Home.

Reed, 27 Myrtle avenue, Friday afternoon, February 23d, from 4 until 6 o'clock. Twenty five cents will be received at the door. A. yesterday afternoon. The subject was "Objections Answered" and was along gospel lines. Dr. Mason is an eloquent and forceful speaker and held the attention of those present to the end.

THE MAYOR IS AROUSED

OVER ACTION OF COUNCIL ON THE HIGH SCHOOL BONDS.

May Take the Matter Into the Court of Chancery, and Compel a Reconsideration in More Deliberate Manner.

The action of the Common Council in giving its approval to the Board of Education's request to issue bonds to the amount of $100,000 for a new High School building within a half hour after the proposition had been submitted, and before the taxpayers had even the slightest intimation of the proposed expense to be placed on them, has thoroughly aroused Mayor Rockfellow. He is seriously considering going before the Court of Chancery and having the action of the Council set aside.

The claim is made by the Mayor and those in sympathy with him that the Council had no right to take such action in secret, and that the granting of the approval to issue bonds for such a large sum of money against the credit of the city should only be accomplished after the people had had a hearing in the matter. Mayor Rockfellow is not opposed to the final action of the Common Council so much as the manner in which it was brought about.

He believes it is a dangerous precedent to establish, and if the Council has the right to bond the city for $100,000 for a new high school without the people being aware that such action was proposed they have the right to bond the city for any sum that they feel disposed to without apprising the people of the fact till the matter has been finally disposed of. By compelling the Council to give its approval in a more deliberate manner, the Mayor believes is a duty that he owes to the city.

Soldiers' Monument for Elizabeth.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 19.—After thirty-four years of effort this city is now likely to have a soldiers' monument In 1866 the project was started by veterans in Elizabeth, and a subscription of $400 was raised, but the plans fell through and the money was placed in the Elizabethtown Savings Institution, where, with the interest since accumulated, it amounts to quite a sum. Henry H. Isham, of this city, has now headed a subscription list with a gift of $100 to the monument fund, and public spirited citizens have promised to take the matter up and push it to a successful termination.

To Build New Bridges.

The Hunterdon County Board of Freeholders met at the large wooden bridges which span the south branch of the Raritan River below Rockafellow's mills Friday to investigate the damage done by the recent heavy freshets. It is believed that a new bridge will be erected, in which event the two wooden bridges will be replaced by a handsome single-span bridge. At the meeting of the Board in the Courthouse Wednesday, Isaac Creveling, of Clinton borough, was sworn in by Judge Herr to fill the unexpected term of Samuel Smith, deceased.

SUDDEN DEATH OF AN OLD SCHOOL TEACHER.

M. F. Marcley Passed Away Quickly Yesterday Afternoon.

LIVED HERE FOR 47 YEARS.

PRINCIPAL IN PLAINFIELD'S FIRST PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Had Lived a Retired Life for Many Years, but was Active in Temperance Circles—Born in New York State and was Always Engaged in Teaching—Death Shocked Reform Hall Meeting.

The community was deeply shocked yesterday to learn of the sudden death of M. F. Marcley, of New street, who for nearly fifty years has resided here and held the high esteem and respect of everyone who knew him. He was one of the very early teachers in Plainfield's first public school which was located at the corner of Arlington avenue and West Fourth street, where the Franklin school now stands. He was the principal there for many years, and it was this position that brought him to this city. There are many men in the city today who sat under his teaching.

Mr. Marcley had always enjoyed good health and was very active. He was especially prominent in church and temperance work. It was while putting on his overcoat yesterday forenoon to attend service at the First Baptist church, where he was a member, that he was taken with a distress about the chest. He remarked to his daughter-in-law, with whom he lived, that he believed that he would sit down for a few minutes and possibly the pain would subside. It did not, however, and he decided not to go to church. The distress grew worse and finally Dr. Clawson was called. He diagnosed the case as a collection of gas about the heart and prescribed accordingly, telling Mr. Marcley to keep perfectly quiet the rest of the day. The physician had not been absent very long, when the members of the family, who were in another room, heard a noise. They hastened to the sitting room and found Mr. Marcley lying on the floor, dead.

Death was due to heart trouble, which had developed into a severe form during the absence of a physician.

Mr. Marcley was 82 years of age, and was born in New York State, coming here about forty-seven years ago. Early in life he was given a first class education and later he devoted his time to teaching school, having held several such positions in various parts of New York State. He was for some years a professor at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y. He also taught school at Morrisiana, N. Y. When he came to Plainfield he accepted the position as principal of the first public school. During the latter years of his life he lived in retirement. He was married twice, his second wife dying about eleven months ago, after being an invalid for many years.

Mr. Marcley was very active at Reform Hall. He was vice-president of the club. Those who assembled yesterday afternoon at the hall for the regular meeting were waiting for the arrival of Mr. Marcley to begin the meeting, when they were informed that he was dead. Mr. Marcley was very generous and gave freely of his means to his church and all charitable enterprises.

He is survived by two sisters, who live in New York State; two brothers, one in Eagle, Wis., and the other in New York State; one son, Dr. Marcley, of Buffalo, and three grandsons. The notice of funeral will be given later.

AGAINST THE LICENSES.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck Enters a Protest Against the Legalized Liquor Traffic.

Before his sermon yesterday morning, Dr. Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, referred to the granting of licenses by the Common Council on the 28th inst. He entered his protest against the granting of all saloon licenses, and emphatically protested against the licensing of Michael Watsoh on Grant avenue. A man with the record that Watson has for breaking the law in reference to liquor selling should never be licensed by the Council, he said.

Dr. Schenck also entered his protest to the granting of a license to a grocer. It would be a calamity, he said, and he hoped that all the grocers of the city would personally protest against the granting of such a license, and if they did so he believed the Council would listen to their protest and refuse to grant the license.

Prosector English, of Elizabeth, was in Plainfield today calling on some of his many friends.

CRONJE NOT CAUGHT

Report of His Capture Proved Untrue.

LORD ROBERTS' WELL LAID PLANS.

Boer Army, Ten Thousand Strong, Fleeing Toward Bloemfontein, Closely Pursued—The Brilliant Move That Saved Kimberley.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—It is now amply confirmed that General Cronje escaped. Every detail received, however, proves how admirably Lord Roberts' plans were conceived and were succeeding. But for the unexpected delay at Dekiel's drift, which was almost impassable for wagons, the whole Boer force would have been surrounded. The delay of one day there gave them their chance for a hasty retreat.

All the other movements of Lord Roberts were executed exactly to time. Apparently General Cronje is retreating with the main army, and even if he escapes altogether he will probably lose all his baggage.

The correspondent of The Times at Modder River, wiring yesterday, says:

"General Cronje's army of 10,000 men, with 1,000 wagons, is in full retreat toward Bloemfontein, hotly pursued by General Kelly-Kenny. It will probably be a rear guard fight all the way to Bloemfontein. Our cavalry has already returned from Kimberley to join in the pursuit."

A dispatch from Jacobsdal, dated Feb. 18, says:

"General Kelly-Kenny is still pursuing the Boers. He has now captured more than 100 wagons. The highland brigade re-enforced him after a forced march. General French has left Kimberley to join in pursuit of the Boer army. The guards have occupied the Boer position at Magersfontein."

A Frere camp dispatch says:

"The Boers have abandoned several laagers. General Buller renewed the bombardment of the Boer position without eliciting a reply. Another forward move is regarded as imminent."

From Chieveley camp comes a delayed message saying:

"The movement northeast began last Wednesday morning. Lord Dundonald, with cavalry, infantry and artillery, occupied Huzzar hill, five miles north of Chieveley. The infantry intrenched the hill."

Further details of the Boer retreat show that the enemy has been fighting a good rear guard action and occupying successive kopjes in order to allow the moving of the convoy, which, however, has been going a very slow pace, the animals being apparently dead beat.

General French's magnificent march is still the subject of admiration, especially in view of the duststorms and thunderstorms that all experienced.

A dispatch from the Swaziland border, dated Friday, Feb. 16, says:

"The Boer agent at Bremersdorp, Swaziland, has been maintaining regular communication with Delagoa Bay via Swaziland. Two coolie carriers have been bearing sacks, supposed to contain salt, through Tongaland. On examination it was found that the sacks contained gunpowder."

A dispatch from Jacobsdal, dated Feb. 16, says:

"Lord Roberts' combinations for the movement of the corps dovetailed with precision, although obstacles that had not been foreseen had to be overcome.

"The execution of his design began at 3 a. m. Sunday. General French rode into Kimberley Thursday afternoon just when he was due according to the field marshal's timetable, having in four and a half days marched 90 miles with artillery and having fought two small engagements. The relief of Kimberley was accomplished with the loss of only 50 men. Twenty thousand infantry made splendid marches under a subtropical sun and through a duststorm to hold the positions which General French took.

"Lord Kitchener was with General Tucker's division. In consequence of his transport arrangements the four divisions moving over the sandy veldt are fed and watered. It is impossible to appreciate adequately the mathematical precision with which every part of the transport department is worked, marching through the day, toiling almost sleeplessly throughout the night, victualing the army and evolving every hour results from seeming chaos.

"Everybody did what was expected of him cheerfully, though during frightful fatigues. Few slept more than three hours. The battalions, hour after hour, toiled through the heavy sand uncomplainingly, and when now and then a man fell out of the ranks exhausted he would rejoin his company later after he had rested. Some 50 or 60 were overcome by the heat and had to be sent to the rear in the backward defile of empty wagons.

"The rapidity of Lord Roberts' movements away from his base has solved one of the problems, perhaps the chief problem, of the war. He and Lord Kitchener have created a mobile force able to move in exterior lines and to outflank the Boers, themselves so wonderfully mobile.

"The position of the Boer army at Spytfontein being untenable, General Cronje ordered a retreat. At the moment this dispatch is written it is uncertain whether his whole force or only a portion has gone toward Bloemfontein. It is possible that a part is going north of Kimberley.

"It is supposed that a 29 ton gun is still in the neighborhood of Kimberley. The road from Jacobsdal to Modder station is now open."

Boers Active About Ladysmith.

LADYSMITH, Feb. 19 (by heliograph).—The Boers have been very active here during the last few days and are evidently making a move somewhere. The garrison, greatly delighted to learn of the relief of Kimberley, is in excellent spirits and fit for anything.

Major Doveton died Wednesday, Feb. 14.

Dr. Jameson has the fever.

The heat is tremendous, but the morale of the camp is excellent.

Major Doveton's wife, who was given a safe conduct through the Boer lines, has arrived here to nurse her husband.

Buller's New Headquarters.

CHIEVELEY, Feb. 19.—General Buller has established his headquarters on Hussar hill. Heavy artillery firing was maintained at intervals by both sides from Wednesday until Friday. The British slowly pushed the advance, and their infantry occupied intrenched new positions in front of Hussar hill with slight losses. It is believed that the lyddite worked havoc in the Boer trenches. The Boers are supposed to have moved their big guns back over the Tugela Friday afternoon. The rifle fire has been heavy at times. The whole country is thickly wooded.

KIND TREATMENT BY BOERS.

Prisoners Taken Share the Best They Have—Prayer and Song In Camp.

ARUNDEL, Feb. 19.—Captain Longhurst of the British medical corps spent a night at Hebkirk's farm attending the wounded Australians. He says that the enemy were remarkably kind to the wounded, providing them with mattresses and giving them all the eggs they had.

The Boer commander and Captain Longhurst found that they had mutual friends in London and were soon on the best terms. The Boers and the British wounded fraternized. Noticing that the bandoliers of the enemy were filled with soft nosed bullets, one of our men said, "You ought not to bring such things to fire at us." The Boer replied, "We must use whatever we can get."

This particular Boer contingent had come from the northern district of the Transvaal, where the Boers are used to hunting big game along the Limpopo. The men had obtained their ammunition for that purpose. One Briton, whose thigh had been shattered, replied to this explanation, "Well, I wish you had been kind enough to shoot me lower down."

After the retirement of the British forces the Boers held a prayer meeting and thanked heaven for their successes. Then they separated into small parties and moved to their various outposts, chanting hymns as they went.

Captain Longhurst says that he was much impressed by their considerate treatment of the British wounded.

A STUBBORN RESISTANCE.

Boers Driven From One Position to Another—Now Near Dordrecht.

BIRD'S RIVER, Feb. 19.—The position near Dordrecht now is that the Boers occupy a strong hill north of the town and that the British hold a commanding post to the south. Both are maintaining a brisk exchange of shells over Dordrecht.

General Brabant's horse, 2,000 strong, commenced the march from Pen Hoek Thursday morning over a trackless veldt and through a mountainous and difficult country.

Early on Friday they were fired upon, and the firing continued all day and well into the night, the British clearing the Boers out of successive positions under a terrific fire lasting eight hours.

Toward midnight Friday the British forced the Boers at the point of the bayonet out of their last position, an important one overlooking Dordrecht. The artillery duel was continued today.

The British casualties were eight killed, including Captain Crallan and Lieutenant Chandler, and eight wounded.

The British captured some prisoners and a quantity of forage and provisions.

An American's Opinion.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—John H. Hammond, the American engineer whose activity at Johannesburg while associated with the Rhodes mining interests came near costing him his life at the hands of the Boers, was the guest of honor at the University club last evening. He told his hosts about the condition of affairs in the Transvaal prior to the war and said: "It is little short of criminal for American statesmen, through their ignorance of the real facts, to attempt to justify the position of the Boers in their controversy with England."

A Bath Home Bill.

AIBANY, Feb. 19.—Governor Roosevelt and Attorney General Davies have under consideration the drafting of a bill which will provide for the reorganization of the board of trustees of the Soldiers and Sailors' home at Bath. Under its provisions the membership of the present board will be reduced from 11 to 9 by the elimination of the governor and attorney general as members ex officio. Either Senator Sherwood or Assemblyman Platt, in whose district the home is located, will probably introduce the bill during the week.

X Rays to Cure Cancer.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—After suffering from cancer of the face for 25 years Dr. J. M. Selfridge, founder of Fabiola hospital, Oakland, believes he has been almost completely cured by the X ray. Last October Dr. Selfridge began experimenting with the X ray in conjunction with his son, Dr. C. M. Selfridge, and Dr. N. H. Chamberlain. So successful have been the trials that numbers of other sufferers have taken the same remedy and have met with astonishing relief.

The Snow In New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The snowstorm which held sway over New York on Saturday ended at about 4 o'clock Sunday morning, when the total fall measured 10.9 inches. This city and the territory immediately adjacent seem to have caught the brunt of the storm in this part of the country, as above Peekskill the snowfall did not exceed two or three inches. Up to 9 o'clock last night 42,000 loads of snow had been removed from the city's main thoroughfares.

Meeting of Railroad Men.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19.—A special dispatch to The North American from Altoona, Pa., says: "Two hundred delegates from all parts of the Pennsylvania railroad system between St. Louis and New York representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers met in secret convention here Sunday to formulate a demand for an increase in wages.

Murder In Mining Town.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 19.—At Hamtown, a mining hamlet near Pittston, James Collins shot and killed George Dooner. It is said the two men had been on bad terms for some time past. Collins was at once arrested and committed to jail. The murdered man was 27 years of age and married. Collins in only 22 years old and unmarried.

Roses bud and bloom on an ashen hue,
Lillies of the valley are scattered on green
And flowers of all tints are everywhere seen
On colors exquisitely blended with care
To reproduce fruits, and flowers as fair
As if aid on by Nature's own hand,
Unique designs both opaque and round,
And Japanese figures on gilded ground
And fantastic Beardsley lines are found
In a bewildering array.
Transform your bare and hideous walls
Into dreams of beauty as profuse
As covered Granada's famous halls,
From any design your fancy may choose,
The walls of the cottage are covered with ease,
It's not our custom, but the wealthy to please.
We have beautiful papers at a low price.
Although not so gorgeous, are artistic and nice.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Notes and Suggestions Pertaining to Matters in Her Department.

A young housekeeper writes to know just how to make a good pound cake, such as may still be found in small towns where women do their own work, and where company teas are something to remember. The old rule—and there is none better—calls for one pound each of butter, sugar and flour, ten eggs, and a half wineglass each of wine and brandy. Beat the butter to a cream and add gradually a pound of sugar, stirring all the while. Beat ten eggs without separating, until they become light and foamy. Add gradually to the butter and sugar and beat hard. Sift in one pound sifted flour and add the wine and brandy. Line the cake pans with buttered paper and pour in the well-beaten mixture. Bake in a moderate oven. This recipe may be varied by the addition of raisins, seeded and cut in halves, small pieces of citron or almonds blanched and pounded in rose water. Some old-fashioned housekeepers always add a fourth of a teaspoonful of mace. The mixture may be baked in patty tins or small round loaves, if preferred, putting currants into some, almonds or raisins in the rest. Pound cake is apt to be lighter baked in this way. The cakes may be plain or frosted, and they will grow richer with the keeping, if kept in stone jars.

The innate and eel-like tendency of the active small child to slip about the room after his bath and before his drying is accomplished is met by one nurse fruitful in expedients by lifting her small charges directly from the tub on to a chair covered by a big Turkish towel. The slipperiest child, thus circumscribed as to his pedestal, is forced to remain quiet, and the rubbing can be accomplished without the constant iteration "stand still."

Where there is any doubt about the dampness and consequent unhealthfulness of an apartment the following test may be used: Place 2 1-5 pounds of fresh lime in the room in question, after hermetically closing doors and windows. In 24 hours weigh the lime, and if it has absorbed more than one-third ounce of water (that is, more than one per cent.), the room must be considered too damp for habitation.

In caring for cut glass, tepid water, pure soap and a stiff brush are the first essentials. After washing and rinsing, place the cut glass in boxwood sawdust. This will absorb the moisture in the cuttings. Next remove the sawdust from the plain surfaces with a soft cloth, and the cuttings with the brush. By following these directions, the original clearness and sparkle of the glass may be maintained indefinitely.

One of the most useful furnishings in the nursery is a screen, especially where a child is delicate or the ventilation difficult. Pretty and entertaining effects for the children may be obtained by covering a frame with brown holland and pasting upon it illustrations from the magazines or pretty cards. Care should be taken to select pleasing pictures, and to arrange them so as to give an object lesson in taste and color.—Washington Star.

A BUSINESS TRAINING.

The Richest Woman in the World Says It Is a Good Thing for All Women.

When I say that all women should have a business training, I mean women of all classes—poor, middling rich and well-to-do. The assertion does not apply merely to those whose circumstances seem to indicate that they may one day be compelled to make their own way in the world. Every class of girl will make a better and happier woman if she has a business education, whether her womanhood sees her a maid, wife, mother or widow. I have heard it stated that for a woman to get a business training is to crush all the poetry out of her life. This is sheer nonsense. A woman with a knowledge of business appreciates music, painting and the other finer things of life just as much as the woman who is ignorant of all business matters; and the former has the decided advantage, in that she is able to turn her knowledge of business into securing more opportunities of seeing and appreciating these fine things. She can get more tickets to concerts and art galleries. She will have more money to become the possessor of more beautiful things than a woman without business training, and a woman with a sure income before her feels a great deal more like studying poetry than a woman who is compelled to worry about her future bread and butter. I have been a business woman for 50 years, and am just as fond of pictures and music as anyone of my age. A business training is but one more accomplishment added to the list which the young woman of to-day is expected to acquire, and it is absurd to say that its possession will interfere with the proper enjoyment of any of the other accomplishments. Then every housekeeper is a business woman, the degree of her excellence as a housekeeper being the degree of the business training she was provided with before she entered upon her domestic duties. The successful and economical management of the house calls for the same kind of ability and judgment that is necessary to the successful management of a commercial enterprise.—Hetty Green, in Woman's Home Companion.

Flowers Used in Perfumery.

Vast quantities of flowers are gathered for perfumery purposes. It is estimated that each year 1,860 tons of orange flowers are used, besides 930 tons of roses, 150 tons each of violets and jasmine, 75 tons of tuberoses, 30 tons of cassie and 15 tons of jonquils.—Chicago Chronicle.

WOOD'S NEW ORDERS

They Have Created a Sensation In Santiago.

CIVIL AND MILITARY POWERS DEFINED

The Proposed Transfer of Public Works to Civil Control Causes Uneasiness Among American and Foreign Business Men.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Feb. 19.—Governor General Wood's general orders specifying the prerogatives of military commanders and civil governors are creating a sensation here. The press, with the exception of the violently partisan Cuban local organ, comments favorably upon them, saying that they indicate an honest intention on the part of the intervening government to fulfill the pledge to establish the independence of Cuba.

The Cuba Libre, which is antagonistic to the governor general, says the general orders are "merely a trick to prolong the American occupation."

The provision transferring public works to the civil department on April 1 causes alarm among many American employees, as they expect dismissal when the transfer is made.

The managers of American and foreign business enterprises are also somewhat concerned, as they have no confidence in the coming Cuban administration of public affairs. The Spaniards, who control the principal business undertakings here, are particularly anxious. As public improvements will for some time be the principal source of business the Spaniards expect but little patronage under a Cuban administration.

Civil Governor Castillo says he will co-operate with the military authorities, but thousands of Cuban politicians confidently expect recognition when the transfer is made.

FREE EDUCATION.

Cuban Teachers Will Receive Free Instruction at Harvard.

HAVANA, Feb. 19.—A cable dispatch from Charles William Eliot, president of Harvard university, to Mr. Alexis E. Frye, superintendent of schools, will probably have the effect of doing more for Cuba's future than anything yet accomplished. Some weeks ago Mr. Frye proposed a plan which had been discussed at the Havana Harvard club—namely, endeavoring to obtain permission for 1,000 Cuban teachers to attend the Harvard Summer School For Teachers.

Mr. Frye has now received President Eliot's reply, offering to provide, free of charge, for 1,000 Cubans during six weeks of the summer. Mr. Frye and Mr. Ernest Lee Conant have notified General Wood, who is greatly pleased, as he believes that the advantages to be gained for all concerned will be enormous and will have great effect on the Cuban children now attending the schools.

A Mysterious Murder.

WEBSTER, Mass., Feb. 19.—In a large pool of blood the almost lifeless body of Miss Katharine Booth, 29 years of age, was found at 7 o'clock Sunday morning on a lonely road about a mile and a half from Webster Center. The woman was unconscious when found and died soon after without being able to make known the cause of her condition. On her forehead was a large wound made by some sharp instrument, which had pentrated the skull. It is stated that Miss Booth had on several occasions had her life threatened. The dead woman was a weaver in the cotton mills at North Webster and lived in the family of George Scarborough, his house being not more than 100 feet from the spot where the woman was found.

The Russian Bear's Shadow.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—What is known in Great Britain as the central Asian peril once more disturbs the pacific aspect of international affairs. As viewed by the man in the street, the definite news shows that, in spite of denials, Russia has advanced a strong force within striking distance of Herat, and whether she intends that as a distinct demonstration against Afghanistan or merely as a blind to draw off attention from or ultimately assist her objects in the Persian gulf is merely a matter of surmise. Whatever it really means, a large portion of the British public and press is devoting serious attention to the menacing shadow of the bear.

Couldn't Marry Three.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—A special to The Times-Herald from Colorado Springs says: "President Samuel Strong of the Free Coinage Mining company of Cripple Creek was joined in marriage on the 6th inst. to Miss Regina Neville of Altman, Cripple Creek district. Just after the marriage ceremony he was served with papers in a breach of promise suit by Miss Vance of a neighboring town. She asks $250,000 damages. Saturday Miss Nellie Lewis of Pasadena, now in Colorado Springs, brought suit for $200,000 damages for the same offense."

Contract For Jetties.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 19.—Christie, Low & Hayward of Chicago have been awarded a contract for building government jetties at the mouth of the St. Mary's river opposite Fernandina. Their bid, $1,100,750, was the lowest of four. The work will take two years. The jetties will be four miles long. The firm is at present engaged in building extensive government jetties at Sabine Pass, Tex., and will bring the machinery to Florida.

Macrum Goes to Washington.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 19.—Charles E. Macrum, former United States consul at Pretoria, South Africa, left for Washington last night at 10 o'clock on the Baltimore and Ohio road. Before leaving he said: "I do not withdraw a word of my charges against the British officials in South Africa. If I am called upon, I am prepared at any time to testify to them and furnish evidence of their truthfulness."

Another Steamer Seized.

PORT ELIZABETH, Feb. 19.—The British steamer Sabine, Captain Taylor, from New York Jan. 4 with a miscellaneous cargo, has been seized by the British gunboat Thrush and brought to Delagoa Bay on suspicion of having on board articles contraband of war.

A REPLY TO GERRY.

New York Charities Board Answers Recent Attack.

HIS STATEMENTS ARE MISLEADING.

The So Called Anti-Gerry Bills Are For the Purpose of Bringing the Children's Society Under Same Care as Other Charities.

ALBANY, Feb. 19.—The state board of charities has issued a reply to the circular letter which the president of the New York Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Elbridge T. Gerry, has sent out to charitable societies. The reply says in part:

"The nature of the appeal clearly appears from the bold headlines with which the circular is paragraphed. Mr. Gerry's statements, however, are so misleading both in the things said and the things implied that it is impossible to allow them to pass unchallenged."

Chief Judge Parker, in filing a supplementary memorandum concurring in the majority opinion, distinctly says:

"That the question up for decision is a fairly debatable one is demonstrated by the several opinions that have been written in this court and the court below."

And again Judge Parker says:

"If the legislature from which this relator originally obtained the power which has recently been incorporated in the constitution, but on no broader lines than the legislative grants of authority, deems it wise to give to the relator the right of visitation and to make rules and regulations for this defendant it can do so."

These quotations are sufficient to show that the present appeal to the legislature is entirely consistent with Chief Judge Parker's opinion.

The implication that the state board seeks "to cripple and destroy" societies for the prevention of cruelty "as a punishment for their successful litigation" and to take to itself "absolutely the right to their creation, regulation and government" is totally false. The bill supported by the board proposes such amendments to the membership corporation law as will place societies for the prevention of cruelty to children in the same category and under the same visitation and inspection in which societies for the care, relief and protection of dependent and delinquent children are placed by law.

Speaking of the so called anti-Gerry bills introduced the report says:

"The proposed measures are a codification of existing statutes made for the purpose of incorporating them under the one title known as the state charities law. The state board has nothing to do with this codification. It is the work of the statutory revision commission. The codification in nowise increases the duties or powers of the board as these exist today.

"But the real question is this: Do the people of this state whose representatives framed the constitution and the statutes which have so firmly established a general policy of state supervision desire a continuance of this policy designed to protect alike the givers and recipients of charity from abuse? Or do they wish the arbitrary power now possessed by Mr. Gerry's and kindred societies to be extended so as to make every charitable organization of the state supported by a private benevolence a law unto itself?"

New York Lawmakers.

ALBANY, Feb. 19.—Little has yet been accomplished in the way of important legislation at this session, and this week promises no startling developments. Out of the great mass of proposed legislation few bills have yet come from committee. A great number of interested parties desire to be heard upon all important measures, and the committees have been liberal in the time allowed them. Few bills have therefore found a place upon the calendars of either house to permit of speedy passage. Despite the long investigation of Governor Roosevelt's special commission the subject of tax legislation is still one of the most puzzling problems before the legislature.

Shot His Sweetheart's Father.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Feb. 19.—Leslie Eastburn, aged 21, shot Jasper Sutton, an aged citizen of Bloomfield, three bullets penetrating Sutton's abdomen and causing almost instant death. Eastburn called at Sutton's home to take Sutton's 18-year-old daughter Alice to church. The father met Eastburn at the door and ordered him away. An altercation ensued, and Sutton followed Eastburn to the road. Finally weapons were drawn by both men. Eastburn fired first, the older man falling before he could raise his weapon.

Large Iron Ore Contracts.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 19.—Contracts have already been made for vessels to carry 18,500,000 tons of iron ore down the lakes this year. This total exceeds by 2,500,000 tons the largest movement of ore in any previous year, including "wild" tonnage. The "wild" boats this year will carry 1,500,000 tons, which will make the grand total 20,000,000 tons, something heretofore undreamed of. The freight rates this year are double what they were last year.

Home For Deaf and Dumb Burned.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 19.—The Gallaudet Home For the Deaf and Dumb, situated about seven miles south of this city, was completely destroyed by fire about 10 o'clock last night. The 26 inmates were safely rescued and taken to a farmhouse a quarter of a mile away. The fire started in the southwestern portion of the building, and the origin is unknown. The loss is about $45,000, which is covered by insurance.

Heavy Storm In Maine.

GARDINER, Me., Feb. 19.—The storm which began Saturday night was the worst of the season. Snow is piled up in the streets from three to five feet. Electric cars are unable to run, and trains on the Maine Central are from three to four hours behind. All ice operations are set back. The snow is still drifting badly.

The Philippine Commission.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The president has not yet selected all the members of the Philippine commission which Judge Taft is to head. The name of John J. Vertrees of Nashville has been mentioned to the president as a southern representative on the commission, but the statement that he has been offered a place is erroneous.

General Shafter's Opinion.

BUFFALO, Feb. 19.—Major General William R. Shafter was the guest of Colonel Dougherty at Fort Porter yesterday while returning to San Francisco Interviewed on the Philippine situation he said: "I regard the insurrection as broken. So far as the Tagals are concerned, the insurrection is practically ended. As to what may occur among the other tribespeople over there I cannot say." "How long will a garrison be necessary in the Philippines?" was asked "Forever," he replied, "and by forever I mean during your lifetime and mine Troops must be there for years to come. We have garrisons in this country, and certainly garrisons will be needed there." General Shafter left for San Francisco today.

Across the Chinese Desert.

BUCYRUS, O., Feb. 19.—James Dedrick, a Californian, who is just back from China, is here arranging for the purchase of a number of ten ton steel wagons and traction engines to draw them. He will establish a service across the desert in China and will enter active competition for the carrying trade, which is now done by camels. He says the camels can carry only about 600 pounds and make only 20 miles a day, while his wagons will carry ten tons each and can make 60 miles He has been over the ground thoroughly and expects to have 50 engines and 3,000 wagons actively engaged within a year The first consignment will be shipped on March 15.

Preconvention Surmises.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 19.—Work is being pushed in preparing all the offices on the sixth floor of the big Perry-Payne building for the use of Senator Hanna It is generally believed by other tenants of the building that Senator Hanna intends to remain in Cleveland this summer and conduct the McKinley preconvention campaign in his home offices The fact that the McKinley home at Canton is being enlarged and otherwise improved, especially as to office and library accommodations, is also taken to mean that the president will remain there this summer, close to Cleveland.

After the Democratic Convention.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 19.—A delegation of about 100 boomers, including prominent politicians from Racine, Waukesha, Fond du Lac and other Wisconsin cities, left Milwaukee for Washington on a special train over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road yesterday. The train was transferred to the Pennsylvania system at Chicago. The delegation will work hard to secure the Democratic national convention for Milwaukee. Many of the boomers wore silk hats and carried canes. Handsome badges were also worn by the delegates.

Sealskin Coat Seized.

NIAGARA FALLS, Feb. 19.—Customs officers seized a sealskin coat, the property of Miss Mary Hopkins, a young woman en route from Toronto to New York. It was found in the sleeping car berth occupied by Miss Hopkins on a Grand Trunk train. She made a statement to the effect that it was an old garment, which she had repaired at Toronto Miss Hopkins was allowed to proceed to New York, but the coat was retained by the customs pending investigation.

Canadians Start For the Front.

HALIFAX, Feb. 19.—Three hundred mounted volunteers for service in South Africa, the third section of the Second Canadian contingent, have arrived from Toronto and Kingston and will sail for Cape Town on Wednesday on the steamer Milwaukee. Lieutenant Colonel Evans goes out with this detachment and will turn over the command at Cape Town to Colonel Lessard, a Canadian officer on Lord Roberts' staff.

Church Debt Quickly Paid.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 19.—Wesley church, the largest Methodist church in the city, is free from debt. At the morning service yesterday, in response to the urgings of the pastor, Rev. James S. Montgomery, the congregation contributed in 90 minutes, at the rate of $262 a minute, a total of $23,600, sufficient to more than pay the indebtedness.

Frozen to Death.

COLCHESTER, Conn., Feb. 19.—The lifeless body of John Eagan, aged 60, whose home was in East Haddam, was found on the highway about a mile and a half west of the village Sunday morning. He had been overcome by the storm as he was returning home and was frozen to death.

RAILWAY PLANS.

New International Route From Kansas City to California Gulf.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 19.—Arthur E Stillwell, promoter and former president of the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf Railroad company, is the moving spirit in an ambitious railroad scheme announced here.

His plan contemplates a new international railway system 1,800 miles long stretching from Kansas City to the gulf of California.

The Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railway company was incorporated in Kansas yesterday with an authorized capital of $1,000,000. The incorporators include Mr. Stillwell, J. W. Hirst of Omaha, president of the Linseed Oil trust; Dr. W. S. Woods and W. A. Rule Kansas City bankers; S. C. Fox and E W. Snyder, Leavenworth (Kan.) capitalists; S. A. Witherbee, Detroit; Herman Kuhn, London, and several capitalists of Missouri and Kansas. Through the corporation thus formed it is hoped to capitalize the scheme.

The plan contemplates a railroad from Kansas City through Topeka and Wichita., Kan., through El Reno, O. T., and through northwestern and western Texas between Santa Fe and Rock Island lines to a point on the Rio Grande about 200 miles south and east of El Paso, thence southwest to Chihuahua, Mexico.

A Case of Wife Poisoning.

FREDERICK, Md., Feb. 19.—Daniel Smith, a farmer of Wolfesville, Frederick county, has been arrested, charged with causing the death of his wife, Malinda Smith, by administering poison to her. The woman, who is 65 years of age died Wednesday night. Smith, who is three years her senior, it is said, had frequently quarreled with his wife. It is stated that on Wednesday Smith requested his wife to prepare a pudding for dinner. After eating heartily of the meal the woman went to visit her daughter, a Mrs. Case, who lives near the Smith farm. Soon after arriving there she was attacked with nausea and vomiting, but was unable to account for her illness She told Mrs. Case the circumstance about the pudding and remembered that her husband had not eaten of it.

Religion Stops a Factory.

SHARPSTOWN, Md., Feb. 19.—Owing to the results of a revival which is being held here at the Methodist church a large basket factory had to close down Friday. Soon after 8 o'clock in the morning about 30 young women employed in the factory became enthused with religious fervor and began to sing, pray and shout. The men at work in another department were attracted to the scene. The proprietor of the factory, who is a prominent Methodist, was called. He made no effort to control the girls, but told them to shout and rejoice, and he would pay them as much for this as for working. News of the unexpected demonstration spread, and so many persons visited the factory that the work was brought completely to a standstill. Probably 500 persons visited the scene.

President Diaz's Liberal Decree.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 19.—The president has issued a decree for the establishment of a system of bonded warehouses at ports of entry and outlined liberal measures, which will be welcomed by the business community. Managers of warehouses may loan money on the goods deposited as well as enjoy the usual privileges pertaining to this business in foreign countries, collecting storage charges, etc. Exemption from customs duties on the materials for the construction of the warehouses is granted for five years. Several banks here are interested in this business, which bids fair to be of great importance and utility, and New York parties are expected to take a portion of the capital required.

Many Counterfeit Dollars.

TOLEDO, Feb. 19.—Through the arrest of George E. Smith at Bowling Green late Saturday night the federal authorities here hope to find some clew to the identity of counterfeiters who have been flooding Toledo and neighboring towns with counterfeit silver dollars of the dates of 1878 and 1881. The counterfeits are four pennyweights under standard weight, but have the true ring, and some have passed Toledo banks. Smith, when arrested, had 33 of the 1878 dollars in his pockets, 20 of them being in a package. Smith lived in Toledo and at times called himself George Howard.

An Explanation is Due.

We understand from high authority that when the proposition of the Board of Education in relation to bonding the city for $100,000 for a new High School building was presented to the Common Council, it was expected that the matter would be referred to the finance committee and reported at a subsequent meeting. The members of the Board of Education thought that this procedure would be taken, and were quite surprised when they learned that the approval for bonding the city for $100,000 had been pushed through the Council in record-breaking time.

But through some subtle influence the finance committee was induced to report favorably on the matter within a few minutes after it had been referred to them, thus violating every known precedent in connection with such an important transaction. An explanation for this unusual and dangerous conduct is due from the chairman of the finance committee. Councilman VanHerwerden is chairman of that committee, and we would be pleased to have him give us the official version of the affair.

It is to be presumed that he and his colleagues thought they were acting right, and if such is the case there ought to be no reluctance on their part in making explanations that the people are entitled to.

We hereby extend a cordial invitation to Mr. VanHerwerden to explain why the finance committee reported favorably on a matter that involved an expenditure of $100,000 before even a small fraction of taxpayers had the slightest intimation of the affair.

The columns of The Daily Press are open to you, Mr. VanHerwerden. Speak up.

According to Paterson people, the proposition of the railroads that the Newark bay drawbridges be closed for two hours in the morning and the same time in the afternoon, when passenger traffic is heaviest, is a cunning scheme of the railroad magnates to accomplish a sinster purpose—that of hampering the competition in the hauling of freight that they are subjected to by water craft using the Newark bay. That appears to be a flimsy argument to bring against the granting of the petition to have the drawbridges closed for the stipulated hours. If the railroads are granted the privilege they are asking for, there will still remain twenty hours a day for uninterrupted traffic by the water craft. We do not imagine that in the face of this condition the competition of water craft against the railroads in question will be reduced to an extent that will warrant the continuation of a rule giving cumbersome old scows and schooners the right-of-way over a passenger train filled with hundreds of people whose interests and welfare demands their presence in New York on schedule time. Fifteen minutes is of immeasurable more value to the average New York business man who lives in Plainfield than two hours delay is to a water craft loaded with any sort of freight.

A Pennsylvania genius has kept himself awake nights figuring up the possibilities of attaining great wealth through the road to riches that opens with every savings bank. After eliminating the factors of death and disasters, failures and defalcations, he has reached the conclusion that savings will never secure a membership card in the Millionaires' Club. "For example," says he, "if Adam had secured a job the day he was created and had saved $50 a week ever since that time, say 5,857 years or thereabouts, he would be the proud possessor of about $16 000,000. Andrew Carnegie makes that much every year, and gives it away without making a perceptible crimb in his bank roll. By shrewd investment, and by keeping Cain and Abel on half rations, Adam might have managed to secure, on the average say, 6 per cent. for his savings. His total capital would be less than $150,000,000, so that the poor fellow could never hope to get his name on the roll that is headed by John D. Rockefeller and closed with the signature of Carnegie."

Wednesday afternoon the State of New Jersey will officially honor her most illustrious son of the present decade. The Legislature will devote that afternoon to services im memory of the late Vice president Garret A. Hobart. Whether the President will be present at these services is not as yet definitely known. He has been invited, but up to this time he has not informed anyone connected with the event officially whether he will attend. It is said, however, that if he does not he will be represented by some members of his official family, so that the services will be dignified by the presence of men prominent in the National Government.

Some members of the State Board of Agriculture are out against the bill giving the State Board of Health control of the Dairy Commission and other powers calculated to bring it into conflict with the agriculturists. The bill is known as the "Oleomargarine act," because one of its objects is the regulation or the prohibition of the sale of that product. The farmers have little interest in that particular feature, they say, but are opposed to the bill on the broad principle that it transfers to a body, made up principally of doctors, duties that can be better performed by farmers.

Former Secretary of War Alger is engaged in writing a history of the Spanish War. It is said to be a simple narrative of events and not intended for any other purpose save that of history. A chapter devoted to the reproduction of editorials from the leading American newspapers anent the author's connection with the momentous period of the country with which his pen is now dealing, would doubtless enliven the narrative to a wonderful extent. But we suspect that Alger will forego the pleasure.

William A. Eddy, the kite fiend of Bayonne, made an experiment during the snow storm Saturday, and says that his kite drew electric sparks from the snow. Wonderful as it may be, we venture to say that Eddy has many times before seen sparks by the simple process of stepping on a section of ice which propelled his feet upward and his head downward until the two extremities had exchanged places with more force than grace.

"Trusts Calmly Viewed," says a newspaper caption. Certainly, by those who are the beneficiaries, but by the great public they are matter for intense concern.

Street Commissioner Nagle entered upon his duties with a promise to keep New York's streets clean. If he does, he will have a Waring time of it.

The snow storm will undoubtedly produce the usually large crop of reports about the peach crop being ruined.

It is a dubious prospect which Uncle Sam holds out to the Puerto Ricans.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

If the principal object of Senator Reed's bill for the publication of tax assessments is to insure the payment of taxes—and it is conceded that such publications assuredly will accomplish this result—then it would prove a boon for every city in the State and should become a law. There is some thin-skinned opposition to the bill from those who fear that its enforcement would give offense. Probably it will—to the tax-shirkers.—New York Press.

Dunellen, Feb. 19.—Miss Ritie Brokaw is now the organist at Holy Innocents' church.

The fair held in Apgar's Hall under the auspices of the ladies of the Epworth League of the Methodist church closed Saturday. Owing to the storm there was a small attendance. The embroidered table mat was won by Mrs. John Eick, who collected $12. May Apgar collected $3. The proceeds of the fair were $250.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, Feb. 19.—This place was nearly storm bound by the young blizzard of Saturday afternoon and night. The snow began drifting in the early part of the afternoon and by night the heavy winds had snowdrifts along the street several feet deep, making travel very unpleasant. The result was only those who were obliged to face the storm left the warm fireside of the home. The trolley company made a strong attempt to keep running, but try as they would the service was pretty well crippled during the early evening and Sunday morning. Sunday afternoon the two large snow plows went over the line and about 2 o'clock cars were running again as far as the Park avenue crossing. The Township Committee had the snow plows out early Sunday morning and the streets were pretty well opened up again by noon. But the heavy winds continued and filled up a great many of the cross town walks again. The attendance at the churches was small.

Wednesday evening next, the Fanwood Fire Company is to give a musical and literary entertainment in their building in Fanwood. An attractive program has been arranged. Mrs. Dayton, of Plainfield, is to recite, thus affording the friends of the fire company an especial treat. Her recitations are always received with much pleasure, for she possesses an unusual talent for this work. Miss Mira Marsona, a vocal soloist of rare ability, also of Plainfield, is one of the artists that the committee have secured. Refreshments and dancing will follow the regular program.

While John F. Miller, who has charge of the electric light through the village of Fanwood, was driving over his territory Friday night of last week he was run into by a Westfield party, who was driving on the wrong side of the road. Very little damage was done to Mr. Miller's wagon, but the stranger lost a spoke out of his rubber-tired wagon.

ROSE HILL PARK.

Rose Hill Park, Feb. 19.—Peter Burnett had quite an exciting time at his home a few days ago with a barrel of lime which was in the cellar. It was during the severe rain storm that visited this vicinity that the cellar filled with water and flooded the barrel to the depth of eighteen inches and the lime commenced to slack. PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

There appeared upon the bulletin board of the village postoffice at Middlebush a very unique notice, by which a very enterprising farmer wished to get clear of the responsibilities of caring for a cow which he does not want. The notice reads as follows:

COW FOR SALE.

Owing to ill-health I will sell one plush raspberry colored cow, aged 8 years. She is a good milker and is not afraid of the cars or anything else. She is of undaunted courage and gives milk frequently. To a man who does not fear death she would be a great boom. She is very much attached to her home at present by means of a large chain, but she will be sold to anyone who will treat her right. I will also throw in a double-barrel shot-gun, which goes with her. In May she generally goes away for a week or two and returns with a tall red calf with wabbley legs. I would rather sell her to a non-resident of the county.

The exceptionally mild weather during January evidently made the hens of this country think that spring had arrived. At any rate, new laid eggs have been shipped to nearby markets in surprising quantities all this month. For the last three days receipts in New York were 33,295 cases—about six times as many as came during the corresponding three days of last year, when 5,729 cases were received. Most of the cases contain thirty dozen. Although there are still some refrigerator eggs, by far the larger part arriving are very fine quality of new-laid. Prices for such have declined from 18½ cents per dozen at the beginning of February to 13½ cents today. A year ago the wholesale rate was 29 cents. With the price now only a trifle over 1 cent each, this article is probably much the cheapest food obtainable. It will require, however, a very sharp public appetite to consume the vast amount coming to market.

The much-talked-of trolley line across Northern New Jersey is now a certainty. Work is about to be begun at Phillipsburg and pushed eastward to meet the New Jersey Traction Company's line from Jersey City at Caldwell, near Lake Hopatcong. The Philadelphia syndicate which has acquired the lines in Eastern Pennsylvania and the Phillipsburgh Horse Car Railroad Company has started on its cross-Jersey scheme. The company's trolley cars which now run from Bethlehem, Penn., through Phillipsburg, a distance of fourteen miles, will soon be running forty miles further to the lake. The syndicate has secured the right of way for practically the entire distance along the New Jersey and Morris turnpikes from the townships through which the line will pass. The committees of Lapatcong and Pohatcong townships, which adjoin Phillipsburgh, have given a syndicate permission to start the work. The Philadelphia capitalists say the line will be completed within four months. With the connection at Caldwell it will be possible to ride by trolley from Jersey City to Siegfrieds, Penn., a distance of more than 100 miles, and for less than one-half the present railroad fare.

At the recent conference with the officials of the Central Railroad First Vice-President Warren expressed a desire to visit Plainfield with a view of making Plainfield his home during the summer months. Mr. Warren asked Mayor Rockfellow if he thought he could secure a desirable boarding house. He said it was not his intention to keep house, owing to the illness of a member of his family. The Mayor told Mr. Warren that he did not think he would have any difficulty in obtaining a suitable home for himself or any member of his family, and that the citizens of Plainfield would be pleased to have him become a resident, even if it were temporary. The Mayor and some of the other gentlemen of the committee also expressed the opinion that if Mr. Warren should decide to become a transient citizen of Plainfield he might find the city so pleasant as to eventually consider it to his advantage to become a permanent resident. At the request of Mr. Warren one of the gentlemen present at the conference promised to send him the names of parties keeping private boarding houses that are considered suitable to his taste.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

Mr. Harrigan's supporting company, which will appear with him at Music Hall tomorow night, is particulary strong and includes three of the former members of his famous New York Stock Company which served to make Harrigan's Theatre the most popular playhouse in New York for several years. Miss Amy Lee, the charming little comedienne, who is universally conceded to be the legitimate successor of Lotta, appears in her original part. Dave Braham, Jr., a son of the famous composer, and George Merritt also are members of the original "Old Lavender" company. The incidental music of the play is by George Braham. Mr. Harrigan sings at each performance, "Poverty's Tears Ebb and Flow," "The Little Old Dudheen," and other songs of his own composition which are popular the world over. Numerous other specialties are also introduced by the other members of the company. The scenic effects introduced are particularly realistic.

The great organization of Culhane, Chace & Weston's minstrels will appear at Music Hall Thursday—Washington's Birthday—both afternoon and night. In the first part there is grouped upon the tiers that constitute the raised stage, from the footlights back to the centre of the stage, 30 performers, including singers, comedians, musicians and vocalists. The scene in which this tableau is set is an attractive one and is well illuminated, and the effect is very striking. All the (presumed) darkies are attired in the costume of black dress suits and white gloves. The favorite and genial funny fellow, Wm. H Chace, is on one end of the footlights, and a new, but original and humorous comedian, Bob DeRue, on the opposite end. The others are not behind in contributing to the fun, and through a long and well arranged programme musical duets, club manipulation, singing and dancing and comedy acrobatics follow one another in rapid succession. With the superb band and the fine street parade up to date minstrelsy will be presented as never before.

Another grand holiday programme for this week has been arranged for the patrons of the Proctor continuous performance theatres in New York city. The stars represent the cream of the highest class talent in refined vaudeville. The current season at both the Proctor houses has been one of astonishing prosperity and this success is due to a most careful selection and compilation of the programmes. The bills are especially chosen with a view to delighting the ladies and children and there are always a profusion of clean cut comedy features that suit every taste. The prices are never advanced and remain at 15 cents for dress circle, 25 cents for balcony and 50 cents for the orchestra.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss J. Louise Jenkins, of West Seventh street, has gone to Patchogue, L. I., for a few days.

A prominent vocal instructor, living in one of the prosperous cities of Connecticut, relates a curious experience: "In learning," she says, "to properly place and sustain the tone, pupils sometimes feel a faintness and dizziness arising from the peculiar action of the diaphragm and the effort of controlling of the breath. I have known a girl to actually have to sit down for fear of fainting. I became convinced that the difficulty came from a weak stomach and talked with my physician about it. He was inclined to think that I had the right solution of the trouble. Some time after that I, from time to time, gave a Ripans Tabule to a pupil, suggesting that it be taken before coming to the next lesson. The effect was precisely what I had hoped. The pupils were relieved of the difficulty and able to take the full half hour of vocal exercise without any of the old trouble. It seems a queer use to make of a medicine, but it was effective."

THE HAIR.

Best Means of Keeping It In Good Condition.

Comparatively few women realize how much the hair is benefited by being allowed to hang loose so that the air may pass through it freely. It should be left floating upon the shoulders a little while every day, and if it is fair sunshine will additionally improve it, but dark hair sometimes is faded by sunlight. It is a very bad plan to wet the hair when dressing it daily. It should be thoroughly washed occasionally and dried quickly by warm air, but should never be sopped with water so that it is dank and clammy and so allowed to remain until the warmth of the head dries it. The comb should be used as little as possible, as it drags and breaks the hair, and a fine comb is always to be avoided. A stiff brush with long bristles will clear the hair as well as a comb without doing it injury, and the friction stimulates the scalp and removes dust. The hair should be left free at night or at most loosely braided, and any covering worn on the head which induces perspiration tends to cause the hair to fall.

The cut shows a reception costume of white crepe de chine. Around the foot are three scant circular ruffles. The bodice, which is fitted at the back, is draped in front and closed at the side. The yoke of shirred white mousseline de soie is encircled by a bertha of white mousseline de soie. The sleeves of elbow length are of wrinkled mousseline de soie and are finished with a frill. Bows composed of loops of white satin baby ribbon are placed at the shoulders, waist and elbows. The belt is of white satin.

CHILDREN'S FASHIONS.

Elaborate Styles For Very Little People.

Fashion is as dictatorial in the realm of the children's wardrobe as in that of women. She demands that little girls be to a great extent miniature copies of their mammas in attire, and not only mature styles but rich materials are employed. Bias and circular skirts, long, straight sacks with little directoire capes and collars, fur, cloth, silk and velvet are as much for little as for big girls. Not that such a system of dressing children is in the best taste, for the extreme type of fashion never is in the best taste. The most refined mothers usually clothe their little people very simply instead of overpowering them with finery.

Greenaway hats, which are much like those of the directoire style, are used for little girls. They have a rippled brim bordered with fur. Gainsborough and Reynolds hats, with lifted brims trimmed with plumes, are another variety much liked, but too mature and theatrical to be really suitable for a child.

The picture shows a party dress for a little girl 8 years old. It is of pale pink crepe de chine, and the skirt is trimmed with a narrow band of guipure insertion simulating a tunic. The bodice, full in front, has a large pelerine collar of crepe de chine trimmed with two bands of insertion and bordered with fringe. There is no high collar. The sleeves, of elbow length, are terminated by bands and bows of pink silk, and the scarf belt, which is fringed and tied at the side, is of pink silk.

WITHOUT AN EQUAL.

Lincoln Was Closer to the People Than Any Other President.

And No American Was Greater, Washington Alone Excepted—The Railsplitter's Place in History.

[Some Thoughts for February 12.]

AMONG the great figures in American history none stands out more prominently than that of Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday—February 12—will, no doubt, before long be observed as a national holiday. Not only in the north, but in the south as well, his heroic life and exemplary devotion to duty are beginning to meet with genuine appreciation, and unionists and secessionists are united in believing that his doctrine of "charity for all and malice toward none" was not a mere figure of speech, but a solemn conviction and the outcry of a heart devoted to the best interests of the nation and beating in sympathy with the "common people."

Lincoln's life reads like a romance. A railsplitter at 21, an officer in the United States service at 23, a legislator at 25, a benedict at 33, a congressman at 38, and president at 51; filling every position to the best of his ability and winning the admiration of friend and foe. His legislative duties extended through eight years—1834-1842; so that when he reached Washington as a member of the house of representatives he was qualified thoroughly for his duties. It is exceptional for any congressman to make much of a record in a single term, but the young giant from Illinois succeeded not only in attracting general attention but impressed many of his convictions upon reluctant colleagues.

It has been stated that he took Henry Clay for his political model, as he entertained for him the greatest reverence and attachment. Therefore he entered the campaign of 1844 with enthusiasm, making speeches in various parts of Illinois. When he received tidings of the inglorious defeat of his hero he was ready to abjure politics forever, but, fortunately for the country, his exalted idea of public duty forced him again into the arena.

"WITH CHARITY FOR ALL, WITH MALICE TOWARD NONE."

Lincoln was in congress but a single term, and it may not be generally known that he carried his district by a larger majority against the party he opposed than was won before or since until one of the landslide elections in the '90s.

Recent revelations have robbed the one episode in Lincoln's life which was used against him by his detractors—his duel with Gen. Shields—of all odium; for it is now clearly established that the affair grew out of a commendable desire to shield a lady from silly gossip. He was unalterably opposed to this mode of settling differences, and frequently expressed himself to this effect.

He was the same age when he entered upon the Black Hawk campaign as Washington when he accompanied Braddock to disastrous defeat. During the civil war he frequently recurred to the fact that he and Jefferson Davis each held commissions as captains in the Black Hawk war—united at that time in a common purpose, as they were arrayed against each other afterward.

But Lincoln's public career is too well known to need exploitation. It is a part of American history and fills many pages in the history of the world. His personal characteristics, however, are of perennial interest, and stories of his boyhood, early struggles and later triumphs are read and listened to with avidity wherever Americans are gathered together in social meeting. Some years ago the writer had the pleasure of hearing a few anecdotes related by Hon. Hezekiah Sanford Bundy, of Wellston, O., who represented the Tenth Ohio district in congress, with great credit to himself. These stories, although they may be known to some, have never obtained wide circulation, and it is therefore not improper to repeat them in this connection.

In 1862 Mr. Bundy had gone to Washington to secure the release of a union recruiting officer who had been charged unjustly with having made false enlistment vouchers, and had been sent to Baltimore and placed in jail at Fort McHenry. Before him in the line of those waiting to see President Lincoln was the wife of a colonel of an Illinois volunteer regiment who had been captured and was confined in a southern prison. She was desirous of securing a special executive order of exchange for her husband.

"I can't do it, madam," said Mr. Lincoln, politely and sympathetically. "There have been altogether too many special exchanges already. Besides, Jeff Davis won't do anything I want him to. He has $0,000 privates in his kingdom whom I would prefer to exchange rather than your husband."

"But my husband is a brave man, and a loyal one. I cannot understand what you mean," replied the lady.

"Madam," responded Lincoln, as he pulled his quill pen from behind his ear, "with this old pen I can make a colonel in five seconds, but I cannot give him a regiment." Then he added, with characteristic kindness: "Go and see Gen. Hatch, who has charge of exchanges. If he will grant your request I shall not interfere."

The next person in line, according to Mr. Bundy, was a man with some alleged letters of loyalty from a Maryland ex-governor. As he handed the documents to the president another man caught what had been said and interrupted the conversation to inform Mr. Lincoln that the papers must be forgeries, as the ex-governor had been dead for several years. The man who had presented the letters collapsed, and Lincoln, with that peculiar pity which he would often show even to those who least deserved it, replied: "Oh, never mind, sir; never mind, sir; it is far more interesting. I would rather get a letter from a dead man than from a live man any day."

The third to have a conversation with the president was a Wall street broker well known in New York as an adventurer, who wanted to be made assistant secretary of the treasury, so as to relieve the government, to use his own phraseology, by floating an issue of bonds. His plan was to borrow for the government a certain amount of money on a pledge of $100,000,000 of United States bonds, which were to be issued as collateral for the payment of the loan. The plan of the schemer evidently was to break the price of bonds and then get possession of them at a quotation less than the market, for his margin was very narrow indeed. The president listened patiently until the man was through, and then looking straight at him, said, impressively: "My friend, that is a mighty good plan for getting bonds for less than they are worth, and very well thought out, but," here he shook his head, "don't ask me to help you in it."

At last came Mr. Bundy's turn. He told Mr. Lincoln, by way of introduction, that he had been a Lincoln elector, and that what he wanted to ask him was simply an act of justice to a wrongfully imprisoned officer. The president heard the story and then said: "My friend, when are you going to start for home?" It was Saturday evening, and Mr. Bundy told the president that, as he did not travel on Sundays, he should not start until Monday morning. Mr. Lincoln paused a moment and then said, with a smile: "Well, sir, unless you start for Ohio at once your friend will beat you home."

No other great American combined so much humor and good nature with manly fortitude. "Take him all in all," as Shakespeare said of one of his noblest men, "we shall not look upon his like again." Although fond of telling a story and listening to a tale, Lincoln at no time lost sight of the dignity of his great office and never permitted familiarity. Equally at home in the society of the backwoodsman and the trained statesman, he met the lowly on a level and treated the mighty with condescension. He was easily moved, and nothing gave him more acute pain than the knowledge that as the chief executive of a nation in the throes of civil war he had to sanction decisions which seemed cruel, but which had to be carried out to maintain military discipline or vindicate the majesty of the government in the eyes of those whose loyalty needed constant watching.

To-day the north and south are united; and no man has contributed so much to the bringing about of this happy condition than the noble railsplitter from Illinois; whose blood, spilled by a crazy fanatic, has proved to be the cement which binds all sections of our beloved country together into a perfect and complete whole, one and indivisible for all time to come.

AN ECHO OF 1890

A Little Romance of the Census Office

Director Merriam Has Already Found Other Things Besides Statistics in the Decadal Enumeration

SHORTLY after ex-Gov. William R. Merriam, of Minnesota, was appointed United States census director at Washington, D. C., he received a letter signed "Stevens Johnson."

The writer respectfully asked for an audience, but as Mr. Merriam was very busy and imagined that Stevens Johnson was simply one of the many applicants for census positions who were making his life a burden, he told his secretary to answer the letter and state that, owing to the great pressure of work, it was impossible to grant the requested audience unless for some very important matter.

A few days later another letter was received. It was the same strange appeal to the director for a brief audience. It read:

"I am not an applicant for a position in the census department. I am not a crank with a new scheme. The object of the audience I pray for is of the greatest importance to me, and you cannot appreciate the magnitude of the service you may render to me until you have granted the audience for which I most respectfully and earnestly beg.

"I will take only a few moments of your valuable time.

"Your most obedient servant,
"STEVENS JOHNSON."

After reading this letter Director Merriam told his secretary to write and bid its author come on the morrow at three o'clock.

At the appointed time an old man, bowed by years, with hair white as snow, entered the waiting-room and sent his card to the director.

"Mr. Johnson, what can I do for you?" kindly asked the director, after offering a chair to the old gentleman.

"First permit me to tell you my story. After that you will know what you can do for me. Twelve years ago I was a happy and prosperous man, but I was cursed by a terrible temper. One day, after an unfortunate dispute, I ordered my only son out of my home. The trouble arose over a trifle, and afterwards I found that I was wrong. It was too late, my boy was gone. This proved to be the beginning of my misfortunes. A few months later my wife died, after a short illness—died asking with her last breath for our only son.

"When she was buried, I realized that there could be no rest on earth for me unless I could find my son. After selling out everything I started in search of my boy, decided to wander like a lost soul from place to place, strong of hope that God would take pity upon me and hear my prayer, for I had repented.

"Months and years have passed and my body is weary, but hope still burns in my soul, and I will not rest until I have found my precious boy whom I have wronged. I crave to ask his forgiveness, that I may die in peace. He is somewhere in the United States, I know, and the favor I wish to beg of you is that you will kindly instruct the head of the population department to make lists for me of all the "John A. Johnsons" and their addresses in the United States, and I will send a letter of inquiry to each and every one. In this way I feel sure of reaching my son. Will you do me the favor, Mr. Director?"

There was such a patheitc earnestness in the pleading tone of the old man's voice that Director Merriam felt greatly impressed, and while very doubtful as to the practicability of the request and as to the results, he said: "I will order Mr. Hunt to furinsh you with the desired addresses from the list made during the census of 1890; but do you realize, Mr. Johnson, that yours is a very common name, and that many hundred "John A. Johnsons" are likely to be found? To write to each one means a big undertaking and a large expenditure, my dear sir. I am afraid you have not properly considered the matter."

"Yes, I have. I know the magnitude of the task, but I am not poor, and the money I have I cannot spend to better purpose than in finding my son," answered the old man.

"All right, you may call at the census department to-morrow at four o'clock, and every day after, until you have received the desired addresses," said the director to the old man, who, as he rose to go, exclaimed fervently: "Thank you, Mr. Merriam, and God bless you for your kindness."

The next day at four o'clock, a stately old gentleman was seen going into Mr. Hunt's department, where he was given a list of John A. Johnsons, with about 200 different addresses. Every day after, until it was complete, the same old man was after his list, puzzling the clerks, who formed all sorts of conjectures as to the reason for his strange action.

The stereotyped letter sent to each address, read as follows:

"This letter is intended to reach John A. Johnson, the son of Stevens Johnson, who formerly lived in Graytown, Mass. During nearly ten years, Stevens Johnson has been searching for his son, and if this letter reaches the right John A. Johnson, he must answer at once either by letter or telegraph, addressing,

"STEVENS JOHNSON,
"No. 17 Grant Place,
Washington, D. C."

Hundreds of letters were received from John A. Johnsons who wanted to know more details, or who asked relief, stating their needy condition. Some of the answers were pathetic, others were ridiculous. Some wrote that they had forgotten where they lived 12 years before, but believed they were wanted, but Stevens Johnson, after reading them all, knew that not one was from his son.

Despair was reentering his soul. His health was rapidly failing under the stress of anxiety, and the great amount of indoor work necessitated by his enterprise. There came a day when he could not go to the census department, but he sent a young woman who was faithfully acting as his secretary.

SPRINGING TOWARD THE OLD MAN.

From this day he could hardly move from his couch. She read to him the answers received daily; she attended to all the details of his work, and by cheerful words of encouragement succeeded in keeping the spark of hope in the old and broken heart. But, like the light of a waning candle, so was the life of Stevens Johnson liable to flicker out at any moment. His attending physician had little hope of many more days for old Johnson.

At about this time this telegram was received:

"Am on my way to see you. Will arrive to-morrow at eight p. m.
"JOHN ARTENIUS JOHNSON."

When the telegram was read to the old man a smile of sublime happiness shone upon his face; new life seemed to enter his wasted old body.

"It's from him! Thank God!" he exclaimed to the young nurse at his bedside, who felt tears of sympathy in her eyes.

The next evening, shortly after eight o'clock, a handsome young man knelt by the bedside of the old man, holding in his own the wasted hands of Stevens Johnson.

"Father! Father!"

"My son! My poor son!"

Strange to say, Stevens Johnson got well.

"There is something in census-taking besides statistics," said the bluff and rushing Merriam, brushing away a tear as he saw the reunited father and son standing before him, beaming with love and happiness.

"Yes, there is," replied the elder Johnson. "Do you know me?"

"By George!" exclaimed the director, springing toward the old man and grasping him by the hand. "Are you Steve Merriam, who ran away from New York 40 years ago, when I was a little boy, and never returned or wrote home?"

"Yes, I am," and the long separated cousins were soon clasped in an affectionate embrace.

"Verily, there is something besides statistics in the census," observed Assistant Director Wines, who had dropped in to consult with Gov. Merriam, "and everybody should be glad to see the enumerators coming and to answer all their inquiries fully and accurately."

ROD AND GUN.

A big crowd of sporting men from Newark, Plainfield, New Brunswick, Woodbridge and Elizabeth, gathered at the Rahway Gun Club grounds Thursday afternoon to witness the pigeon shoot between Wm. Tucker, of Rahway, and Terry Lambert, of Clark township. As predicted, the contest was very close, Tucker winning by only two birds. Each man shot at 50 pigeons. Tucker killed thirty five to Lambert's thirty-three, and won the purse of $100. Considerable money changed hands on the result. A number of short sweepstake matches were then shot by the assembled sports.

WHIST

After leading through almost the entire series the whist team of the Park Club, of this city, fell down Saturday night in the last round of the Inter City Whist Tournament, played in the rooms of the Brooklyn Whist Club. By some great playing the S team of the Knickerbocker Whist Club took the lead and won. The A team of the New York Whist Club was second and the Park Club team third. The individual prize for the best trio score during the whole tournament was won by Arthur A. Freeman, of the Park Club. He tied with two others for the prize for the greatest number of times high score.

DEATH OF HARRY MATTOX.

Had Been Ill Only Since Friday—Funeral Wednesday Afternoon.

The many friends of Harry B. Mattox, aged 26 years, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Mottox, of Webster place, will be grieved to learn of his death which occurred this morning at 8:30 o'clock after an illness lasting since Friday. Mr. Mattox was a sufferer from rheumatism and it is believed that this affected his heart and caused his death. He was well known among a large circle of friends. He was a member of Howel Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, and Lucetta Council, No. 28, Daughters of Liberty. The above organizations have been invited to attend the funeral services on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Warren chapel. Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Woman's Relief Corps, have also been invited.

Wants Full Month's Wages.

Emma J. Brown, a colored woman, who has been employed as a domestic in the family of Harry Greene, of Jackson avenue, has brought suit against him in Justice Moffett's court to recover $16 alleged to be due for a month's wages. The case will be tried this afternoon. Isaac P. Runyon appears for the plaintiff and Carlos C. Gallup for the defendant. The Brown women claims to have been discharged before her month had expired. Mr. Green offered the woman $12, what he considered was due her, but the money was refused.

George W. Saums, one of Woodhull & Martin's valued employes, has been compelled, by ill health, to resign his position as repairer in the furniture department, and he leaves their employ Saturday next.

JERSEY VOLUNTEERS.

Plenty of Them and They Compared Well for Character—Senator Kean's Pension Bill.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Feb. 19.—The War Department last week issued a statistical exhibit showing the strength of volunteer forces called into service during the war with Spain and the exact number of troops furnished by each state.

New Jersey furnished more than its quota and compares most favorably with states double its population. The number of troops at the mustering out of New Jersey regiments was 4,522 enlisted men and 192 officers. In comparing the tables it is found that there were fewer desertions, fewer court-martials and fewer violations of military regulations among the New Jersey troops than those of almost any other state.

Senator Kean has introduced a bill granting an increase of pension to Henry Van Gelder, which was read first and referred to the committee on pensions. He also submitted several amendments to the Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation bill providing for the increase in salary of several American consular offices and also for the establishment of one or more new consulates.

TELEPHONE MEN'S SOCIETY.

Interesting Features of a New Benefit Organization.

There is being formed among the male employes of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company in this and other cities a telephone employes' mutual benefit society of New York and New Jersey.

One of the clauses in the application for membership requires the applicants to relinquish all claims upon the society if they leave the company's employ. Some say that a man might pay for several years into the society's treasury, and yet lose all his interest in it if he should be discharged upon a pretext by some foreman or superintendent. This is leaving aside any question as to what would happen if there should be a strike which would involve a considerable number of the employes.

It is further explained to the employes that in case of sickness a member will receive $10 a week for ten weeks; in case of death the family will receive $100, and that a $1,000 accident insurance goes with each membership. It is on these grounds that the employes have been invited to join the new organization.

Sure Cure.

T. S. Armstrong, the druggist, is selling large quantities of his chap cure. It is personally compounded by Mr. Armstrong, and he therefore recommends it as second to none in the market. Petroleum hair tonic is another of his best selling articles and it gives good satisfaction.

Little Girl Badly Scalded.

Agnes Green, aged three years, of West Fourth street, upset a tea-kettle Saturday while playing with some other children of her own age, and the hot boiling water scalded her leg from the hip to the ankle. The little one suffers great pain, but her injuries are not considered serious.

A Worker From Japan.

Rev. H. V. S. Peeke, of Japan, will occupy Dr. Schenck's pulpit in Trinity Reformed church next Sunday morning, and will address the Sunday-school in the afternoon. In the evening he will preach in the German Reformed church on Craig place.

Pension for Mrs. Hall.

The soldier's friend, Col. William H. Sterling, has again brought happiness to a Plainfield home. He has secured, without cost for Mrs. Mary E. Hall, widow of Henry Hall, 124 North avenue, a pension of $8 per month, for which Mrs. Hall is very thankful.

GROUND HOG KNEW HIS BUSINESS ALL RIGHT

company to bring out the snow ploughs, as the trains were able to clear the tracks themselves. At no point along the road was there any great drifts of snow that blocked trains. The Philadelphia trains and those of the Royal Blue Line, all of which encountered heavy snow south of here, had no trouble in running through on time, all of which was a great surprise. The officials of the road congratulated themselves that so little trouble was on hand. Passengers to and from the city were able to leave on time and reach their destination on time. There was not even any disarrangement in the running of freight and coal trains, and these trains were run on their regular scheduled time throughout the storm.

Snowfall was Ten Inches.

Weather Observer Neagle reports that the snow-fall amounts to ten inches and that the wind Saturday night and Sunday morning reached the volicity of forty miles an hour. This morning the mercury fell to fourteen degrees above zero. During the storm, it remained at twenty four. For today and tomorrow, Mr. Neagle says that the fair weather will continue but the cold wave will moderate.

Clearing Away Snow in Borough

While Street Commissioner Gavett's men were busily engaged in removing snow from the crosswalks and side walks in this city, yesterday, Commissioner Doud, of the borough, and his men, were no less busy, and they rendered great service in clearing crosswalks and sidewalks. The residents of the borough feel very thankful for the services of the snow-plough and men yesterday morning, thus enabling people to attend church with no inconvenience.

Sleighing is Poor.

Those who were out sleighing yesterday found the only road in good condition for a drive of any length was the county road to Springfield. There the sleighing was excellent. Beyond that point, the roads were partically bare. The same trouble is reported with the roads to Metuchen, Bound Brook and Westfield.

Mayor May Make Changes.

It is rumored that there may be some changes in the borough when Mayor Smalley makes his appointments for the coming year.

—Many residents of the First ward feel grateful to Walter Scott for the good work done by his snow plow Sunday morning.

—An adjourned meeting of the Common Council will be held Wednesday evening, February 28th, when the liquor licenses will be granted.

DEMOCRATS RETURN.

Kentucky Legislators to Meet Together in Frankfort.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 19.—Many of the Democratic legislators returned here last night, and numerous conferences were in progress during the evening relating to the political programme today, when the Democratic and Republican branches of the legislature will meet together for the first time since the assassination of Goebel. The question of whether Lieutenant Governor Marshall (Rep.) or President Carter pro tem. (Dem.) will preside in the senate is as wide open as ever. The Democratic leaders say Senator Carter will preside. Lieutenant Governor Marshall is not here today, but before leaving the city Saturday he stated positively that he would return Monday and insist on his right to preside, and the Republican leaders assert positively that he will preside. Neither side goes farther than these bare statements.

Governor Taylor went to church yesterday without a military escort and spent the remainder of the day at the mansion with his family.

Governor Beckham returned to the city last night with the Democratic legislators and will have his headquarters at the Capitol hotel. Messrs. Justus and Arthur Goebel, brothers of the late Democratic governor, also returned and will remain here till the body of their dead brother is finally buried. The body still lies in the little chapel in the cemetery.

TO ANNEX EGYPT.

Rumors That England Will Take That Step.

ROME, Feb. 19.—The formal annexation of Egypt by England is believed by high political circles to be under consideration. Pourparlers, it is said, have already passed between the British government and the triple alliance.

The Italian government would welcome the change from an uncertain protectorate to a formal annexation as a step solidifying the peace of Europe. General Saletta, chief of staff of the Italian army, says:

"I am sure the first failures of the British army in Africa will in the future be advantageous to her. With an army organized like the giant European powers, England would become the most formidable power in Europe."

Deep Snow In Maryland.

SANDY SPRINGS, Md., Feb. 19.—Snow fell here steadily for 36 hours, reaching the depth of two feet Saturday evening. The northwesterly winds Saturday night and Sunday morning drifted the snow so as to make the roads impassable in some places.

Incendiarism In Martinique.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, Feb. 19.—Saturday night three plantations—the Bellevue, the Resource and the Bagatelle—were the scenes of incendiary fires. Armed custom house officers have been sent to St. Pierre.

TRAVELING LIBRARIES.

They Are Proving Popular and an Appropriation to Purchase More Books is Asked.

State Librarian Buchanan has submitted to Governor Voorhees a supplemental report for the information of the Legislature on the traveling libraries. It shows that twenty-eight of the libraries, containing fifty volumes each, were secured with the appropriation of $1,500 made last winter. The report gives the volumes purchased and those donated, making altogether 1,428 volumes. A list is given of the places that have already secured the traveling libraries. The counties of Atlantic, Hudson, Middlesex, Ocean and Union are not represented in the list of towns having them.

Mrs. E. B. Horton, of Cranford, secured from twenty-seven of the women's clubs in New Jersey lists of titles of books recommended for purchase, and Miss Mary McKeen, of Camden, purchased and forwarded to the State Library the fifty-two volumes of the kindergarten work. Mrs. Horace Kimball, president of the Rasôres Club of Plainfield, has notified the librarian that the members of her club have voted to contribute fifty volumes for the library, and that the books will be forwarded early in February.

The Library Commission will recommend to the Legislature a further appropriation of $1,500 for the traveling libraries.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. George W. Saums sang in the choir at Trinity Reformed church last evening in place of Miss Williams, who was unable to be present.

David Boehm, of Paterson, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Eleanor, spent yesterday at the home of Mr. Boehm's brother, Ignatz H. Boehm, of Somerset street.

John L. Force leaves today for Indianapolis, Ind., where he will visit a friend, a former Plainfielder, and accept such a position as offers. He will probably make Indianapolis his future home.

Charles Dupee Brought Home.

Charles Dupee, who has been ill at Yale University infirmary with typhoid fever, has so far recovered that he has been brought to his home on Rockview avenue. Mr. and Mrs. George Dupee, his parents, who remained in New Haven with him during his illness, accompanied him on his return to Plainfield. He is now gaining rapidly and will be able to go out for an occasional airing when the weather moderates.

To Be Buried Here.

The death of John Angleman occurred in Newark yesterday. He was seventy-one years of age. The funeral will be held from the First M. E. church in this city tomorrow afternoon on the arrival of the 3:32 train. One son, John Angleman, a machinist, resides here.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20 1900. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

THE LAW DESIGNED TO AID CITY HALL IDEA

Drawn by Craig A. Marsh and Approved by Council.

POWER TO BOND THE CITY

FOR $100,000 TO BE SPREAD OVER PERIOD OF 40 YEARS.

City Required to Raise by Tax in Each Year the Sum of Money as May be Necessary to Pay the Interest, and so Much of the Principal as Will Mature During the Ensuing Year—Other Points.

Now that the Common Council has approved the bill, drawn by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, providing the necessary legislation that will allow Plainfield to build a City Hall, the bill will be introduced in the lower house of the State Legislature by Assemblyman Charles S. Foote.

Much interest has been shown in the provisions of the bill which is now to be seen at the City Clerk's office.

The first section authorizes the purchase of land and the erection and furnishing of City Hall, and issue of bonds for such purposes to an amount not exceeding $100,000.

The second section authorizes the Council to borrow mony if necessary, and to secure payment by the issue of notes and other temporary obligations to be renewed from time to time until the work is done and then, or sooner, after total expense is ascertained, bonds are to be issued for the purpose of discharging the temporary obligations, and paying the balance of cost.

The third section provides that the bonds shall be made payable in successive years, not more than forty years from their date, an equal amount in value to mature each year after the year of the earliest issue. The section gives other details as to the character of the bonds, sale of same, etc.

The fourth section requires the city to raise by tax in each year such sum of money as may be necessary to pay the interest, and so much of the principal of the permanent bonds as will mature during the ensuing year.

The fifth section provides that the act shall take effect immediately.

CHARGED WITH TRESPASS.

Plainfield Sportsmen Called Upon to Pay $5 by an Offended Farmer.

Three sportmen of Plainfield are being broken of their rest by an unpleasant communication, received recently from Lawyer Beekman, of Somerville, in the form of a bill for $5 accompanied by a request to settle and thereby ward off a suit for trespass, which the latter says is about to be started by a well-known citizen of North Branch. It appears that about the time of the game season the three sportsmen were in the vicinity of North Branch armed with guns and a desire to bag game. They secured permission to cross the property of the well known citizen upon the promise that they would refrain from shooting any game that might cross their path.

But the sight of a rabbit was too tempting and all hands blazed away. Before they had left the property in question the trio had bagged a number of rabbits. Hence the suit.

NEW TROLLEY LINE.

Elizabeth Will Probably Be Connected With Perth Amboy.

The committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders has reached a decision which has encouraged the manufacturers and others on the shore front of Staten Island sound in no small degree. The committee went to Linden and looked over the route of the proposed new road that will connect Elizabeth with Carteret and Perth Amboy by wagon road and decided to co-operate with the Linden Township Committee in the construction of the road, which, when completed, will permit the carrying of supplies to the various large factories on the sound front and will open up communication with many shore towns and villages.

Money to Furnish a Room.

At the meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps last week it was reported that the necessary amount, $50, had been raised to maintain a room at the Vineland Home for Soldiers and Their Wives, and the amount will be forwarded soon. The corps was assisted in their efforts of raising the money by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., who contributed about $15.

—The members of the Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association wish to heartily thank all who assisted in making their annual ball such a success and those who gave their financial aid to the affair.

CHASED WITH SHOTGUN.

"OLD NELSE" HAS A GREAT DISLIKE FOR RAILROAD MEN.

The Hermit's Particular Desire Seems to be to Reduce the Working Force of the B. and O. by Annihilating Them.

"Old Nelse," an eccentric character living near Cranford Junction, has gone upon the warpath. Having evinced a sudden dislike to all railroad men and being reinforced by a shotgun, he now is a fugitive, liable to reappear at any time and shoot a train crew full of holes.

"Old Nelse's" desire to reduce the number of railroad men on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Lehigh Valley Road showed itself a week ago. After a few shots he disappeared when a party started for him. Wednesday he entered the yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and began his reckless fusillade. Although almost a hundred persons endeavored to catch him he vanished completely.

What would be a palatial residence for a homeless dog has sheltered "Old Nelse" for the greater part of his sixty years. It is a hut in an almost impenetrable thicket, and the trail leading to it is know to a few only.

"We went there after him Thursday night," said one of his pursuers, "but he must have a tunnel that he lets down from a tree and hauls it up when he gets in, or else a hole in the ground which he pulls in after him."

At the time of his first raid "Old Nelse" is said to have stated his reason for the shooting as being due to the engineers. He said they disturbed his rest by blowing whistles. He complained that they would go out of their way to disturb him. He was bitter against the firemen, saying they rang the bells hard enough to wake him in the middle of the night, and he proposed to stop it.

The assault of the old man on the railroad men has caused a posse to be organized composed of railroad men and detectives to hunt him down. The belief is that, having been left undisturbed for years, the old man has decided he owns the territory about his hut, and the railroad is a trespasser. The affair has passed the stage where it was humorous, and the firemen, engineers, conductors and brakemen get under cover when running near his place.

The reward for the capture of Nelse is to be the custody of him, as the thrifty Jerseymen say that any bright man can make no less than three or four dollars daily by exhibiting the strange old man. In the many years that "Old Nelse" has lived about here, he has visited the town only once or twice. He has lived on what game he could shoot in the woods.

THE SPANISH HERO.

The Cid Forms an Interesting Topic for the Lecture Given By Professor Ford.

A lecture on "The Cid" was given by J. D. M. Ford, professor at Harvard University, before the Monday Afternoon Club, at All Souls' church yesterday afternoon. The Cid of history and the Cid of romanee were considered, the name Cid being given to the Spanish hero, Rodrigo Dias or Ruy Dias de Bivar and meaning lord.

The historical Cid was described as much less courtly and worthy of admiration than the Cid of romance, though even as a historical character he was pronounced by an enemy "a Miracle of the Lord." Mr. Ford read largely from a translation of the Spanish poem, "The Cid."

Brewing Company's New Officers.

The Rising Sun Brewing Company has elected Phillip Schauble as president, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Charles Seeber, of Tompkinsville, Staten Island. Mr. Seeber's son, who comes into possession of his father's stock in the company, was elected vice-president in place of Former Freeholder Owen Sullivan, who was made secretary. Philip Schauble was re-elected treasurer. The company's assets, it was announced, were nearly one million dollars, the growth of the business during the past two years having been very large.

Council Meets Once Before Election.

There will be another meeting of the Borough Council Friday, March 2d, before the borough election when two Councilmen will be elected to take the places now held by Messrs. Coddington and Burtis. There is very little interest being manifested in the election, and very few seem to care who gets the positions.

No Dearth of Plans.

So far forty-six architects have entered the competition and submitted plans for the Westfield and Mountainside school buildings. Plans will be received by the Board until next Wednesday. The award will be made on March 6th.

COUNCIL'S VERSION OF HIGH SCHOOL ACTION

Members Familiarized With the Project Beforehand.

VAN HERWERDEN EXPLAINS

DENIES THAT APPROVAL WAS GIVEN WITHOUT DELIBERATION.

Finance Committee Disagreed as to Policy of Reporting on the Proposition at Once—All the Members Then Consulted, and It Was Finally Agreed to Act Favorably on the Request Quickly.

Statements concerning the action of the finance committee of the Common Council in reporting the High School measure back to the Council the same night it was referred were made last evening by Councilman vanHerwerden, chairman of the finance committee, and Councilman George P. Mellick, another member of that same committee.

Councilman vanHerwerden was interviewed by a Press reporter last evening and was very free to talk on the subject. A mistaken idea seemed to exist, he said, that the resolution had been rushed through the Council without giving the members a chance to think it over. Sometime before the request of the Board was forwarded to the Council, each Councilman was waited upon by members of the Board of Education. The situation was thoroughly explained and the Councilmen were shown the immediate need of better High School facilities.

The Board asked that the required permission be granted at that meeting if possible as every bit of time was needed to have the new High School ready for next year and as they did not wish to have the new High School and the City Hall projects interfere.

Mr. van Herwerden then explained that after the formal application had been referred to the finance committee, a recess of the Council was held and a meeting of that committee called in the ante-room. The request was considered and there was a difference of opinion as to whether or not the resolutions should be reported back at that meeting or delayed until another session.

All the members of the Council were then invited in and the meeting virtually became a meeting of the committee of the whole. The matter was discussed informally and a vote taken showing that the Council was unanimously in favor of immediate action. As chairman of the finance committee, Mr. van Herwerden then reported the request back to the Council and the Councilmen voted again as they had at the meeting in the ante-room.

The following communication on the same subject has been received from Councilman George P Mellick:

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—Referring to the editorial in your issue of the 19th inst., as a member of the finance committee I must take exception to your statement that "through some subtle influence the finance committee was induced to report favorably on the High School proposition within a few minutes after it had been referred to them."

Previous to the meeting of the Council held Monday evening, Feb. 12th, each member of the Council had been made thoroughly familiar with the plans of the Board of Education in regard to the needs of a new High School building.

As all citizens know, the petition from the Board of Education that evening was most explicit in showing the necessity of additional school facilities, and when the members of the Council considered the proposition during the recess it was admitted by all that there was no need of seeking any further information, and all but one of the members voted in favor of acting promptly in favor of the petition.

Your insinuation that the matter was acted upon with undue haste and without proper consideration is very misleading, and your demand upon Mr. vanHerwerden to explain why the committee of which he is chairman acted so quickly is unwarranted, inasmuch as the question was considered informally by the Council as a whole before being passed unanimously later in the evening during the regular session of the Council.

George P. Mellick,
Councilman Second Ward.

It has been currently reported that Mayor Rockfellow was given to understand the night of the meeting of the Council that no action would be taken on the Board's request that night. It seems that the Mayor and President Smith, of the Council, spoke on the subject and Mr. Smith said that the matter would be referred to the finance committee. The matter was referred and President Smith had no idea at that time that it would be returned to the Council that night.

Regarding the differences in the meeting of the finance committee on the proper action, it is understood that Councilmen VanHerwerden, Mellick and Coriell favored its immediate return. Councilmen Tolles and Lee thought it would be better to report at a later meeting. Mr. Tolles feared that it would interfere with the chances of a new City Hall. Then the other Councilmen were called in and a discussion resulted in an unanimous decision.

TOOK $6 IN BILLS.

Alleged Needle Pedlars Suspected of Robbing Office of A. V. D. Honeyman Saturday.

The local police are looking for two men who were seen here Friday and Saturday on the ostensible business of selling needles. One of them is suspected of robbing the offices of A. V. D. Honeyman, on North avenue, of $6 in bills.

When Claude Hann and William McCann, the office boys, returned to the office after lunch Saturday, they met a man descending the stairs and carrying a little leather case. They found that the office door had been pried open and the papers strewn over the floor.

Mr. Honeyman had left $6 in bills on top of his desk. The money was gone and so were several small articles from the desk. The safe was locked and no attempt was made to force it.

The man wore a dark coat and a light hat, and seemed to answer the description of one of the two needle merchants. The matter was reported to the police, but the strangers have disappeared.

WANT LICENSE REFUSED.

Local Grocerymen Opposed to the Granting of Liquor Selling Privileges to Scheuer & Co.

An organized effort is being made by the local grocers to prevent the granting of a license to S. Scheuer & Co., the West Front street grocers. A petition has been prepared which has been signed by all the other grocers but one, and it is understood that he will sign today. The petition asks the Council to refuse the license. Besides the petition, every possible influence is being brought to bear to prevent the granting of the license. The opposition is so strong that it is very likely to be successful.

SUED THE WRONG MAN.

Servant Girl Compelled to Start Her Legal Action Over Again.

There was such a mixture of colors in Justice Moffett's court yesterday, that all attempts to blend them proved a sad failure. Emma Brown, a colored woman, brought suit against Harry Greene, of Jackson avenue. When the plaintiff appeared it was learned that the man for whom Miss Brown had worked was not Harry Greene, but John H. Greene, and a non suit was granted. Another suit was immediately instituted against John H. Greene, who Miss Brown maintains is indebt to her to the extent of $16 for wages due for a month's work. Isaac P. Runyon will protect Miss Brown's interests, and Carlos C. Gallup will defend Mr. Greene.

Straw Rides Were Numerous.

Although the sleighing was not everything to be desired last evening, there were many jolly parties who took advantage of the opportunity for a sleighing party. Many straw rides passed through town while every available cutter and two seated sleigh was in use. The young people found the riding rather chilly but they had a good time nevertheless.

ARGUED QUESTION OF CLOSING DRAWBRIDGES.

Railroad Lawyers Ask That Passengers Have Right of Way.

THERE IS OPPOSITION TO IT.

RIVER TOWNS FEAR THAT IT WILL HURT FREIGHT FACILITIES.

Contended that the Commuters on the Railroads are of Much More Importance Than the Cheap Class of Freight Carried by Water Crafts—33,000,000 People Were Carried Across Last Year.

A meeting of business men was held in the rooms of the Newark Board of Trade yesterday to give their views to the Board of United States Engineers in opposition to the closing of the drawbridges over the Newark bay by the railroad companies. The companies were represented by lawyers. The law allows the railroads to close their bridges from one to twenty days in February for repairs, and this seriously interferes with traffic on the river. The Secretary of War was petitioned to have the matter investigated, with a view to a better regulation of the closing of the bridges, and a board was appointed, consisting of Colonel J. W. Barlow, Major W. L. Marshall and Lieutenant-Colonel W. H.H. Benyaurd. The last named officer subsequently died.

At the hearing yesterday the railroad lawyers set forth the necessity for a sufficient time for repairs. What they asked was that the railroads be allowed to close the draws morning and evening for two hours during the heaviest railroad travel. It was contended that the commuters on the roads were of more importance than the cheap class of freight carried on the river. It was shown by Wm. H. Corbin, counsel of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, that last year the railroads had carried about 33,000,000 passengers across the Passaic river. To every sixty-five tons of freight carried on the river the Lehigh Valley Railroad had transported two hundred and ninety tons across the river.

President Jenkinson, of the Board of Trade, said that a river association, composed of business men and shippers, had been working quietly for a year to find out the exact standing of the railroads in the matter under the law, and the association was sure of its ground.

Mr. Corbin said in respect to the railroad request for closing the bridges, that he was willing that freight trains should be detained, but that passenger trains ought to have the right of way. He presented petitions numerously signed by commuters for closing the bridges. Several persons present said that the petition had been circulated by railroad trainmen.

NO QUORUM.

Not Enough Members to do Business at Board of Trade Meeting.

The Board of Trade, through its secretary, H. C. Runyon, made an energetic effort to hold a meeting last night. Mr. Runyon's efforts were futile, however, and he was not able to secure a quorum, owing to the absence of L. B. Woolston, the new president, who was detained at home by illness. Those who had the interest of the association at heart and were present were Messrs. John W. Runyon, J. C. Pope, William A. Woodruff, Charles W. Runyon, Herman Schwed and secretary H. C. Runyon—just six and within one of a quorum.

Was Theft Intended?

What looked like an attempt to steal some of the valuable old coins contained in the collection at the Plainfield Public Library was made a week ago. The front of one of the cases was broken open and the coins disarranged. It was supposed that the thieves had taken some plunder but a careful investigation proved that all the coins were there still. It is now supposed that the thief was interrupted in his labors or that the breaking of the case was the work of some malicious person.

TEACHING THE TEACHER

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS HEARD SOME GOOD ADVICE.

Joint Meeting of Primary Teachers' Union and the Plainfield Sunday-school Union—Observations Were Made.

Sunday-school workers assembled last evening at the First Baptist church and participated in a discussion of topics of interest to them in their work. Those present comprised the members of the Primary Teachers' Union and the Plainfield Sunday-school Union. William D. Murray conducted the devotional exercises, after which Miss Nettie Beeching took charge and taught the Sunday-school lesson for next Sunday. Following this Miss Beeching introduced Rev. Dr. Main, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, who is one of the leaders in the Plainfield Sunday school Union. He explained the objects for which all should work, and introduced Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church.

Mr. Goodrich spoke of the work being done in the Sunday-school and laid particular stress upon the importance of looking after the junior part of the work.

The next speaker was George E. Hall, a well-known worker of this city. He told them how to overcome difficulties in teaching. He said that there must be a system and that the teacher and her class must be in harmony to accomplish the best results. Mr. Hall was followed by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, who said that there is altogether too much carelessness in selecting teachers for classes. He knew of teachers who devoted their time in Sunday-school to telling their class of the latest dress patterns, and talking about the last play they had seen. A teacher should be thoroughly consecrated and peculiarly adapted to her work and her class.

The last speaker was Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of Hope chapel. He told of the discouragements that teachers had to meet, and how they must overcome them by being patient, prayerful and persistent. After Dr. Main concluded with a few remarks showing that the two organizations should not conflict and how one was for a specific purpose and the other for general work, the meeting was turned over to Miss Beeching, who brought it to a close after the singing of a hymn and the benediction by Dr. Main.

YOUNG CHRISTIAN PLAN.

Executive Committee of Local Union of Christian Endeavor Societies Held Last Night.

The executive meeting of the Plainfield local union of the Christian Endeavor Society at the home of E. C. Anthony, last evening, proved a pleasant and interesting affair. The work of the missionary, prayer meeting and social committee was fully discussed and many valuable suggestions were given along those lines. The subject of Bible study was also discussed at some length.

At the annual meeting of the Union, to be held the latter part of March, a loving tribute to the memory of Dr. J. Clement French, so long president of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, will be paid by his estimable friend and co-worker, Mr. Sproull of the Essex County Union.

Following the transaction of business, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. A. A. Lake, of Dunellen, interested the visitors by clever recitations. Representatives were present from the Epworth League of Plainfield, and an informal and interesting talk was had upon "How to have a good Epworth League meeting and what Epworth League has done for the church." At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Anthony for her generous hospitality. Then the visitors united in singing, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

Summit Official in Ill Health.

A. F. Dohrman, who enjoys the distinction of being one of two men selected for public office in the history of Summit without opposition, has been obliged by ill-health to start for upper New York State, where he will probably remain about two months. WOULD ABOLISH LIQUOR LICENSES.

Dr. Lewis Discusses The Traffic In An Aggressive Way.

SAYS IT HAS GREAT POWER.

CALLS IT STRONGEST COMMERCIAL POWER IN THE LAND.

License System Protected the Trade and Converted it Into a Huge Monopoly That Has Become a Great Political Power—To Break it Down the Rising Generation Must be Educated to Abhor it.

According to the point of view of Rev. Dr. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, the liquor traffic is here to stay for the present and the only way to successfully work towards its extermination is to look toward the future. Dr. Lewis presented his views at a meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed church, held in the lecture room of the church last evening. Dr. Lewis has always been a favorite with that congregation and so was invited to speak last evening. The meeting was led by Fred E. Smith. Miss Etta Raybert, soloist in the New Brunswick Reformed church, sang Kipling's "Recessional."

"The Sin of Liquor Traffic and How to Stop It," was his subject.

"Plainfield is dominated by it," declared the speaker, referring to the liquor traffic. "Public opinion as far as Plainfield is concerned is in the hands of the liquor traffic. Saloons are here and here they will remain until until there is a radical change in public opinion. Such is the condition of most all of the suburban cities, but others are worse than Plainfield."

Dr. Lewis went on to say that the traffic was the strongest commercial power of the country, even greater than the oil trust, and that this commercial power must be broken. To do it, it was necessary to break down the present license system. The license system, he explained, protected the trade and converted it into a huge monopoly that had become a great political power.

He expressed a belief that it would be for the best interests of Plainfield if the license system was abolished and liquor became as free as any other commodity. While it would work evil for the time being it would cause a quicker realization of the evil of the traffic.

"Public opinion," he exclaimed, "has made this system and the action of the Common Council in licensing the saloons is only in keeping with the confessed purpose of the men who control this city. They have not gotten beyond the opinion that to destroy an evil is to protect it."

His next suggestion for the ending of the traffic was that every public servant should be held to total abstinence.

"The Plainfield trolley system," he affirmed, "owes it to the Plainfield public that none shall work for it who are not total abstainers."

The only effectual way in which to break down the power of the saloon, he said, was to break up its patronage, and to that it was necessary to begin with childhood. As long as man wants rum, he declared, he would find it, and while the traffic may be reduced, the only way to end it is to stop the demand for it by bringing up the new generation to a realizing sense of its evils. He linked the tobacco habit as a kindred habit, and declared where one was the other would be also.

"I hope," he said, "that the Council will not grant a license to a grocery, for the sake of the grocery traffic and for the good name of the city." Then he pointed out with shame that within pistol-shot of three churches and within stones-throw of Reform Hall a great wholesale liquor establishment was going up. It might be that such evils must grow, like that "hole" close to the church, referring to the old Elkwood, so that public opinion would finally rise up and drive them all out.

BOERS TRAPPED?

Cronje's Army Caught Between Roberts and Kelly-Kenny According to War Office Bulletin.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

London, February 20.—The War Office has just issued an official bulletin this afternoon to the effect that the British forces under General Robert's have gotten between the Boer Commander, Cronje, and the Orange Free State Capital, Bloemfontein, while the division under Kelly-Kenny is behind the Boers.

This makes it reasonably certain that the Boer commander is in a precarious position. News of an engagement is hourly expected and the general belief here is that it will be a decided victory for the English.

NO FIVE PER CENT.

Assemblyman Cooper's Measure Met a Summary End in the Legislature Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Feb. 20—The Assembly showed a great deal of earnestness and industry last night, and it looks as though the promise of bustle and early adjournment might now be fulfilled. One of the first things accomplished was the death of the bill providing that five per cent. shall be the legal rate of interest.

The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Cooper, of Somerset, and had gone as far as third reading when the bankers and trust companies aroused to the necessity of action. The movement to reduce the interest rate appears regularly every year, and it was thought it would not get any further this year than on former occasions, but the alarm went forth, and as a result the members of the House heard from their constitutents in the financial institutions by mail and telegraph. There was a brief caucus of the House to consider the subject and the bill's doom was once more sealed.

Senator Stokes introduced the much-talked-of Education bill, which provides for the revision and codification of the school laws. The bill was introduced for the Commission, and is a voluminous document of 112 typewritten pages.

The bill provides that the majority of the School Board shall control in all cases, including appointments.

The bill abolishes the school census as now taken, which costs over $40,000 annually, and the school tax is to be based on the taxable property of the districts.

FIREMEN HAD A JOLLY TIME.

Warren Engine Company Members Visited Somerville as Guests of Local Company.

Thirty-two members of Warren Engine Company visited Somerville last night, where they were guests of Central Hook and Ladder Company. It was a return visit for one which the boys from Warren received from the Somerville boys a short time ago. The members of the Somerville company gave their visitors a jolly good time. They met them at the station with a brass band and escorted them to their rooms, where the evening was spent in sociability. There was no set programme, but everyone assisted in entertaining. Before the visitors departed a bountiful supper was served. They were then escorted back to the railroad station with the band, where their departure was made a memorable one.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Councilman R. I. Tolles, of Westervelt avenue, is detained at his home by illness.

Andrew Wilson, of the borough, a teacher in Grace M. E. church Sunday-school, gave his class a sleighride last evening in a box sleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lusardi, of West Front street, have the sympathy of their friends in the death of their son, Daniel H., aged thirteen months, which occurred suddenly this morning after an attack of the measles.

Mr. Bonn, of Front street, has sent Mrs. Manney, his head trimmer, to his New York headquarters, 8 and 10 Great Jones street, where she will remain for two weeks, copying French models and designing spring hats.

Formal Dance at Park Club.

The entertainment committee of the Park Club announces a formal club dance for tomorrow evening, to be held in the clubhouse. A limited number of invitations have been issued to friends of members. It will be the last social event at the club before the Lenten season.

Death of Mr. and Mrs. Stillman's Son.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Stillman, of Sabine, Tex., have the sympathy of their many friends in this city in the loss of their infant son, Charles Edwin, aged nine months, which occurred suddenly yesterday. Mrs. Stillman was formerly Miss Grace Barlow, of Prospect place.

Funeral of Late M. F. Marcley.

The funeral services of the late M. F. Marcley will be held from the First Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

Edward Harrigan and his clever supporting company appear at Music Hall tonight and all lovers of good acting should surely attend. "Old Lavender," the greatest and best of Mr. Harrigan's productions, will be presented in all its entirety, in addition to the new one-act play of "Nugent the Rubber." When in 1865 Messrs. Harrigan and Hart agreed to separate after their long association, Mr. Harrigan at once secured a theatre, which is now the Herald Square, at Broadway and Thirty-fifth street. It had run unsuccessfully for two seasons previous with all sorts of attractions. Mr. Harrigan opened it with "Old Lavender" and played to the capacity of the house at every performance for over one hundred and fifty nights. He produced several others of his well-known plays there with the same result, and then built the Garrick theatre, which he owns today. A few years ago, on account of ill health and the arduous duties connected with the management of a theatre, he retired from the stage for a time and leased the Garrick theatre for a period of years to Charles Frohman, who is the present manager.

The Culhane, Chace & Weston's Minstrel organization will appear at Music Hall Thursday, Washington's Birthday, matinee and night for an engagement of good wholesale music and vocal merriment. Not only is the company a very large one of thirty artists but it is said to be extraordinary well equipped. Wm. R. Chace very naturally heads the list of entertainers. With him are Bram and DeRue, musical artists, the DeElmer trio, comedy acrobats, and the three St. Felix Sisters in the best black face singing and dancing act now before the public, head the list of specialties. The Imperial Four and a score of other sweet-voiced singers will furnish vocalization. The first part is beautifully mounted and handsomely costumed and with the superb orchestra and big band will give the soloists a chance to distinguish themselves.

The McCauley-Patton repertoire company will make their first appearance at Music Hall, week commencing Monday 26th inst. The party is said to be the best in its line of any that has visited Plainfield. Mr. Patton is both an author as well as a finished actor, closely resembling in many respects Sol Smith Russell. He has a quaint, dry way about him which, as a laugh producer, is irresistable. The supporting company is entirely competent.

EVANGELIST'S LIFE STORY.

Impressive Services Conclude Revival at Monroe Avenue M. E. Church.

The revival services that have been held at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church for the past two weeks under the charge of Rev. Mr. Houston, the "Blind Evangelist," ended last evening. Over a score have asked for prayers during the services and there were four who rose for prayers last night.

At last night's service, Rev. Mr. Houston told the story of his life, how he became blind and how he was converted to the Christian life. His story was a very affecting one and was well told.

—There will be a meeting of West End Hose Company No. 2 this evening.

PORTO RICO TARIFF.

Debate on the Subject Begun In the House.

STRONG OPPOSITION TO THE MEASURE

A Substitute Will Be Offered Providing Free Trade For the Island. A Constitutional Debate In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The debate upon the Porto Rican tariff bill, which may continue throughout the week and possibly longer, opened in the house yesterday. On all hands it is agreed that this bill, although it applies only to Porto Rico, involving as it does the question of the power to govern our new possessions outside the limitations of the constitution, is the most important measure which will come before this congress. Interest in the bill is intense among the members on both sides, and there is urgent demand for time. The Democrats are solidly arrayed against the measure, and they will have powerful support from the Republican side in Mr. McCall of Massachusetts and Mr. Littlefield of Maine, both able and forceful debaters. How far the Republican disaffection will extend or whether it will endanger the bill it is impossible to say at this time.

Mr. Payne, the floor leader of the majority, refused to agree that a vote should be taken upon a substitute to be offered by the minority. This substitute, which has not yet been framed, will be in substance the bill originally introduced by Mr. Payne providing for free trade with Porto Rico by the extension of the customs and revenue laws of the United States over the island. The debate lacked exciting features. It was in the nature of a long range bombardment before the clash of the contending forces in battle.

Mr. Payne opened with a general argument in support of the bill, going largely into the material side of the situation which the bill is designed to relieve. Mr. Richardson, the Democratic leader, joined issues upon the power of congress to enact the proposed legislation, and Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania backed up Mr. Payne with a constitutional and legal argument. All three were listened to with close attention.

A simple resolution of inquiry introduced in the senate by Mr. Hale of Maine precipitated a constitutional debate, which was prolonged for more than an hour and was participated in by some of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the body. The discussion finally turned on the authority of congress at its pleasure to extend or withhold the constitution to territory acquired by the United States.

The bill providing a government for the territory of Hawaii was under consideration most of the afternoon, Mr. Cullom, in charge of the measure, explaining in detail its provisions.

A Legislature With Two Heads.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 20.—The impression that the contest over the governorship will not be ended till it is fought to a finish in the courts is not lessened by the action taken by the Democratic senators in their session yesterday ratifying their former action by which Senator Goebel was declared governor. The Republicans who spoke for Governor Taylor said that he would not recognize as legal the proceedings taken and which it is anticipated will be duplicated in the house today, but has told them that he looks upon these proceedings as illegal and will not quit the fight until the whole matter is passed upon in the court of last resort. His position is that, the former proceedings being void, the ratification gives them no legal vitality, that the legal presiding officer, Lieutenant Governor Marshall, had declared the session adjourned when the vote in question was taken and that the vote should have been taken by yeas and nays, as in the case of a bill or joint resolution. Negotiations to settle the conflict between Lieutenant Governor Marshall and Senator Carter over the chair in the senate went on again yesterday afternoon, but no agreement has been reached so far.

Queensberry's Queer Request.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—A codicil to the will of the Marquis of Queensberry, who died on Feb. 1, made the following provisions: "At my death I wish to be cremated and direct that my ashes be placed in the earth unincloased—earth to earth, ashes to ashes—in any spot convenient that I have loved. I particularly request that no Christian mummeries or tomfooleries be performed at the grave, but that I be buried as an agnostic. If it should be a comfort to any one, there is plenty of friends who would come to say a few words of common sense. No monument will be required nor any procession, as the ashes can be carried in a man's hand. If the places I mention to my son should be inconvenient for burial, then any place would suffice where the stars shall ever shed their light and the sun shall gild each rising morn."

Governor Voorhees' Nominations.

TRENTON, Feb. 20.—Governor Voorhees sent to the senate last night the name of James H. Nixon of Cumberland county, Republican, to succeed Richard T. Miller, Democrat, as circuit court judge. Judge Nixon is now a judge of the court of errors and appeals. Being an ex-member of the senate, he was confirmed at once. The governor also nominated Robert S. Green and Stephen J. Meeker, Democrats, to succeed themselves as members of the state board of assessors. Senator Stokes introduced the bill prepared by the commission appointed to codify the school laws of the state.

A Host of Butter Makers.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 20.—Butter makers from every district in the United States except the extreme southeast are in Lincoln for the annual convention of the national association, which held its first formal session today. Two thousand delegates have already engaged quarters. The total attendance is expected to be twice that number.

Demand For Costa Rica Bonds.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—In view of the probability that the United States will construct a Central American canal and that American capital will in consequence flow into Nicaragua and Costa Rica there has been considerable dealing on the Stock Exchange recently in Costa Rica bonds.

Weather Probabilities.

Warmer and probably rain; westerly winds, becoming variable and shifting to easterly.

A RESERVE FORCE.

Secretary Root Plans For Emergency List of Men For War.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Secretary Root has turned over to General Ludlow his plan to secure the creation of a reserve list of persons in civil life who are fully equipped for instant military service. General Ludlow has been instructed to work out the details of the plan in order that the war department may be enabled to submit a tangible operative scheme for the approval of congress, which body must supply certain legislation. The secretary is very much in earnest in pursuing this project and is fully satisfied as to its practicability. Briefly stated, his purpose is to have the military schools and colleges of the country brought into close touch with the regular army. The work of officers detailed as instructors in these institutions is to be watched, and a progress roll of the pupils under their instructions is to be kept.

President Wheeler of the University of California was at the war department and talked over this phase of the project with Secretary Root.

After the boys go out into civil life it is intended that they shall be kept track of. If they go into the national guard, they will be given opportunity for special courses of military study and thrown as much as possible into the military atmosphere, and the result of all this is expected to be that in time of war or emergency necessitating the sudden increase of the army there will be a long roll of available men for appointment.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

A heavy snowstorm prevailed throughout northern New York.

The battleship Wisconsin will be ready for her trial trip before July 1.

German advices reported the loss of ten Danish vessels during the recent gales.

There were more than 2,000 dogs at Madison Square Garden ready for the big bench show.

Many shipping disasters and considerable loss of life were reported from the north coast of Spain.

Edwin Mayo of the "Puddenhead Wilson" company dropped dead in the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec.

A conference was held in Lincoln Neb., to harmonize the two factions of the Populist national committee.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie is expected to reach Pittsburg this week to oversee the final preparation of the answer to H. C. Frick's bill of particulars.

Three Frozen to Death.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Three deaths from the storm are reported from eastern New Jersey. P. L. McCarthy, a farmer living near New Brunswick, while returning to his home late Saturday night was overcome by the cold. He lay in the place where he fell until Sunday morning, when he was found frozen to death. James Applegate of Millstone, near New Brunswick, was also overcome on his way home Saturday night. His legs were badly frozen. He was found and sent to a hospital, where both legs were amputated. He died Monday. Mrs. Mary Crester, a young woman, wife of a mill hand at Passaic, N. J., was found dead under a heap of snow in front of her home. During the storm Saturday night she went to a store near by to purchase a few articles of food. Returning home, she evidently fell exhausted in a snowdrift.

On Trial For Murdering His Wife.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Feb. 20.—The trial of Horace Norton for the murder of his common law wife, Helen Widrig, began here yesterday before Justice Wright of Oswego. Norton and his wife were employed by a man named Bridgeman at a place called Lock and Dam, near Fulton Chain. Norton, it is alleged, was jealous of the woman, and after a quarrel on the night of Sept. 21 it is said he laid in wait for her and brained her with an ax as she came out of the door. The bloody ax was found near by, and Norton disappeared. He was captured ten days later at Turin.

Heavy Grain Shipments.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—The east bound shipments of grain, flour and provisions last week were the largest ever recorded. They amounted to 212,312 tons. The heaviest shipments in any previous week were 163,443 tons, during the week beginning March 11, 1898, when the wheat accumulated by Joseph Leiter was being sent away. That week the total grain shipments were 111,963 tons, while last week they amounted to 164,429 tons, an increase of 52,466 tons.

Lockout In Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Feb. 20.—The Savannah Builders' Exchange, representing all the contractors who employ men on buildings in Savannah, declared a lockout of all union men yesterday. It went into effect at 6 o'clock last evening. The lockout was caused by a strike of the plumbers for increased wages and the fear that the allied trades would go out with them. Several hundred men will be out of employment today.

A Winter Resort Fire.

RALEIGH, Feb. 20.—Southern Pines, a winter resort 40 miles from here, had a $20,000 fire early yesterday morning. The Alfa hotel, with all its contents, was destroyed. The 30 guests escaped, but saved little of their property. A bank, the postoffice and a public hall were located in the building. The mail was saved, as were also the bank's books.

Croker and Hill Delegates.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Elliot Danforth, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, says that Richard Croker and David B. Hill will be elected delegates at large to the national convention. This convention, he believes, will be held at Milwaukee. New York's vote in the national committee is expected to be cast for the Wisconsin city.

Possible Case of Rabies.

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 20.—Dr. T. C. Detwiler, one of the leading physicians of this city, has gone to New York with his daughter and a pet dog for the purpose of ascertaining at the Pasteur institute whether the animal has the rabies. It has bitten a number of persons since Friday, including the doctor's daughter.

Another Southern Cotton Mill.

RALEIGH, Feb. 20.—A new cotton mill has been incorporated at Henderson, N. C., with $150,000 capital stock. It will be run in connection with and under the same management as a $200,000 cotton mill already in operation there.

KEEPING PROMISES.

Plainfield Appreciates Always When Promises Are Kept.

Every time you read about Doan's Kidney Pills you are told they cure every form of kidney ill, from backache to urinary disorders. How are our promises kept? Ask any citizen that has tried the treatment. Ask the woman who makes the following statement.

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger of 75 Grand view avenue, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for six years. I doctored and used various kinds of medicine with little or no result. I had almost a constant sharp darting pain across my back, and if I over exerted myself or took cold I suffered severely. I always felt it most when the weather was damp. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing and inconvenient. While in this condition I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and my son brought me a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store I started to use them at once following directions closely. They helped the pain in my back, and relieved my other difficulty. I give all the credit for this relief to Doan's Kidney Pills for they are beyond a doubt a grand medicine for kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cent a box. Foster-Milburn Co. Buffalo, N. Y. sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's, and take no substitute.

KEEP YOUR BLOOD CLEAN

OH, MAMMA DEAR!

did you hear that Woolston & Buckle has the finest wall paper in town, With Kaleido-cope change on lovely background tints?
Daisies blossom on paper of azure blue,
Roses bud and bloom on an ashen hue,
Lilies of the valley are scattered on green
And flowers of all tints are everywhere seen
On colors exquisitely blended with care
To reproduce fruits, and flowers as fair
As if said on by Nature's own hand,
Unique designs both opaque and round,
And Japanese figures on gilded ground
And fantistic Beardsley lines are found
In a bewildering array.
Transform your bare and hideous walls
Into dreams of beauty as profuse
As covered Granada's famous halls,
From any design your fancy may choose,
The walls of the cottage are covered with ease,
It's not our custom, but the wealthy to please.
We have beautiful papers at a low price.
Although not so gorgeous, are artistic and nice.

WAS NO NEED FOR A DUEL.

A Big American's Energetic Response to a Challenge from a Little Cuban.

Duels are getting more and more out of fashion in Havana, even among Cubans, but there is still an occasional native who attempts to redress his grievances against Americans by an appeal to the code. As a consequence the rash man generally gets sat upon heavily. One night lately a 220-pound American, more than six feet in height, went into an American saloon. There was a crowd at the bar, and the Yankee, without intending insult, pushed his weight in between two men so that he might get his drink. One of the chaps wedged out happened to be a little Cuban. Immediately he became extremely incensed at this high-handed outrage. Diving into his pocket with trembling hands he pulled forth his cardcase and extracted a card. Then, with exaggerated courtesy, he tapped the big Yankee on the arm and presented him with the card. The American did not understand the Spanish accompanying the presentation, but he realized that he had been invited to meet the Cuban on the field.

This having dawned upon him, he deliberately tore the card into four pieces, buttoned his coat, and reached for the challenger. Seizing his squarely padded shoulders, he lifted his 120 odd pounds right off the floor, shook him until his hat flew off and his necktie decorated his ears and then plumped him into a cane-bottomed chair with such a kerchunk that the breath fled from the little fellow's body.

"Tut, tut!" said the big man. "Don't bother me again or I'll spank you!"

Thereupon the American turned to the bar again, swallowed his drink, and strode out, while the Cuban meekly rearranged his toilet, without another word. Having done this, he left the saloon, going in the opposite direction from that taken by the American.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Secretary Gage Says Our Finances Are Firm.

THE BOER WAR WILL NOT AFFECT US

Report of Victories and Defeats Causes Little Flurry Because England Has Plenty of Capital to Prosecute the War.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—"American securities will not suffer appreciably from the Boer war, no matter what setbacks the British forces may receive," said Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage yesterday. "The same, indeed, may be said of English securities. The financial condition of England is recognized by financiers as so strong that every demand for the prosecution of the war can easily be met. Already the needs of England in the way of gold and the possibilities of the selling of American stocks by London are definitely known, and the financial situation in this country is therefore perfectly stable and proof against perturbations."

Secretary Gage arrived in Chicago at the invitation of the National Association of Merchants and Travelers, before which he is to deliver an address on "The Outlook" at a dinner at the Auditorium tonight. He will remain here the greater part of the week visiting friends.

While unwilling to express himself as to his personal views about the war in the Transvaal or as to the matters in which the United States directly or by implication has been connected with it he did not hesitate to speak of the inferences that might be drawn from the phenomenal market in securities, both in London and in New York, as far as it has been affected by the war.

"England has plenty of capital to carry on the war, and that fact is generally acknowledged by financiers. This is the explanation of the little disturbance which reports of victories or defeats in the Transvaal have had in London and in New York.

"At the very start there were, as is well known, panicky conditions when a Boer victory was rumored. The reason of that was that the financial conditions were not well understood by men on 'change and especially by those interested in securities.

"The natural effect of the declaration of war was to raise questions as to what English stockholders would do, what American securities they would sell, how much gold they would want and where they would get it and what the opinion of other financiers in regard to these questions would be.

"Naturally there was more or less disturbance at the start, but very quickly the conditions became defined, so that they could be fairly and properly measured, and the general perturbation of the market as quickly disappeared. Therefore, while in the early stages the war had considerable effect, now matters seem adjusted by reason of any news from the front."

Secretary Gage was asked whether this calm in the market could be interpreted as meaning that financiers had full confidence that England would ultimately be successful against its enemies, but he shook his head as he replied in the language quoted above.

Mr. Frick Makes Denial.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 20.—The Post today says: "Henry C. Frick, in order to correct false reports concerning suits he is supposed to be about to enter against the Carnegie Steel company in behalf of the Frick Coke company, has authorized a statement in which he denies in the most positive and emphatic terms all reports of contemplated litigation of that character. He says he has not and will not enter any lawsuit, bill in equity or bring any other legal proceedings in connection with the business contracts or other affairs of the Frick Coke company; that he never had any intention of so doing, nor is he interested either directly or indirectly in any movement of that kind. Furthermore he has no knowledge that any such action is to be taken and is positive the reports to that effect are canards in the fullest acceptation of the term."

Dr. Walker Prevails.

ALBANY, Feb. 20.—Dr. Mary Walker's persuasive powers have proved too much for Chairman Weekes of the assembly code committee, and he has granted this famous woman a hearing on Mr. Maher's bill to abolish capital punishment, which measure the committee had virtually decided to smother instead of reporting it adversely. Dr. Walker, who will argue in favor of the bill, says she will tell the committee that while she would like to see the death penalty abolished entirely, still if we must have it she would have the law amended so that those convicted of murder on circumstantial evidence only would receive a life sentence in lieu of being electrocuted.

Naval Movements.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The navy department has been informed of the following naval movements: The Lancaster has arrived at Cienfuegos. The Porter has sailed from Norfolk for Annapolis. The Vixen has arrived at St. Thomas. The north Atlantic squadron will not visit Matanzas, as was expected, but is scheduled to arrive at Galveston about April 20 to assist in the anniversary celebration of the battle of San Jacinto.

Alaska Tide Lands.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The secretary of the interior has confirmed a decision rendered by the commissioner of the general land office in which it was held that tide lands of Alaska are not public lands belonging to the United States within the meaning of the mining laws and that no rights whatever with respect to such lands can be acquired by exploration, occupation, location or otherwise under the mining laws.

Cuban Postoffices.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The director general of posts for Cuba has sent a statement to the postoffice department regarding the postal establishment in Cuba. There are 276 postoffices on the island, 19 of which are in charge of Americans as acting postmasters, with Cuban assistants in many cases. The other 257 offices are in charge of residents or natives.

Missing Man Turns Up.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Feb. 20.—While the police were searching this city for Horace Alliger, supposed to have committed suicide several days ago, he suddenly returned from a business trip.

ENGLISH AUTHORS.

Embassador Choate the Guest of Honor at a Dinner.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—There was a large attendance last evening at the Author's club dinner, where the United States embassador, Mr. Joseph H. Choate, was the guest of honor. Among those present were Mr. James Bryce, Sir George Lewis, Mr. Anthony Hope Hawkins and Mr. J. R. Carter of the United States embassy.

Mr. Gilbert Parker, who presided when proposing the health of Mr. Choate dwelt upon the debt British authors owed to American readers and to the American government for "a voluntary act of justice in passing the copyright law," a sentiment which was heartily cheered.

Mr. Choate, in the course of a somewhat elaborate response, attributed the great reading capacity of the American people to their system of general education at the expense of the state and to the public library system, which, since its establishment in Boston under the auspices of Harvard in 1638, had grown to such great proportions throughout the United States. He went on to speak of the eminent service the authors of both countries were rendering to each other.

BACK FROM CHINA.

German Missionary Will Give First Facts About Recent Events.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—Bishop von Anzer of South Shangtung, the well known German missionary, has arrived at Rome and after an audience with the pope will come to Berlin. His presence is connected with the renewal of Chinese revolts in the sphere of German interests in China. He will report to the pope that the imminent dangers now threatening the Catholic missions in China are due partly to the aggressive policy of Europe toward China since 1897 and partly to the anti-foreignism of the dowager empress.

The aim of Bishop von Anzer is to induce all the European governments interested to join in an attempt to convince the Peking government of the necessity of suppressing all combinations and demonstrations directed against foreigners and if necessary to enforce this jointly. His report in Rome and Berlin will be the first authentic account of recent events in China. Emperor William attaches great importance to Bishop von Anzer's counsels.

Confessed a Murder.

READING, Pa., Feb. 20.—Leopold Rowe, aged 52 years, who was serving a six months' sentence in the county jail here for threatening to burn barns, has confessed to the prison officials that he had committed a murder near Campbellstown, Lebanon county, seven years ago, and as a result of his admission he was taken to Lebanon and lodged in jail there pending a further investigation. Rowe said he and a companion followed a stranger from a hotel in Campbellstown to a lonely road and shot him dead. They took $50 from his pockets and hid the body in a strawstack. The sheriff of Lebanon county on arriving here yesterday to take charge of Rowe said the body of an unknown man was found near Campbellstown on July 10, 1893, with two bullet holes in the head. The body was not identified and was buried by the county without the mystery of the death having been cleared up.

Cold Snap In Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 20.—Fruit men here are apprehensive that Saturday and Sunday's cold weather has hurt orange and other fruit trees. At Milton, Fla., on Saturday there was a fall of snow with the thermometer at 25. Sunday morning in Jacksonville the thermometer was 16 above. Thousands of fires were kept burning Saturday night, all day Sunday and last night in groves all over Florida in efforts to save the trees. The trees as a rule were in good condition to withstand a freeze, and this fact will prevent serious damage, but the effect of the cold cannot be ascertained till warm weather comes. Truck growers will lose heavily all through the state. The expense to orange growers in keeping the fires will amount to many thousand dollars.

Actor Crane Sued.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Notice of a suit to recover $3,000 said to be due in stock deals has been served on William H. Crane, the actor, now playing at a Chicago theater. The plaintiffs in the case are L. T. and H. P. Watson, stock brokers at Minneapolis. The brokers declare that Actor Crane owes them $2,261 and interest for purchasing and selling 200 shares of Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company stock last October.

Suspects Removed to Frankfort.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 20.—Harlan Whittaker and James Sutton, suspected of connection with the assassination of Governor Goebel, were taken to Frankfort yesterday afternoon. They were handcuffed and shackled together. Sutton seemed undisturbed over the removal to Frankfort, but Whittaker betrayed anxiety and expressed apprehension that he would not be given protection by the officers there.

Gas Explosion Injures Three.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Feb. 20.—Three miners at the Barclay Coal company's shaft at Barclay, 12 miles from this city, named Samuel Sharsig, Martin Yankis and Stephen Prolowski, were burned so badly from an explosion of pit gas that they will probably die. When they were rescued, they were hardly recognizable.

Sharkey Does It Quick.

DETROIT, Feb. 20.—Tom Sharkey last night knocked out Jim Jeffords, the California aspirant for heavyweight honors, in the second round of what was to have been a ten round bout. The men had fought two minutes and six seconds in the second round when the knockout was delivered.

ALBANY, Feb. 20.—John Redmond, employed as a lineman by the Albany and Hudson Electric Light and Power company, was instantly killed while at work. He touched a live wire.

Philippine Public Funds.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The war department has issued the statement that the receipts of public funds of the Philippine Islands beginning Aug. 13, 1898, and ending Dec. 31, 1899, amounted to $6,696,080.

THE PATENT OFFICE.

Last Year's Business Brisk—Connecticut Heads the List.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The annual report of the commissioner of patents for the year ended Dec. 31, 1899, shows that the total receipts of the office amounted to $1,325,457, a sum but twice exceeded since 1836. After deducting the expenditures for the year there was a surplus of $113,673. The patent office has now paid into the treasury $5,086,649 more than it has drawn out. The number of patents issued, including designs and reissues, was 25,527, a number but once exceeded. The number of patents expiring during the year was 18,135.

In proportion to population more patents were issued to citizens of Connecticut than to those of any other state, one to every 945 inhabitants. The report deals largely with the work of classification divisions and sets forth at length the system adopted. The object of classification is to reduce the immense number of inventions into classes and subclasses of convenient size capable of clear separation and definition and based upon a system sufficiently elastic to provide for future growth. Attention is called to the lack of room and to the great loss that would occur if the records of the office were destroyed by fire.

The commissioner approves a bill pending in congress providing for the construction of a fireproof building for the use of the patent office, including a hall of inventions. Legislation is recommended limiting the number of appeals in "merit" and "interference" cases, and the practice of keeping applications for patents in the office for an indefinite number of years is objected to as tending to stifle the progress of invention. The issuance of patents, the report says, would be greatly expedited by legislation limiting the number of appeals. Congress is asked to amend the trademark statutes so as to provide for the registration of trademarks used in interstate commerce.

Haiti's Navy Destroyed.

STAMFORD, Conn., Feb. 20.—According to a story told Deputy Collector Charles F. Leeds at the customs office the whole Haitian navy has gone to the bottom, and the Stamford Manufacturing company sent her there. The story was told by Captain Montell, who arrived with the steamer Antilla of the Bahamas Steamship company, with a cargo of 400 tons of logwood for the Stamford Manufacturing company. He states that the Haitian navy was made up of one vessel, and as it was necessary to send the lone man-of-war to the United States for repairs arrangements were made to carry a cargo both coming and returning. The steamer, however, met with a mishap near Fortunate island, which is north of Cuba, and was totally wrecked on a reef. The cargo was landed by the natives on the island in rowboats and finally brought to its destination by the Antilla, which was sent from Haiti.

Grissom Gets Money and Freedom.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 20.—Arthur Grissom, a poet and editor of a society paper published in New York city, has dismissed his suit for $110,000 damages instituted against his father-in-law, Dr. W. S. Woods, president of the National Bank of Commerce, Dec. 9 last, for alienating the affections of his wife and breach of contract. The terms of settlement are said to include the payment to Mr. Grisson of $30,000, while Mrs. Grisson was allowed a divorce, the restitution of her maiden name, Julia Stone Woods, and the custody of their 2-year-old child. Mrs. Grisson filed her suit for divorce yesterday morning, and a decree was granted her within a few hours.

First Snow In Thirty Years.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Feb. 20.—Yesterday was the coldest recorded here, the temperature being 58 degrees F. in the city in the morning. In the mountains ten miles off the temperature was 40 degrees. Mount San Piedra, 20 miles to the northeast, with an altitude of 6,000 feet, is covered with snow. Old residents say that 30 years ago, during the war of that day, snow fell in the mountains, but none has been observed since until yesterday. The Juragua Mining company's railroad system ran an excursion train in the afternoon to a point where Mount San Piedra could be plainly seen, and hundreds of Cubans then saw snow for the first time.

CRONJE HEMMED IN?

War Office Said to Be Keeping Good News.

BULLER ALSO REPORTS VICTORY

Captures Hlangwane Hill, a Strong Position Occupied by the Boers. The Burghers Tell of the Capture of British Provisions.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—A member of the cabinet told Mr. H. W. Lucy last night that the war office had received a telegram announcing that General Cronje was hopelessly surrounded.

Mr. Wyndham was beset by anxious members of the house, but would only reply that the government's news was extremely satisfactory. The sole explanation of the government withholding good news is that confirmation and more details are awaited.

The situation as disclosed by correspondents over the Free State border is tantalizing to the public expectation. The elementary facts are that the Boers are trekking eastward toward Bloemfontein with slow moving baggage trains and that they are pursued by Lord Kitchener, with General Kelly-Kenny's division. General Macdonald, with the highlanders, made a forced march to Koodoo's Rand ford and on Sunday pushed 20 miles eastward. General French left Kimberley Saturday, going east along the Modder river. Lord Kitchener is trying to outmarch and to outflank the Boers, thus checking their retreat if possible and driving them back into the hands of Macdonald and French.

The war office message communicated to Mr. Lucy seems to indicate that Lord Kitchener has either got ahead of the Boers or is about to realize his plan and that the war office waits to announce a decisive result.

Meanwhile Commandant Delarey, with the Boers from Colesberg, is hanging on to the right flank of the British pursuing columns, seeking to delay their movement and so to assist the Boer wagon trains to escape.

Students of topography think the Boers will hardly risk a fight until they get into the rough country.

The Chieveley correspondent of The Daily News, telegraphing yesterday, says:

"We now occupy all the hills to the right of Colenso on this side of the Tugela, including Hlangwane, which the Boers evacuated last night.

"This capture of Hlangwane hill is of great strategical importance, as the hill commands the flank of the Boer defenses at Colenso. A successful advance and the recapture of the railway may be expected."

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Lourenco Marques, dated Monday, says:

"According to advices from Pretoria, the Boers are expecting a big battle on the Tugela. They claim that 70 of the Wiltshires were killed at Colesberg and that 30 wagons with forage and provisions were captured, but no ammunition. They thus describe the fighting at Kimberley:

"'The British came through Blaunbank and attacked in two columns. While the Boers were busily engaged with Lord Roberts General French, with 2,000 cavalry and six guns, succeeded in breaking through the Boer lines. The Boers did not seriously oppose General French's advance, but confined their efforts to preventing the provisions getting through. In this they succeeded, capturing 2,000 head of cattle, 100 wagons of provisions and 100 men.'"

The Daily Mail has the following dispatch, dated Monday, from Pietermaritzburg:

"It is reported that Sir Redvers Buller has captured Hlangwane hill. Large numbers of Free Staters have left to meet Lord Roberts' force. It is believed that a number of Boer big guns have been taken back across the border."

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily News, telegraphing Sunday, says:

"Lord Methuen's force, I learn, has arrived at Kimberley, having got through from Magersfontein without fighting."

Cronje Holding His Own.

LOURENCO MARQUES, Feb. 20.—It appears from advices received here that the loot captured by the burghers Sunday near Koffyfontein included over 3,000 head of cattle and a number of wagons, 18 of which were loaded with provisions intended for the relief of Kimberley. A number of prisoners were also taken. Heavy fighting is reported around Kimberley, where General Cronje is said to be holding his own.

Boer Line Broken.

CHIEVELEY, Feb. 20.—The Boers' line of fortresses is broken. The British have achieved a decided success in capturing the enemy's position on Monte Christo. The Boers, however, effectively executed a retreat, removing their guns and convoy wagons. The British had comparatively few casualties.

Miss Wheeler to Wed.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—It is announced here that Miss Annie Wheeler, daughter of General Joseph Wheeler, who is now in the Philippines with her father, having enlisted as an army nurse, is engaged to be married to Lieutenant W. W. Fiscus, acting captain of the Nineteenth regiment, which is engaged at present in Cuba. Miss Wheeler will leave Manila on the next steamer, and Lieutenant Fiscus will come home as soon as he gets his furlough. He was graduated from West Point in 1898. Miss Wheeler served as a Red Cross nurse at Camp Wikoff, N. Y., during the Spanish war. The marriage ceremony will take place at the home of Lieutenant Fiscus' sister in this city.

Cripple Creek Dividends.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Feb. 20.—The dividend report of Cripple Creek public companies for February will reach $700,000. In February, 1899, it was $290,250. For January the record was $314,000, making for the first two months of 1900 a total of $960,367. For the corresponding period of last year the total was $504,250. The total for last year was $4,449,492. Proportionately the 1900 record will reach $7,000,000 or more. The total for the first six months of 1899 was $1,067,250, or only $96,883 more than for the first six weeks of 1900.

Runyon Convicts Himself.

At the head of the editorial column of the News yesterday appeared this opinion:

Plainfield was never so "wide open" as it is today.

This vicious slap at the reputation and fair name of the city—and it is as big a falsehood as the pen of Editor Runyon ever gave publicity to—comes from one who has countless times, during the past three years, violently attacked and villified other newspapermen of the city for simply reporting statements of fact which this precious editor proclaimed with all might and main was decrying and injuring the community.

And yet before the howl of injured indignation, which Runyon expressed from the moral kopjes which he presumed to elevate himself to, has fully died away, we hear him shrieking a dastardly thought whose echo swells back to smite him ten fold as a hypocrite and falsifier.

We have long regarded the News editor in this light, but we always gave him credit for being wise and astute enough not to convict himself in such a conspicuous and forceful manner before the whole public. What a sorry sight Runyon has made of himself.

In a political editorial that commenced with a sentence that occupied nearly seven inches of a standard newspaper column, we find this paragraph in the last issue of Silas Dewey Drake's Real Estate News and Union Star:

When we know where you "were at" in Music Hall—that is, when we contemplate what your nervous system experienced after being shocked with Bryan's electric oratorical battery, and it was an agreeable sensation to you, but it may be like every other tonic, injurious if it permeates your system, its amaging effect may not be experienced for many moons, but you will understand us when you experience what we now tell you.

Silas could safely offer a lot at Dewey Park as a prize for a proper interpretation of this language, and rest assured he would not find a winner. We confess that it is beyond our comprehension.

After a long and bitter fight for the plum, the Metuchen postmastership has been secured by Edward Burroughs on the recommendation of Congressman Howell. Notwithstanding the inexorable rule of politics that prevails in postoffice appointments that Congressmen shall have the selection of those who are to administer the offices in their respective districts, a desperate attempt was made by Robert Carson, the G. O. P. boss of Middlesex county, to prevent the President's approval of Mr. Howell's recommendation. Burroughs, the successful candidate, is a "commuter," while Morton, his contestant, is a "town man."

A Washington correspondent says that it has been definitely determined that the Democratic National convention shall be held before the Republican National convention. It is conceded that the Democrats will meet either the last week in May or the first week in June. The exact date will be decided upon at the meeting of the committee in this city next Thursday. There now appears to be only two cities that stand any show of receiving the National convention, namely, Milwaukee and Kansas City. It is generally believed, and by some a foregone conclusion that Milwaukee will secure the prize.

It is stated that the railroads carried 33,000,000 passengers across the draw bridges of the Newark bay and the Passaic river during the past year. This stupendous number is arrived at, of course, by computing the daily trips of individual commuters who use the facilities of the railroads, but nevertheless this fact does not take away any of the force of the argument that the interests of these passengers should be fostered to the extent of being given the right of way over slow-going barges and schooners for two hours in the morning and the afternoon.

In his message to Congress President McKinley said: "Our plain duty is to abolish all customs tariffs between the United States and Puerto Rico and give their products free access to our markets." To which the Philadelphia Record very pointed adds that it remains to be seen whether the President can be driven from a policy dictated by plain duty because of the protectionist hullabaloo raised about his ears.

If Duer street can be extended to connect with Madison avenue by the raising of $500 by private subscription, there ought to be no reason why the improvement should not be consummated at an early date. It is a project the success of which will be of great value to both the city and the borough.

Senator Vest is a Missourian almost by mistake. He was on his way to California in 1853 to practice law there, was snowbound at Georgetown, Mo., and, not being too well supplied with money, decided to practice there for the rest of the winter. He did so well that he gave up the Pacific Slope plan.

If there is anything required to emphasize the need and advantage of electing United States Senators by popular vote, the testimony and open admissions of spending a large fortune in the Montana Senatorial fight furnishes it.

In round figures it is estimated that since 1896 William Jennings Bryan has traveled 92,000 miles. The Nebraska Colonel is finding the road to the White House a long one.

Count Castelsne may find it easier to secure a liberal share of Gould cash than to have the blood of DeRody.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A prominent official of the borough recently made the statement that the most expensive city hall Plainfield had was the ante-room of the Common Council chamber.

* * * * *

Every severe snow storm brings out a variety of footwear. Somehow most folk seem to forget all about the possibility of snow until it arrives, and then there is a great rush to secure something to protect the feet. Sometimes boots or overshoes are too small or worn out and some strange makeshifts are temporarily arranged. Every shoe store in town is overrun with customers, and the supply is often exhausted before the demand stops.

* * * * *

Every time a snow storm visits Plainfield and a thaw follows, many folk have to suffer for the lack of thoughtfulness on the part of certain property owners. Many of the sidewalks throughout the city are at present a trifle below the level of the adjoining ground. The walks have either settled or else the lawns have been filled up, and no little ditch cut beside the stone flagging. The result is that the melting snow at the side of the walk overflows the sidewalk only to freeze at night, and leave the sidewalks in a very slippery state that is unpleasant and somewhat dangerous to pedestrians. Such property owners as do not care to go to the expense of raising the walks could afford much relief by cutting away the turf close to the stone and leaving a little trench of several inches in width into which the water would drain.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Feb. 20.—Mrs. George Shaffer, who has exhibited signs of insanity of late, was taken to an asylum at Trenton yesterday afternoon. Dr. Brakeley accompanied the patient. HOME OF REV. CHARLES M. SHELDON.

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, preacher, author and advocate of the Christ-like life, will soon give an example of how he thinks Jesus would conduct a newspaper if He were on earth today. Mr. Sheldon is to have absolute control of one of Topeka's daily papers for one week, and will attempt to illustrate his ideas on Christian journalism by applying the test of his now famous query, "What Would Jesus Do?" to all matter prepared by editors and reporters and to advertisements submitted for publication. The picture shows the dwelling of the preacher-editor, in the cozy study of which the policy of a journalistic novelty is being moulded.

Local-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Sachsen.

Dresden. Der König verlieh der Technischen Hochschule das Recht zur Promotion zum Doktor-Ingenieur gleichartig den preußischen Bestimmungen.—In Folge des durch den Bergarbeiterstrike hervorgerufenen Kohlenmangels sah sich der Stadtrath genöthigt, den Betrieb des Licht- und Kraftwerkes einzuschränken, wodurch der Verkehr der elektrischen Straßenbahn und die elektrische Beleuchtung betroffen werden. Eine Reihe von Schulen sollen geschlossen und die Schüler in den wenigen Schulen, welche weiter gehalten werden, bei beschränkter Unterrichtszeit unterrichtet werden. Der Vizevorsteher der Stadtverordneten sprach in öffentlicher Sitzung den Wunsch aus, der Strike möge mit einem Siege der armen Bergleute bald enden.

Leipzig. Eine jüngst hier abgehaltene Konferenz der Arbeitnehmer-Beisitzer der deutschen Gewerbegerichte, der 80 Vertreter aus 71 Orten Deutschlands beiwohnten, beschloß, beim Reichstage die obligatorische Errichtung von Gewerbegerichten zu beantragen. Ferner soll die Zuständigkeit der Gewerbegerichte auch auf Dienstboten und auf land- und forstwirthschaftliche Arbeiter ausgedehnt werden.—Wie verlautet, wird das Grab Christian Fürchtegott Gellerts, das bisher pietätvoll erhalten war, verschwinden. Die Gebeine des Dichters werden in der renovirten Kirche zu St. Johannis beigesetzt.

Schneeberg. Der älteste Feldwebel der sächsischen Armee, Christian Gottfried Schönberg, ist in seinem 94. Lebensjahre zur großen Armee abberufen worden. Der Verewigte hat von 1826 bis 1882 fünf Königen Sachsens als Soldat gedient; sechs Auszeichnungen zierten seine Brust.

Werdau. Die Firma Otto Ullrich beging neulich den Tag ihres 50jährigen Bestehens. Der Gründer der Firma, Herr Otto Ullrich sen., der sich heute noch bester Gesundheit und geistiger Frische erfreut, hat es durch seine große Arbeitskraft und strenge Reellität verstanden, das Geschäft von ganz kleinem Anfange zu einer solchen Blüthe zu bringen, daß die Firma heute zu den bedeutendsten der Tuchfabrikation Deutschlands zählt. Die Firma beschäftigt zur Zeit 450 Arbeiter.

Zwickau. Kürzlich waren es 500 Jahre, seitdem das Geschlecht „Derer von Trützschler" im Besitze der Herrschaft Falkenstein ist. Anläßlich dieser Jubelfeier hat der König von Sachsen den Herrschaftsbesitzer A. v. Trützschler in den erblichen Freiherrnstand erhoben.

Thüringische Staaten.

Koburg. Herzog Alfred hat den Entwurf eines Bismarck-Thurmes genehmigt und den sogenannten „Himmelsacker" (Rundsicht) als Bauplatz zur Verfügung gestellt. Von den Kosten des Bismarck-Thurmes, die auf 16,500 Mark veranschlagt sind, wurden durch eine vorläufige Sammlung 6000 Mark aufgebracht.

Rudolstadt. Die Errichtung eines Technikums hier ist so gut wie sicher. Für die Erhaltung der Anstalt ist seitens der Stadt eine jährliche Subvention von circa 8000 Mark erforderlich.

Schmölln. Die große weltbekannte Steinknopffabrik Krug u. Co. ist total niedergebrannt. Der Schade beträgt an 400,000 Mark. Die gesammte Arbeiterschaft ist brodlos.

Freie Städte.

Hamburg. Die Ende des Jahres 1899 vorgenommene Ermittelung des Bevölkerungsstandes und der Wohnungsverhältnisse der Stadt Hamburg hat eine Gesammtbevölkerung von 683,574 Seelen ergeben, gegen 667,936 Seelen im Jahre 1898.—In dem Vororte Sagebiel starb der als schwerster Mensch der Welt bekannte, 450 Pfund wiegende Emil Naucke. Als er auf einem Wohlthätigkeitsfeste mit dem Zwergkomiker Hansen einen Radfahrreigen aufführte, erlitt er einen Schlaganfall.

Bremen. Der Andrang von Bewerbern für das Kadettenschulschiff des Norddeutschen Lloyd ist ein sehr großer. Aus allen Theilen Deutschlands liegen Anmeldungen vor. Abgesehen von zahlreichen Anfragen beläuft sich die Zahl der Vermerkten schon jetzt auf etwa 400. Von den Bewerbern wurden circa 100 zur engeren Wahl zugelassen, von denen 40 für den ersten Jahrgang zur Einstellung gelangen werden. Außer dem Kadettenschulschiff des Norddeutschen Lloyds, der bekanntlich Offiziere heranbilden will, wird auch der Deutsche Schulschiffverein im Frühjahr 1901 ein Schulschiff einstellen, das zur Ausbildung tüchtiger Matrosen dienen soll.—

Lübeck. Umfangreiche Bauten, die vom Staate übernommen werden, sehen ihrer Ausführung für die nächste Zeit entgegen. Ein Senatsantrag geht dahin, daß der Baudeputation zur Herstellung einer Verlängerung des Bohlwerks unterhalb des Konsulinplatzes um 275 Meter die Summe von 168,000 Mark zur Verfügung gestellt werde. Ferner beantragte der Senat, daß der Baudeputation zum Ausbau des Germanistenkellers und des Hamburger Kellers zwecks Vergrößerung der Rathsweinkellerwirthschaft die Summe von 53,500 Mark zur Verfügung gestellt werde.

A stenographer for a large law firm in Boston had a rather common experience: "My work," she said, "is very nervous and exacting, and I used to leave the office utterly exhausted. At night I would often have the most horrible dreams, and sometimes wake up in a cold sweat. Once I found myself sitting bolt upright in bed clutching the bed clothes frantically with both hands. I became so disheartened that I finally told my employer I must give up my position, but he laughed, and said he wanted me to stay, and then suggested that I try his remedy for such troubles. He gave me half a dozen Ripans Tabules and told me to take one after dinner and another before going to bed. I did so, and rested better that very night Now, whenever I feel nervous, I take just one Tabule before retiring and I sleep right through till morning, and get up thoroughly rested and ready for business. For a sleep-producer and a quieter of the nerves, these Tabules are simply wonderful."

Elaborate Shirt Waists
Will Be a Feature of Coming Seasons

A Description of a Few of Those That Are Being Shown in the New York Wholesale Houses at This Early Day

FASHION designers have for several seasons attempted to decry the shirt waist and have it discarded as a feature of the spring and summer wardrobe, but without success, for to-day the shirt waist promises to be a more important feature than ever of these two coming seasons.

"If one could judge from the buying, even at this early date," said a wholesale merchant to me the other day, "one would say that shirt waists are to be the greatest feature of the coming seasons. But they will not be entirely the shirt waists that we have known in past seasons. Previously we have made a distinction between the elaborate affairs of silks, satins, chiffons and mousseline de soies and the cheaper materials of the summer waists, but this year the summer waists are being called for with all the elaborateness that it is possible to put on them. They embrace the most elaborate arrangements of laces, silks, braidings, insertions, velvets and the new mousselines and St. Gall embroideries designed in all manner of artistic and attractive forms.

"There are, however, just as stunning styles to be found in the imported and finer domestic cottons. The sleeves are being finished in several new forms, in many cases similar to the styles worn by men and cut perpendicular when the patterns are striped. These shirt waists are made to wear with coats and the new Eton jackets. They are also seen in every variety and pattern of percale and French cambrics, and some of the linen styles are being made with link cuffs, and sometimes with collar attached."

The same merchant took great pains in displaying for me some of the pattern waists he is using as samples for the buyers throughout the country who are just now visiting New York in large numbers.

Among them was one made of all-over renaissance lace and net. This is made perfectly plain to display the superb lace pattern, and is fastened down the back with small gold buttons. It is worn over a slip of turquoise blue silk, and has a high pointed collar and tight-fitting sleeves that finish at the wrist in deep scallops.

Another has a white summer shirt waist made of French lawn with a deep pointed yoke of French embroidery, the lower portion being of the French lawn in fine tucks and made with a finish at the top in deep scallops, with a lovely French insertion to finish. The sleeves are tucked crosswise, and have three rows of the French insertion, with a deep pointed flaring cuff of French embroidery, and a high collar. It is fastened down the back with crochet buttons.

Another white one is of French lawn made with clusters of three tucks, then a lovely hemstitched piece. The sleeves have clusters of tucks and the hemstitching, with a hemstitched turnover cuff and a high turn-over collar.

One of white linen had six rows of hemstitched tucks, and real valenciennes insertion on each side, then six more of the tucks. This waist fastens down the front with a narrow ruffle of the linen lawn on a double box plait edged with narrow valenciennes lace. The sleeves are entirely covered with small tucks, and fall long over the hand in a V.

One of white silk is made with a double box plait down the front and handsomely appliqued in white silk and gold. On each side are clusters of three tucks, and a short bolero of the white silk with a handsome applique of the white and gold. The sleeves are perfectly plain with a small applique design of the white and gold falling over the hand in a deep ripple. It has a high pointed collar entirely covered with the white and gold applique.

Another of the more elaborate ones is of turquoise blue satin and chiffon. Of this the entire yoke and pointed vest are of tucked chiffon, with the turquoise blue at each side, and with small pointed revers of the blue with an accordion plaiting edging of the chiffon. A crushed girdle of turquoise blue velvet, and tight fitting sleeves with deep vandykes at the wrists where underneath falls a deep ruching of the chiffon. A high collar of the velvet, with a wee ruching of the chiffon on each side.

Another elaborate one is of yellow silk with pipings of old rose velvet. It is made with a double box plait with the velvet piping down the front, a crushed girdle of the velvet and a high tucked collar of the same. The sleeves are tight fitting and fall over the hand in a V with three pipings of the velvet and a narrow tucked velvet band just below the elbow.

Apropos of the new fashions, the plaited skirts have gained the day—that is a fact there is no gainsaying. The peasant skirts, which will in all probability be our future fate, be we stout or be we lean. The flat, untrimmed skirts of yesterday may still remain, and, indeed, both are still to be seen. But the skirt of the moment is the plaited skirt. In most instances the plaits, which are about two inches in width, are stitched down very flat at the top, giving about the hips the flat impression of yesterday's gowns, then below the knees the plaits are unstitched and the loosened material falls fanlike about the feet. Variety is obtained by making the plaits larger or smaller, and by trimming or not trimming them.

ILLUMINATING GAS.

Some of Its Dangers in the House and How They Are to Be Avoided.

Numerous accidents occur annually in the use of gas for lighting, cooking or heating, through either carelessness or ignorance. The largest number of accidents, probably, occur from ignorant persons either blowing out the gas or turning it off, and subsequently turning the cock on sufficiently for the gas to escape unnoticed.

Many other accidents are the result of the bad practice of turning down a gas flame, particularly in a bedroom. This is always ill-advised, for such a turned-down flame may be either blown out by a draught of air from an open window, or else it may be extinguished by a sudden variation or reduction in the pressure. When this happens in a small bedroom without ventilation there is great danger of asphyxiation, particularly so if water gas is used. Much can be done to avert this danger by a proper arrangement of the gas piping in houses.

Another dangerous custom is to shut off the gas at the main service or at the gas meter during the night, and numerous accidents, some of them fatal, have resulted from it. It is almost equally bad to turn off the gas at the meter during the day.

Notwithstanding the universal introduction of gas lighting, there are still many persons who would be benefited by receiving plain instructions on the use of gas in the household. Gas companies would benefit themselves and the public by paying more attention to this matter. Among available statistics may be found numerous incidents of death or accidents due to faulty management of gas. Among the more remote causes the writer finds the following mentioned: In one of two adjoining rooms, supplied with gas from one so-called prepayment gas meter, a man retired for the night when the gas supply from the meter was exhausted, but forgot to close his gas burner. The occupant of the adjoining room came home late at night, dropped a coin in the slot of the gas meter, and got a fresh supply of gas, which meanwhile also escaped in the adjoining room, killing the occupant.

Escape of gas and explosions have also happened in the use of gas cooking stoves, where boiling water, running over the vessel, extinguished the flames. It has already been mentioned that the so-called independent gas connections with two keys may lead to accidents by the wrong one being turned by mistake. Where the gas in the cellar freezes in winter time it is dangerous to attempt to thaw out the gas meter or service with a flame. A gas meter should never be examined with a burning light, nor should any tools be used near a gas meter known to be leaky, on account of the danger of flying sparks.—Cassier's Magazine.

NATURE'S TONIC.

Good, Ripe Fruit Is a Speedy Cure for Many Ills of the Flesh.

If people only ate more fruit they would take much less medicine and have better health. There is an old saying that fruit is gold in the morning and lead at night. As a matter of fact, it may be gold at both times, but then it should be eaten on an empty stomach and not as a dessert, when the appetite is satisfied and digestion is already sufficiently taxed. Fruit taken in the morning before the fast of the night has been broken is very refreshing, and it serves as a stimulus to the digestive organs. A ripe apple or an orange may be taken with good effect. Fruit, to be really valuable as an article of diet, should be ripe, sound and in every way of good quality, and if possible it should be eaten raw. Instead of eating a plate of ham and eggs for breakfast, most people would do better if they took some grapes, pears or apples—fresh fruit, as long as it is to be had, and after that they can fall back on stewed prunes, figs, etc. If only fruit of some sort formed an important item in their breakfasts, women would generally feel brighter and stronger and would have far better complexions than is the rule at present.—Philadelphia Press.

Inheritance of Health.

There is, it is true, as great an inequality in the inheritance of health as in the heirship of wealth or brains. Some are born with a fortune of vigor and soundness so large that not a lifetime of eager squandering will leave them poor, and others enter the world paupers of need so dire that no charity from medicine can ever raise them to comfort, but most of us have just that mediocre legacy of vitality which renders us undistinguishable units in the mass. It lies in the hands of each to improve or waste that property, as he chooses, for there are self-made men physically as well as financially; those who, because of ancestral wastefulness, have only a sixpence of health and turn it into a fortune, and there are spendthrifts of health who come to as sorrowful a case as spendthrifts of gold. The body is the realm where a wise and frugal ruler brings happiness as surely as a foolish one insures distress, and wisdom here, as elsewhere, lies in learning and obeying natural laws.—North American Review.

Mutton or Lamb Broth.

Cut three or four pounds of neck meat into chunks, removing all the fat possible. Use a quart of water to each pound of meat. Cook for not less than five hours, and remove the grease when cold. If the invalid gets tired of the taste, the next time the broth is served put in a couple of stalks of celery at the time it is heated, removing them before serving. This will give a different flavor.—Delineator.

Labor Alone Produces Lasting Success.

Famous Americans Who Have Had to Toil Patiently and Long Before Arriving at the Goal of Their Ambition.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THE boys and girls, young men and women, of this country are taught to respect old age, but that is not enough. They should be taught to seek the society of the old men and women in every community and listen to the stories of their experiences in the years that have passed.

There is a dear old man or a lovely old lady in every little town or village who could be helpful to the individuals of the rising generation, and who would be glad to be so. Every young man or woman who would seek their society would not only bring pleasure into their fast fading lives, but would derive benefit by drinking from the fountains of wisdom which flow like well springs from the minds of those good people.

These reflections come forth as the result of an evening with an elderly gentleman who was once a commanding figure in the national councils, but who is now living a quiet life in his declining years. He said to the writer: "You are perfectly welcome to tell what has been said, but I do not like to see my name in print, and so you must not make mention of me. There was a time when I sought newspaper notoriety, for the newspapers make and unmake politicians. But when a man leaves all that behind him he does not want to be mentioned in any manner, except in the obituary notices."

The venerable statesman and philosopher narrated incidents which surely ought to be laid before the reading people of the country, for they afford food for thought and encouragement to those who may be discouraged. He said that there are times in the life of every man when the world seems very dark, but that the skies always brighten to those who keep on doing their duty to the best of their ability. One of his illustrations was this:

"Go into any city, big or little, and you will find a street corner so crowded with wagons and other vehicles that it is dangerous to attempt to cross. But if you will wait awhile you will find that all the obstructions have naturally removed themselves, and the street is as clear of obstructions as a country road. Therefore, when obstructions come in the pathway of life, if you only wait, they will remove themselves. If people would only understand this simple truth, they would do less worrying when they find their desires temporarily thwarted."

Then he added: "There is a line in one of the classics which says: 'The frozen river and the leafless trees do not complain. They wait for the sunshine of spring and summer.' Wise men and women learn to labor and to wait. Many a man who has been defeated in his dearest aspirations has risen afterwards, and been stronger and greater than he might otherwise have been."

By way of illustration he referred to the career of Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, the unlettered tailor who was unable to make any progress until his wife educated him. He was again and again defeated in his political ambitions, but he struggled on, and finally he became a member of the United States senate, vice president and president of the republic.

In January, 1889, Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, was nominated for a position on the supreme court of the District of Columbia, but the senate refused to confirm him, and he retired to private life. Four years later he was elected vice president, and came to Washington to preside over the senate which had declined to confirm him to a subordinate position.

William Jennings Bryan was defeated for congress in 1894 and had a hard time earning a living for his wife and children. But two years later he was nominated by a great political party for the highest office in the gift of the people, and ever since he has been a commanding figure in national affairs. His defeat for congress may have been a bitter blow to him, and the world must have looked dark, but he kept on working and hoping.

In 1890 William McKinley was defeated for congress, and his public career seemed to have closed. But he kept on working and striving. Four years later he was nominated for the presidency, and was elected to that high office. When he was defeated for congress the world may have looked gloomy to him, but he kept on working and striving and success came at last.

In 1888 Grover Cleveland was defeated for the presidency and badly defeated, because the state of New York, in which he had resided for many years, cast its electoral vote against him. But he kept on struggling and hoping, and four years later he was elected to the presidency, having three successive times secured the nomination of his party.

Isham G. Harris, the confederate war governor of Tennessee, at the close of the civil war secretly departed from that state, carrying with him about half a million dollars in gold, belonging to the state. He went to Mexico, and the legislature of Tennessee denounced him and set a price upon his head. Five years later, when political conditions were such that he could do so, he returned to that very state, bringing with him the money which he had taken away for safe keeping. Then the legislature of Tennessee elected him to the United States senate, and reelected him again and again, until he died while occupying that position.

In 1884 Hernando D. Money was defeated for congress in Mississippi. Ten years later he was elected to the senate and reelected to that position by the legislature of Mississippi. That was because he never wavered in his aspirations and ambitions.

In 1890 John C. Spooner was defeated for the senate by the Wisconsin legislature. In 1896 he was elected to the senate, and is now serving in that body, and occupying important positions in the leading committees. He is also regarded as one of the strongest and most influential orators of the senate. His success resulted from six years of continuous effort and fervent hope.

In 1894 Senator Gorman, of Maryland, was repudiated by his party, and his term in the senate closed. It was supposed that that was the last of Gorman. But to-day he is the recognized leader of his party in that state, and the men who repudiated him and desired his everlasting humiliation are now following his leadership.

In 1895 David B. Henderson, of Iowa, desired to be appointed chairman of the committee on appropriations of the national house of representatives. Speaker Reed refused to give him that position. Four years later, in 1899, Col. Henderson was elected speaker of the house and succeeded Reed in the chair. The power was given to him to appoint a chairman of the committee on appropriations, and the chairmen of all other committees of the house.

In 1890 Thomas H. Carter, of Montana, was defeated for congress. In the following year he was made commissioner of the general land office, and in 1892 he was made chairman of the republican national committee. In 1894 he was elected to the senate, and is now an honored member of that body.

In 1879 Chester A. Arthur was removed from the position of collector of the port of New York, and was politically disgraced. In 1880 he was nominated and elected vice president, and in 1881 he became president of this republic.

These are only a few of the illustrations from real life which were given by the wise old observer of events, and as they fell from his lips they were elaborately discoursed upon to show that "in the world's bright lexicon of youth there's no such word as fail," if men and women will but keep their courage, faith and hope brightened by determination. The text was also quoted: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."

The pathway to success was never "a primrose path of dalliance," and it is a steeper path to-day than ever before, because of the competition in this seething world of selfishness. But they who toil will win. Bacon says that "men must know that in this theater of man's life it remaineth only to God and the angels to be lookers-on," which is a strong way of putting the statement that the genius of labor alone produces success. No man may model his life upon that of another. But every man may be sure that the universal law of success demands toil and courage. Every man who starts upon the ocean of life arches his sails to an untried and unsteady breeze. Like Coleridge's mariner, "he is the first that ever burst into that lonely sea."

The wise words which an old statesman has uttered to the writer in Washington may be of little avail, unless they carry with them the lesson suggested, that in every village, town or city there are wise men and women whose society should be sought by young men and women, because everyone who has lived long in the land has observed similar events about him, and can repeat them in an interesting and encouraging manner to those who are trimming their sails for life's voyage.

NEWCORN WILL BE NEXT GREAT SACHEM.

Highest State Honor of Improved Order of Red Men.

NEWCORN TO RECEIVE IT.

WILL BE ELECTED TOMORROW AT GREAT COUNCIL IN TRENTON.

Plainfielder Entered Order Ten Years Ago and Has Been Very Active There—Has Risen Steadily in Local and State Organization—Now Reached Highest Office Among Red Men in State.

The highest honor that the Improved Order of Red Men of New Jersey can confer is to be given to William Newcorn, of this city, at the meeting of the Great Council of the order, to be held at Trenton tomorrow. Mr. Newcorn will then be elected Great Sachem of the order in which he has been one of the most active and efficient workers in this State.

The annual gathering of the Great Council has been called for tomorrow morning at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Trenton. The new great chief will be nominated in the morning and elected in the afternoon. The meeting will be continued Friday.

The present great chiefs of the Red Men are Great Sachem Arthur H. Stites, of Atlantic City, Great Senior Sagamore William Newcorn, of Plainfield, and Great Junior Sagamore Joseph E. Nowry, of Camden. It has long been the custom among the Red Men to promote the great chiefs in their regular order and so the contest is made for the Great Junior Sagamore, the lowest of the three. This year no exception will be made and Mr. Newcorn will be raised to the post of highest honor that the Red Men can bestow in this State.

Plainfield will be represented at the Great Council by a delegation of some fifteen of the past sachems of the tribe. Another delegation of braves will go to Trenton Thursday night to witness the exemplification of the adoption and degree work.

Mr. Newcorn first became identified with the Improved Order of Red Men when he joined Miantonomoh Tribe of this city in August, 1893, ten months after that tribe was organized. In 1891, he was elected chief of records and held that office for five years which gave him the rank of Past Sachem. In 1896, he was sent to the Great Council as representative from Miantonomoh Tribe and was appointed a deputy great sachem by Great Sachem Russell. Just previous to the meeting of the Great Council in the following year, he was appointed Great Mishinewa to fill an unexpired term and at the Council was appointed Great Sannap. In 1898 he was elected Great Junior Sagamore by a large majority. Last year he was advanced to the office of Great Senior Sagamore which he holds today.

Farmer Advertised for a Wife and Got an Experienced Helpmate.

A small advertisement in a newspaper announced the fact that Michael Collins wanted a wife. He said he was 54 years old, owned a farm at Monmouth Junction and did not want a young woman or a fool. A score of marriageable women volunteered to make him comfortable and happy.

He selected Mrs. Joanna Hege, of No. 7 Schurman street, New Brunswick, and married her Sunday evening at the parsonage of the First Methodist church. Rev. W. R. Weddespoon performing the ceremony. After the wedding Mrs. Collins said: "There is no romantic nonsense about this wedding. I have been married three times before and know what I am about. My husband wanted an experienced woman and he has one."

School Children All Have Measles.

TROLLEY CONSOLIDATION

MIDDLESEX AND SOMERSET LINES UNDER ONE NAME.

The Radel Enterprises Will be Operated as One Corporation, of Which Judge Krueger Will be the President.

Steps have been taken by the stockholders of the New Brunswick City Railway Company, the Brunswick Traction Company and the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company toward the consolidation of the three companies into one.

The plan has not as yet been fully carried out, but will be in the course of a few days, when the papers will be filed. The name of the new company is to be the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company.

The officers have not been elected but the president will be Judge Gottfried Krueger, of Newark; the vice-president, Andrew Radel, of Bridgeport, Conn., and the secretary and treasuer, E. H. Radel, of New Brunswick. These men are officers of the Brunswick Traction Company, which now controls all three companies.

The New Brunswick City Railway is the old horse car company, started here some years ago, and which came into the control of the New Brunswick Traction, who later bought out the New York and Philadelphia Company, after the two waged a bitter warfare for several months.

None of the plans of the new company have as yet been disclosed, but they will co-operate, no doubt, with the other companies in building a continuous line through the State.

A LODGE FAIR.

Daughters of Rebekah Are Conducting a Successful Event in Washington Hall.

During this week the members of Friendship Degree Lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, are holding a fair in Washington Hall for the benefit of the lodge. It opened Monday evening with a good attendance. The large hall is very tastefully decorated with American flags and bunting, and it presents an attractive picture.

On one side of the hall there is arranged one long table prettily decorated with the American colors. This table is filled with lots of fancy articles and some useful ones, too. As an extra attraction there are a number of contests, including a Morris chair, a lamp, a sofa cushion, set of dishes, chocolate set, an embroidered piece, three handsome quilts, one of which is an Odd Fellow quilt, the design being the three links. For all these things various ones are hustling and doing all they can to capture the prizes. Another means of gathering in the sheckels is through a handsomely dressed doll. To the majority she is nameless, but a few know her name and it costs something to guess it. The person who is lucky enough to guess her name can her. Of course, refreshments are served, and at a place provided one can secure soft drinks and something very palatable to eat.

Every evening there will be dancing, music for which music is furnished by Naylor's orchestra. There will be other features that will prove strong attractions. Mrs. Jacob Kittenring is the efficient chairman of the committee in charge, and she is assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Welch, Mrs. Sargeant, Joseph Sheppard, Jacob Kittenring, Miss Lizzie Dunlap, Mrs. Myers and Mrs. Theodore Kurzhals.

GUESSING SUBJECTS OF PICTURES

A Novel Entertainment at the Home of Miss Clementine Yates

One of the most enjoyable social events in the history of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church was that of Monday evening last, when Miss Clementine R. Yates entertained the society at her home. A short business meeting presided over by W. D. Voorhees, president, preceded the social. The feature of the evening was the arrangement of at least one hundred pictures placed about the various rooms. Each person was given a pad and pencil and they endeavored to guess the subjects or names of these pictures. After the guessing was brought to an end there was a comparison of notes. It was found that Mrs. I. W. Traveli had guessed the largest number correctly.

Another feature was the matching of cards on the part of the guests to find their partners. This afforded no end of amusement. During the evening piano selections were given by Stewart Pope, and this was not the least of the enjoyable features.

CITY HALL PROJECT AWAITS LEGISLATURE.

Next Step Necessary is Passage of City Hall Bill.

WILL NOT COST $100,000.

EXPECTED BOND ISSUE WILL BE FOR ONLY $40,000.

Rest of the Expense, Which Will Amount to About $60,000 in All, Will Be Covered by Collections Under Martin Act—Present Cost of City Offices and Jail Amounts to $1,400.

The project of a City Hall for Plainfield now awaits the pleasure of the New Jersey Legislature. The bill introduced into the Assembly by Assemblyman Foote, of this city, and giving the local Council the right to erect and furnish a City Hall, is being watched with interest. Until the Legislature consents to act, all the advocacy in the world of the City Hall will not be able to accomplish anything. Action is expected soon, however, and then the Common Council will take its turn.

While it is a well-known fact that one of the Councilmen is lined up in opposition to the plan of a City Hall, the statement comes from one high in authority that the Council will pass the measure and without delay. This same authority states that the City Hall will secured this year without doubt.

The last meeting of the special committee on the City Hall showed that the members were far from agreeing on the various details. No further meetings of the committee will be held until there is something definite to report regarding the action of the Legislature. Then it is expected that the question of a proper site will be finally settled and the details of the design will be fixed.

Although the proposed law regarding the City Hall permits the Council to spend $100,000 in the erection of the public building, it is not the intention of the local Councilman to expend that amount. It is expected that the lot and building will cost but $60,000, of which $20,000 will be paid by the collections under the Martin Act. The bond issue for the City Hall is expected therefore to amount to about $40,000.

At present the city is paying out in the neighborhood of $1,400 for the hire of offices and buildings that would not be needed in the event of the erection of a City Hall. Then there are certain public officials who have no office at present and others who are compelled to furnish their own offices. It is expected that the interest on the new bonds will not be over $2,000 at the start and less as the bonds are gradually paid off.

It is now admitted by the strongest advocates of the City Hall scheme that the cost to the city will be slightly increased by the City Hall but it is argued that the city will be a great gainer by the change while the present situation over at the jail and station house imperatively demands that new quarters be provided without delay. New quarters will mean increased expenses and it is argued that the extra amount will be far more effective if turned toward a City Hall.

CLERK POCKETED COURT'S ORDER.

That's the Reason Young Frazee is Still in Jail.

Judge VanSyckel Saturday night signed at his home in Trenton an order for the release of Frazee, the young man from Union township who is in jail charged by Margaret Brown, of Westfield, with breach of promise. A clerk in the office of Lawyer Dunn, in Elizabeth, went to New York Saturday night, carrying the order in his pocket. As a consequence, Frazee had to languish in jail until the forgetful clerk puts in an appearance.

John B. English, who is Frazee's lawyer, was much annoyed over the incident, after the exertions he had made to have his client set at liberty. The compromise by which Miss Brown relents and withdraws her complaint was reached late Saturday afternoon.

Pleasant Reference to a Plainfielder.

In the society notes of yesterday's issue of the New York Mail and Express, the following comments were made on the music of Townsend Fellows, son of Mrs. A. Fellows, of Westervelt avenue: "At the last regular Sunday evening concert at the Hotel Majestic Mr. Townsend H. Fellows was the vocalist, and announced that he had been asked to give an evening of old songs. Mr. Fellows' selections were greatly enjoyed, and the programme was lengthened by a number of requests from the audience for old-time favorites."

MUSIC TO AID CHARITY.

ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME RENDERED BY CLEVER ARTISTS.

Held at the Home of Miss Lillian A. Force—Candy and Cake Sale a Side Issue—Out-of-Town Talent Gave Renditions.

A very enjoyable musicale was given last night by the Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters, at the home of Miss Lillian A. Force, 82 Duer street. The affair was given to raise funds toward the support of the King's Daughters' city nurse, who does such a vast amount of good among the poor of the city, and a generous offering was received during the evening.

Previous to the beginning of the musical programme, a sale of homemade cake and candy was held in the dining room of the house. This room was decorated in red, and presented a most attractive appearance.

The musicians who took part in the evening's entertainment were P. Ludwig Conde, violinist; Miss Blanche Fellows, soprano; William H Holmes, basso; E C. Martin, baritone, and Mrs. Charles H. Hall, pianist, all of this city; Miss Emma Purdue, contralto, of East Orange; and Miss Heisenbuttel, pianist, of Brooklyn. They were assisted by Miss Aimee Emmons, reader, also of this city. Miss Lillian A. Force acted as accompanist, playing the difficult accompaniments with ease and skill, and in perfect harmony with the soloists. Mr. Conde's solos were rendered with his usual warmth and brilliancy. They were "Mazurka," by Wieniawski, "Serenade," by Pierne, and "Reverie," by Veiuxtempe, the last a particularly difficult selection, which has never been given in Plainfield before.

Miss Purdue sang "The Rosary," by Nevin, and "A Dream," by Bartlett, also two short encores, in a very pleasing and sympathetic manner. Miss Fellows' songs were "Summer," by Chaminade, and "For All Eternity," by Mascheroni, the latter with violin obligato by Mr. Conde. She also gave "Sweet Kildare," as an encore. She sang brilliantly and easily, and with much spirit and expression. Mr. Martin's solo was entitled "The Everlasting Day." He sang a ballad, "Afterward," as an encore. His selections were well chosen, and his rendering of them very enjoyable. "Who is Sylvia?" by Schubert, was Mr. Holmes' song, and his encore was a bright little piece called "Only a Ribbon." His well-trained voice and clear pronunciation made this a very pleasing number. The two pianists did excellent work, though in very different style. Mrs. Hall played Rubinstein's "Melody in F," Tschaikowsky's "Skylark," and a short encore, in a musician-like manner and with considerable originality of interpretation; while Miss Heisenbuttel's bright rendering of Schubert's "Hark, the Lark," and Chaminade's "The Flatterer," was easy and enjoyable. "Mary Elizabeth," a clever little story which combines humor and pathos, was Miss Aimee Emmons' reading, and it was given with a grace and naturalness that provoked warm applause. It was followed by a brief encore.

At the close of the programme chocolate and wafers were served by the young women of the circle, and a social hour was enjoyed by all. A very large number of guests were present.

The members of the band will net about $40 as a result of the liberal patronage of their friends. The entire supply of cakes and candies at the sale were disposed of.

LOSING NO TIME TO GET NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Board of Education Takes Necessary Preliminary Action.

SITE TO BE 80 BY 150 FEET.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE NAMED TO DO IMPORTANT WORK.

It is Probable That Plans Will be Advertised for, Liberal Prizes Being Awarded for the Best Ones—Selection of Site to be Left to Committee Composed of Messrs. Abbott, Lounsbury and Probasco.

The special meeting of the Board of Education last night was attended by all the members except Mr. Lounsbury who is still too ill to leave his home. In his absence Mr. Abbott acted as secretary.

The business transacted had to do with the proposed new High School building that is to be erected. A communication was received from the Clerk of the Common Council, which stated that the Council had concurred in the School Board's petition for the new building and had given its consent to expending the assured amount for the new building. The communication was ordered spread upon the minutes.

Then Mr. Abbott offered a resolution to the effect that as it was desirable to secure as convenient a site for the proposed new High School as possible, a committee of three be appointed to look for proper sites and to receive offers suitable for a building at least 80x150 feet.

A second resolution offered by Mr. Abbott was in effect that a committee of three be named to select a list of architects to submit plans for a High School building.

A third resolution by Mr. Abbott was that a committee of three be named to take the necessary steps to dispose of the Wadsworth property on Central avenue.

All of these resolutions were adopted. Then some discussion followed regarding architects. Mr. Abbott suggested that it might be desirable to offer three prizes for plans. The first prize to be the adoption of the plans; $150 for the second prize, and $100 for the third prize.

Superintendent Maxson said that he thought the Board would have no difficulty in securing competent architects to submit plans. With regard to the sites the committee appointed is to have full power in the matter. President Probasco then named the following committees:

Committee on sites—Messrs. Abbott, Lounsbury and Probasco.

Committee to select an architect—Messrs. Lovell, Richards and Lounsbury.

Committee to dispose of Wadsworth property—Messrs. Lounsbury, Lovell and Abbott.

At the request of Superintendent Maxson the committee on buildings was authorized to place a desk telephone in the superintendent's office at an additional cost of $12 per year. There is a wall telephone in the superintendent's office at present, but the one to be put in is for the convenience of the superintendent's clerk.

Before the Board adjourned Mr. Lovell took occasion to explain to the newspaper reporters that the reason the Board often went into executive session was for the purpose of discussing affairs of a delicate nature regarding teachers or pupils and not with any intention of keeping from the public information regarding the business of the Board. Mr. Lovell said he had been led to make this explanation because of the criticisms made from time to time in the public press about the executive sessions of the Board.

Smoker Followed Business

Three candidates were initiated at last night's meeting of the Heptasophs and the newly-elected officers were installed by District Deputy Vanderhoof. After the installation a smoker was held, at which brief speeches were made by Deputy Vanderhoof, Samuel Boss, Charles Hepburn, V. W. Nash and others. Before the meeting broke up Messrs. Laing and Boss pitched a game of quoits against Messrs. Nash and Hepburn, defeating them by a score of two to one.

WHIST TROPHY RETURNS

PARK CLUB CAPTURED IT FROM ORANGE CLUB LAST NIGHT.

Regular Four of Park Club Won by a Single Trick 15 to 14—Next Match Will be Played Here With Roseville.

The State whist trophy is back in Plainfield again. The Park Club four went to Orange last night and interrupted the triumphal progress of the Orange Whist Club by just one trick. The Park Club team won by a score of 15 to 14.

The match was played in the club rooms of the Orange Whist Club. Messrs. Foster, Rodman, Lethbridge and DeBoeque, represented the home team. Peter B. Matthews, Arthur A. Freeman, Albert Woltmann and Ralph Willis were the regular Park Club four. The members of the New Jersey Whist Club team watched the contest with interest.

It looked like a victory for the home team in the first round, Orange winning 6 to 2. Then the Parks made a brace and won the second round 8 to 2. The Orange players tried hard to recover the lead and gained the third round 6 to 5, but the margin was not large enough to over come the Parks' advantage and the Park Club won the match by a single trick, 15 to 14.

The standing of the principal clubs in the race for the State trophy is as follows: Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club, 9; Park Club, 8; New Jersey Whist Club, 6; Orange Whist Club, 5. The next match will be played Monday with the Roseville Club as the challengers.

ADVERTISING PLAINFIELD.

An Example of the Way the Reckless and False Opinions of the News are Received.

(Elizabeth Journal.)

The following startling statement comes from the Plainfield News:

It may interest the good people of this community to know that there is being worked in this beautiful city one of the most outrageous badger games that ever disgraced any community. A number of prosperous but frail victims have recently rehearsed their experiences to their friends. If the Plainfield police force had at its head a wide-awake man of energy we might hope for an attempt to put an end to the practice that is being carried on in a choice residential district to the disgrace of this city of homes. But what are we to expect as things are today?

A badger game in Plainfield! Think of it. It was a badger game in New York city that brought the notorious Fayne Moore into bad prominence and sent her husband to prison for 20 years. That such a thing should exist in Plainfield seems incredible.

CONDUCTOR RAND DEAD.

He Was Well Known to the Commuters Along the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Wm. Rand, for many years a conductor on the Central road, died early this morning at his home in Somerville after an illness of several months. For more than twenty years Mr. Rand ran the Flemington train, due in this city at 7:55, and which is now in charge of Conductor Samuel W. Johnson.

Mr. Rand formerly lived at Flemington, but a few years ago he moved to Somerville. He is survived by a wife, two daughters and one son—all of whom have attained their majority.

IT IS FELT THAT LATTER EXACTS EXORBITANT RATES.

Feltville Water Company and Summit Company to Submit Propositions That It Is Expected Will be Favorably Received — A Comparison Between Plainfield and Westfield.

For over a year past many prominent and influential citizens of Westfield have been engaged on the subject as to how they could procure cheaper water and electric light rates for Westfield.

It is said the Feltville Water Company desires to submit a proposition to furnish water, and President P. H. Bassett, of the Essex and Union Water Company of Summit, also desires to submit a proposition. All the work that has been done up to date has been done with the idea of freezing out the Union Water Company, which the citizens interested in the movement claim charges too much money for the water supply. As yet nothing has been said about electric light.

The citizens' committee is at the present time waiting for a proposition from President Bassett, of the Summit company, to furnish the town water supply. Just what kind of a proposition Mr. Bassett will make is not known. The rates charged by the Essex and Union Water Company at Summit exceed those charged by the Union Water Company at Westfield. The Union Water Company charges $6 for kitchen, $3 for laundry and $4 for bathroom. The Summit company charges $9 for kitchen, $5 for bathroom and $4 for laundry.

The Union Water Company charges $25 for hydrants. The Summit company charges $45 for less than 100 hydrants; $40 for hydrants up to 125, and $30 for more than 125 hydrants.

Just how Mr. Bassett's company can furnish water for Westfield at lower rates than Summit is not known. In order to get water from Summit to Westfield it will have to be pumped for eight miles.

The Westfield Township Committee has asked the Union Water Company to reduce the price of hydrants to $15, claiming that Plainfield only pays $15 for the hydrants here. The Union Water Company claims it can well afford to furnish hydrants to Plainfield, for in accordance with the company's agreement with the city hydrants are placed every 528 feet making ten hydrants to a mile, or $150 a year for hydrant hire to every mile of water pipe laid in the streets of Plainfield. At Westfield the hydrants are scattered promiscuously about the township, there being less than 100 hydrants in the whole town.

"OUR REGIMENT."

Professional Talent Will Entertain St. Patrick's Day at Music Hall Under Auspices of A. O. H.

A dramatic entertainment will be held at Music Hall St. Patrick's Day, March 17th, under the auspices of Division No. 4, Ancient Order of Hibernians. Special arrangements have been made with William J. Romain, of New York, to have the comedy, "Our Regiment," produced by Romain's Comedy Players. The company will include excellent professional talent recently of Daly's and Frohman's companies. Mr. Romain spent last summer here and has many friends in Plainfield. He will return to Plainfield for this performance after a trip with the Independent Theatre Company in the production of "The Storm."

Union County Bank is Dead.

There does not seem, so far as can be learned, any good foundation for the reports that the Union County Bank is to be reorganized. Business and financial men claim there is not room in Rahway for a National or a State bank. The National Bank is now an assured fact, and will open up within a month.

After Slot Machines at Elizabeth.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 21.—The police of this city are about to make a raid on slot machines, of which quite a number of a new gambling pattern have made their appearance within the past two months. The slot machines were banished from the city about a year ago, but they returned later.

THE COLIMA VOLCANO

Fierce Eruption on Mexico's Pacific Coast.

LAVA THREATENS INDIAN TOWNS.

Men Fled For Safety and Left Women and Children to Perish. Superstitious Natives Terribly Frightened.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Interesting details regarding the sudden and fierce eruption of the Colima volcano on the Pacific coast of Mexico, recently reported by telegraph from Guadalajara, Mexico, have been received by W. J. Arkell of this city, who is largely interested in copper properties in the state of Colima. The account received by Mr. Arkell describes an immense river of lava as running over the side of the volcano, which threatened to overwhelm three Indian villages near its base. These Indians fled to the Santa Ana mine in the center of Colima's copper region and sought safety from the flames by hiding in its recesses. They left their women and children to shift for themselves. A company of Mexican troops which had been promptly dispatched to the scene from Guadalajara were compelled to drive the Indians from the mine and send them back to their homes to protect their families. Much woodland property was destroyed, but the natives are poor and shiftless, and their losses, while very serious to them in many instances, aggregate only a small amount.

The government of Mexico, from whom Mr. Arkell, Mr. Netherton Hall of Chicago and Mr. Paul W. Horbach of Omaha obtained a concession of 250,000 acres in the Colima valley, generously offered to cancel the concession if the mines were injured by the volcano's eruption, but the offer was declined. One of the most serious results of the volcanic disturbance is the entire cessation of work on a tramway now being built to connect the copper mines with the port of Manzanillo. The contractors were unable to restrain the terrified Indians employed in the construction of the road, and many of them have gone to Michoacan and Jalisco and others have fled to the more distant southern states of the republic.

The telegram from Mr. Arkell's superintendent further adds that "one of the reasons for the terrible fright of the Mexican natives is because for many years a superstition has prevailed that the close of this century would be marked by devastating floods and earthquakes. It is almost impossible to dispel the belief in the minds of the people that the eruption of Colima is not the beginning of the end of all things. Unless the volcano speedily ceases its fireworks there won't be an Indian within 100 miles of the properties.

A Filipino Bandit on Trial.

MANILA, Feb. 21.—A military commission meets at Calamba today to try a Filipino member of the guerrilla band which attacked a squad of Americans Feb. 2, killing a corporal. The charge is murder and assault with intent to kill. The case is important as foreshadowing the policy of treating guerrillas as bandits. It is supposed that one reason which has hitherto deterred the American authorities from adopting this policy was that the insurgents have more than 50 American prisoners and may retaliate, although a few of them were captured while fighting.

Vienna Hears War Rumors.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The Vienna correspondent of The Standard says: "Strange rumors are afloat in Vienna, and still stranger things are undoubtedly occurring. Rumors point to impending hostilities between Bulgaria and Servia. There is no doubt that both are massing troops on the frontiers. It looks impossible, however, that a war should occur, because neither country possesses the necessary financial sinews, and neither Russia nor Austria would sanction such an outbreak."

Philadelphia Election.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—Returns from the 41 wards of the city are coming in slowly. At midnight the returns for magistrates received indicate the election of the ten Republican candidates and that the contest for the other six is very close between the Democratic and Municipal league nominees. Of the latter Ladner, Eisenbrown, Jermon and O'Brien run far ahead of their colleagues. O'Brien, being on both tickets, is certainly elected.

Hunting Gold In Pennsylvania.

WELLSVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Gold fever in its most virulent form is raging near Genesee, Potter county, Pa., about 12 miles from this place. Prospecting has been going on for some time, and pay dirt, it is claimed, has been developed. A shaft has been sunk in a hill that rises 500 feet above Elisbury creek, on the line of the Western New York and Pennsylvania railroad.

Coal Miners Strike.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 21.—The coal miners of Warrick county have struck, and public sentiment is with the strikers. Since last fall the Big Four and Wooley mines have been running with nonunion miners. These miners held a meeting Sunday night, and it was resolved to demand the scale price of the operators. This was refused, and the strike followed.

Lumber For Pulp.

WATERVILLE, Me., Feb. 21.—The lumber operations on the Kennebec river for this season are now nearly over. The total cut is 155,000,000 feet of spruce, an increase of 20,000,000. The output will be taken by three pulp paper concerns along the river.

Postmasters Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The following fourth class postmasters have been appointed: Maryland—Bartholows, O. L. Sheeler. New Jersey—North Vineland, G. W. Westphal. New York—Clarendon, L. A. Lambert.

Ludlow's Return Delayed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—General Ludlow has been obliged to delay his return to Havana until March 3 because of the task confided to him by Secretary Root connected with the organization of a war college.

Dropped Dead While Dancing.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 21.—John Pondo, aged 57 years, dropped dead while dancing at the wedding reception of his friend John Navakowski at the latter's residence, 1529 Lancaster street.

CANAL IMPROVEMENT.

Exceptions Taken to Mr. Daniels' Statement—Canal Still Needed.

ALBANY, Feb. 21.—G. H. Raymond of Buffalo, who has been prominent in all plans for canal improvement for many years, yesterday took issue with a statement made by George H. Daniels in a speech at Utica in which he asserted that there was no future for the canals as a commercial factor and that the railroads could and would do the business.

He declared this the best possible argument that they were upon the right track in expending $60,000,000 in improving the canal. These railroad men know that an improvement of the canal to move barges of 1,000 tons capacity will make possible a rate between all points reached by the canal so low that no railroad can possibly meet it. A similar prophecy was made by Cornelius Vanderbilt, the elder, back in the sixties. The largest lake vessel at that time carried 24,000 bushels of wheat. The great lakes are today floating scores of vessels that could easily put ten of those vessels inside their hulls. There are others still larger being built today that can carry over 300,000 bushels of wheat at a single trip. The great lakes make rates that no railroad on earth can compete with, and they have not reached their limit.

To Save Old Manor House.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—A movement is on foot at Yonkers, N. Y., to save the historic old manor house, now the city hall, the place where Mary Philipse resided when courted by George Washington. The present movement came about as the result of a proposition to alter the building by putting a wing on the west side to be used by the aldermen for a committee room, there being need for increased accommodations. The Yonkers Historical society has objected to the propostion, and the Daughters of the Revolution regard it as little short of sacrilege to alter this building, which was erected in 1682, which stood all through the Revolution, was the home of Frederick Philipse and was often visited by Washington while his troops in this vicinity were holding the British in check in New York.

Dr. Mary Walker's Plea.

ALBANY, Feb. 21.—Dr. Mary Walker, whose masculine dress attracted great attention yesterday at the capitol, appeared before the assembly committee on codes in favor of Mr. Maher's bill to abolish capital punishment. Those who listened to her argument were mostly women. Dr. Walker termed electrocution state judicial murder and urged the committee to abolish such a barbarous statute. She dwelt upon the Molineux case, asserted that he was innocent and denounced Cornish as an infamous falsifier. She offered to furnish the committee with a new bill in case they failed to accept the Maher bill, which would provide that persons convicted of murder on circumstantial evidence should be imprisoned for life.

Census Report Will Be on Time.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The director of the census is determined to comply literally with the law which requires the main reports of the twelfth census to be published "not later than July 1, 1902," or two years from the time the enumerators will have completed their work. Such a feat was never before undertaken or required. To facilitate doing this certain branches of the work which can be prosecuted by means now available are being undertaken in advance of the general enumeration.

Fatally Hurt In Boston's Subway.

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Patrick Monahan, aged 40, was fatally hurt in the subway last night, and death ensued at the hospital. She was at the Park street station of the subway, waiting for a car to take her to her home in Watertown, but the surging crowd pushed her off the platform directly in front of an electric car. The woman, when finally released from her dangerous position, was found to have suffered a fracture of the leg and also severe internal injuries.

French Lecturer Coming.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 21.—M. de Rignier, who is to lecture before the Cercle Francais at Harvard this coming spring, sailed from Havre last Saturday and is expected to arrive in America this week. He will deliver eight lectures in Cambridge on "Modern French Poetry." During his stay in this country he will lecture before nearly every college of prominence.

Populists In Two Factions.

LINCOLN, Feb. 21.—The Populist national committee, in session in this city, has split into two factions. The so called "middle of the road" Populists, or those supposed to be opposed to fusion with the Democratic party, dissatisfied with the organization of the committee, withdrew, formed another organization and issued a call for a national convention.

A Steel Wool Seizure.

KEEPING PROMISES.

Plainfield Appreciates Always When Promises Are Kept.

Every time you read about Doan's Kidney Pills you are told they cure every form of kidney ill, from backache to urinary disorders. How are our promises kept? Ask any citizen that has tried the treatment. Ask the woman who makes the following statement.

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger of 75 Grandview avenue, says:—"I suffered from kidney complaint for six years. I doctored and used various kinds of medicine with little or no result. I had almost a constant sharp darting pain across my back, and if I over exerted myself or took cold I suffered severely. I always felt it most when the weather was damp. There was also a kidney weakness which was very distressing and inconvenient. While in this condition I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and my son brought me a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store I started to use them at once following directions closely. They helped the pain in my back, and relieved my other difficulty. I gave all the credit for this relief to Doan's Kidney Pills for they are beyond a doubt a grand medicine for kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cent a box. Foster-Milburn Co. Buffalo, N. Y. sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name Doan's, and take no substitute.

OH, MAMMA DEAR!
did you hear that Woolston & Buckle has the finest wall paper in town. With Kaleidoscopic change on lovely backgrounds?
Daisies blossom on paper of azure blue,
Roses bud and bloom on an ashen hue,
Lillies of the valley are scattered on green
And flowers of all tints are everywhere seen
On colors exquisitely blended with care
To reproduce fruits, and flowers as fair
As if aid on by Nature's own hand,
Unique designs both opaque and round,
And Japanese figures on gilded ground
And fantistic Beardsley lines are found
In a bewildering array.
Transform your bare and hideous walls
Into dreams of beauty as profuse
As covered Granada's famous halls,
From any design your fancy may choose,
The walls of the cottage are covered with ease,
It's not our custom, but the wealthy to please.
We have beautiful papers at a low price.
Although not so gorgeous, are artistic and nice.

THE BILL MAY FAIL.

Porto Rican Tariff Measure Hangs by a Thread.

STRONG OPPOSITION IN THE HOUSE.

A Joint Conference of Several Hours' Duration on the Finance Bill Fails to Bring About an Agreement.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Again yesterday there were but three speeches in the house upon the Porto Rican tariff bill. Five hours were consumed in their delivery. Mr. Hopkins of Illinois spoke in favor of the bill and Mr. Newlands of Nevada and Mr. Swanson of Virginia in opposition to it. The speakers devoted themselves almost exclusively to the constitutional question involved and were listened to with attention. The Republican leaders are becoming nervous over the fate of the bill. They have only a majority of 14 over the opposition which is solidly opposed to the measure. Eight votes from the Republican side would therefore defeat it, and there are from 12 to 15 Republican votes in doubt. A movement for a Republican caucus is being agitated, and, although no call had been issued up to the time of adjournment, the general understanding was that one would be held tonight.

Discussion of the Philippine question was resumed for a time in the senate, Mr. Kenney speaking against the retention by the United States of the islands and urging that the Filipinos be accorded the right to govern themselves.

After the passage of 52 pension bills and a number of bills on the general calendar consideration was resumed of the Hawaiian government bill. Some amendments were agreed to, but consideration of the measure was not concluded.

The conferees on the finance bill were in session several hours, but it was announced at the adjournment that no agreement had been reached upon any point, although prospects were that an agreement might be finally reached. After the adjournment the house conferees consulted leading members in relation to the bimetallic amendment which was adopted by the senate to see if there would be any great objection to allowing it to remain a part of the bill. The time in conference was consumed entirely in discussion and in going over the bill.

The Philippine Commission.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Judge Taft, president of the Philippine commission, had a long conference with Secretary Root at the war department yesterday in regard to the proposed work of the commission. It is expected that the commission will be completely organized in the near future and that it will start for Manila about April 1. Only two members of the commission have been appointed so far—viz, Judge Taft and Professor Worcester of the original commission. Colonel Denby of the old commission, who was also invited to serve on the new commission, has declined the offer. As the commission will consist of five members it remains for the president to appoint three others. He has several distinguished men in mind and will announce his selection in a day or two.

Probable Loss of the Oakland.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—It seems quite likely that the missing Pomroy Coal company's barge Oakland, which was lost on Sunday morning off the New Jersey coast while in tow of the tug Nathan Hale, en route, from Norfolk to Providence, has gone to the bottom with all hands. The Oakland's crew of four men were Captain A. B. Crooker, 45 years old, of Boston; Cook W. H. Watson, 33 years old, of Norfolk; Engineer Corsar Ignacio Ferio, 25 years old, of Brava, Cape Verde islands, and Deckhand S. E. Hopkins, 23 years old, of Maine.

Must Not Mention Turk's Household.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The Turkish minister, Ali Ferrouh Bey, recently returned from Constantinople, accompanied by his wife and sister, and this led to several references to them in the press. The minister does not question the good intent of the writers, but he requests that the press respect the customs of his country in this particular and refrain from reference to affairs personal to his own household. He said he felt sure that a nation of such hospitality and greatness would readily appreciate this request.

Japs Inspect Cotton Machinery.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 21.—The four Japanese cotton manufacturers who are making a tour of the spinning and weaving centers of this country are in the city to visit the Fall River Iron Works company and the American Printing company, the machine shop of Kilburn, Lincoln & Co. and the Fall River Machine works. Their object is to examine the improved cotton machinery used in this country.

Jamaica's Political Crisis.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 21.—There is excitement here over the political crisis. The elected members of the legislature, as a protest against the subversion of the constitution, left the chamber in a body. Additional official members were then introduced and sworn, marking the re-establishment of crown government. The American reciprocity treaty is being considered.

More Graves In Arlington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The remains of 80 soldiers were buried at the National cemetery at Arlington today with the usual military honors. Most of these men lost their lives in Cuba during and since the Spanish war. The remainder died in the military service in Porto Rico. Their bodies were brought home on the transport Buford and other vessels.

Cold In Havana.

HAVANA, Feb. 21.—For several days the weather has been unusually cold for Havana. At 12 o'clock Monday night the temperature had fallen to 53. During the cool spell overcoats have been much in evidence, and the fact that few houses could keep up fires except for cooking purposes made matters unpleasant. Numerous cases of grip have been reported.

Two New Drydocks.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The house committee on naval affairs continued its work upon the naval appropriation bill yesterday. The committee has practically decided to place in the bill a provision for two new drydocks to cost $1,250,000 each, one at New York and one at Norfolk.

BRITISH INNINGS NOW

Boers Seem to Be Everywhere on the Run.

GOOD NEWS EVEN FROM BULLER.

His Army Has Crossed the Tugela and General Hart Occupies Colenso—British Casualties Now Over Eleven Thousand.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The Boers are leaving all the positions held by them on British territory and are concentrating for the defense of their own. Sir Redvers Buller thinks they are about to raise the siege of Ladysmith, and this is the large news of the day.

General Clements reports that the force confronting him has been greatly diminished. Ten thousand men are estimated to have gone from the Colesberg district alone. The Boers are also retracing their steps from Zululand. Thus they are relaxing their hold on all sides in order to assemble to oppose Lord Roberts. He is pressing on steadily toward Bloemfontein.

This is shown by his inconsequential telegram from Paardeberg, 50 or 60 miles away. Doubtless he is miles behind the column that is pursuing the Boers, and the next important news my be the occupation of Bloemfontein.

Nothing had been heard from the chase of Cronje for two days. Although the last words of the war office tonight were that there was no news for publication there is a strong disposition to believe that favorable information has been received, but is being withheld until the operations culminate in something more conclusive. There is an equally strong disposition to think that General Cronje has got away.

Owing to the lack of transport the British are not likely to invade Boer territory except where Lord Roberts is operating. General Buller will have to stop at the Drakensberg mountains. Probably a part of his 40,000 men will ultimately join the legions of Lord Roberts.

If, as General Buller avers, the Boers are retreating from him, then the news on every side is favorable to the British.

The following dispatch from General Buller has been received:

Nevertheless troops continue to go up. The war office thinks that the call to veterans to rejoin the colors, together with the bounty, will bring 45,000 men to the home defense. The urgency with which home defense is pressed excites some wonder.

"Blow's Farm, Tuesday, Feb. 20, 4:10 p. m.—The fusileer brigade yesterday took Hlangwana hill, the right of the enemy's position and commanding Colenso, the rest of the force advancing toward the Tugela.

"This morning the enemy had withdrawn all troops north of the Tugela and had practically evacuated Colenso. Today General Hart occupied Colenso after a very slight resistance by a weak rear guard, and we hold the line of the Tugela on the south side from Colenso to Eagle's Nest.

"The enemy seem to be in full retreat and apparently are only holding the position they occupy across the Colenso-Ladysmith railway, where it is close to the angle of the Tugela, with a weak rear guard. Hart's advanced guard is crossing at Colenso.

"Our casualties yesterday and today have, I hope, been but few."

With the casualties just reported the British losses in killed, wounded and captured now aggregate 11,102.

A dispatch to The Standard from Modder River, dated Monday, Feb. 19, and describing the relief of Kimberley, says that the maker of the gun christened "Long Cecil" at the De Beers workshop was an American named George Labram and that he was afterward killed by a Boer shell which fell in his room at the Grand hotel.

This correspondent confirms the report that the escort with the British convoy at the Riet river was re-enforced and made an unsuccessful attempt to attack the Boers in the rear. He says that Lord Roberts then ordered the wagons to be abandoned.

Colonel Plumer sent Major Bird, with 200 colonials, to attempt the capture of the Boer 12 pounder on a kopje near Crocodile pools.

Major Bird met with such a terrific rifle and shell fire that he considered the position too strong and ordered a retirement.

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Mafeking, dated Friday, Feb. 9, says:

"All business here is being conducted underground. The resident commissioner has sumptuous apartments in a subterranean bombproof.

"The Cape police have a large hall, with a piano. The Mafeking hotel dining room seats 40. All these have been dug out and are impervious to shells."

How the Convoy Was Taken.

CRADOCK, Cape Colony, Feb. 21.—Details have arrived here with respect to the capture of the British convoy at Riet river. It appears that the wagons were laagered near the drift and that the convoy was attacked by 1,800 Boers, with four guns. The shelling continued all day. One hundred and eighty wagons were captured, containing provisions and forage. Half the drivers and leaders were killed or are missing.

Fatal Gambling Affray.

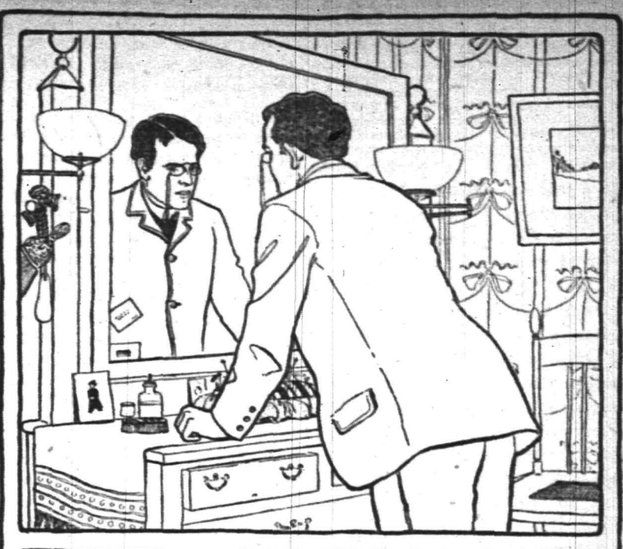
CORBIN, Ky., Feb. 21.—In a gambling affray in the "blind tiger" in this city George Harp was shot through the heart, dying instantly; Lieutenant Abe Early was shot in the elbow and back, not dangerously, and Jim Sulfridge was shot through the arm. Sulfridge says that he heard the fight commence and opening the door was shot. Lieutenant Early says that Harp shot him twice before he fired. The affair started in a dispute over a game of craps. It is uncertain who killed Harp.

The Boycott Legal.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 21.—Judge Stover, in the circuit court, declared that labor unions had the legal right to put in force a peaceful boycott against employers of nonunion labor and had a legal right to try by peaceful and fair persuasive means to induce customers of a boycotted person or firm to quit that person or firm and patronize employers of union workers.

The Kearsarge In Commission.

NEWPORT NEWS, Feb. 21.—The first class battleship Kearsarge was placed in commission with the usual ceremonies yesterday at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company's yard. Captain A. M. Folger assumed command.



TO THE MAN WHO THINKS.

LOOK yourself squarely in the face and see if you are not half ashamed to be without Ivory Soap in your house. Worse than this, your wife is without it. It is bad enough for a man, though a man often doesn't care how his comfort is mis-spelled. But a woman misses all these little helps to housekeeping. And Ivory Soap is one; its great potency makes it actually cheaper than yellow soap for general work. It floats.

Kentucky Democrats Ratify.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 21.—The Democratic members of the two houses of the legislature met in joint session at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and by a vote of 74 to 2 ratified the former proceedings by which William Goebel was declared governor and J. C. W. Beckham lieutenant governor and through which Beckham, since the death of Goebel, claims title to the office of governor. The Republican members of the legislature remained away from the joint session, having decided in caucus not to attend. In the session of the joint assembly Senator Triplett and Representative Grider voted against the ratification resolutions. Mr. Orr declined to vote. He said he had voted with the Democrats in their former action and did not think ratification of those proceedings necessary now.

Mother and Children Drowned.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Feb. 21.—The wife and two sons of Enoch Stevenson were drowned in a pond near their home at Eldora, near here, yesterday. The two boys, who were 10 and 13 years of age, were playing on the ice, when they broke through. Their screams attracted the attention of the mother. She ran on the ice close to the hole where her two sons were struggling, and in attempting to draw them from the water she also fell in. By this time the father and several of the neighbors came to the rescue, but the three were beyond human aid when taken from the water. The father in his frantic effort to save his family also broke through the ice, but was saved by the other rescuers.

Secretary Gage Speaks.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage was the guest of honor at a dinner given yesterday at the Auditorium by the National Association of Merchants and Travelers. More than 300 members of the organization and invited guests were present. There was no formal programme of toasts, and the address of Secretary Gage on the outlook was the only formal speech of the evening.

Explosion of Gas.

HAZLETON, Pa., Feb. 21.—An explosion of gas occurred yesterday afternoon in No. 4 colliery at Gowen, ten miles from here, operated by the Cross Creek Coal company. George Huda and Jacob Longenberger, miners, were entombed by a fall of coal caused by the explosion and have not yet been reached by the rescuing party. Edward Fisher, another miner, was badly injured.

Shot Wife and Self.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Feb. 21.—William Ulmer, a tailor, shot his wife in the left cheek, causing a severe but not serious wound. He then shot himself dead. The couple had frequent quarrels on account of Ulmer's failure to provide for the wife and two children. Ulmer had been out of work for a couple of weeks. He was 45 years of age. The couple had been married 17 years.

Large Automobile Orders.

AMESBURY, Mass., Feb. 21.—A representative of a New York automobile company is in town and has placed with local carriage manufacturers orders for the delivery of from 20 to 30 finished automobile bodies per day for six months. As the cost of these bodies will be from $100 to $150 each the contract will amount to half a million dollars or more.

New German Cable.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—The German foreign office confirms the report that Germany intends laying a cable to Kiauchou and later extending this to the Carolines and connecting the German cable with the American Philippines cable.

THE NICARAGUAN CANAL.

It Can Be Built Only Under the Eyre-Cragin Concession.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Edward F. Cragin, who two years ago took a number of engineers and contractors to Nicaragua over the route of the proposed interoceanic canal, has issued a statement declaring that the legislation pending in Washington over the Hay-Pauncefote treaty can in no way affect the Eyre-Cragin concession. He says:

"You may make me responsible for the statement that the United States cannot construct the canal except under the Eyre-Cragin concession. The sole authority consists of a contract between the government of Nicaragua on one side and Edward Eyre and myself on the other, executed at the national palace, Managua, Oct. 31, 1898. This agreement sets aside all prior concessions and also stipulates that no subsequent grant can be issued by Nicaragua. We paid $100,000 on account of the contract, which provides that we shall construct the canal, and that is what will be done.

"Our programme is to go quietly ahead, pay Nicaragua the $400,000 more within the prescribed time, raise the necessary capital, construct the canal and operate it."

A TIEUP IN KENTUCKY.

Present Plans Indicate a Suspension of State Business.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 21.—By a method of procedure decided upon by the Republicans every state office will be tied up by Saturday, and no state business will be transacted after that date and for some time to come. The state election board will decide the minor state office contests on that day, and its verdict will unseat the Republicans. An injunction will at once be asked for by the Republicans, restraining the Democrats from taking possession of the minor offices, and this action will go to the court of appeals and from there to the United States supreme court.

Until the final decision is reached every minor state office from auditor to treasurer will be tied up. None of the 119 county officers in the state will turn in revenues until it is decided who the legal officers are. This will create a tangle that will paralyze state business, and no one can see a way out of it.

Crew Clung to a Mast.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—The tugboat L. Luckenbach steamed into the Delaware breakwater with four sailors, the crew of the barge General McClellan, on board, almost frozen to death. The barge was caught in the gale of last Saturday night and sank in 12 fathoms of water about eight miles southwest of Five Fathom bank. The barge was trying to make the breakwater. She was not able to withstand the gale long and went to the bottom with about ten feet of her foremast sticking out of water. Upon this the men climbed, and, with the water dashing over them, clung there until late on Sunday afternoon, when the Luckenbach came along and took them off.

Department Stores Win.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 21.—The supreme court, in an opinion by Judge Robinson, all the judges concurring, declared the department store law passed by the last legislature unconstitutional and void for the reason that it is clearly class legislation and because the act is incomplete and is not a law and does not constitute a rule of conduct, and for the further reason that the act imposes an occupation tax as a license to do business. The law applied to St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph and the stores in those cities employing a specified number of clerks. This feature is objected to in the opinion as class legislation.

Sleeping Girl Wakes at Last.

MONTREAL, Feb. 21.—Miss Eva Roch, Montreal's sleeping girl, whose case has puzzled the Canadian doctors, has awakened from the trance into which she fell on Christmas eve. Over a year ago the young woman fell into a trance which continued for 38 days. She was finally restored to consciousness by the application of red hot irons. She continued in camparatively good health until Christmas eve, when she again became unconscious. She recovered consciousness once, but relapsed after a few hours. Her case was then given up as hopeless, but two days ago she surprised her relatives by showing signs of animation.

The Question at Issue.

Messrs. VanHerwerden and Mellick, whose statements in reference to the criticism of the Common Council in taking action of the proposition to bond the city for the proposed new High School building were printed in The Daily Press yesterday, seem to misapprehend the question at issue.

The point that has been raised by The Daily Press in criticism of the Council's action is not that the members of that body voted without being as well advised of the facts presented by the Board of Education as they should have been; not that better school facilities are not needed here; not that the Board of Education are not justified in undertaking the project; and finally—and firmly—not that The Daily Press is seeking to hamper, by its criticism, the work of improving the bulwark of an enlightened and progressive community—the public school system.

What we have contended in this matter is simply this: That the Common Council owes it as a duty to the taxpayers of this city not to authorize the expenditure of any sum of money—and especially of such a great sum as $100,000—by issuing bonds against the credit of the city, without first permitting the people of the city to know that it is contemplated. We hold this opinion because if the Council can justify itself in acting contrary to this view once, it can do so twice, thrice or as many times as it sees fit. Such a practice, it will be admitted, would be an assumption and exercise of power that would not be tolerated in the long run.

Under the proposed new school law drafted by a special commission, of which our talented and esteemed townsman, S. St. John McCutchen, is a member, there is stipulation provided with reference to the apportionment of public school moneys that will tend more than anything else to make compulsory education an actual fact. Under this proposed law the public money will be divided among the various districts of the State on the basis of the attendance of pupils. The larger the enrollment and attendance the greater the receipts will be from the State government to aid in reducing the expense which each particular community has to shoulder. To receive the fullest benefit of this arrangement it will behoove the local officials to see to it that the number of children who are not in school, and should be there, is kept at a minimum. This will result in extraordinary efforts being made to compel every child to receive proper instruction in the public schools.

There has been considerable talk of late about a permanent memorial to the late Vice-President Hobart, and it is probable that a bill making an appropriation for such a purpose will soon appear in the Legislature. There is some difference of opinion as to the exact form this memorial should take. Some are in favor of hanging an oil portrait of the dead Vice-President among the portraits of the other distinguished Jerseymen that now hang upon the walls of the rotunda of the State House. They recall the portrait of himself by a famous artist which Mr. Hobart presented to President McKinley some time ago, and they suggest that a duplicate of that be secured. Others talk of a bronze bust of Mr. Hobart to be placed upon a pedestal in the centre of the rotunda floor where everyone who enters the Capitol will see and admire it. Just which of these two plans will be adopted does not appear at this time.

A bill has been introduced in Congress to protect the right of suffrage and prohibit corporations from contributing to campaign funds. The bill provides that it shall be unlawful for any officer or officers or those employed by any corporation, company or trust to either directly or indirectly contribute funds for conducting the campaign of any political party. A violation of this law shall be punished by a fine of not less than $1,000 nor more than $5,000. An additional penalty of imprisonment for one month or as long as one year is also attached to the bill. Some members of Congress think that the bill will undoubtedly pass, but they doubt whether the measure will have any effect in preventing the abuse at which it is aimed. They state that in cases of this kind it is utterly impossible to secure evidence enough for a conviction.

According to the Trenton correspondent of the Elizabeth Journal among those who exercised their influence to kill Assemblyman Cooper's bill reducing the rate of interest to five per cent. in the Legislature were J. Frank Hubbard and J. B. Coward, of this city, both of whom are members of the board of directors of the City National Bank. The Journal correspondent says that they worked among the members of Assembly and "declared it would be the worst thing that could happen to the poor man who wants to borrow money on a farm or real estate mortgage of any kind. It is difficult now, they said, to get loans on real estate, and it would be much worse if the five per cent. bill were passed."

According to official reports given out at Washington, New Jersey contains more inventive genius than any other State in the Union except Connecticut. Connecticut maintained its traditional lead in the matter of invention, 789 patents having been issued to its residents, being one for each 945 inhabitants, the highest proportion of any State. New Jersey came next, with one patent for each 1,455 inhabitants, the total patents issued to residents of the State being 993.

Governor Voorhees has reappointed Robert S. Green, of Elizabeth, as one of the Democratic members of the State Board of Taxation, thus setting at rest the rumors that Mr. Green was to be shelved by the Governor in order to furnish a berth for Former Senator Marsh, of Elizabeth, who, though differing with Mr. Voorhees on political issues, is a warm personal friend. The reappointment of Mr. Green gives satisfaction to the Democrats.

What weighty and momentous measures State Legislatures have to deal with! Up in New York State a bill has been introduced which aims to prohibit women from wearing hat pins more than three inches long, and down here in New Jersey a bill has been introduced to establish municipal water troughs along highways.

Ballot box stuffers are getting better pay than they bargained for in Philadelphia. They are being furnished with all the necessaries of life for a period of two years, with the pleasures of the lock-step thrown in.

Old Sol was on hand bright and early to destroy the handiwork of the Storm King.

AS A -:- -:- CARPET STORE

This establishment stands easily in the lead. It is not brag, but simply honest information when we tell you we have more yards of carpet, more new patterns, more different kinds and a larger assortment of each kind than can be found in any other place hereabouts. The question of price lays toward our leadership, too; for we buy direct from the mills and buy in just about four times the quantity that most stores can. This gives us lower prices and oftentimes the exclusive sale of many patterns—and of course we are wise enough to obtain the exclusive sale on the handsomest patterns. Then too, we buy only from makers of the highest reputation, firms with years of honest dealing behiud them. To sum it all up in a few words the wise man or woman who wishes to economize in price and pick from largest and best choice needs must visit us. The carpet section is on the third floor, easily reached by the elevator, and it is light, bright and comfortable to make your selections in. The newest Spring patterns came in yesterday and invite inspection today for the first time.

NEW RAILROAD IN HAYTI.

It Will Do Much for the Development of the Little Republic.

HAYTI is slowly recovering from the effects of the last revolution which depleted the government coffers and left a deplorable business depression in its wake. Needed capital is now going into the island and stimulating its industries, cultivating its rich tropical lands and building permanent public improvements.

Among the latter is the railroad now being constructed from Cape Haytien to La Grande Riviere. This is the only railroad in the republic and promises to become an important feature in the development of the country. United States Consul Livingston, at Cape Haytien, says of this enterprise:

"The concession for this enterprise, as amended and now in force, is the most liberal one ever granted by the Haytian government, allowing the formation of a joint stock company in which foreigners not only can hold shares, but are able through their holdings to acquire a controlling interest. One of the most active members of the syndicate is an Englishman, a merchant residing at Cape Haytien. All material for the construction and equipment of the road is admitted free of duty. The concession is for 60 years, and the government offers to guarantee an interest of six per cent. on $24,000 per kilometer in the construction. The government also grants to the company for a period of 20 years the tolls of an iron bridge at the Cape Haytien terminus, which at present amount to $800 a month in Haytian currency. The distance from Cape Haytien to La Grande Riviere is only 15 miles, but the concession includes the privilege of constructing branch roads to Ouanaminte, a distance of 35 miles and to Limbe, about 19 miles. The region through which these roads are to pass is one of the most fertile plains on the island, adapted to the cultivation of all the tropical products for which Hayti is noted. The government lands granted to the company include 4,000 acres specially suited to banana growing. Deposits of iron and coal have been discovered within easy access of the road, for the exploitation of which concessions can be secured by the company. The company is now soliciting capital to complete these roads, cultivate the fertile lands included in its grants, and develop the iron and coal mines in the neighborhood."

NATIVE HUTS IN THE INTERIOR OF HAYTI.

COAL FAMINE IN EUROPE.

Conditions That Have Produced an Unusual Scarcity of Fuel.

PRACTICALLY all of Europe is suffering from a coal famine at the present time. In England, which supplies much of the coal for the continent, the price has jumped for coal in London from $4.83 a ton to the enormous price of $19.30, and is not procurable at that in London. The effect has been to stop all exports, and France, Germany and Russia are unable to supply the unusual demands made upon their mines.

The Transvaal war is responsible for the jump in the price of English coal, both at home and abroad. Many of the British miners have been withdrawn from the collieries to join the army, and the coal that those at work are getting out cannot all be transported to the points of consumption, because the government has requisitioned all available rolling stock for the transportation of troops and war material. The small supply that is being shipped from the mines is taken by the government for use in the ordnance foundries at Birmingham, Aldershot and Woolrich, and for the depot at Southampton.

In both France and Germany coal syndicates control the market, and supply fuel on annual contracts. But while at the present time they are unable to fill their contract orders, they have the market so thoroughly under control, because of their contracts, that they will not permit outside buying. In France thousands of factory employes are at present out of work, because of the scarcity of fuel, and the government is considering drastic measures to relieve the situation. Ordinarily, the best of the English Cardiff coal is sold in France, delivered in bunkers in bond, at $8.50 per ton, but it cannot be procured at any price at the present time. At Marseilles the local port charges, custom house dues and lighterage increase the price 85 cents per ton, if the coal is to be delivered to vessels in port, or $1.08 if intended for the inland trade.

In Germany the coal trust has sent the price of coke up from $3.80 per metric ton to $9.99. But so strong is the hold on the trade, because of the contract system, that it is practically impossible to supply the demand with outside fuel. These contracts bind the consumer not to use any foreign coal or coke, and the penalties covering this feature of the contract are heavy. But in addition to these penalties the trust can, under its contracts, decline to fill future orders under existing contracts with firms who violate this feature of the contracts, so that German consumers must either procure all their coal outside or none of it.

In Russia the demand for coal so far exceeds the supply that the government has repealed the duty for the time being, but even that offers but little relief, so long as the scarcity in other European countries continues.

Mediterranean marine interests are feeling the effects of the coal famine. At Malta, the principal coaling station of the Mediterranean, it is almost impossible to procure coal at any price. At this port most of the coal sold to ships is imported from England, but that supply has been practically shut off. During the latter part of the past year the United States government bought coal at Malta for naval purposes for $4.72 per ton, for which the dealer has to pay $6.38, but the contract at that price expired with the end of the year.

FRENCH INTERESTS IN TRANSVAAL.

Realization of Their Extent Has Added Fuel to the Fire of French Hatred for England.

ONE of the recent reports of the French consul at Pretoria has done much to add fuel to the already burning fire of French hatred for England in connection with the war in South Africa. The report has been given wide circulation in the French press and has been liberally commented upon by French editors. Probably the greatest of French economists, Paul Leroy Beaulieu, comes out with a statement that the French possess not less than $300,000,000 in Transvaal mining property, and that the French, German and Dutch stockholders own probably more than one-half of the mines.

The report of the French consul says that indications are that should the Boers be successful in the conflict now being waged, they will be inclined to favor France in preference to other nations when the war is over. Up to the present time France has obtained but a small percentage of the business of the Boer republic. Of a total of $51,145,000 of imports during 1898, France supplied but $1,384,000 worth, and $386,000 of this was for war munitions.

At the present time French stockholders in the Transvaal mines are moving for a combination of French, German and Dutch interests. The foundation of the movement is the belief that if the English are victorious the cost of the war will be taxed upon the mines; that if the fortunes of war incline to the side of the Boers, a heavy tax may be imposed upon outside stockholders, which nonbelligerents wish to avoid. MAX OWEN.

Kinsmen Across the Border.

Many Americans gladly acknowledge their kinship with the Anglo-Saxons beyond the water, but we must remember that we are still more literally cousins of the great people to the north of us. For a century and a quarter Canadians and Americans have intermarried freely, and the border cannot divide ties of blood. Not long ago the dispatches from South America announced the death of Lieut. Wood, of Halifax, the first Canadian to die for the British empire in the Boer war. It is an interesting comment on our relations with Canada to note that this young lieutenant was the great-great-grandson of Zachary Taylor, who was a major in the war of 1812, and fought against the British with all the zest for fighting that was in him, and that his great-grandfather was Jefferson Davis, who, as a young man, married Taylor's daughter. It is usually represented as a runaway match, but Mr. Davis himself wrote that it was nothing of the sort. In spite of such American antecedents, Lieut. Wood lived a loyal subject of the queen, and died for her majesty's empire.—Youth's Companion.

DINING IN A CLOCK.

Sixteen London People Enjoy a Unique Experience.

Took a Meal Inside the Works of What Is Considered the Biggest Timepiece Ever Constructed in the Old World.

One of the most gigantic clocks erected in recent years has just been swung at the London terminus of the Great Eastern railway. This stupendous piece of mechanism, operated by electricity, may almost claim to rank as the world's eighth wonder. A day or two ago a party, to mark the finishing touches which had been lent to the great timepiece, took dinner in the inside of the works, and as they were stylish London folk, several of them being ladies, fashionably attired, it is obvious that it was necessary to do much squeezing in order to seat the party, wait at the table, and so forth.

The clock is second in size to Big Ben and is regarded by visitors to London almost as one of the sights of the metropolis just now, on account of its novelty.

Clockmakers say that it is London's biggest clock and that it should not be compared with Big Ben, which is simply a machine. Of course they know all about such things. The clock is a wonder, anyway, and has now become one of the institutions of the biggest city in the world.

It is a massive affair, composed of solid iron and steel, weighing two tons and measuring 21 feet in diameter.

The building of the clock occupied a period of 12 months and its makers say that it will last centuries.

The big clock, like everything big and active, has a brain, which is nothing less than an ordinary pilot clock set up on a neat shelf in the telegraph department, which is the most important part of the establishment, as it regulates everything going on with a business, not to say a mathematical, nicety. By means of telegraph wires the big clock is corrected with 20 other clocks in the terminus and the variation of a few seconds between either of them is thus promptly corrected.

QUAINT DINNER PARTY.
(Feasting in a Monster Clock Just Installed at London.)

It is cleaning day inside the big timepiece every six weeks, and the operation has to be performed by a clockmaker of experience.

The mechanism of the clock, says the Cincinnati Commercial, is simply marvelous and has engaged the best talent in London in the watchmaking line in its construction for 12 months, as I have before stated. In many respects it is the most wonderful clock in the world, but it would take an expert in clocks to expound those details.

The timepiece is swung upon heavy girders, which have been built into the roof of the depot to accommodate it. The heavy bars and rings upon which it hangs are a study in themselves and it is doubtful if anything like them were ever cast before.

Owing to the trouble which has resulted in other clocks from the reflection thrown by the hands when the electric lights are lit, and the consequent mistakes that people have made in time, there is no glass used in front of the opal dials. The hands, however, are so massive that no hurricane will ever blow them off, although the mechanism of the works is as delicate as that of a 500-pound chronometer and the entire massive arrangement can be swung by the slightest touch of its exterior.

The clock was brought into the terminus on two of the heaviest railway trucks and placed exactly beneath the place from which it was to be suspended.

Then ensued the most careful stringing of it into iron ropes that was ever given to a huge mechanical apparatus before, and after some ten hours of tugging and hauling and puffing and blowing the titan was in its place ticking away serenely in view of the vast multitudes who throng the terminus night and day.

An Old Adage Verified.

What is one animal's meat may be truly another's poison. Mr. J. E. Harting lately reported to the London Linnean society several cases in which parrots had been poisoned by eating parsley; and he recalled that, on the other hand, the berries of the yew and privet, held to be poisonous to man, are greedily eaten by blackbirds, thrushes and other birds. Cases are on record, however, of the poisoning of pheasants by yew leaves. The immunity of goats from yew poisoning is remarkable, in view of the fact that deer and cattle have died after eating the leaves, although a suggested explanation is that the dried leaves eaten by cattle differ from the green leaves eaten by goats.

VEST WILL RETIRE.

Senior Senator from Missouri Not a Candidate for Reelection.

He Has Served the Nation Faithfully and Well, and Has Made Many Friends Among His Political Opponents.

[Special Washington Letter.]

IT IS better to give flowers to the living than to strew them upon the graves of the dead. It is better to build monuments of love and appreciation in the hearts of the living than to erect monuments to the dead. Therefore it is not improper, while Senator George Graham Vest of Missouri still lives, to say that contemplation of his life brings to memory the words of Longfellow:

"Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime."

Senator Vest is now in his seventieth year, and has publicly announced that he will retire from public life at the conclusion of his present term in the senate, which will expire on March 3, 1903. His career has been wonderful, and fully warrants the use of the lines of Longfellow just quoted. He has been a great lawyer, a great orator, a great legislator, a brilliant debater, and will leave upon the congressional records the impress of genius and wonderful intellectual acquirements.

When Senator Ingalls of Kansas was regarded as the most capable debater and orator on the republican side of the senate, he said to the narrator: "I have perfect self-confidence and am ready to meet any senator in debate, believing that I can hold my own. But I do not intend to seek any controversy with Vest. There is a man who is so fully equipped upon all subjects that he would keep any antagonist busy keeping track of his interrogation points"

Senator Vest is a small man, physically, being only five feet four inches in height. His neck is short, and his head is so close to his shoulders that he always had the appearance of being slightly stoop shouldered. His health has failed during the past year, and hence he is rather slender, although formerly he was rather heavy for a man of his weight. His voice is pitched in the upper register, and if he had been a singer tenor would have been his part. In uttering vehemently his views on national affairs his voice is sometimes exceedingly shrill, and yet not unpleasant.

The friendships of public men would surprise the plain people of the land who seldom have opportunity to see their distinguished representatives and senators gathered together in the national capital. Although Senator Vest has been one of the most sarcastic and drastic orators on the democratic side of the senate chamber for well-nigh a quarter of a century, some of his warmest personal friends have been republicans. Senators Conkling of New York, Blaine of Maine, Mahone of Virginia, Quay of Pennsylvania, Allison of Iowa, Spooner of Wisconsin, Davis of Minnesota, and Hanna of Ohio, have enjoyed social intimacy with Senator Vest, and all of them hold him in affectionate regard.

During the spring of 1892, just before the national conventions were held, it was the good fortune of the writer to hear an extemporaneous speech from Senator Vest on a pending pension bill, in which he attacked the republican party and its individual leaders in a vehement manner. After his speech was concluded, he was in the senate restaurant with Senator Davis of Minnesota, who said: "Vest, you spoke so earnestly that I rather expected you to bring on a regiment of confederate veterans and whip all the Yankees on earth." Senator Vest smiled, and replied: "I think that all the Yankees on earth ought to have been whipped, but you were too many for us."

In the course of his speech, Senator Vest said: "Because I was a member of the confederate congress I have held my tongue during all these years while extravagant pension appropriations have been made, and I can hold my peace no longer. You are taking money out of the treasury to catch the soldier vote, and it is not right. I am ready to vote pensions to all union soldiers who were wounded or who suffer from disease because of their service for their country, but I am opposed to indiscriminate pension legislation for the purpose of politically catching the soldier vote, and I shall vote against this bill."

Senator Ingalls of Kansas, referred to above, originally came to congress with credentials which were regarded as questionable. Considerable money had been used in the Kansas legislature to promote the reelection of Senator Pomeroy, who was defeated, and Ingalls elected to his place. Senator Vest knew this, and he used the fact with telling effect one day. Senator Vest knew facts covering so many incidents, and was so ready to use them, that other debaters were chary of wrangling with him. On one occasion Senator Ingalls sarcastically alluded to the former service of Senator Vest in the confederate congress, and the little Missourian instantly retorted: "But it never happened to me to have my credentials questioned in this or any other body."

In the senate corridor one day last week the senator said to the correspondent: "I am the sole surviving member of the confederate senate. All of the others have died, one after another. There are only eight members of the United States senate who served in this body when I came here, who are now living. Death works with energy and pertinacity. The grim reaper will soon claim me also; and I am ready to meet him at any moment."

During the past 20 years numerous corporations have insistently endeavored to secure rights of way for railroads in the Yellowstone national park, and Senator Vest has been the most faithful guardian of that wonderful reservation. On one occasion, when urged to permit an electric line to be run across the northeastern corner of the park, Senator Vest said:

"While I live not a single mile of rails shall be laid in that park, because a precedent would be formed, and the park would be destroyed in a generation. People go to Europe to see the well advertised beauties of nature there. But the Yellowstone national park is the greatest and most wonderful creation on the face of this earth. It must and shall be preserved in all its beauty, just as it was placed there by the hand of God; and one day it will be a health resort where valuable lives may be prolonged. No vandal hands shall mar it for commercial purposes."

The great congressional library building had in Senator Vest one of its original and unswerving champions. Senators Voorhees, of Indiana, and Morrill, of Vermont, also championed the congressional library bill. Both of them have gone before, and Senator Vest gave them credit for their work in this regard in delivering eulogies upon them in the senate chamber. Senator Morrill lived to be 85 years old, and in alluding to that fact Senator Vest quoted these lines of Shakespeare:

"Let me not live
After my flame lacks oil, to be the snuff
Of younger spirits whose apprehensive senses
All but new things disdain."

He will have his wish unless his health shall mend, and when his time shall come there will pass from the political arena and from the forum of legislation one of the ablest and noblest of them all. Although gifted with superior talents, Senator Vest possessed eminently the genius of labor. During his entire career, even in young manhood, he was a student, a close inquirer into details of law and fact. He possessed concentration, or oneness of aim. He always believed that the talent of success consisted in doing well whatever was undertaken, without thought of fame. He never believed in good or bad luck, but said: "The lucky dog is the one that hunts for the bones; and hunts till he gets them."

Personally honest, Senator Vest always believed in honesty by the government in all of its dealings. He once said: "Our people take pride in the fact that the national debt was paid after the civil war. As a matter of fact the national debt has never been paid, and never will be. The rich men who loaned money to the government have received their money back again, and with interest. But the poor people who have claims against the government cannot get justice. Year after year they come to the congress begging that bills may be passed, giving them their just dues. But their bills are never passed. They hope on and hope ever until they die in poverty because the government will not be honest with them. If all of the just claims against the government were paid, it would take $500,000,000, and maybe $1,000,000,000."

Patience is a virtue possessed by few public men after they have once firmly secured exalted position. But until this day, while he is aging and somewhat feeble, Senator Vest has the patience to listen to the cause of every man who requires his attention or believes that he can give him aid. He has always claimed that a public servant should be a willing servant of the public, and that every citizen has a right to expect willing service from every senator, representative or other officer of the government.

Senator Vest has been a superior legislator, a typical senator and a typical American citizen. SMITH D. FRY.

Origin of Khaki Cloth.

War in South Africa has greatly increased the manufacture of khaki cloth, over 15,000 persons now being engaged in making the cloth for British soldiers. The word "khadi" is of Hindoo origin and means dust or clay-colored. The cloth is made entirely of cotton and is exceedingly durable. It was probably first used by English soldiers in India and was also used by them in their Egyptian campaigns. The color is not attractive, but the cloth makes the best of garments for wear in a hot country.

Miss Beulah Waters, of East Third street, is able to be out again after being detained at home for sometime by illness.

The many friends of Mrs. William A. Woodruff, of East Second street, will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from a recent attack of nervous prostration.

Mrs. Seeley Edsall, of Sandford avenue, who has been a sufferer from rheumatism for sometime, is now improving, and she hopes to be able to go out before a great while.

Big Sale of Postage Stamps.

The largest sale of postage stamps to any one person at one time in the history of the Plainfield postoffice was made yesterday by a Plainfielder. The amount of the purchase was $600. Inquiries at the office would not disclose the name of the purchaser or for what particular purpose they were purchased. If more Plainfield people would buy their stamps here instead of New York it would not be very long before Plainfield would have a first-class office.

A Patriotic Supper.

Quite elaborate plans are being made for the Martha Washington supper to be held at Hope chapel Friday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the chapel. Supper will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock and an excellent menu has been prepared. It will be followed by an entertainment.

Mr. Moody's Authorized Biography.

In accord with the expressed desire of Mr. Moody, his biography is now being prepared by his son, William R. Moody, and will be published by subscription from the press of Fleming H. Revell Company. Naturally this will be the only work having the approval of the family or being in any sense authorized or authentic. Announcements having appeared of several "Lives" some even claiming to be "official" of "the only work approved by the family and friends," it has become a painful necessity to discredit all such works and to state that any other than the authorized biography referred to will be issued not only without the approval but regardless of the urgent protest of the family and friends.

All statements that Mr. Moody's schools or family are interested in, or are to be aided by any book other than the official work are most misleading and evidently intended only as catch-penny devices.

Mr. Moody was particularly anxious that the errors and misrepresentations of former unauthorized works and misleading newspaper reports should be corrected in an authentic work prepared by his son, thus obviating the multiplication of partial and inharmonious biographical sketches. It was universally known that Mr. Moody entertained a strong aversion to the circulation of protrait of himself during his life. "It is time enough for these as well as for a biograph when I am gone," he often said. The family portraits and many other illustrations have therefore been most carefully guarded and these will only appear in this authorized work. The work is to be sold by subscription.

—This evening at the Park Club the regular club dance will be the attraction.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

Culhane, Chace and Weston's Minstrels—appear at Music Hall tomorrow—Washington's Birthday—afternoon and night and will give a performance in every way equal to the best ever given in this city. The singing contingent of this company is away ahead of the usual run of minstrel companies, the work of the Imperial Four meeting with unstinted applause. The first part is bright and lively, Wm. H. Chace keeping the audience in roars of laughter. The olio is made up of bright and sparkling novelties, Bram and Terrill in a musical act meeting with great approval. The DeElmer Trio in a comedy acrobatic act creates no end of fun while on the stage and the well-known Three St. Felix Sisters in a black face singing and dancing act are a great feature. The magnificent costuming of the act, the sweet singing and the graceful dancing has never been excelled in our city and the music by the Challenge Orchestra is highly appreciated. The matinee performance will begin at 2:15 p. m. tomorrow. Look out for the parade at noon.

* * * * * *

The Macauley-Patton Company in a repertoire of new plays will be seen at at Music Hall all next week at popular prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents, matinees Wednesday and Saturday only. Every performance is as advertised, positively continuous, specialties being timely interpolated at proper times. In this feature at least the Macauley-Patton Company excel all other repertoire organizations. Long waits are too monotonous in these days of improved stage craft and up-to-date performances, and the average audience will not stand, or more properly "sit" for a production that from the start to the finish does not go with a vim. This is what characterizes the Macauley-Patton Company. The opening play will be a beautiful pastoral comedy, "The Minister's Son," by W. B. Patton. Reserved seat sale opens Friday, and ladies can get seats for 15 cents if reserved before 7 p. m. Monday.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A precocious three-year-old, whose mother had impressed with the idea that Rev. Dr.————was a very good man, and therefore destined to go to heaven, was heard to remark as the minister started for the train bound for New York "Mama, I guess Dr.————is now on his way to heaven; he's got his dressing case!"

At the meeting of the Epworth League of St. James' Methodist church in New Brunswick the single girls and unmarried young men gave rhymed reasons "why we have never married." Specimen reasons were as follows:

Miss Angie Wray was waiting for a mission to be revealed.

Robert Lawrence was single because he had not met a girl he wanted.

Miss Annie Lyons was single because "you can't count on men."

Daniel Wray had not married because he preferred single life.

Edward Hubbard knew too much about the ways of girls.

Paul Strohauer said it was because he was not appreciated.

LADYSMITH RELIEVED?

Reported That News of its Relief Received at Windsor Castle—Not Confirmed.

(Special to The Daily Press).

London, February 21.—No news had been received here up to 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in regard to General Cronje's Army, though there was a persistent rumor that an engagement was in progress.

At a meeting of the Windsor Town Council today it was stated that a message had been received at Windsor Castle announcing the relief of Ladysmith.

It is reported that Col. Plumer, who is moving to the relief of Mafeking, surprised the Boers in a night attack at Crocodile Pools. The Boers were entrenched on a steep, thorny ridge. While struggling through barbed wire entanglements the British alarmed Boer dogs.

The barking of the dogs brought the Boers out and they began firing. The British then made a bayonet charge and the Boers exploded dynamite mines. The British retreated.

Harry Frszee, the young man of Lyons Farm who fell in love with Margaret Brown, of Westfield, and last Friday found himself in jail charged by Miss Brown with breach of promise, has been liberated through the efforts of his counsel, John English. He succeeeded in effecting a settlement with Miss Brown.

Frazee says it was his first effort at lovemaking and he thinks it will be his last. He claims he would have married Miss Brown long ago, but they could not agree on the minister, as he wanted a Protestant clergyman and she insisted upon a priest.

The girl says she has waited so long for Frazee that she does not care for him anyway. He says he is of the same opinion.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Feb. 21—At a conference of Engineers Brown and Bowles, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, with the streets and roads committee of the Common Council it was stated that the company would bear the actual expense of elevating its tracks through New Brunswick, but that the city must defend damage suits that may be brought by property owners. CROSSED THE GREAT DIVIDE AS SHE SLEPT.

Mrs. Anna L. Spencer Found Dead In Bed Yesterday.

RETIRED IN GOOD HEALTH.

SHE WAS A DEVOTED MEMBER OF HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

County Physician Wagoner Decided That Death was Due to Apoplexy—She was Fifty-Nine Years Old and a Native of This State—Leaves Three Sons, Her Husband Having Died Sometime Ago.

The sudden death of Mrs. Anna L. Spencer, of New York, which occurred early yesterday morning at the home of her father, Alfred Bonnell, of Manning avenue, will be a severe shock to her many Plainfield friends and acquaintances. Mrs. Spencer came to Plainfield about two weeks ago to visit her father and she had been in her usual excellent health. She retired Wednesday evening in the best of health, but as she failed to get up yesterday morning at the customary time, members of the family went to her room to awaken her. It was then discovered that she had died during the night. Coroner DeMott was summoned, who in turn notified County Physician Wagoner, of Somerville. The latter decided that death was due to apoplexy and he gave a burial permit.

She was a woman of rare Christian qualities, and a devoted member of the Episcopal church. For many years she resided on Duer street in the house afterwards occupied by Thomas R. Crosley. She and the other members of the family attended Holy Cross church and all were prominently identified with its interest. During their residence here Mrs. Spencer's husband, who was a New York business man, died. Three sons were born to them, Howard and Tiffany, who have been living with their mother in New York, and William, who resides in California. Mrs. Spencer also leaves a father, Alfred Bonnell, who is in his nineties; a sister, Miss Henrietta Bonnell, and a brother, George Bonnell, all of whom reside on Manning avenue.

Mrs. Spencer was a native of this State, and was in the fifty-ninth year of her age. For a number of years she resided in New York, but frequently visited in this city, where she had a host of friends. She was a woman possessing a lovable disposition and endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact. The loss to the family is a severe one, and among her many friends her death will leave a vacant place hard to fill. Announcement of the funeral services will be made later.

NOW THE GREAT SACHEM.

William Newcorn, of Plainfield, Elevated to a High Position in Councils of Red Men.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Feb. 23—The forty-ninth State Council of the Improved Order of Red Men convened at Association Hall yesterday morning.

The report of the Great Chief of the Records Daniel M. Stevens showed 16,150 members in the State at the beginning of the year and 17,053 at the close, a gain of 901. The order spent $60,548.38 for relief of members; $16,551.55 for funeral benefits, and $507 88 for assistance of widows and orphans. It has $306,061.34 to its credit.

The following officers were elected: Great Prophet, Arthur H. Howard Case presided at the organ.

Among those who attended the services were the members of the Reform Club, who were there in a body. Interment took place in Hillside cemetery, and those who acted as pallbearers were Sylvester F. Randolph, L. W. Randolph, L. E. Barkalew, U.B. Crane, Irving L. Brady and Charles Wilson.

MR. BRISTOL MADE A HIT.

Young Plainfielder Pleased a Large Audience With His Humor and Reading.

The fifth entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. Star course of the local association, given last night, proved to be one of the best. The entertainment was furnished by the Imperial Quartette, assisted by Frank O. Bristol, reader and humorist, of this city. The musical portion of the programme was supplied by William A. Cole, Sig. Carlo Carciotto, P. H. Foley and Walter Vreeland. This quartette delighted the audience, which filled the cosy hall to its limit, with choice selections on the guitar, mandolin, banjo and Xylophone.

Mr. Foley's humorous songs and Mr. Cole's artistic manipulation of the French musical discs were features of the concert that were particularly pleasing. Mr. Bristol kept his audience in good humor by the clever readings and humorous selection. As a story teller Mr. Bristol maintained the excellent reputation he has gained and was repeatedly complimented with encores, to which he kindly responded.

Money Returned to Deserving Family.

Several days ago a young son of Mrs. George Bullman, of the borough, while riding in a trolley lost $10 and the money was found by Miss Della Dunn, of 515 LaGrande avenue. The latter did not know the owner of the money and she inserted an advertisement in The Daily Press in the hopes she would get information. Through The Press Mrs. Bullman got on track of the money and on Wednesday it was returned to her. The young man assists to support his mother and the finding of the money was indeed a blessing to the family. They feel very grateful to Miss Dunn for her efforts to return the money.

PROBABLE NEW PASTOR.

Rev. Mr. MacMurray Likely to be Transferred to Monroe Avenue Methodist Church.

The probable new pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church to take the place to be vacated by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, who will undoubtedly go to Flemington, is Rev. Mr. MacMurray, of Spring Valley, S. I. Mr. MacMurray is a young man, and is considered to be one of the coming preachers in his denomination. He has received a call to Plainfield, and will come here if the conference so decides. Mr. MacMurray has a wife and two children, and he and his family will no doubt be given a cordial welcome and reception. Mr. O'Donnell is now completing the fifth year of his pastorate here and his people will be very sorry to have him go away.

FLOWERS AT FUNERALS.

WILL NOT BE PERMITTED AT SERVICES IN ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

Rev Father Westman Aims to Check the Extravagant Expenditure Among the Poor for Floral Tributes to Dead.

Rev. John A. Westman, assistant rector of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, notified the members of that congregation last Sunday that hereafter no more flowers would be allowed in St. Mary's church at either funerals or weddings. It is understood that the edict comes from Rev. Father Smyth, the pastor, who has been compelled to take this position for the purpose of checking the extravagant expenditure among the poor for floral tributes at weddings and funerals. Many members of the parish, whose circumstances will not admit of the purchase of flowers, have been accustomed to spend money for these luxuries, in the event of the death or marriage of a relative, when they could not afford to do so, hence the order.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Pearsall-Moffett Nuptials Performed in Westfield Last Night—Honeymoon in the South.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Feb. 23 — One of the prettiest home weddings that has been seen in Westfield this winter took place last evening when Miss May Ella Moffett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Moffett, became the wife of Leigh M. Pearsall, junior member of the Pearsall News' Agency, 54 Broad street, New York, and the son of the editor of The Union County Standard.

The wedding took place at 8 o'clock in the large front parlor of the new house erected by Mr. Pearsall on Carleton place, the ceremony being performed by Rev. W. W. Moffett, of Lambertville, the bride's uncle, assisted by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the Westfield Methodist church.

The bridal party, consisting of Ralph C. Pearsall and Frank Moffett, ushers; Herbert Pearsall, best man; Miss Ruth Pearsall, maid of honor, and Miss Ada Ruth, of Jersey City, and Miss Lillie Kennedy, of Lambertville, as bridemaids, entered the parlor as the wedding march was rendered by Mrs. W. W. Moffett.

The newly-married couple left on a late train for the south for a month's trip. About 200 guests from Plainfield, New York, Westfield, Brooklyn, Cranford, Philadelphia and Boston attended the wedding and reception.

CRONJE'S SURRENDER SEEMS PROBABLE.

His Position is Reported to be Apparently Hopeless—Boers Making Fierce Resistance.

(Special to The Daily Press).

London, February 23.—2:10 p. m.—Every hour is expected to bring news of Gen. Cronje's surrender. On all sides wonder is expressed that the battle at Paardeberg Drift has not yet ended in what is considered to be the inevitable defeat of the Boers. With fifty guns bearing upon the Boer force within the terrible short range of 2,000 yards, surrender or utter annihilation can be the only result, unless all reports of the strength of the Boer reinforcements are wrong.

Colenso, Natal, Wednesday, February 21st (via Chieveley, February 22.)—The British have crossed the Tugela over a pontoon northward of Hlangwane Hill, and now occupy Fort Wylie. While the naval brigade was bombarding Groblerskloof, the Boers' large Creusot gun replying, last evening, after the occupation of Colenso, a small party of Thornercroft's Horse crossed the river, but were driven back by fire from the trenches.

The Boer guns are still shelling the relieving force from the hills south of Ladysmith, but the impression is spreading that they are merely covering the retreat of the entire Boer force.

HEAT TURNED ON WATER

LUCKY ESCAPE OF PLAINING MILL FROM DESTRUCTION BY FIRE.

Flames Started in Old Coat in Spicer and Hubbard's Mill—Supposed to Have Been Caused by Mice Nibbling Matches.

A lucky escape from a serious conflagration occurred sometime during Wednesday night at Spicer & Hubbard's mill on Madison avenue. The thing that prevented the probable total destruction of the mill was the automatic sprinkler with which the interior of the mill is equipped. The fire started in an old coat in one corner of the mill, and the presumption is that there was matches in the coat and the nibbling of mice ignited them.

At all events the heat of the fire was of sufficient intensity to break the plug in the automatic sprinkler over head, and thus a volume of water rushed down and thoroughly extinguished the flames. The first intimation of the fire was when one of the firm called at the mill yesterday morning and found the place flooded. The damage was very small.

There is a large bell which is supposed to ring when the sprinkler works, but an investigation yesterday showed that the electric wire which rings the bell had been cut. If the bell had worked no doubt neighbors would have discovered the fire.

One Couple Ready to Walk.

The dance of the P. O'Keefe Association at the Crescent Rink Wednesday night was attended by a large number of people, many of whom were from out of town. The feature of the affair was the cakewalk which was intended to decide the championship of Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties. At the last moment there was only one couple ready to enter. They were Michael Higgins and Annie Hart, both of this city, who were awarded the prize of $10 without dispute. Prof. O'Reilly furnished the music.

A Church Bazaar.

TROLLEY COMPANY SETTLED

Paid $300 to Fanwood for Expenses Incurred in Reference to Franchise Application.

W. R. Codington, counsel for Fanwood township, has just succeeded in securing a settlement between the township and the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, which is now known as the Brunswick Traction Company. This company made attempts in 1894 and 1895 to construct and operate a trolley line in the township and owing to their failure the sum of $300 was claimed by the township as damages. The trouble has been hanging fire ever since and a settlement seemed a great way off. Mr. Codington has been persistent, however, and finally succeeded in getting the company to pay the $300 to the township.

FATALLY ILL AT A DANCE

M. J. COX DIED SOON AFTER LEAVING CRESCENT RINK.

Was Assisting at the Ball of the P. O'Keefe Association When He First Began to Feel Sick—Was Born in This City.

Michael J. Cox, aged about 29 years, died suddenly yesterday morning at 6:45 o'clock at his home on East Fourth street. He was engaged by the P. O'Keefe Association to assist in tending the bar at their dance Wednesday night at the Crescent Rink. About 2 o'clock yesterday morning he complained of feeling ill and said that he would have to give up work. He grew worse and finally his wife, who was with him, decided it would be better for him to go home, which he did. From that time he became worse until his suffering ended in death, which was due to a congestive chill. Dr. Browning was the attending physician.

Mr. Cox was born in this city and has always lived here. He was well-known and had a host of friends. He was engaged in various kinds of work, principally that of driving. He leaves a brother, Charles Cox, who is employed at Hedden's livery stable on Fourth street. A step-father also survives him. The funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's church and interment will take place in St. Mary's cemetery.

PRIZE FOR AN ESSAY.

Miss Curtis' "Battle of Trenton" Composition Was Considered Best in the Competition.

Miss Elizabeth Curtis, a pupil at the North Plainfield High School, won the prize, a five dollar gold piece, for the best essay on the "Battle of Trenton." The prize was offered by the local Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution and was open for competition to all pupils at the borough High School.

Many excellent compositions were the result of the efforts of the pupils and it was with difficulty that the committee made a selection. The award was made Wednesday morning during the exercises held in honor of Washington's Birthday.

The presentation of the prize was made by Mrs. Smith, a member of the society which had offered the prize.

Miss Catharine Dwight received honorable mention. Miss Curtis, who had the honor of defeating all competitors, has been under the tutelage of Miss Myrtle M. Montague, teacher of composition and instructress in the North Plainfield High School. Miss Dwight, who received honorable mention, was a teacher of Miss Marion Bush, also a teacher in the borough High school.

CATHOLIC CLUB DANCE.

PLEASANT AFFAIR ARRANGED BY THE LADIES.

Second Reception Given Under the Auspices of the Fair Ones, Who Have Gained a Reputation as Entertainers.

The reception and dance given last night at the handsome quarters of the Catholic Club at Sixth and Liberty streets by the Ladies' Associate Organization proved to be one of the delightful affairs for which this society is noted.

It was the second reception the ladies have given at the clubhouse and like the first attempt proved a complete success beyond the young ladies' fondest hopes. This being the last social function before the Lenten season, the society folk to the number of nearly 200 availed themselves of the opportunity of participating in the festivities.

There was a brilliant assemblage and many of the ladies' toilets were rich and elegant. Prof. O'Reilly's orchestra supplied the music and the large ballroom was used for dancing, while the parlors of the club were placed at the disposal of the ladies to entertain their gentlemen friends and to serve refreshments, which was done in the individual style.

The success of the affair is due to the efforts of the following ladies composing the committee of arrangements: Miss Margaret Reville, chairman; Mrs. Thomas Cumerford, Mrs. William Shaffer, and the Misses Nellie Casey, Catherine Carty and Margaret Day.

Messrs Edward Flynn and C. A. Shannon filled the important post of floor managers.

COSGROVE GOING HOME.

Enough Money Raised to Send the Unfortunate Young Californian to His Mother.

Through the energetic efforts of a number of Plainfield women, who are members of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital, the sum of $330 has been received for the purpose of sending William Cosgrove to his home in California. An invalid's chair has also been secured and all the clothing the young man will need has been secured. The women who have been in charge of this matter desire to state through The Daily Press that no more money is needed for this object, and they are very grateful indeed to all who responded so nobly to the request made on behalf of Mr. Cosgrove. The latter is delighted at the thoughts of going home and he appreciates exceedingly the efforts made for him. The journey will be taken just as soon as the attendant who is to accompany Cosgrove can get ready. He is a young man who lives in Brooklyn, and all arrangements have been made for the attendant.

DANCED IN VACANT HOUSE.

Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Smalley Entertained Seventy-five Friends in a Pleasant Way.

On Wednesday evening last there was an enjoyable social gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert I. Smalley, of Somerst street, when about seventy-five relatives and friends assembled to enjoy the hospitality of the host and hostess. The affair was planned by Mrs. Albert Smalley and guests were present from the city, borough, Princeton, New Brunswick, Brooklyn and many other places.

They met at Mr. Smalley's home, after which they adjourned to the latter's vacant house adjoining, where dancing was the principal feature. The three floors of the house were used for tripping the light fantastic toe and it was in the small hours of the morning when the affair terminated. A bountiful supper was served during the evening and this was not the least of the enjoyable features.

SEVEN CONFRONTED CITY JUDGE TODAY.

The Mayor Had Opened Court When Mr. Runyon Arrived.

$3 FOR ATTRACTING CROWD.

W. H. CORIELL SENT TO JAIL FOR EIGHT DAYS.

Two Men and One Woman Arrested Early This Morning on the Charge of Trespassing on Central Railroad Tracks—Judge Runyon Advises That Such Cases be Taken Before a Justice.

The city court bench was given added dignity this morning by the presence of His Honor the Mayor. City Judge Runyon was out of town yesterday and Mr. Rockfellow was not sure that he would be home in time to pass judgment on the unfortunates gathered in by the police, and so the chief magistrate of this city was on hand to deal with the cases on the docket. The Mayor had just commenced to perform the duties of the cadi when Judge Runyon put in an appearance, and then the former made way for the latter. But the Mayor remained to observe the disposition of the prisoners.

Patrick Loughlin and John Brennan were arraigned on the charge of creating a disturbance at the corner of Park and North avenues yesterday afternoon. Both admitted having indulged in a sup too much and being a little boisterous, perhaps, but the insinuation that they wanted to whip each other they wiped away by the joint and emphatic statement that they were "the best of friends." When the Judge was told that the prisoners had attracted a crowd of 300 people around the corner he concluded that a fine of $3 or eight days in the county jail would about fit their case. Thomas Brennan was also arrested with the other two holiday celebrants, but he failed to keep his promise and be on hand in court this morning. He will interview the Judge at a later date.

Looking somewhat like Rip Van Winkle when he awoke from his twenty years' slumber, W. H. Coriell was ushered to the bar of justice. It was the prisoner's third appearance before Judge Runyon. It was the same old story—drunk. Trembling and faltering in his speech, he pleaded piteously for lenience. He promised to sign the pledge for a year, but the Judge was obdurate in his purpose to mete out a sentence that would serve as a proper warning. "Ten days in jail," said the Judge, and the old fellow was walked back to his cell, and later in the day he was taken to the county jail.

Detective Pickle, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, appeared in court as a complainant against Daniel Donald, Thomas Owens and Susan Smith. Two bags and one pail of black diamonds told the tale of why they were haled to court. The railroad detective said that he had caught them picking coal from the tracks of the company early this morning, and he was convinced that they had thrown it from a coal train that had passed a short time before. He could produce no evidence to this effect, however, and the judge decided that he was not warranted in acting on the charge. He therefore dismissed the case.

At the same time he took the opportunity to advise the railroad detective that it would be much more effective if such charges were made in the court of a justice of the peace, as the city ordinances gave him very limited powers in that direction.

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE.

Somerville Man's Absence From Home Cannot be Explained.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Feb. 23 —Bloom Honeyman, a clerk in Quick's grocery store, suddenly disappeared from town Saturday night, Feb. 10th, and nothing has been seen or heard of him since. He left his wife and baby without a cent. He received his pay the Saturday night in question, walked to the Commercial Hotel where he boarded and had a drink, then went across to the Central station, purchased a ticket for Bound Brook and boarded the train without telling anyone he was going. It is thought that at Bound Brook he took a B. & O. train for the south and west. No cause is assigned for his strange disappearance and his young wife is distracted.

SPRING POLITICS IN THE TOWNSHIPS.

Prospects of Lively Campaign in North Plainfield Township.

BEFORE MARCH ELECTION.

BOTH PARTIES WILL PROBABLY NOMINATE TICKETS.

Present State Law Makes it Necessary to Elect All Three Members of Township Committee—Fight Will be Between Sebring and Doty Both Republicans From Greenbrook.

With the spring election only a few weeks away, the politicians of North Plainfield township are beginning to bestir themselves. Unless the Legislature speedily enacts a new law allowing the Township Committeemen to finish their unexpired terms of office, it will, under the law of last year's Legislature, be necessary to elect an entire new Committee. Then a Freeholder and a Collector are also to be chosen.

Last spring saw the political parties of the township in hopeless confusion as far as party lines were concerned. Neither party had a ticket in the field but local issues combined to form a Citizens' ticket and an Independent ticket.

This year both parties are planning for tickets in which, however, the lines will not be strictly observed. Unless the change is made in the law, Thomas Taylor will be nominated by the Democrats to succeed himself on the Committee for one year. He is from Washingtonville. Benjamin Clark, another Democrat, from Scotch Plains, will be nominated by the same party to membership in the Committee for two years.

The fight will be for the third place in the Committee for a successor for Charles P. Sebring, to hold office for three years. Sebring is a Republican from Greenbrook, but he is likely to be a candidate on the Democratic ticket, as no resident of that section of that political persuasion is willing to run against him.

The Republicans will probably indorse the nominations of Taylor and Clark or at least refuse to place any candidate against them. James Doty, of Greenbrook, will, however, probably be the nominee for the Committee to run against Sebring.

The Democrats intend to renominate Augustus Mobus, of Washingtonville, to the Board of Freeholders while Poole Voorhees, of Greenbrook, is prominently mentioned for the Republican nomination for the same office. J. W. Coddington, the present Collector, a Republican, refuses to accept the nomination for that office again and half a dozen names have been mentioned for the place. None of the candidates have, however, shown ony remarkable strength.

The party caucuses will be held shortly. The calls have not yet been issued and the place of meeting is not yet decided. There is quite a little interest shown in the campaign already and some lively times are expected. It is barely possible that the rival forces may change their plans and fight it out in the caucus instead of waiting to settle the question of supremacy at the polls.

FOR THE CADDIES.

Special Cup Offered in Putting Contest by Olaf Saugstad, of the Hillside Club.

The superintendent of the Boys' Club, Olaf Saugstad, who, last season as a member of the golf committee of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, had special charge of the caddies, has offered a cup to be played for on the Boys' Club putting green. The competition is open to caddies who served the golf club last season, as a reward to them for their faithful services. If entries enough are made a second and possibly a third prize will be given. Contestants must be of good standing in the Boys' Club and continue to be so until the end of the competition which will be of the round robin class, each player contesting with all of those who have entered and the one winning the greatest number will be the winner. Further particulars can be had at the Boys' Club any evening. Play will begin Saturday next.

Democrats Organizing.

A meeting has been called by the members of the Democratic executive committee of Somerville for the purpose of perfecting a Democratic organization of a permanent character, to include all Democrats residing in the three polling districts of Somerville. The meeting will he held at Somerset Hall Tuesday night, March 6th. An effort is to be made to organize Democratic clubs all over the county.

To Sup In Ye Ancient Style.

A large crowd is expected at Hope chapel this evening when the Ladies' Aid Society will give its long-planned-for Martha Washington supper. The supper will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock and then will follow an entertainment.

Transform your bare and hideous walls Into dreams of beauty as profuse As covered Granada's famous halls. From any design your fancy may choose, The walls of the cottage are covered with ease, It's not our custom, but the wealthy to please. We have beautiful papers at a low price. Although not so gorgeous, are artistic and nice.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, Feb. 23.—Miss Anna M. Mohan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mohan was married Wednesday afternoon to John J. Hague. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Smyth, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at Plainfield, at 4 o'clock in the presence of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

At Tuesday evening's meeting of the Common Council, which was the last one of the fiscal year of the borough, the treasurer's report was submitted. The Council also recommended the appropriation of $3,200 for defraying the expenses of the borough for the coming year. Last year the amount appropriated was $1,800 and the year before but $1,500. The increase, asked for is owing to the new water works, which will entail a tax of about $600. It is also the desire of the Council to buy 500 feet of new hose. The increased amount asked for will make the tax rate about $2 60. It is now $2.40 on a hundred. The amount asked for by the Council will be put to a vote of the people.

The relatives of Mrs. Catharine Shaffer wishes The Press to state that she has not been taken to an asylum for the insane, but to the State Hospital at Trenton, where she is receiving treatment with fair prospects of ultimate recovery. Mrs. Shaffer sustained a shock from lightning a few months ago and since then her health has been very poor.

The new water works were put to a practical test at Wednesday morning's fire. A first-class stream was thrown that completely drowned the blaze in a few moments. It was the first fire since the water works were established. The citizens were highly pleased with the powerful stream that was thrown.

The Brunswick Traction Company began running cars on its line between Bound Brook and the borough. The first car since the snow blockade Saturday came through Dunellen late Wednesday night. The road was tied up exactly four days for a ten-inch snow storm.

The fire which caused the destruction of the barn of Theodore Kuldosche, was discovered by Miss Carrie Whyhuskey, the daughter of the chief of the fire department, who lives near the Kuldosches. The young lady gave the first alarm.

The dance of the New Century Club, whose members are deaf mutes, took place at Apgar's Hall Wednesday night, with a supper at Taylor's Hotel. There was a large attendance and the affair was a decided success.

At the next borough election, March 13th, it is the opinion of many that the appropriation will be voted down.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, N. J., February 23—The cases of Lynus Walpole and Wm. S. Emery, charged with Sunday liquor selling, came up before Judge Vail at Elizabeth Wednesday morning. Walpole had pleaded non vult to the charge two weeks ago and appeared for sentence. Judge Vail imposed a sentence of $50 and costs of court. Emery's case was by request laid over until the May term of court.

The ladies of the Methodist church held a successful supper and social evening in Excelsior Hall last evening. An interesting and pleasant programme was carried out after the "inner man" had been attended to. The ladies were well pleased with the success of the affair and the treasury will be enriched with a tidy little sum.

The Fanwood Fire Company's entertainment in their hall Wednesday evening was a very pleasing and profitable affair. The company and their friends nearly filled the hall and the financial side of the entertainment will show a nice balance for the company.

No meeting of the Epworth Literary Society was held last evening, on account of the supper being held in Excelsior Hall.

South Plainfield, February 23.—Patrick McDonough is suffering from a bad sprain he received while working on the ice last week.

John Hutcheror, a Hungarian working on the section gang, left Sunday night. Fourteen dollars of another man's money disappeared at the same time. Hutcheror left some unpaid bills behind him.

John Geary is employing his spare time this winter in training his team of young horses which he bought last fall.

Cormac McDonough is still confined to the house. He is under Dr. Buchanan's care.

Dan Laing was home the first of the week nursing a case of the grip.

Mr. Jones has a man at work repairing the machinery in his mill.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Westfield, Feb. 23.—The Republicans of this town are rather disatisfied over the bill which, it is said, will be introduced in the Legislature, which will allow the present Township Committemen to serve out the terms they were elected for. The Republicans were sure of electing the three Committeemen at the coming election and should the new law go into effect it would leave Chairman J. Alston Dennis, who is a Democrat, on the ticket for another year. C. W. Harden the other Democratic member, will retire in any event for his term will expire.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Stephen Large, of Flemington, who is prominently mentioned as a candidate for the Republican nomination for State Senator in Hunterdon county, is a brother of John K. Large, of East Front street.

* * * * * * *

The Scranton express train that leaves New York every afternoon at 4:40 o'clock and brings the club car "Plainfield" as far as Dunellen, used to stop at Grant avenue to allow such of the commuters as lived in that neighborhood to leave the train at that point instead of at the Plainfield station. When a recent change was made in the schedule of trains it was decided that the Scranton express would make far better time by leaving out the Grant avenue stop. When the commuters on the club car were first notified of the change the day it went into effect, there was a decided objection on the part of the interested ones. One prominent citizen declared that the train would stop next day. Those who were affected by the change immediately took the case to the superintendent, then to Vice-President Warren and finally to the president himself. But the Scranton express still goes through Grant avenue at a lively pace and is likely to do so for some time to come. The railroad officials argue that it is an express and should be run as such and that there are enough local trains to accommodate all the local traffic without interfering with the express service.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Interested Prominent Women.

Miss Dorothy Wilberfore Lyon, whose lectures were mentioned sometime ago in The Daily Press, has succeeded in interesting some of the most prominent women in Plainfield in her talks on Africa which she expects to give in the Unitarian church on Monday mornings in Lent. Miss Lyon is at present engaged in similar work both in New York and Elizabeth.

KANSAS CITY GETS IT

National Democratic Convention There July 4.

FEW VOTES CAST FOR MILWAUKEE.

The Missouri Town Pledges $50,000, Free Hotel and Hall Accommodations, With Music and Decorations Thrown In.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The next national Democratic convention will be held at Kansas City July 4.

This was the decision of the Democratic national committee, which met at the Hotel Raleigh yesterday to fix the time and place of holding the convention. Milwaukee was the only other city which competed for the honor of entertaining the convention, and the poor showing she made when the vote was taken—the result being: Kansas City, 40; Milwaukee, 9—caused general surprise.

The claims of the rival cities as to hotel accommodations, railroad and telegraphic facilities were presented in open session by representatives of each city, and subsequently in executive session Governor W. J. Stone on behalf of Kansas City and National Committeeman E. C. Wall on behalf of Milwaukee explained the financial inducements which the city he represented was willing to make. Each offered the committee $50,000, but in addition Kansas City was willing to furnish hotel accommodations for the members of the committee and the hall, with decorations and music, free of expense to the committee.

One of Milwaukee's strongest arguments was the political effect which the holding of the convention in that city would have upon the German-American voters, who were represented to the committee as wavering in their allegiance to the Republican party. It seemed to be taken for granted by at least two speakers that Bryan would be renominated and that the Chicago platform in substance would be reaffirmed. Opposition to trusts, expansion and imperialism, together with every mention of Bryan and the Chicago platform, aroused enthusiasm, but during the open session of the committee there was no allusion to the issue of free silver.

Library In Historic House.

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 23.—George Washington's birthday was fittingly observed in this place by the dedication with appropriate exercises of a new town library building, the gift of Emily Hitchcock Howe of New York city in memory of Benjamin Darwin Howe and Mrs. Elizabeth Hitchcock Howe, who resided in Hanover for many years, and their son, Charles Webster Howe. The building fitted for the purpose is the original historic Wheelock house, famous as having been built by Eleazar Wheelock, the first president of Dartmouth college, in 1773 and for many years occupied by his family. Afterward for 50 years it was the home of the Howe family, in whose memory it is dedicated. An interesting feature of the library is the collection of old books, comprising several volumes used by President Wheelock, all printed prior to the Revolutionary war.

Tin Plate and Steel Companies Move.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—A special train of four sleeping and three express cars left Chicago yesterday over the Pennsylvania road carrying the office effects and forces of the American Tin Plate and National Steel companies to their future headquarters in New York. The train is run under the special supervision of Special Passenger Agent G. G. Beltzhoover. A stop will be made at Pittsburg, where the engineering department of the American Tin Plate company will disembark and open special headquarters in that city.

Pennsylvania Town Scorched.

BRADFORD, Pa., Feb. 23.—The business portion of Glen Hazel for the second time in recent years was almost totally destroyed by fire yesterday. At 1:10 flames were discovered in the general store of H. C. Taylor and quickly spread to adjoining buildings. Owing to the hydrants being frozen up the firemen could do nothing. A heavy rain prevented the destruction of the village. The origin of the fire is unknown, but supposed to be from a gaslight. The loss will reach from $20,000 to $30,000, with insurance of about $6,000.

Washington Statue Unveiled.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 23.—Without ceremony yesterday morning Thomas W. Ball's heroic statue of Washington, conceded to be his masterpiece and the finest presentment of the first president of the United States in existence, was unveiled at Methuen on the grounds owned by Mr. Edward F. Searles. The statue, with its accompanying figures, is said to have cost $250,000.

General Wheeler For Governor.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 23.—It is reported here that General Wheeler, who is expected home soon from the Philippines, will announce himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Alabama and will not therefore be a candidate for renomination to congress from his district. He is a great favorite in Alabama politically.

Agitators In Martinique.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, Feb. 23.—Agitators in bands of 40 or 50 are traveling about the island endeavoring to prevent the resumption of work. Tuesday night an incendiary fire was kindled in a canefield at Francois. Wednesday there was a fresh fire at La Trinite, where three lighters each laden with 30 tons of cane have been sunk.

Broke Neck by Fall.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Feb. 23.—James P. Carr, a prominent farmer of South Centreville, fell from a load of hay. He struck upon the stone road and broke his neck.

TUB TRUTHS.

A DROP of ink will color a whole glass of water. It is an inch of yeast which makes a pan of bread rise, and a single cake of soap containing unabsorbed alkali can ruin a hundred times its cost in laces and fine embroidery. After all, is it wise to take such risks with common soap? Of course you can get along without Ivory Soap. So can a wagon without axle grease—but it goes hard.

ROOSEVELT'S BUSY DAY.

Spoke Three Times In Buffalo on Washington's Birthday.

BUFFALO, Feb. 23.—Governor Roosevelt arrived in this city at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon, addressed the Women of Buffalo chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Twentieth Century club at 5 o'clock; dined at the Saturn club at 6; addressed the members of the Sixty-fifth regiment at the state arsenal at 8:25 o'clock; unveiled a tablet to the memory of the 22 members of that organization who died while in service in the Spanish-American war, and, returning to the Saturn club with the regiment as an escort, he took part in the club's Washington birthday celebration, delivering a third speech.

At 9 o'clock this morning he was the guest of honor at a breakfast given him by prominent Republicans at the Iroquois; from 11 o'clock until noon he received the members of the Republican organization of Erie county and at 1 o'clock he returned to Albany.

At the Twentieth Century club the governor was introduced to the assembled members of Buffalo chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, by Mrs. C. C. Wykoff, its vice dean. He spoke on the subject, "George Washington, President, Man, Statesman and Soldier."

Sun Worship In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Ottoman Zarahusht-Hanish, a Persian priest, is in Chicago intent upon establishing a temple to be dedicated to sun worship and upon securing converts to the sun worshiping faith. He will talk next Sunday in the Church of Yoga, 184 Dearborn street, room 5. However, he is not connected with the Yoga cult. The missionary of the worshipers is tall and spare, with a smooth shaven and intelligent face. He is of Russian and German parentage, but was born and for the most part has lived in Teheran, Persia. As for his philosophy he says it is almost as old as the hills, dating back, according to the claims of its apostles, 142,000 years before Christ. In the old Zend language "masda" meant sun and was also a synonym of thought. Thus sun worshipers are thought worshipers.

First Spike In a Delaware Road.

DOVER, Del., Feb. 23.—Simple ceremonies marked the driving of the first spike in the roadbed of the Delaware General Electric railway, and work henceforth will be pushed rapidly with the aim to have the road ready for business early in June. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Governor Tunnell, Attorney General R. C. White drove the silver spike. Several addresses were made, and following the ceremonies, which were witnessed by about 1,500 persons, dinner was served to the invited guests at a leading hotel. The railway, which is for both freight and passengers, will have a total mileage of 45 miles and will pass through a number of Delaware towns.

FRANCHISE IN CUBA.

Cuban-Americans Declared to Be Eligible to Vote.

WOOD'S ORDER AFFECTS LARGE CLASS

The Governor General Declared to Be Acting Wisely—Not a Business Failure In Havana During the Past Year.

HAVANA, Feb. 23.—Governor General Wood has decided to issue an order that persons Cuban by birth who renounced their nationality during the Spanish regime in order to become American citizens, but who are now ready to fulfill the required conditions, may vote at the coming elections. He points out that it is generally recognized that these men only became Americans for the purposes of self protection and that they now desire to resume their Cuban nationality as soon as they can legally do so. This order will affect more than 30,000, and it may result in a complete change in the constitution of political parties, although it is believed that the Cuban-Americans will be fairly scattered among those existing.

There has been some talk of forming a party exclusively composed of Cuban-Americans. Those who advocate this believe that such an organization could control the politics of the island, because it would hold the balance of power and would wield a powerful lever in the future. The Cuban-Americans are, for the most part, well educated, and should such an organization be formed it would unquestionably be exceedingly influential.

Senor Aleman, president of the Cienfuegos Center of Veterans and of the Republican party in Santa Clara, says that General Wood is "acting wisely in uniting all factions and thus making an independent, sovereign country." He declares that "the arrogance which is born of foolish presumption must give way to true patriotism."

Senor Barona, secretary of finance, has issued a tabulated report of the business done in Cuban financial circles. According to this the total operations last year amounted to $16,000,000, and there was not a single business failure registered in Havana.

Washington's birthday was celebrated in Havana by the closing of the government offices, but apart from the usual display of flags the only building decorated was the university.

A large mass meeting and demonstration are being arranged for Saturday, the fifth anniversary of the beginning of the second war of Cuban independence.

The Clark Case.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—C. W. Clark, son of Senator Clark of Montana, told the senate committee on elections yesterday that he had an independent income of $250,000 a year and that he was in business for himself. With the exception of a brief interval given to the testimony of Rev. A. B. Martin Mr. Clark occupied the entire day before the committee in connection with the inquiry being conducted into the methods pursued in the election of the young man's father to the United States senate. He denied in detail the assertions of such witnesses as Mr. Whiteside, Mr. Hewitt, State Senator Myers and others. Mr. Clark submitted what he said was a detailed statement of his receipts and expenditures for political purposes during the Montana campaign. The aggregate footed up $118,000. Dr. Martin testified concerning his interview with Chief Justice Brantly, producing the letter written him by Mr. Clark in the Wellcome case.

Republican State Convention.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The Republican state convention for the election of delegates at large to the national Republican convention in Philadelphia will be held at the Grand Central Palace on April 18. The delegates at large will be United States Senators Thomas C. Platt and C. M. Depew, Governor Theodore Roosevelt and Chairman of the State Committee B. B. Odell. The alternates have not been selected, but it is understood they may be Lieutenant Governor T. L. Woodruff, ex-Senator Francis Hendricks, Lemuel E. Quigg and Speaker of the Assembly S. Fred Nixon or Louis F. Payn. This practically, together with the selection by districts of presidential electors, is the programme of the Republican state committee.

A Somerset Squabble.

According to a political story in the New York Herald, Somerset county is convulsed in a small way over the appointment of a road supervisor. At the instance of a certain persons who believed him to be competent, Charles Welsh was appointed by State Road Commissioner Budd to supervise the construction of the proposed new stone road from Millstone to New Brunswick.

Mr. Welsh is a young man of intelligence and character, but his selection did not suit former Assemblyman P. V. D. Van Dorn. The latter, it is said, had a grudge against one of Welsh's chief backers, and he brought all the influence he could muster to bear upon Mr. Budd to induce him to reconsider the matter. He persuaded Senator Reed to take an interest in the fight, which finally became so hot that Commissioner Budd revoked Welsh's appointment. Now the fat is in the fire with a vengeance and half the Republican politicians of the county are by the ears over the matter.

Welsh's father, a well known farmer at East Millstone, and an active Republican worker, has taken up the cudgels on behalf of his son and has sworn revenge on the men who have turned him down. The VanDorn faction have fixed upon J. Newton Voorhees, of Middlebury, as their candidate for the place, but as he already holds an office in the present Legislature and is said not to be popular suggestions as to his appointment are not well received.

Plainfield has the reputation of possessing the most enterprising and up-to-date class of merchants of any city outside of the three or four very large ones in the State of New Jersey. The Daily Press columns give evidence of this today in the liberal advertising that appears. Advertising is as much a part of modern busines methods as any feature can be, and the business men of Plainfield seem to have a keen appreciation of this fact. The liberal advertising that local merchants do is a compliment to their business sagacity and ability. It is especially gratifying to The Daily Press to be the favorite medium of the local trade for the practice of the art of publicity.

The New York Press, after looking all over the country, counts ten men who are willing to run and are more or less talked of for Vice-president on the Democratic ticket, and twenty-five who are in the same position with respect to the second place on the Republican ticket.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

First a dance in a barn and then a smoker in a clubhouse! Verily, that seat in Congress which the political prophets have reserved for a "dark horse" and Charles J. Fisk are getting closer and closer together. The best of it all is, the man and the place may meet and recognize each other when the sign comes right.—New York Tribune.

* * * * *

It is probably "up to" Somerset to name the next Representative in Congress from the Third district. The honor belongs to Somerset, Monmouth having been represented by Mr. Geissenhainer before Middlesex gave three terms to Mr. Howell, and, as it now is generally accepted that Mr. Howell will retire at the end of his term, the eyes of the district leaders are turning to Somerset for a successor. Senator Reed has the first call among Republicans, and even if he must surrender a year of his term as a Senator to accept the higher office he will not imperil any great Republican chance in doing so. His vote will have been cast for a United States Senator in the session of 1901, and so far as the Senate is concerned he will leave a working Republican majority in that body.—New York Press.

TEN YEARS OF WORK.

ANNIVERSARY OF MARY E. WILSON MEMORIAL CHAPEL.

Plainfield Church Workers Assisted in the Programme—Membership of the Chapel Now Numbers Fifty Members.

The tenth anniversary of the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel was celebrated yesterday afternoon at the chapel in an appropriate manner. Superintendent E. L. Bonney, of the Sunday-school, presided. The programme opened with a violin duet by Clarence Mills and Geo. Spier. After the Scripture reading by the superintendent prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. A. E. Main. This was followed by a baritone solo "The Holy City," by Edson C. Martin, of this city.

The historical report of the organization was presented by Richard Rogers, secretary. The organization numbers fifty members. There are seven officers and eight teachers, and the total number of scholars in the Sunday-school, including home department, is 150. The average attendance in the school has been 56 during the ten years, and the number of visitors during that time, 2,100. The running expenses amount to $300 annually. The report paid a rich tribute to Col. John F. Wilson, who has greatly assisted in the work of the chapel.

After the report Robert Davis rendered a cornet solo. Then followed five one minute congratulatory addresses by Dr. Main, L. W. Randolph, S. B. Joseph, Andrew Wilson. The address of the afternoon was delivered by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

The rest of the progrmme consisted of a soprano solo, "I Shall be Satisfied," by Mrs Samuel Case, a violin duet by Clarence Mills and George Spier and a closing prayer and benediction. Herbert Harold, of this city was the organist.

Mr. Miner had been in his usual health—in fact, had been remarkably well all winter. There was no warning of the end. He was in his room preparing to go for a drive with his wife. He was walking across the room, when he fell. Mrs. Miner was the first to reach him. He was a large man, with a florid face that suggested apoplectic tendencies. He looked his 58 years.

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Landau. Der 44 Jahre alte Polizeidiener Michael Knochel von Offenbach hatte sich ohne triftigen Grund dazu hinreißen lassen, einen Dienstknecht, von dem er gehänselt sein will, mit seinem Säbel mehrere Male auf den Kopf zu schlagen. Der Staatsanwalt beantragte für den schlagfertigen Polizeidiener 100 Mark Geldstrafe; das Gericht verurtheilte den Polizisten jedoch zu zwei Monaten Gefängniß.

Zweibrücken. In Folge unaufhörlichen Regens lag jüngst an einem Abende die Gefahr eines Hochwassers, wie es zuletzt im Jahre 1882 unserer Stadt so großen Schaden zufügte, ziemlich nahe. Um halb 10 Uhr wurden denn auch die Bewohner der niedrig gelegenen Stadttheile durch die Polizei aufgefordert, ihre unteren Wohn- und Geschäftsräume unverzüglich zu räumen. Gegen 11 Uhr trat der Schwarzbach über seine Ufer und überschwemmte die ganze Unterstadt. Glücklicher Weise hörte es jetzt auf zu regnen, so daß sich das Wasser nach einigen Stunden aus den Stadttheilen verlief. Am Morgen glich das breite Wiesenthal des Schwarz- und Hornbaches einem mächtigen Strome.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. In Folge starker Regengüsse waren jüngsthin im ganzen Gebiete des Neckars die Flüsse über ihre Ufer getreten. Die niedrig gelegenen Städte und Dörfer waren theilweise überfluthet. Der Verkehr von einem Ort zum anderen war vielfach unterbrochen.—Professor Dr. Hermann Geßler, Vorstand des hiesigen Ludwigsspitals, ist nach längerem Leiden im Alter von 43 Jahren verstorben. Er war einer der tüchtigsten und beliebtesten Aerzte der Stadt.

Neckarsulm. Die medizinische Fakultät in Tübingen hat dem praktischen Arzt Dr. Heinrich Meßner hier, in Anerkennung seiner über 50 Jahre währenden ärztlichen Thätigkeit das Doktordiplom honoris causa erneuert.

Ravensburg. Durch Großfeuer wurde kürzlich das Fabrikgebäude der Spinnerei Weingarten bis auf den Grund zerstört. Der Schaden an Gebäuden, Maschinen und Vorräthen ist bedeutend.

Steinheim. Der Maler Jakob Berroth von hier, welcher aus dem Schlafzimmer des Wirthes Kälberer in Göppingen fünf 100-Markscheine gestohlen hatte, wurde zu sechs Jahren Zuchthaus und zehn Jahren Ehrverlust verurtheilt. Berroth war von Frankreich aus, wo er bald nach seinem Göppinger Diebstahl 10,000 Francs gestohlen hatte und dafür zu zwei Jahren Gefängniß verurtheilt wurde, hierher ausgeliefert worden.

Ulm. Das Komite zur Errichtung eines Denkmals für Kaiser Wilhelm den Ersten hat beschlossen, eine Kaiserstatue in Lebensgröße herstellen zu lassen. Die Ausführung ist Professor Max Unger in Berlin übertragen worden. Das Denkmal, dessen Fertigstellung bis 1. Oktober d. J. in Aussicht genommen ist, soll auf dem Heumarktplatz beim Rathhaus Aufstellung finden.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Wegen Betrugs und Diebstahls verfolgt die hiesige Staatsanwaltschaft dermalen eine angebliche Mrs. Burton aus England, die sich in Heidelberg Miß Blomfield aus England, in Freiburg Miß Brassey aus Paris genannt hat, in Wirklichkeit aber Sybille Molinaux-Bertram, in London geboren, ist. Sie war im Jahre 1894 in Frankfurt wegen Diebstahls verhaftet, ist dann wegen Geistesstörung entlassen worden und 1895 aus einer Irrenanstalt unter Mitnahme von 1340 Mark entflohen.—Das 1. badische Feldartillerie-Regiment Nr. 14 feierte in Anwesenheit des Großherzogs das 50jährige Jubiläum seines Bestehens.

Baden-Baden. Der Feuerbestattungsverein beschloß die Erbauung eines Krematoriums.

Lörrach. Der freisinnige Abgeordnete Markus Pflüger beging mit seiner Frau die goldene Hochzeit.

Mannheim. Das Schwurgericht hat den Schreinergesellen Aloys Link wegen Ermordung eines sechsjährigen Kindes zum Tode verurtheilt.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Straßburg. Der reichsländische Oberschulrath ermächtigte im verflossenen Jahre die elsaß-lothringischen Gemeinden, während des Sommers 13 Wochen lang den Nachmittags-Unterricht in der Oberklasse der Elementarschulen ausfallen zu lassen. Die Maßnahme sollte es den Schülern ermöglichen, ihren Eltern bei den Erntearbeiten zu helfen. Wie sich jetzt herausstellt, haben die Gemeinden von der Ermächtigung einen überraschend geringen Gebrauch gemacht.—Beispielsweise haben im Bezirk Unterelsaß von 560 Gemeinden 285, im Kreise Molsheim von 70 Gemeinden nur 8 die Begünstigung benutzt.

Saaralben. Neulich erfolgte hier die Verhaftung des Postassistenten Lütge. Dieser, seit einiger Zeit auf dem Postamte des benachbarten Saarunion beschäftigt, ließ sich daselbst Unterschlagungen von Baargeld und Werthbriefen im Gesammtbetrag von fast 7000 Mark zu Schulden kommen.

A lady living in one of the large brass manufacturing cities of Connecticut, writes: "My ten-year-old daughter, Irene, has been troubled with terrible sick headaches and spells of vomiting ever since she was a little tot. Her father thought she would outgrow them, but she didn't. She did not chew her food enough, and what she threw up seemed but half digested. Through the advice of a friend, I began giving her

Ripans Tabules.

She was benefited at once, and after a treatment of one week the trouble ceased, and she has not had a bad spell since."

Since writing this letter, the lady states that she has reduced the dose to half a Tabule a day and the good effect still continues, and she believes that the use of the Tabules may soon be wholly discontinued, for her daughter appears now to be absolutely well.

The Population of Hawaii a Badly Mixed Multitude

Thousands of the Orientals in the Islands Know Nothing of Sanitary Laws

FRACTIONS and hyphens are necessary to describe nationalities in Hawaii. For instance, here is a real case: John Symonds, an American, married Fale Taua, part Hawaiian and part Tahitian. Their daughter, Eunice Nakuolani Symonds, married Ah Wing, a Chinaman. Their daughter, Ellen Keonano, married Manuel Sylva, a Portuguese. They now have a child. What is it?

It makes the brain whirl to try to work it out, and it will take steadier ones than ours to reach the last step, and there are dozens of such cases.

People in Hawaii are characterized as haoles (whites), hopa-haeoles (half whites), white Portuguese and black Portuguese, some being from the Madeira isles, some from Africa, where there is a mixture with the negroes; as Japs, as Pakes (Chinamen) and as South Sea islanders. That, I believe, constitutes the classification. Besides the above there are a few negroes and other strays, who do not count much in number or importance to the country.

The whites, generally speaking, are of good class and make creditable citizens; they desire and abide by laws that will be for the good of their children. The half whites adopt the customs and fashions of the whites, and form a large and intelligent part of the community. Out there we speak of the white man and the Portuguese as though the latter were not of the Caucasian race. I think there are two reasons for it; one I have spoken of, a number of African Portuguese who are much like the negroes in appearance; and the fact that all the Portuguese are manual laborers. The Hawaiians do not associate the white man with the hoe—think grubbing belongs to the colored races. The Portuguese is a good citizen, is thrifty, hard-working and comparatively peaceable. He and his family live in a picturesque cottage, surrounded by a bit of land cultivated to the last degree, every inch made to yield fruit, flower or vegetable. He and his wife and chicks are not fond of water, do not often bathe, but still, as there is among them no herding, no overcrowding, he is not a menace to the health of the country, as are the orientals.

PLAYMATES AND SCHOOLMATES.
Little Japanese and Chinese Babies Together in the Streets of Chinatown.

The Hawaiians, Japs and Chinese know nothing about sanitary laws and pay no heed when the authorities every now and then awake to conditions in Chinatown, which is made up of these three nationalities, and make an effort to teach the people there something of cleanliness. It is the handful of white folks in the islands who have the responsibility, who bear the burden, who bear the odium. The white man's burden there is no light thing, as he who has just come through the trial of plague, of black death, can tell you. To burn down 13 acres in the infested district and try to keep the flames from spreading, to assume the responsibility of housing, caring for and guarding 4,000 homeless, excited, unhappy outcasts was no light task. President Dole, Mr. Theodore Richards, the great friend of the Hawaiians, business men, old and young, brave firemen, society folk, all worked side by side, and the work was done with no violence, no loss of life. Outsiders who think the Hawaiian-American has a soft snap, an easy job, that he spends his time in counting his money and wheedling the natives, would better live in Hawaii awhile and find out.

And yet it is a certain class of white men on whom lies much of the blame for the spread of the plague that lately has worked such ruin in the beautiful city of Honolulu. The orientals rented their shacks of landlords who pocketed their gains with little heed to the welfare of their ignorant tenants, who were allowed to swarm in buildings whose living-rooms were directly over cess pools. Dr. Wood, president of the board of health in Honolulu, recently said it was localities rather than persons that were infected with the bubonic bacilli; that he would rather sleep in the bed of a plague patient than walk barefoot in the soil of Chinatown.

In the country the Chinaman lives near, or on, his damp rice fields or banana patches, and wherever there is most likelihood of malaria or miasma he builds his hut. He courts foulness, wallows in mire. In the city, wretched huts and sheds are crowded as close as possible, and as many Celestials as can infest these warrens. They live, sleep, eat and die in rooms where the atmosphere is visible, audible and odoriferous. The Chinaman is a dense utilitarian, and thinks space valuable only when it brings him returns in money. What ground there is under and about his house is piled high with years' accumulations of refuse. The wonder is not that poor John is ever visited by filth diseases, but that his quarter is ever exempt. In 1895 cholera worked havoc in these slums, which had long been a disgrace to the otherwise progressive town, and then vows were registered that in the future the district should be kept clean. But the lesson was soon forgotten, and before long the conditions were as bad as ever.

The evils of Chinatown had often been spoken of in Honolulu, the question of how to improve and purify the place had often been discussed, but as a whole it continued a breeding place for disease and misery, and the only thing that could purify it seemed to be a wholesale conflagration, a wiping out of the entire place. And at last that has come to pass.

We have been watching for weeks the progress of the dread plague in Honolulu, from the time the first case, that of a Chinaman, was discovered, up to the time when deaths numbered almost half a hundred, when the whole country was menaced and ships were allowed neither to enter nor depart from the port of Honolulu. When the danger became very grave, then it was the government decided that safety lay in the purification by fire. The torch was applied and block after block of squalid dens was swallowed up in flames. May this dream of a Honolulu editor be realized: "After the whole evil surface has been soaked with kerosene and fired, let the place receive the air and rain and sunshine for a year and then, through the extension of the fire limits and an improvement in the building laws, let them compel the recreation of a Chinatown in a way that will make it as sanitary as a section of Boston Common."

KATHERINE POPE.

Eye Pictures.

A good deal has recently been written about "eye pictures," and lovers of novelty have been making collections of photographs each showing a single eye of some friend. But nothing is new under the sun, not even the latest of late fads. Long ago, the duke of Sussex developed a fancy for eye pictures. The camera wasn't so ubiquitous then as now, and, even if it had been, the ducal eyebrow would have been elevated in scorn at the idea of anything so common as a collection of photographs. The duke employed the most noted miniature painter of his day to paint the eyes for his collection. Each one was painted on ivory and set in a circle of pearls. A number of the miniatures now belong to Queen Victoria, and the rest are in private collections throughout England.—N. Y. Sun.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning Feb. 25. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The strength of humility.—Luke xviii, 9-14.

The Christian Endeavor prayer meeting topics for the current year provide for the study of the parables of Christ. The first parable presented for our study is this familiar one in prayer, illustrating the weakness of pride and the strength of humility. The scene of the parable is the temple, the characters a Pharisee and a publican. "Two men went up into the temple to pray, the one a Pharisee and the other a publican." Both men prayed. Both men prayed in the temple. But how vastly different were the results of their prayers. One "went down to his house justified rather than the other." To see the cause of these different results we must study the two prayers.

1. The pharisee's prayer. There are two characteristics of this prayer that are prominent: 1. He prayed with himself. Ostensibly the Pharisee went to the temple to pray to God, but he lost sight of God in himself. He "stood and prayed thus with himself." 2. His standard of comparison was man, not God. "I thank Thee that I am not as other men." This false standard led him to exalt himself. He thought that because he was more punctilious in the performance of religious rites and ceremonies than other men he was doing all that God wished him to do; but, alas! he failed to understand that true religion is within and not without. His prayer was rooted and grounded in pride and selfishness. It was not addressed to God, but was a self congratulatory address. He exalted himself, and therefore God humbled him. The sin of pride is one that Christians in particular need to guard themselves against. It is so easy to compare ourselves with others and to conclude that we are better than other men. Let us beware. Let us keep our eyes on God rather than man. If we do that, we will be in no danger of being puffed up with pride.

2. The publican's prayer. "And the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, 'God be merciful unto me, a sinner.'" One word is written through and through that prayer, the word humility. This man saw himself not through others, but through God. He had a vision of God, and that vision made him see how sinful and how unworthy he was. His sins rose up before him. He realized that he had no just claims upon God, and all he could do, therefore, was to cry out for mercy. "God be merciful unto me, a sinner." A clear vision of God crushes out pride and brings us to a condition of contriteness and humility. Let us get clear visions of God, that we may be kept humble, for then only will we be in position to be exalted. "He that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

This parable illustrates the old truth that God hates the proud, but loves to honor the meek and lowly in mind. Let us therefore cultivate more and more the spirit of humility, and to do so effectively let us judge ourselves by God's standards rather than by man's; let us look within and not without, for "as a man thinketh in his heart so is he."

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Appoint some one to explain and apply the parable, and then have an open meeting, in which each member shall take part as he himself elects.

Bible Readings.—Job xl, 11; Ps. xxxiv, 2; ci, 5; Prov. vi, 16-18; xv, 33; xviii, 12; xxi, 4; xxii, 1-4; Mic. vi, 8; Math. xviii, 1-4; Mark ix, 33-37; x, 35-45; Luke ix, 46-48; xiv, 1-11; Eph. iv, 1-3; Col. iii, 12, 13; Phil. ii, 1-12.

With Larger Eyes.

For God looks on us with larger other eyes than ours. He is not the leader of a sect or the fugleman of a party. He estimates us not by our achievement of orthodoxy, but by our struggle for goodness. To him who believes in Christ and in His righteousness and in a God of light and love difference and agreement on this petty point or that petty point of ritual or doctrine are as trifles—the mere provincialism of ignorance and pride. Every bigot in exact proportion to his feebleness and ignorance revels in the exacerbation of differences, but just in proportion as a man loves God and is like God does he emerge into an upper air, where the divisions between churches do not run and the noise of controversy cannot penetrate.—Rev. F. W. Farrar, D. D., Dean of Canterbury.

The Prodigal.

Friendship is unknown in the far country; flattery and false professions are there in abundance. Every rich prodigal will find in the far country many to praise him and to keep close to him—as long as he is rich. But the essential quality of friendship is constancy, and that is not to be found among the harpies who feed on sin's captives. "A friend loveth at all times," and there are no such friends in the far country. They desert the companion whose substance they have consumed in riotous living and leave him to make friends with the swine.—William T. Ellis.

Giving to the Lord's Cause.

Men need to be awakened to a clear and conscientious conviction of duty and a deep sense of sin to act from a proper motive in giving to the Lord's cause before it will show a truly spiritual state. When the church is revived, there will not need to be much said about giving or the law under which they give. In Pentecostal days there was no pressing the law of tithes or any other law. When the people knew the need, they responded without stopping to consider the proportion the law required of them. That is what all should do still.—Christian Instructor.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 25, "The Strength of Humility." Text, Luke xviii, 9-14.

"Every one that exalteth himself shall be abased, and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

This is as true in the market place and among men as in the temple with God.

The fault of the Pharisee in this case was not hypocrisy. He may have had a genuine hatred of the sins he saw in other men—extortion, injustice and adultery and lack of religious devotion. The presence of the publican may have intensified his zeal and caused real satisfaction that he had been so exact in fasting and almsgiving. He was pleased with his performances and was glad he was superior to others. He felt contempt for their baseness and a glow of self approbation at his own course and for his moral merit. He took mental account of his worthiness and praised himself while seeming to praise God. He was not conscious of any particular obligation to God for grace received or gifts of any kind. He was much like a great many people in these times, who are conscious of their superiority to the multitude around them and are glad they are more elevated in tastes, habits, position and reputation, but do not recognize that this is due in any large measure to anything but their own exalted ability and sense. They are what they are because they choose so to be. It pleases them to pray in the temple and fast and give alms. It is eminently proper and conspicuously religious, but it has no connection with soul devotion and Christlike piety. It arises from self love and not from love to God and fellow man. Its root and flower and fruit is pride. No gratitude to God, no sweet sense of dependence and childlike devotion, grows here.

The other man is not justified because he has been worse in deed and is more emphatic in expression, but because he recognizes his own life as evil, sees God as the pure and just One, cries to Him as the All Merciful. He abhors the wrong in deed and heart, turns for help to the only source of strength. His sinfulness finds cleansing from the Sinless; his guilt obtains pardon from the Holy One; his emptiness is filled from the All Sufficient; he is exalted in God and not in self.

The New Secretary.

On the 24th of last November Dr. Edwin A. Schell resigned the office of general secretary of the Epworth League, and Rev. Wilbur P. Thirkield, D. D., was elected as his successor by the board of control.

The new secretary was born in Ohio about 40 years since. He is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university and of the School of Theology of Boston university. He has been president of

REV. WILBUR P. THIRKIELD, D. D.

Gammon Theological seminary, Atlanta, for 15 years. He married the daughter of Bishop Gilbert Haven, who is sister of Dr. William I. Haven, secretary of the American Bible society. He is a man of dignified but courteous manners, in close touch with the young life of the church. He has marked ability and high reputation for genuine Christian character. The moral standards of the League can but be elevated under his leadership. He is well known in the south and east, while a son of the west. His selection seems eminently wise.

Accuracy In Moral Things.

The demand for substantial honesty is increasingly insistent, especially among Christians. Profession of piety and fluency in prayer and exhortation are not alone sufficient to satisfy the demands of the time for consistent religious living.

The temptations to vary from truth in statement of facts is as strong as ever. The struggle for money is fierce and unremitted. It takes soul force to be honest and truthful. Ministers are under especial temptation to speak pleasant things and deal in half truths. Many practices in business are not outright fraud, but are on the margin of dishonesty. Pressure is extreme to induce the lowering of the rule of right in all our talking and dealing.

Woe to him who swerves but the least from the path of rectitude! Woe to him whose eye fails to detect the shade of the false! Society may not loudly condemn at first, but the Christian conscience, once aroused, will demand exact weight and just accounting. We must stand upright, or we shall fall outright.

The tide has turned. The wail over the decrease in membership has changed to songs of victory. The revival is likely to be of a substantial kind. Emphasis is placed on solid piety, intelligent, whole souled, well rounded, practical and joyous.

WANTS TO BE GOVERNOR.

Judge Carter, of Chicago, Actively in the Field for Nomination by the Republicans.

Judge Orrin N. Carter was born in a log cabin on the banks of the St. Lawrence river, in Jefferson county, N. Y., in 1854. At the age of ten he moved with his mother and brothers to Illinois. They located on a farm two miles north of Wheaton. His father, who was a lake captain, died in Chicago when Judge Carter was one year old.

The judge's early life was a struggle. While compelled to work on the farm, he was determined to obtain an education. He attended the common school in winter until 1873, when he entered Wheaton college, being graduated in 1877. To meet his expenses there he taught school and worked as janitor at the college.

ORRIN N. CARTER.
(Chicago Judge Who Wants to Be Governor of Illinois.)

After graduating he came to Chicago and studied law under Judge Tuley and Gen. I. N. Stiles, and was admitted to the bar in 1880. He began the practice of his profession, however, at Morris, Grundy county, with R. M. Wing and S. C. Stow. For six years he was the prosecuting attorney for that county.

In 1890 Judge Carter opened an office in Chicago, and in 1892 was appointed attorney for the sanitary district, holding the office until 1894, when he was elected county judge by 52,000 plurality. It was while he was its attorney that the drainage board secured most of the canal right of way.

Judge Carter is also the real head of the election commissioners, and has charge of the election machinery of Chicago.

In 1881 Judge Carter married Miss Nettie S. Steven, daughter of Allen Steven, of La Salle county. They have two children and live at 1331 West Monroe street, Chicago.

FIVE DAYS' FIGHTING

Battle Begun Sunday Continues Fiercely.

CRONJE IS REFUSED AN ARMISTICE.

Lord Roberts Scatters the Reenforcements Under General B[illegible] With Heavy Losses—Boers Held In a Death Trap.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—General Cronje is seemingly making his last stand. He is dying hard, hemmed in by British infantry, with shells from 60 guns falling in his camp.

On the third day of the fight the Boer chief asked for an armistice to bury his dead. "Fight to a finish or surrender unconditionally," was Lord Kitchener's reply. General Cronje immediately sent back word that his request for a truce had been misunderstood and that his determination then, as before, was to fight to the death.

The battle went on. This was the situation of General Cronje Tuesday evening as sketched in the scanty telegrams that have emerged from the semisilence of South Africa.

The war office for the first time has given out an official compilation of the British losses. The total is 11,208 to Feb. 17. This does not include therefore Lord Roberts' losses nor the Wiltshire prisoners.

The Press association learns that the British losses at Koodoosrand were 700.

Three thousand fresh troops will embark for South Africa today.

The war office has issued the following from Lord Roberts, dated Paardeberg, Feb. 22:

"Methuen reports from Kimberley that supplies of food and forage are being pushed on as fast as possible. There will be enough coal to start the De Beers mines in ten days. By this means great misery will be alleviated. Hospital arrangements there reported perfect. He hopes Prieska and the adjoining country will soon be settled."

The Daily News has the following dispatch from Modder River, dated Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 21:

"The Boer forces under General Cronje are estimated at 8,000 men. At 12 o'clock he asked an armistice of 24 hours. Later he sent a message to say that he would surrender.

"The British general sent a reply, telling him to come into camp. Cronje refused, saying there had been a misunderstanding and that he would fight to the death.

"The bombardment was then reopened, and our lyddite shells set fire to the Boer wagons. We continued shelling the laager through the night, and in the morning we resumed with Maxims and rifles, principally from the north side.

"On Sunday there was much waste of life in attacking, and the same result will be achieved without it. During Monday night seven Boers made an attempt to break through our lines, but they were captured, and their leader was killed. Four were carrying letters. It is believed that there was one other who got through.

"Other prisoners say that General Cronje marched from Magersfontein here without outspanning, a distance of 33 miles. Had he succeeded in escaping it would have been one of the finest performances in the annals of war. The Canadians made a gallant charge at the laager, but were driven back with loss. General Macdonald and General Knox are slightly wounded.

The war office has received from Lord Roberts the following message, dated Paardeberg, Wednesday, Feb. 21:

"Yesterday afternoon I was satisfied, by a careful reconnoissance in force of the enemy's position, that I could not assault it without very heavy loss, which I was most anxious to avoid. Accordingly I decided to bombard him with artillery and turn my attention to the enemy's reenforcements. The result was most satisfactory. The Boers were driven off in all directions, losing a good many killed and wounded and about 50 prisoners, who say they arrived from Ladysmith two days ago by railroad. They also say it was our artillery fire which caused them to abandon the kopje they were occupying. Our loss was two officers, Captain Campbell of the Ninth lancers and Lieutenant Houston of the artillery, and four men, all slightly wounded."

A special dispatch from Paardeberg, dated Wednesday, Feb. 21, says:

"Commandant Botha has been attempting to relieve General Cronje. There has been severe fighting. General Botha's force is scattered, with heavy losses."

A dispatch from Paardeberg drift, dated Feb. 20, says:

"General Cronje's magnificent night march from Magersfontein now appears likely to end in disaster. The main body of the Boers is inclosed in a terrible death trap. The enemy are hiding in the bed of the Modder river, commanded by the British artillery and inclosed on the east and west by the British infantry. Sunday witnessed a gallant stand on the part of the retreating foe. Tired, harassed, they still maintained a bold front.

"It is somewhat difficult to explain the Sunday action, in which all the British force was engaged and in which General Cronje, under difficult conditions, managed to hold his own. On Saturday night the British mounted infantry came into touch with Cronje's rear guard, driving them back upon the main body. On Sunday morning the action was renewed, but the Boers, who had intrenched the river bed during the night, prevented a further advance of the mounted infantry in this direction.

"Meanwhile the highland brigade, consisting of the Seaforths, the Black Watch and the Argylls, advanced from the south bank, and the Essex, Welsh and Warwickshires formed a long line on the left which rested on the river, the extreme right being the Welsh. The whole line was ordered to envelop the Boers, who lined both banks of the river.

"The firing soon became heavy. The Boers, holding a splendid position, covered the left of the highland brigade, which advanced partly up the river bed and partly in the open, while the rest of the brigade, with the other regiments, swung round the front of the highland brigade on the level, coverless ground, exposed to a terrible fire, which obliged the men to lie upon the ground, as they did for the remainder of the day.

"This began at half past 7 in the morning. Through the dreadful heat and a terrible thunderstorm our men hung to the position, answering the Boer fire and shooting steadily.

"In the meantime the rest of the infantry completed the enveloping movement, the Welsh regiment having succeeded in seizing the drift, thus closing in the Boers, who had fought throughout with splendid courage. General Cronje's laager, full of carts, ammunition and stores, could be plainly seen near the north bank.

"General Smith-Dorrien collected a large body of men, including the Canadians, and crossed the river by Paardeberg drift, advancing toward the laager, which was being vigorously shelled. This force made a gallant attempt to charge into the laager, but failed.

"Before seizing the western drifts the Boers occupied a kopje on the south bank, running down the river. Therefore their force is out in two. The Boers hold the kopje and have one Vickers-Maxim and probably one or two other guns.

"Toward evening the battery on the south side opened, co-operating with the battery on the north side. A wonderful sight followed. The shells fell with amazing precision along the river bed opposite the laager, which was shelled thoroughly, damaging everything it contained. One shell set on fire a small ammunition wagon, which burned nearly all day. Many other wagons were set on fire, and the glare was visible at a considerable distance far into the night.

"The infantry also maintained a terrible fire, which was answered vigorously. The scene toward nightfall was terribly picturesque, with the blazing wagons, the roaring artillery and the crackling rifle fire."

French Aid For Boers.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—A letter from Colonel de Villebois Mareuil, General Joubert's chief of staff, to whom the Boer victory at Colenso is mainly attributed by the French papers, is published. In the course of this communication the colonel says that two of the Creusots' representatives rendered the Boers valuable aid. One, named Grunberg, he adds, is the head of their artillery, and the other, Leon, is the head of their engineers. Leon directed the hoisting of "Long Tom" to the dizzy heights around Ladysmith and also arranged for the victualing of the camps, which he himself located. The writer expresses admiration for the organization and commissariat arrangements of the Boer camps.

Must Fight or Yield.

CAPE TOWN, Feb. 23.—In reply to General Cronje's request for an armistice of 24 hours to allow him to bury his dead Lord Roberts told the Boer commander that he must fight to a finish or surrender unconditionally. Cronje's position is reported hopeless. The British have occupied Barkly West.

ANOTHER DEWEY DAY.

West Virginia Gives the Admiral an Ovation.

WHEELING, Feb. 23.—"Dewey day" in Wheeling has come and gone, and it goes down as the greatest in the history of the West Virginia metropolis, and this notwithstanding the weather, which could not have been more unfavorable, rain falling all the morning, followed in the afternoon by a very damp snow. The parade of course was not the great spectacle anticipated. Instead of the 10,000 paraders promised, only 2,500 appeared. Admiral Dewey and Lieutenant Doddridge rode in carriages, and both were given a magnificent ovation along the streets, which were lined by 25,000 to 30,000 people, who cheered themselves hoarse.

Following the parade the exercises in connection with the presentation by the state of West Virginia of the Fort Henry tablet occurred. Orations were made, and the patriotic sentiments were received with round after round of applause. Admiral Dewey was surprised and gratified with the warmth of the reception given him. He said that he had heard the West Virginia hills bore patriots, and now he knew it to be true.

The only public utterance of Admiral Dewey was when he handed the sword to Lieutenant John S. Doddridge, who was an ensign on board the Boston in the battle of Manila Bay. He said he felt great pleasure in participating in a ceremony in honor of a brave young naval officer.

Floods at Ithaca.

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Traffic on the Lehigh Valley and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroads for about a mile west of Ithaca has been entirely suspended owing to the rapid rise of the water. The Ithaca fair grounds and surrounding flats yesterday afternoon were under five feet of water, and the railroad tracks in that vicinity are entirely submerged. Trains coming into the city after 12 o'clock noon over the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western from Owego were obliged to unload their passengers on the west hill, and these were afterward brought into the city in carriages and buses.

Three Miners Killed.

....OUR ANNIVERSARY SALE....

Next Saturday is our first birthday and we are going to celebrate the day by holding a monster one week sale that will include every department in the store. This sale is as much to commemorate our good fortune in buying goods at the old low prices as it is our birthday. For months past we have been searching for good things for this event—dependable goods at very low prices. How well we have succeeded the generous items here advertised will show. Only a firm with the tremendous buying capacity enjoyed by this house could have secured such unusual values. The past year we have tried to keep store just as well as we knew how and it is a matter of pride with us that you have generously responded to our efforts. Hereafter we are going to try to keep store still better. In the future as in the past there will be no nonsense about this business. It takes all our time to attend to our rapidly growing trade. Buying as we do for four stores that together almost equal the largest metropolitan establishments, we receive price concessions that make it always to your interest to come here where lowest prices are a certainty.

BASKET BALL.

There is little or no prospect of any more basket ball games to be played in Plainfield this season. The third game with the Summit Y. M. C. A. did not find favor with the management of the Plainfield association team, and so that game is not likely to take place. The suggested match between the two Plainfield teams is not looked upon favorably either. The prospect of the latter game roused quite a little enthusiasm when it was first suggested, but Physical Director Heywood thinks that the effects would not be good for the spirit of the association.

ANOTHER TAX BILL

Revenue Bill Before New York Legislature—Pure Beer and Pensions.

ALBANY, Feb. 23.—Assemblyman Degraw of Kings county has introduced a bill providing that on and after the 1st day of July, 1900, a state tax shall be paid as follows:

Upon every acknowledgment taken within the state, 5 cents.

Upon every bill rendered for goods, wares, merchandise or material sold and delivered within the state or for services rendered within the state if the amount of such bill is not more than $10, 2 cents, and otherwise, 5 cents.

Upon tickets or other evidences of the right of admission to any building, park, inclosure or other places open to the public generally, at stated periods or otherwise, if the price of such ticket is not more than 10 cents, one-half of 1 cent; if more than 10 and not more than 50 cents, 1 cent, and otherwise, 2 cents. Quiet at Frankfort.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 23.—The state capitol is guarded by fewer soldiers than it has been at any time since the assassination of the late Governor Goebel. Adjutant General Collier yesterday, acting under directions from Governor Taylor, summoned all of the soldiers before him and told them that such of them as did not desire to remain in the service longer might return to their homes. About 150 went home, leaving probably 100 still here. Governor Taylor spent the day in conference with his attorneys, Judge W. H. Yost and Captain W. H. Sweeney, in regard to the agreed case which is being prepared for submission to the court. The legislature was not in session, having adjourned on account of Washington's birthday.

PYTHIANS TO LEAVE ULRICH IN ASYLUM.

Grand Lodge Decides Not to Act in the Case.

SANITY EXPERT ADVISED IT.

PERSEVERANCE LODGE ABIDES BY THE DECISION.

Dr. Hinckley, of Newark, Examined the Former Judge and Gave It as His Opinion That He Should Not be Liberated—Lodge Last Night Agreed to Abandon Efforts Already Made.

The efforts which have been made towards securing the release of John Ulrich, Past Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of the State of New Jersey, from the State Insane Asylum at Morris Plains, have been abandoned by Perseverance lodge, of this city, of which Mr. Ulrich is a member.

Several weeks a special committee, of which Charles McGinley was chairman, was appointed by the lodge to investigate the case of the Past Grand Chancellor, who, it was claimed, had been committed and was being detained illegally as an insane person.

Mr. Ulrich was visited several times by local Pythians, and they became convinced in their own minds that he was entirely rational. Recently, however, Dr. Hinckley, of Newark, a sanity expert, was called on to examine Mr. Ulrich and his advice was against securing the liberty of the patient.

The report of the special committee from Perseverance lodge, as well as that of Dr. Hinckley, was presented to the session of the Grand lodge in Trenton this week, and it was decided that it would be best to let the matter drop.

At a meeting of Perseverance lodge last night the ultimatum of the Grand lodge was accepted and no further effort will be made to release Mr. Ulrich.

For seveal years Mr. Ulrich was a well-known Republican politician in Northern New Jersey. He was once a member of the State Assembly, and later was elected city judge of Plainfield. At the conclusion of the term for the latter office he was a candidate for re-election, but was defeated after a bitter political fight. During the time he taxed his mind and energies too much, and soon after election he broke down. He was committed to the Trenton asylum, from which he was released in about a year. Later on he was an inmate of a private sanitarium, and while there he was committed to the Morris Plains institution, which he and some of his friends claim was done in an illegal and unjust manner.

FORCED TO PAY THEIR TAXES.

Bernards Township's Wealthy Residents Had to Come to Time.

The annual report of the financial condition of Bernards Township for the year ended February 5th, 1900, has been made by Township Clerk I. F. Garrabrant. The report shows the township to be in a better financial condition than for many years.

The report of Collector Thomas Day shows the amount of delinquent taxes to be less than usual. The principal cause of this is that for several years back a number of wealthy residents of Bankers' Mountain refused to pay the high rate of tax to cancel the bonds of the township, which they held to be illegal. Frank B. Allen, of Newark, who owns a handsome residence near here, refused to pay his tax, and the case was tried before the Supreme Court at Trenton. A decision upholding the legality of the bonds was given. Allen and the other residents of Bankers' Mountain have since paid their taxes.

The report of J. Halsted, Overseer of the Poor, shows that $1,387.08 has been expended on the poor during the past year, and $3,870.63 has been used for repairing and building bridges and making repairs on the roads.

WILL BURN GYPSY PROPERTY.

Prince Lovell's Widow to Follow Her Tribe's Custom.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, February 24.—The widow of the gypsy prince, Seth Lovell, who died several months ago at West Philadelphia, and whose body is buried in Evergreen cemetery here, was in town recently to inspect the $500 monument that has just been placed over her husband's grave.

Mrs. Lovell intends to burn her late husband's wagons and other property belonging to him and in the gypsy business. She says the property is worth $1,500. This is the custom of the tribe. Mrs. Lovell is seventy-five years old.

G. O. P. PREPARING.

LOCAL MACHINE GETTING READY FOR NATIONAL CAMPAIGN.

It is Intended to Form Ward Organizations to Whoop up Things, and to Look After Smaller Details of Campaign.

The Republicans of this city are already beginning to lay out the plans for the coming National campaign and are arranging for a special form of organization to care for the increased duties that will necessarily follow. At the last meeting of the Republican City Executive Committee, the first steps were taken toward that end.

In 1896 a campaign committee was organized early in the season. It consisted of the twelve members of the city executive committee and thirteen others who were appointed, making twenty-five in all. This commitee directed the campaign, arranged the mass meetings, looked after the distribution of campaign literature and were in charge of the other details of the campaign.

This year it is proposed to organize ward associations for the campaign. The three members of the city committee from each ward, with four other members of their choice, will form a ward association which will look after the work in that ward. The city committee will arrange the mass meetings, parades and the like but the lesser details will be divided among the ward associations. It is thought that a better canvass will be secured by the new method.

No appointments have yet been made. The ward associations will, however, be put in running order in the spring and from that time until election day, there will be no cessation in their activity.

MARTHA WASHINGTON SUPPER GIVEN AT HOPE CHAPEL.

It Was the Second Annual Event of its Kind and Was a Great Success—Mrs. Robert Haughter Was Martha

The Sunday-school room of Hope chapel was filled to its limit last night on the occasion of the Martha Washington supper and sociable, held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. This was the second annual supper and if anything it eclipsed the ladies' previous efforts in this direction. All the ladies were dressed to represent the good wife of the "Father of His Country." Mrs. Robert Haughter received the guests and personated Martha Washington in a most gracious manner.

The tables were very handsomely dressed and contained a bountiful supply of the good things to eat. They were presided ever by the following ladies.

Table No. 1—Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Firstbrook and the Misses Haughter and Slorah.

No. 2—Mrs. Radford, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs Higgins, and the Misses Coze and Porter.

No. 3—Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Bowden, Mrs. Corliss and Miss Firstbrook.

No. 4—Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. Webber, Mrs. Farley and the Misses Ayres and Kirch.

Mrs. Gow and Mrs. Scott had charge of the meats and salads and Mrs. Randolph and Magus the cake and pies, while the coffee and tea was served by Mrs. Bushley and Mrs. Gray. Mrs. Sweeney looked after the tickets and saw that no one passed the door without paying the necessary admission.

After supper had been served an informal musical entertainment was provided the visitors, during which Miss Rookman rendered several selections on the piano and Elmer Cutting sang a ballad.

The affair was a splendid success and thoroughly enjoyed by all. The proceeds are to be devoted toward paying for the new carpet recently laid in the remodeled chapel.

SOCIALISTS TO RUN A TICKET.

This May Have a Serious Effect on Elizabeth Democrats.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, February 24.—The Socialist-Labor party of this city has resolved to put a ticket in the field in every ward at the approaching charter election. As the strength of the Socialist-Labor men comes chiefly from the Democrats, this move will render doubtful some wards which the Democrats carried by small majorities at the last municipal election.

MARRIED 47 YEARS.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker, of New street, celebrated the forty-seventh anniversary of their marriage last evening at their home in a quiet manner. During the evening the celebrants received a number of callers and a social time was enjoyed. Hearty congratulations were extended and the best wishes for many returns of the day were offered.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker were married in this city forty-seven years ago by Rev. Daniel T. Hill, who was pastor of the Baptist church. The bride was Miss Lydia A. Spencer, daughter of Alex. Spencer, of this city. Both Mrs. Walker and her husband are natives of this place and have always lived here.

FEAR LEGGE WAS MURDERED.

Elizabeth Carpenter Disappeared Under Suspicious Circumstances.

(Special to The Daily Press).

Elizabeth, Feb. 24—Herman Legge, a carpenter, residing at 146 Marshall street, Elizabethport, has been missing since last Saturday and his family fear he has met with foul play. He was paid the evening he disappeared and his family, who have been searching for him, declare he was last seen in a saloon near the water front, which is said to be a resort for thieves.

It is thought that Legge may have displayed his money there and been waylaid after he left the place and perhaps thrown into the Kills. The Chief of Police was asked by the missing man's relatives to aid them in solving the mystery and detectives have been put on the case.

GEN. CRONJE HAS NOT SURRENDERED YET

Boers Are Still Standing Fast Against the British Troops—Cronje's Defeat Will Not End War.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

London, February 24th.—No despatches from Lord Roberts or Gen. Buller had been given out up to 1 o'clock this afternoon. Impatient crowds surge around the War Office anxious to get the first news.

This silence indicates that Gen. Cronje has not surrendered yet and is fighting fiercely on this, the seventh day of the most remarkable battle in modern history. The afternoon papers follows The News and other dailies in praising the "Lion of Africa" for his unparalled fight against huge odds.

The report that 1,700 Boers have been killed or wounded, the latter including Cronje, is not believed by military men, and the rumors of the relief of Ladysmith are considered premature.

Even if Cronje is finally forced to surrender and Ladysmith relieved this does not mean an end to the war. As one paper points out, an interview with Gen. Kitchener makes that cool headed soldier say that he expects the war to last two years.

READY FOR BUSINESS.

NEW CARS AND ENGINES FOR THE CENTRAL RAILROAD.

Annual Report of President Maxwell Shows That Great Improvements Have Been and are Being Made on the Road.

The annual report of the Central Railroad of New Jersey for the fiscal year ending December 31, 1899, shows a surplus of $2,062,348, equal to 7.6 per cent. on the capital stock. President Maxwell, in his report, says that the operating expenses, as heretofore, cover all expenditures for repairs, and also include expenditures for renewals of bridges, buildings and wharves, substitution of heavier rails and other construction.

The necessity for heavier locomotives and rolling stock of greater capacity and more durable character, required for the economical handling and movement of traffic, resulted in orders for the destruction and disposal of 14,904 (four-wheel) coal cars, 55 locomotives and other property of limited capacity, to the value of $2,357,149.70, which has been deducted from equipment account of which $1,856,030.68 was charged to profit and loss.

In place of the property so disposed of, there have been added to equipment during the year 25 freight locomotives, 6 passenger locomotives, 10 passenger coaches, 5 combination cars, 2,500 (80,000 pounds capacity) coal cars, 500 freight cars, 2 coal barges, together with miscellaneous machinery and tools, etc., costing in the aggeegate $2,459,089 08. The company has also purchased for delivery early this year 1,000 box cars, 500 gondola cars, 25 locomotives, 1 coal barge and 2 large car floats. These changes and additions to equipment represent greatly increased motive power and carrying capacity.

Suing the Railroad.

Drake & Mundy, through their attorneys, Messrs. Codington & Swackhamer, have brought suit in Justice Moffett's court against the Central Railroad of New Jersey to recover $160 for damages alleged to be due because the Central Railroad neglected to deliver a quantity of poultry shipped to them from New York in which came too late to be of any use to them. J. L. Conover, of New York, represents the railroad company. The papers are returnable March 6th.

TRYING TO OUST CHIEF.

SURPRISING ACTION TAKEN BY THE BOROUGH FIREMEN.

Majority of Members Decide That Julius Stahl Should be Chosen to Fill the Position Now Held by George Fairchild.

At a joint meeting of the members of Warren Engine Company and West End Hose Company, held on Wednesday night, an unusual precedent was established by the election of J. J. Stahl to be the next chief of the fire department in place of George Fairchild. The regular election of the companies does not take place until next May, but a movement was recently started to displace Mr. Fairchild, Heretofore, the fire, water and lamp committee of the Council was also supposed to know the wish of the members and that which is for the best interest of the borough, and the Mayor appointed and the Council confirmed the strength of the recommendation of the committee.

For some unknown reason the members thought it would be well to meet jointly and express in another way who they want for chief. At this meeting Mr. Stahl received 45 votes out of a possible 52, that being the membership of the two companies. Mr. Fairchild was not present at the meeting, although it is believed that he knew of the intended action.

There is a peculiar feature attached to this movement. Heretofore, it has always been customary for a chief of the department to remain in office as long as the Mayor who appoints him does, unless there is cause for removal. There seems to be some doubt as to whether the Mayor and Council will confirm the action of the firemen. At this same meeting William Demarest, of West End Hose Company, was elected assistant chief.

To Build a $25,000 House.

Wyman & Haberle, the contractors, have been awarded the contract to build Otto Arens' handsome new house near Woodland Park. The house will cost in the neighborhood of $25,000, and will be one of Plainfield's most palatial residences. The work is to be started as son as the weather will permit, and it is expected that the house will be completed for occupancy in nine months. William Pangborn, of Chatham street, has the contract for the mason work.

The Metuchen Borough Bill.

In order to satisfy the contending factions in Metuchen over the much-discussed borough question, a clause referring the matter back to the citizens for a popular vote, would be incorporated in the bill. This means that the majority of the male population will have to decide whether they want a borough or not. The revised bill, with the referendum clause, will make its appearance in the Legislature next Monday night.

Dismissed the Complaint.

James Brennan, who was arrested with his brother Thomas and Patrick Loughlin Washington's Birthday on the charge of having created a disturbance at the corner of Park and North avenues, appeared before City Judge Runyon this morning. He explained his part as that of a peacemaker between the other two men, when they got rather boisterous. The Judge dismissed the complaint against him.

Haley is Recovering.

Andrew Haley, the man who was found in this city one night last month with his throat cut, and acting strangely, and who was taken to the hospital for treatment, has almost recovered and if nothing prevents he will be discharged from the hospital Monday. The opening in the throat is about closed and he is able to eat and drink as well as ever.

Building Up Again.

The First Church of Christ is renewing its youth, and the good work of the middle nineties promises to be repeated. Services are held Sunday morning and evening, conducted by the Disciples' Mission. The faithful few are having their numbers augmented by those who withdrew a year or two ago, and the welcome to outsiders is hearty.

NEEDS OF THE NATION.

PATRIOTIC ADDRESS OF DR A. H. LEWIS AT BOUND BROOK.

No Wornout Politicians Should Have a Place in the Colonial Government—Need of Isthmus Canal Dwelt On.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of The Sabbath Recorder, delivered the principal address at the celebration of the Washington Camp Ground Association at Bound Brook Thursday. His subject was "The Birth and Evolution of a Great Nation." The Bound Brook Chronicle says that "his eloquence and ready flow of choice language charmed his hearers, who followed him with the closest attention."

He traced the history of this country through three periods of expansion, the first following the Revolution, the second after the Civil War, and the third that upon which we have just entered.

He declared that the United States had taken her place as one of the great powers of the world, whether we will or not.

A look forward revealed the necessity of carrying to our new possessions the highest type of our civilization. No wornout politicians should be allowed places in the colonial government, and it is a matter for congratulation that such men as Taft, Wood and Henry are selected to represent this nation in our new possessions, which should be taught the art of self-government as soon as it can be brought about.

He urged the necessity of the speedy completion of the canal across the Isthmus of Darien, the purification of life in our great cities, the breaking of the power of the liquor traffic and the placing of the ballot in the hands of women.

AID FOR THE HOME.

PROFIT MAKING AFFAIR OF THE DAUGHTERS OF THE CROSS.

Reception, Cake Sale and Musicale Given at the Home of Mrs. Charles A. Reed—Entertaining Programme Rendered.

One of the most delightful affairs of the season was that of yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Reed, 27 Myrtle avenue, when the Daughters of the Cross gave a reception, cake sale and musicale for the benefit of the Children's Home, one of Plainfield's most worthy institutions. There were about one hundred and fifty people in attendance from 3 to 6 o'clock. The home will receive about $85 as a result of the affair.

Sometime ago the Daughters of the Cross became a member as a body of the Children's Home Association, and agreed to give annually $10 to this institution. In this way the organization became acquainted with the needs of the Home and the members were led to assist in a substantial way in meeting the many expenses attendant upon the management of it.

Mrs. Reed received the guests, assisted by Mrs. Horace Kimball, president of the Children's Home Association; Mrs. F. H. Ball, Mrs. W. W. Howland and Mrs. John Gray Foster. In the dining room Mrs. J. P. Northup and Mrs. Reuben Knox poured tea and chocolate, respectively. They were assisted by Mrs. Joseph H. Howell and Mrs. George D. Hallock, who in turn were assisted by Miss Daisy Elsburg, Miss Marie Honeycutt, Miss Elizabeth Curtis, Miss Howell and Miss Kathryn Dwight. The prevailing colors were pink and green, which were introduced through an arrangement of smilax and pink carnations.

There was another choice assortment of cakes on sale in charge of Mrs. Murray, assisted by Mrs. Charles Lyman.

One of the pleasing features of the afternoon was the informal programme presented in which Miss Howell rendered several selections on the piano and Miss Grace Cooley gave selections from "Bob, Son of Battle." Additional pleasure was enjoyed by the recitations given by Miss Kathryn Dwight. Those who took part in the programme were enthusiastically received.

A Successful Surprise.

A very pleasant surprise was tendered Miss Florence Boylan at her home at Mt. Pleasant, last evening. The affair, which was in honor of her birthday, was complete in every way. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games, after which refreshments were served. There were about forty friends present, and all enjoyed a good time.

Notable Society Affair in the Casino Last Night.

DANCING ALSO A FEATURE.

MRS. EDWARD M. VANBUREN HOSTESS OF THE PARTY.

She Was Assisted by Mrs. L. M Timpson and Miss Maude VanBoskerck—Casino Prettily Trimmed for the Occasion—First, Second and Third Honors Were Awarded—Dancing Followed Cards

A delightful progressive euchre party and dance was given last evening at the Casino by Mrs. Edward VanBuren, assisted by Miss Maude VanBoskerck and Mrs. Lewis G. Timpson. The affair was an informal one and was attended by about seventy of Plainfield's society folks, sixty of whom played. The auditorium was prettily decorated for the occasion in many colors and through the use of colored paper the electric lights cast their soft mellow rays about the hall.

Those who assisted in receiving with Mrs. Edward VanBuren, in addition to those mentioned, included Mrs. George. T. VanBoskerck, Mrs. D T. VanBuren, Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, Mrs. Mason W. Tyler and Mrs. Samuel Huntington. There was a delightful sociability evidenced throughout the evening and the affair was one of the most pleasant of the evening.

At the conclusion of play the prize-winners were announced by those in charge. The first, second and third honors for the women were awarded to Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, Miss Bowen and Miss Maude VanBoskerck, while D. A. Pearson, O. G. Waring and C. W. Fisk were the winners for the gentlemen.

The balance of the evening was then devoted to dancing. Music was furnished by Benjamin LaVere's orchestra. At a late hour refreshments were served under the direction of those in charge, and after a few more dances the event came to a close. The guests were unanimous in praising the hostess for the very pleasant time afforded them.

TROLLEY ACROSS JERSEY.

May Ride From Jersey City to Philadelphia for 70.

It may soon be possible to ride from Philadelphia to Jersey City on a trolley car for 70 cents. The efforts to supply the missing links have long been delayed by litigation. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has now ordered the dispute between the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Philadelphia and Bristol Railroad Company over a right of way at Crovdon back to the Bucks County Court for a re-hearing.

The question to be decided has been the chief hitch to the scheme to cross the State on electric cars. The trolley promoters think they will win ultimately, but no one knows when the case will be decided, especially if it is taken to the highest Federal court.

Trolley cars will soon be running from Camden to Trenton. The New Brunswick combine is expected to make connections that will carry the line through to Newark. The combination known as the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company has a capital of $10,000,000.

Again Promoted in the Navy.

Mrs. Johnson, of LaGrande avenue, has just received a letter from her brother, Adolphus Giles, who is on the U. S. S. New York. The battleship is now in South American waters, and all hands are in the best of health and spirits. The temperature is in the neighborhood of the nineties, but the sailor boys do not mind it. Mr. Giles has again been promoted and is now in charge of one of the gun crews.

Mrs. Eugene A. Moore's Euchre Party

A most charming euchre party was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Eugene A. Moore, of College place. Thirty people enjoyed Mrs. Moore's hospitality and three successful young ladies carried off prizes. The first prize was won by Miss Edith Gilbert, the second prize by Miss May Bodman and the consolation prize by Miss Schroeder. After the games, refreshments were served at the tables.

Horace J. Martin, Jr., of Jackson avenue, has secured a position with F. L. C. Martin, of East Fourth street.

A. J. Clark and wife, of West Front street, have taken up their residence corner of Front street and Central avenue.

Rev. Herbert Welch, who was elected to succeed President Ferguson, of Centenary Institute at Hacket'stown, is a son-in-law of the late James McGee. He declines the election and will remain at Middletown, Ct.

BUT A SINGLE THOUGHT.

She Could Talk of Nothing Excepting If Related to Something to Eat.

She was just recovering from typhoid fever. "How do you feel this morning, dear?" inquired her husband, to whom she had been married but two weeks before her illness.

"Good. And, Charlie, the doctor says I can have some boiled rice by next Monday. Won't that be nice?"

"I guess it will. Nell, I forgot to tell you last night that I met Clara Jones, and she inquired about you."

"That was nice. Charlie, did you ever eat of Clara's chocolate cake? My, don't I wish I had a piece now!"

"No, I never did. Do you love me this morning, Nell?"

"Why, Charlie, you know—oh, say, I was just thinking as you came in. Do you like meatballs? I am going to make some the first thing when I get up, and angel's-food, and orange pudding, and cucumber pickles, and potato salad, and cold slaw, and olives, and marshmallows, and clam chowder, and lobster salad, and pickles, and—oh, Charlie, I wish I had them all now!"

"I wish you could. But don't think of them any more. Just lie still and get well fast, so that you can be ready for Bess Graham's lawn-party next month. She was asking me if you will be out by the 12th."

"Did she say what kind of refreshments she will serve? I hope she has pishtachio ice cream, and lemon sherbet, and some of the soft cocoanut cake that she makes, and—"

"It's too bad that you can't attend the alumni reception next Friday."

"And the banquet with it. Oh, dear! It just makes me sick to think of lying here so long. And they'll have blue points, and veal croquettes, and chicken salad, and spring chicken with mayonnaise dressing, and—"

"Never mind now, sweetheart. Just be patient and get well soon, so that we can go out on our wheels into the country again on Saturday afternoons."

"Yes. And every time we go I'm going to take a lunch. That tin box that our jelly knife came in from Ohio will be just the thing to carry a lunch in. And I can put in some dried beef and—"

"And we can take our camera. Did you know that last night I developed the picture I took of Spoon Falls while we were on our trip? I got a fine neg—"

"Spoon Falls! What a name to make anyone feel hungry just to hear it. It makes me think of rice pudding, and strawberries and cream, and—"

"Oh, Nell, did I tell you that old Mr. Wheeler—he's worth a hundred thousand—has retained me to prosecute his case against the L. S. & M. company? If I can win that suit it will give me—"

"Say, Charlie, won't you bring home a box of those cherries I saw advertised in this morning's paper, and ask the doctor if he don't think I can have just a few of them?"

"Not quite yet, dear. Nell, are you sure you love me the best of anyone in the world?"

"Why, sweetheart, what makes you ask that so much? You know I—oh, Charlie, here comes the nurse with my toast! Now scamper!"

He scampered.—Harry Newton Gardner, in Woman's Home Companion.

FRILLS OF FASHION.

Materials and Trimmings for Gowns That Are Now in Favor with the Ladies.

Embroidered swiss is on the top wave, perhaps, as there is a new variety called mohair swiss. It has a different weave from that of last season, or a different thread, rather, which gives it a more wiry texture. The pale-colored grounds embroidered in black and white small designs are extremely effective, and it comes in double width. The new piques are charming, too, both in quality and coloring; the dark shades of blue, dull rose, brown and green being especially fine. They have satin stripes of the same color, or polka dots in a contrast, but in either case they are a delight to the eye.

Panne is in full vogue now, both for waists and entire gowns, and it is reported that Worth, of Paris, is making a gathered skirt of panne with a band of fur around the hem for the only trimming. The gathers begin on either side of the front breadth and continue around the back.

Very elaborate knickerbockers of satin are worn by some women as a substitute for petticoats.

Among the new French veilings is a very becoming fine white mesh, with small dots of black chenille or velvet.

Buttons in wedgewood designs on green, blue and brown are a fashionable feature in this department.

Blouses of white satin embroidered with steel are one of the novelties, and the satin is slashed up from the waist line to show a wide corselet belt of satin covered with rows of stitching.

Charming bows worn on evening gowns at one side of the neck are made of double-faced soft satin ribbon in three different pastel colors—green, pink and mauve, for example.

The new taffeta dress silks show bayadere lines, satin dots and stripes with pretty flowered designs between; while in the heavier weaves there are some peculiar opal effects, which are facinating.—N. Y. Sun.

Baked Onions.

Boil as directed until tender, place in a baking dish (crowding a little), season with salt and pepper, dot over generously with butter, and bake until delicately browned. When the onions lack the sweetness of summer onions it is well to dust a little sugar on those to be baked. Onions may be peeled without shedding tears by taking the precaution to dip them in water from time to time while peeling.—Woman's Home Companion.

Government For Filipinos Is Just What They Asked.

PRESIDENT SCHURMAN SO DECLARES

A Copy of the Constitution Drawn by Aguinaldo's Secretary to Be Sent Out For Comparison—Many Islands Peaceably Possessed.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—President Schurman of Cornell university and former head of the Philippine commission delivered an address before the student body at the Armour institute yesterday. He said that the Philippine commission recommended to the president a government and constitution for the Philippines identically the same as that framed by the educated Filipinos, which is practically the governmental policy outlined by Thomas Jefferson for the government of the vast territory acquired by the Louisiana purchase.

President Schurman said further he was happy to state that President McKinley had accepted the recommendations and was sending out a second commission to put this government in operation.

"To avoid any mistake on the subject," said the speaker, "the constitution drawn up by Pedro A. Paterno, Aguinaldo's prime minister in 1898, will be published alongside with the constitution adopted by the commission, so it may be seen the two are identical, with only slight elaboration in the American form. This constitution also agrees with the request that leading Filipinos have been making of us day after day.

"The newspapers have not given publicity to the fact that we are to give the Filipinos the very government they themselves ask, but our government is now striking off 15,000 copies of the report that it may inform those who have been so solicitous in regard to the kind of government their friends, the Filipinos, would obtain from us."

Continuing, the speaker said that after a careful study of the island tribes he became convinced that the plan of Great Britain in her government of the Malays—signing peace pacts with the individual chiefs of the tribes—was the most satisfactory one. The results upheld his opinion, for in the southern row of islands where this policy was followed not a gun had been fired, and the American flag had been held an honored emblem. This policy was not adopted in regard to the middle islands, which are inhabited by the Visayan tribe, the largest in the group of islands, because of the fact that there are no native rulers with whom to deal. The people, however, are ready for American government.

Testing Fireproof Wood.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Architects, engineers, building experts and insurance men from various sections of the United States and Canada attended some interesting tests of fireproof wood given under the supervision of the New York board of fire underwriters and the building and fire departments of the city. The tests were made in the vicinity of Nineteenth street and the East river. A house constructed of wood treated by the process followed in making the woodwork of battleships fireproof was erected upon piles high enough from the ground so that a hot fire was built underneath. The flames leaped high in the air, but did little damage beyond giving the boards a charred appearance. One or two of the visitors remained in the house while it was burning so as to note the effect. A fire was also built within the structure, the smoke coming out through the chimney. The fire was said to be of sufficient intensity to destroy an ordinary building in New York, but the flames did not penetrate the structure.

Bitten by a Rattlesnake.

HARTFORD, Feb. 24.—Two men were bitten by a rattlesnake in a Front street saloon here yesterday, and one of them is at the hospital with only slight chances of recovery. The other man, who is also at the hospital in a serious condition, will probably recover. The condition of the men was such that they were unable to give their names. The men were bitten while standing near a cage in which two rattlesnakes were confined.

Large Ships Planned.

BATH, Me., Feb. 24.—Plans have been completed by the firm of Arthur Sewall & Co. of Bath for two big four mast steel ships larger than any ever built in the Sewall yard. The new vessels will be 3,500 tons each and will have 500 tons more carrying capacity than either of the three steel ships now included in the Sewall fleet. Work on the first of the new ships will be commenced the 1st of May.

State Control For State Fair.

ALBANY, Feb. 24.—The committee on agriculture of the senate will on Monday night report favorably on Senator Ambler's state fair bill, which puts the state fair under the control of the state through the commissioner of agriculture. The bill will be amended so as to provide that exhibits on the part of town and county agricultural societies may be optional instead of compulsory.

Cuba at the Fair.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Senor Quesada, the Cuban representative here, reports that gratifying progress is being made in preparing the Cuban exhibit for the Paris exposition. Advices just received from Havana are to the effect that the exhibit will be ready for shipment on March 3. The applications for space are so numerous that it has been necessary to ask for more room.

Agreement on Financial Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The Republican members of the conference committee on the financial bill reached an agreement yesterday. The Democratic conferees were called in and stated their opposition to the bill, and without further formality the bill was ordered reported.

Railroad Pays In Advance.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The Central Pacific Railway company has anticipated the payment of one of its notes for $2,900,000 due more than a year hence and has received in return the same amount in Union Pacific bonds, which were pledged as collateral.

Virginia Honors Jeff Davis.

RICHMOND, Feb. 24.—The general assembly has passed a joint resolution making June 3, the birthday of Jefferson Davis, a legal holiday in Virginia.

THE BOERS BLAMED.

Present War Caused by Their Despotism and Injustice.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—In a letter to the New York Times Sister Mary Reginald Murphy, O. S. D., late of Cork, Ireland, writing from Maritzburg, Natal, under date of Jan. 19, tells of the war in South Africa.

"It is inexplicable," she writes, "that so many strange and unjust opinions should be entertained even by the enlightened and liberal minded. It is a patent fact to all close observers and easily ascertained by any one who impartially investigates the matter that this war is the natural, inevitable outcome of Boer despotism, intolerance and injustice and that England's cause is just and her action a purely defensive one. Perhaps never before has England had so much justice and clemency on her side, and in the cause of justice the truth should be made known. A glance at South African history of the last decade of the century will reveal the respective attitudes of the imperial and Transvaal governments, the one dominant, yet patient under unredressed grievances; the other an oligarchy, fostered by capitalists, foreign adventurers, harshly intolerant to British subjects, plainly ambitious of supreme power in South Africa and steadily preparing for this war, which it contemplated and at last forced by invasion.

"Outside this land the Boers are regarded as a peace loving, God fearing people, hard working, industrious and careless of power, while they are in reality indolent, fanatical and persistently intolerant of all creeds outside their own, especially the Catholic religion, which they abhor, and their desire to rule is but too clearly evidenced by the deadly preparations they have long been secretly making to acquire by force of arms supreme dominion over the whole of South Africa.

"Had England been suspicious and on the alert she could have nipped those projects in the bud. Had she even been prompt in taking up the gauntlet so audaciously thrown down by the Transvaal oligarchy she could have saved not alone herself but the guilty, plotting, treacherous enemy from much misery and bloodshed.

CALLED A MURDERER.

President McKinley Scored by Philadelphia "Antis."

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—The second day's session of the "eastern conference" of anti-imperialists was characterized by the adoption of a strong resolution condemning the expansion policy of the administration.

During the discussion President McKinley was severely criticised and held personally responsible for the "criminal aggression" of the country.

Several of the delegates objected to the use of President McKinley's name on the ground that it was unwise to insert personalities into a resolution of that nature.

The resolution when first presented placed the responsibility for the war in the Philippines with "the Republican party under the lead of President McKinley," but on motion of Mr. Moorefield Storey of Massachusetts the words "the present administration" were substituted.

Answering the objections of those who favored striking out the name of Mr. McKinley, Frank Stephens of this city said: "That murderer is the man who is chiefly to blame for the shame that rests upon this country, and his name should not be removed."

Gasoline Explosion Causes Big Fire.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 24.—The explosion of a gasoline stove in the basement of the Metropolitan hotel was followed by a fire which burned that building and the Hewlett block adjoining, causing a loss of about $160,000. The insurance amounts to about three-fourths of the loss. After two hours' hard work by the firemen the flames were beyond control, and, fearing the entire block, including the Potter buildings and the Morris hotel, would be swept away, a telegram was sent to Montgomery asking for aid. An hour later, however, the fire was under control, and the request for help from Montgomery was countermanded. Everything on Twentieth street, from First to Morris avenue, is a wreck. No lives were lost.

Damages Asked of Spain.

SPENCER, Ind., Feb. 24.—Victor Hochenstein has filed a claim for $200,000 against the Spanish government for treatment received from Spanish soldiers in Cuba while he was in the service of the Red Cross society. He served in the Sudan campaign in the British army and is an English pensioner. He publicly charged in Havana that the Spaniards blew up the Maine and was seized and confined in Morro castle.

National Bank to Resume Business.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Feb. 24.—The National Bank of Port Jervis, which suspended on Dec. 19 owing to the defalcation of Assistant Cashier Goldsmith, will resume business March 5. Robert D. Muir of East Orange, N. J., will be employed as cashier. It is announced that the new stock has been oversubscribed and that the number of stockholders in the reorganized bank is more than double those of the old bank.

CRONJE YIELDS NOT.

Surrounded by British and Under a Terrible Fire.

BULLER'S ADVANCE HOTLY CONTESTED

Ladysmith Watches the Fight For Its Relief—A Large Force Sent to Resist the Advance of Lord Roberts.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Mr. Balfour announced in the house of commons at half past 12 this morning that no further news regarding General Cronje had been received by the government. He had sent to the war office during the hour, and he asserted that nothing had come to hand there.

General Cronje, therefore, is presumably still unbeaten. No other construction is placed upon the three days' silence of Lord Roberts.

Yet no one sees how it is humanly possible, judging from the descriptions of his situation Wednesday morning, for him to resist so long. Great Britain does not withhold admiration for the valor of a losing fight against such odds.

Latest reports show that Cronje is still fighting with bulldog tenacity against odds of three to one. His laager is now wholly girdled by British artillery and troops. The Boer force numbers about 8,000 men, while that of the British is nearly 25,000.

On all sides wonder is expressed that the gallant, yet ghastly, battle at Paardeberg drift has not yet ended in what is here considered to be the inevitable. With GENERAL CRONJE.

50 guns bearing upon the devoted band within the terribly short range of 2,000 yards, surrender or utter annihilation apparently can be the only result, unless all reports of the strength of the Boer reenforcements are wrong.

An unconfirmed rumor reached London this morning that Ladysmith had been relieved.

Ladysmith had not been relieved when the latest news left Natal two days ago. The Boers had then retired half way between Ladysmith and Colenso. If only 6,000 went to the Free State, as both the Boer and the British accounts assert, the 12,000 who are left may purpose to maintain the siege and to resist General Buller within contracted lines, although the impression at General Buller's headquarters is that the Boers are merely covering a retreat.

A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Pietermaritzburg, dated Thursday, says:

"Fighting is proceeding in the vicinity of Pieter's this morning. General Buller's advance is being opposed by both big gun and rifle fire."

A dispatch from Chieveley, dated Feb. 22, to The Daily Chronicle says:

"At dawn on Tuesday we found that the Boers had vacated all their positions south of the Tugela and were in positions among the hills midway between Ladysmith and the river and making a determined stand. Two Creusot guns were in action.

"All the British naval and other heavy guns were brought to bear upon the new positions. We believe that this show of Boer strength was only intended to cover a retreat. Yesterday (Wednesday) the Boers were retiring all day. General Buller continued to harass them, compelling them to give way."

The Daily Chronicle has the following dispatch from Ladysmith, dated Saturday, Feb. 17:

"All day men gather on Convent hill and try to see General Buller's shells bursting in the distance. The siege has been inexpressibly tedious for the last fortnight. Boer camps have entirely disappeared from the old positions within the last few days, and large parties, with wagons, are trekking westward. It is assumed that the Free Staters are going to resist the advance of Lord Roberts.

"We estimate that about 6,000 have gone. Near the foot of Bulwana the Boers have been constructing a work near the river, possibly a dam. We can see a figure like an old lady in a red petticoat directing operations."

The Lourenco Marques correspondent of The Daily News, telegraphing Tuesday, says:

"We are in a state of doubt and anxiety regarding events in the Free State. We hear that the telegraph wire between General Cronje and Bloemfontein has been severed, and the news from the front is conflicting.

"It is a symptom of the present trend of events that storekeepers in the Free State have wired here stopping the forwarding of goods. I learn that the Transvaal government has £5,000,000 in bullion at Pretoria and is coining 35,000 sovereigns a month."

A dispatch from Hoofdlaager, Ladysmith, dated Feb. 21, says:

"There was heavy fighting all Monday and Tuesday, and it still continues since early this morning. Our officers hope to dislodge the British from their position. Last night a body of British troops tried to cross the river, but were driven back with heavy loss. Our loss was slight. Our positions are being bombarded from Ladysmith at a point where the Klip river passes through the hills. Our Long Tom is replying with good effect."

The Daily Chronicle has the following dispatch from Kimberley, dated Wednesday, Feb. 21:

"Cavalry patrols that went north to capture the Boer 100 pounder report that the weapon has been taken beyond Riverton station, drawn by 32 oxen. The British cavalry say that they saw Boer parties, but did not go beyond Riverton for fear of being cut off. They learned, however, that the Transvaalers were being concentrated on the border to the north.

"A party of Boers fired into the British camp. Fifty thousand pounds of ammunition was captured at Magersfontein. Cecil Rhodes will leave for England shortly. W. E. Chapman, with 30 men, held out for weeks against the Boers at Otto Kopje mine until relieved from Kimberley."

A correspondent of The Daily News, telegraphing from Modder River Thursday morning, says:

"As I left Koodoosrand this morning a heavy shell and rifle fire was in progress. Last night the Boer laager was a mass of flames, and the Boers were seen making shelter in the trenches.

"General Cronje's wife, according to some of the prisoners, is urging him to surrender. Too much stress cannot be laid upon the importance of sending cargoes of horses for remounts. The necessity of rapid movement, which was grasped by Lord Roberts, has altered the whole campaign."

BOER BATTLE NEWS.

Cronje Reports That He Was Surrounded, but Cut His Way Out.

PRETORIA, Feb. 24.—The following official war bulletin has been issued here:

"A report was received Wednesday morning of cannon firing west of Colesberg.

"At Petrusberg cannon firing commenced at 6 in the morning. A big fight was expected.

"Dewet telegraphed Tuesday from Petrusberg that all was quiet except several cannon shots and small skirmishes. Tuesday evening the British stormed the federal positions as far as Schauzer, but were driven back.

"A message from General Cronje is to the effect that his loss Tuesday was 14 dead and wounded.

"Dewet's loss was nil.

"Commandant Fronoman reports that from Feb. 15 to Feb. 20 he was almost surrounded by the British at the Modder river, when with a small number of men he broke through the river.

"On Sunday there was a heavy fight. The British prepared to lay siege to the Boer laager, with fighting general. We were surrounded by 2,500 British five miles from the chief laager. At night we cut our way through with the loss of seven dead and 16 wounded. The loss of the British was heavy. Tuesday we cut our way through to reach Dewet, who was in the neighborhood. Fifty-three prisoners were taken, and 53 prisoners formerly taken have been forwarded.

"It is reported that the British were continually attacking Koodoosrand with infantry and lancers, but that they were driven back."

Lord Methuen at Kimberley.

KIMBERLEY, Feb. 24.—Lord Methuen arrived here Tuesday. He will act as administrator of the Kimberley district, extending southward to the Orange river. Colonel Kekewich will remain in command of the local forces. The issue of siege soup has ceased. There are 64 Boer prisoners here.

Boers Gone to Aid Cronje.

CHIEVELEY, Feb. 24.—The main body of the Boers has fled, evidently with the object of stemming the advance of Lord Roberts.

FOREST PRESERVATION.

Continued Purchase of Land by New York State Recommended.

ALBANY, Feb. 24.—The special committee of the assembly appointed last winter by Speaker Nixon to investigate as to certain matters pertaining to the state park and forest preserve will submit its report to the assembly next week. This committee, which had full power to prosecute its inquiry in every direction, investigated the following subjects:

What shall constitute the proper boundaries of the state park, what lands if any now owned by the state outside of the boundaries of said park should be sold and what additional lands if any within its boundaries should be purchased by the state; also whether or not the game and forest laws are being violated and if so what remedial measures are necessary to secure their proper enforcement.

The conclusions reached by the committee after a careful investigation lead it to recommend that the state purchase as much of its forest area as is possible or practicable and therefore that the appropriation for the purchase of lands in the Adirondack park be continued. They would recommend, moreover, that amendments be made to the constitution permitting the sale of many of the detached parcels of outlying lands owned by the state, the proceeds to be applied in the purchase of other lands better located for the purpose of forest preservation and that the proper authorities be given power under stringent restrictions to lease lands when and where the interests of the state will receive benefit.

Should Annex Nicaragua.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Dicussing the pending Nicaragua canal treaty L. E. Cooley, the well known engineer, said today that perhaps the easiest way out of the confusion would be for the United States to annex Nicaragua. Not long ago Mr. Cooley visited Nicaragua as a member of a contracting syndicate to investigate the feasibility of the Nicaraguan canal route. During his stay he talked with all the high officials of the Nicaraguan government. Alluding to his observations in Nicaragua he said: "The impression I acquired while in Nicaragua was that the people of all classes, including the highest officials, were ready and anxious for annexation to the United States.

Walcott Whips Choynski.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The patrons of boxing who crowded the Broadway Athletic club last night were treated to a surprise. Joe Walcott, the Barbados negro, and Joe Choynski of California took part in the main attraction, which was to have been a 25 round bout at catchweights. Choynski weighed 163 pounds, and Walcott turned the scales at 147. Walcott won, and this was the surprise. The betting made Choynski a prohibitive favorite, odds of 100 to 30 being freely laid on his chances, but after the first round, in which Choynski went to the floor five times, the odds shifted, and at the beginning of the second round Walcott was a 2 to 1 favorite.

A Russian Cruiser Appears.

BOMBAY, Feb. 24.—The Times of India announces that a large Russian cruiser has arrived at Bandar Abbas, on the straits of Ormus, which connects the Persian gulf with the Arabian sea. The British third class cruiser Pomone and the British gunboat Sphinx have proceeded thither.

Congressman Fowler is in the midst of a very fiery political battle over the question of who shall be postmaster at Orange. Up to a couple of weeks ago there were only two aspirants for the job, which pays $3,000 per year, but now a third man has stepped in and is developing influence that makes it considerably more difficult for the Congressman to recommend an appointment without offending some one. A Congressman's life is not "one grand sweet song"—especially when he wants to continue in office and the essential contributing feature to that desire is to have political good feeling exist among his party constituents.

Senator Reed has introduced a bill in the Legislature which gives county boards of freeholders the privilege of applying to county courts for the appraisement of a county board of commissioners to equalize assessments for taxes and defines their powers and duties. The board shall comprise three members, each to receive not less than $100 and not more than $:.00 and shall supersede the county board of assessors, and discharge the duties now imposed by law upon the latter board.

A Philadelphia editor was held up the other night by footpads and relieved of a gold watch. And this in the face of the sky-scraping prices exacted by the Paper Trust. Wonders will never cease.

The proposed law abolishing spring elections has died an inglorious death, the only mourners being a few politicians who were as unwise as their scheme was undeserving.

Both Democratic and Republican politicians are busy fixing up their fences, but the planks that they are using will not be found in the party platforms next summer.

The selection of the Fourth of July as the date for holding the National Democratic convention indicates a hope to celebrate before and after.

If there is not plenty of cash in circulation in Montana it is not the fault of Clark. He distributed his money indiscriminately enough.

VALENTINE AGAIN IN COURT.

Embezzling Bank Clerk Arraigned on New Indictments.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Feb. 24—George M. Valentine, formerly cashier of the Middlesex County Bank, who was sentenced on July 19 to six years imprisonment, was brought from the State Prison at Trenton, yesterday, to New Brunswick, and again arraigned in court.

At the December term of the Grand Jury six additional indictments were found against Valentine, two of them for making false entries, and for embezzling specific stock. Valentine entered a plea of non-vult. Public Prosecutor Voorhis then pointed out that under the law when a prisoner is sentenced on several indictments at the same time the sentences must run together. That is, if a prisoner is sentenced to six years altogether for the three separate offenses. He moved that in the present case sentence be postponed until the term now being served by the prisoner shall have expired, when, if it should be deemed in the public interest to inflict further punishment upon the offender, he may again be arraigned for sentence.

The Court then remanded Valentine back to the State Prison at Trenton.

ACCEPTS BRADLEY'S OFFER.

Asbury Park Likely to Own the Beach and Boardwalk.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, Feb. 24.—Founder James A. Bradley's offer to sell his mile beach front and boardwalk to the city of Asbury Park for $150,000 was formally accepted at a meeting of the Council last night, after the proposition had been read by Dr. George F. Wilbur.

The members of the Council were enthusiastic in praise of Mr. Bradley's generosity, and a resolution was adopted directing the preparation of an enabling act to be passed by the present Legislature. A public meeting to vote on the offer has been called for Tuesday night.

Rahway, Feb. 24—There had been reports current here that the syndicate which had agreed to take $30,000 of the stock of the new National bank in this city were thinking of backing out, but this story was set at rest by the receipt of a certified check for $15,000 from Garret S. Jones, the representative of the syndicate, who is to be the cashier of the new institution. County Clerk Howard, president of the new bank, says it will open its doors for business in about two weeks. Not the least of the most remarkable things that don't happen in the borough is that not an arrest has been made in that place for nearly two weeks. If the present condition of affairs continue in time it will only be necessary for the borough to employ a chief marshal.

One day last week Isaac Pancoast, of Clayton, slaughtered his "big hog." The animal was expected to weigh 800 pounds, but it fell ten pounds short. A professional killer was engaged, and as the hog's throat was so fat, it was thought best to shoot it. Four revolver shots were fired into its head, with no perceptible effect other than a wink of the eye, and finally it was fatally stabbed with an extra long-bladed knife.

Mary Tracy, of Allentown, is the unluckiest little girl in Monmouth county in the matter of birthdays. Mary will be eight years old before she will see a recurrence of her natal day. The little girl was born February 29th, 1896, and, in the natural order of things, could count on a birthday only once in four years. Ever since she has been old enough to understand what nice things birthday parties are for little folks, she has been looking forward to having one of her own this year. Then a few days ago Mary's mama discovered that the calendar-makers had decided that 1900 would not be a leap year because it could not be divided evenly by 400, and she sadly informed her little daughter that her birthday had been postponed four years more.

NEW OFFICIALS WANTED.

HOT ELECTION IS PROMISED IN WARREN TOWNSHIP.

Fight Will be Over Township Committeeman and Freeholder—Contention Among Democrats May Help Republicans.

A quiet but nevertheless careful canvass is going forward in Warren township in an effort to defeat two of the present office-holders who will come up for re election. The fight will be over one Township Committeeman and one member of the Board of Freeholders.

As in the other townships in the state, Warren will have to elect all three members of the Township Committee unless a new law is passed repealing the old one which legislates the present incumbents out of office. The two Committeemen whose terms are cut short by the act are Thomas Bird and H. P. Williams, both Democrats. They will be nominated by the Democrats without opposition.

The fight will be over the third Committeeman, who will be elected for a term of three years. W. F. Rogers, chairman of the Committee, is the present incumbent and he is a candidate for renomination. So is Joel Coddington, the present member of the Board of Freeholders. Opposed to them is a faction of disgruntled Democrats who want John P. Wolf as their candidate for the Township Committee and John D. Bornman for the Freeholder.

George Terrill will be renominated for Collector and Peter Newmiller for Assessor, without opposition. They are both Democrats.

It is hardly likely that the Republicans will nominate anybody unless the Wolf-Bornman faction comes out victorious in the Democratic caucus which is hardly likely. In that case the Republicans believe that they can win as their ticket would have the support of many Democrats.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Wien. Wie verlautet, wird das von der Kaiserin Elisabeth auf Korfu errichtete Heine-Denkmal von Korfu nach Wien gebracht, um im Lainzer Schloßpark aufgestellt zu werden. Wien dürfte somit die erste europäische Stadt sein, in der dem Sänger des Buchs der Lieder ein Denkmal errichtet wird.—Die Kassirung des Todesurtheils gegen die Postbeamtenfrau Kutschera, die wegen Mißhandlung ihrer Stiefkinder und Tödtung des jüngsten Mädchens zum Tode verurtheilt war, erregt großes Aufsehen, da allgemein erwartet wurde, daß die Kutschera so wie kürzlich die Frau Hummel hingerichtet werde. Der oberste Kassationshof erklärte aber den Schuldspruch der Geschworenen als Rechtsirrthum.

Karlsbad. Die Kohlennoth hat die hiesigen Porzellanfabriken gezwungen, den Betrieb zu reduziren. Das Sprudelsalzwerk hat bereits den Betrieb im Sudhause eingestellt. Um die Sperre der Schulen so lange als möglich zu vermeiden, wurde angeordnet, an allen mehr als einklassigen Schulen die Zahl der zu heizenden Schulräume dadurch zu reduziren, daß je zwei Klassen in demselben Schulzimmer nacheinander unterrichtet werden.

Lemberg. Im ruthenischen Nationalhause hatte Abends ein Konzert der russischen Nationalkapelle „Nadina Slawianska" stattfinden sollen. Zu Beginn des Konzertes wurden die russischen Sänger von einer Gruppe polnischer Studenten mit Gejohle und Zischen empfangen und mit faulen Eiern beworfen. Es entstand im Konzertsaale eine Schlägerei. Das Publikum stürzte zu den Ausgängen, die polnischen Studenten wurden hinausgedrängt und Polizei sowie Militär requirirt. Noch bevor eine Militärabtheilung das ruthenische Nationalhaus umringte, wurden die Scheiben des Gebäudes eingeschlagen; 22 polnische Studenten wurden verhaftet, nach Aufnahme des Nationales aber in Freiheit gesetzt.

Prag. Zu den 30,000 Ausländischen sind kürzlich 7000 Arbeiter von 29 Schächten des nord- und nordwestböhmischen Braunkohlengebietes hinzugekommen, denen sich, wie befürchtet wurde, die Belegschaft der übrigen nordböhmischen Braunkohlenwerke, somit weitere 20,000 Arbeiter anschließen werden. Die Forderungen gehen überall auf 20prozentige Lohnerhöhung, Mindestlohn, Achtstundenschicht und Wochenauszahlung. Die Kohlenpreise stiegen in Prag um 32 Heller, in Pilsen um 40 Prozent, in Ostrau von 108 auf 176 Heller. In einer Reihe von Städten sind die Schulen wegen Kohlenmangels geschlossen. Nahezu alle Zuckerraffinerien und gemischten Fabriken Böhmens mußten wegen Kohlenmangels den Betrieb gänzlich einstellen.

Damit haben die Studenten alle irgendwie zulässigen Rechtsmittel erschöpft, und die Mensuren bleiben in Zürich verboten.

Americans Will Compete in the Athletic Contests at the Coming Paris Fair

SHOULD the Olympian games be held at Paris this summer, and there is every reason to believe that the commission superieure of the Paris universal exhibition will successfully carry out the scheduled programme, many American athletes will participate. Collegians, both undergraduates and graduates, have not forgotten the olive wreaths that the American representatives earned for their pains in the Stadium several years ago. The glamour of visiting the spot where once the ancient Grecian athletes contested, to see the dust of the road over which the Marathon runners flew and the eclat of the occasion of so much importance from a historical point of view, appealed greatly to the man of muscle who competed with the colors of the United States universities on their bodies. If Paris were to offer but a disk of iron for a triumph in a 100-meter race there would be found many collegians who would make the trip, undergo the "rigeurs" of training for, say five weeks, and pay their own expenses to contest in the athletic events.

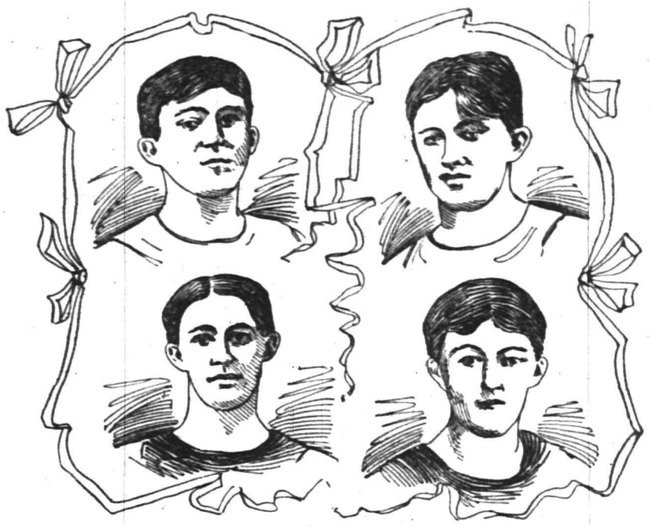
But at this early date it cannot be said that a single university has actually planned to send representatives to Paris. Reports recently sent out from Princeton and Pennsylvania indicated that the faculty had decided to send teams, but there was one point left open for future consideration—the question whether the school should be represented wholly by student athletes or whether graduates who had made records on the path and in the field events would be eligible. One thing is regarded as certain, if Pennsy and the Tigers decide to put graduates on the teams, other universities will follow suit. Strictly speaking, the plan is perfectly legitimate and it should not destroy the amateurism of the team. It will be found that England and the continent will do this and amateurs are closely watched over there.

Many at the universities discussed the Paris games, but few had the remotest idea of what they would be, except in a general way it was thought that they would be patterned after the intercollegiate meets. Of course it is a foregone conclusion that there will be sports for the professionals as well as for the amateurs. To get the programme as it has been arranged, I wrote to Paris and received the information that the commission superieure had set aside July 1, 3 and 5 for the professionals and that July 1 the world's championships would be contested at 100 meters, 400 meters, 1,500 meters, 110 meters, hurdle race, long jump, high jump, putting the weight and 2,500 meters' steeplechase. Several hundred dollars in cash will be given for the prizes. July 3 there will be a six hours' race with $425 in prizes. The last date for the profs will be marked by handicap performances, in field events, and track races from 100 meters up to 5,000 meters.

For the amateurs the committee has prepared a list of events almost as long as one of those new bridges over the Seine. The best men of the world will compete in these and in no case will the victor receive anything more than a medal, the obverse and reverse sides of which will bear figures and legends emblematic of the games and events, or "objects d'art" worth $80 to the winner, $40 to the second and $10 to the third man. In the team races the prizes, of course, will be of greater intrinsic value.

Amateur world's championships will be decided July 15, 17, 19 and 22. There will be 100 meters, 400 meters, 800 meters, 1,500 meters events, 2,500 meters steeplechase, hurdle races, and the regular field events as recognized by the intercollegiate associations in the United States. With the handicap races and miscellaneous events the programme will be well filled, to say nothing of the tug of war competitions and the team events. The amateur championship at lawn tennis will be decided in a tournament to begin June 17 and to continue until July 1. The play will include singles, for men and women, as well as handicap competitions for souvenirs worth $175 and $120 each. Professional tennis players will have their turn, and the prizes will be liberal.

I have it on excellent authority that J. Fred Powers, the Notre Dame athlete who is surprising the western intercollegiate world by his great efficacy in point gaining for his school in the annual meet, and who subsequently took the all-around amateur championship of the United States by his work at Bergen Point last year, will wear the colors of Notre Dame at Paris. It was said that ex-Capt. Powers would become a coach. But the spirit of the true amateur is so firmly fastened in him that he could not bring himself to put aside his amateur standing. He will remain an amateur, and if his returned health permits it, he will endeavor to show the athletes who compete against him that he can jump as far or as high, pole vault as gracefully and as high, and hurl the discus and weights as far as he could last year.



I. K. Baxter, U. of P. Dick Grant. A. F. Duffey, Georgetown. W. B. Tewksbury.
FOUR AMERICAN ATHLETES WHO WILL PROBABLY COMPETE IN PARIS.

If Powers is himself again, there is an excellent chance for him to take high honors.

Then there is Tewksbury, of Pennsy. He has begun a mild form of training, and if he goes to Paris as a graduate member of the red and blue team, he may be expected to give the foreigners the hardest fight they ever had to beat his marks. Baxter, too, of the Quaker team, will give a good account of himself.

Duffey, the Georgetown man, is in rare form, as his recent indoor exploits have shown the athletic world. With the coming dual meets so bountifully scheduled, to say nothing of the A. A. U. indoor championships, both east and west, to prepare for the athletes, may find themselves tried out enough to warrant their giving in their entries before June 14.

The appearance of Alvin C. Kraenzlein, in the colors of Pennsylvania, in the high and low hurdles, running against the crack foreigners, should be one of the remarkable features of the Olympian games.

J. FRED POWERS.

That this remarkable turner from Milwaukee, who is regarded as quite the most phenomenal athlete the United States has produced, would hold his own in the hurdles and eventually take the finals, is not doubted by followers of sport. He can jump, too, as is well known by his remarkable record performances. The Irish broad jumpers, Newburn and O'Connor, would find in him a man worthy of their generalship. Tom Fisher, of Yale; John Flanagan, the gigantic hammer thrower; Boardman, of Yale; Dick Grant, J. F. Cregan, Princeton; Meyer Prinstein, Quinlan, of Harvard; Jarvis, of Princeton; Alex Grant, of Pennsy; Maxey Long, of Columbia; J. T. Roche, of Harvard, and many others suggest point winners may be found in the list of American athletes who will make the trip to Paris.

If the Parisians do but half of what they promise for the success of the athletic adjunct of the exhibition, there will be plenty to talk about next summer.

BEAT THE GOVRENMENT.

Happiness for a Farmer Who Met a Transcontinental Arc Surveying Party.

"Of course you have heard of the Transcontinental Arc which this government has been establishing from ocean to ocean?" said one of the men who has been engaged in the work for several years. "You can't understand the work unless you have had an extra mathematical course in a college, and then you are apt to find problems you never dreamt of. We had some funny experiences, nevertheless. The law gave us right of way in establishing our lines. That is, we had the privilege of going over anybody's land.

"On one occasion it became necessary to cross a very high point of ground which was studded with trees. At first we thought of building an elevated platform from which we could get our distances, but we discovered that would take too much time. We concluded it would be easier to blaze our way through the forest with axes. As we were preparing to do this the owner of the property came up and asked our business. I explained to him, as well as you can explain the business to a layman, but I don't think he ever understood what we were driving at. Anyway, he notified us that if we skinned even the bark from one of his trees he would make the government think the Philippine islands affair was a picnic compared with what he would do. Efforts to persuade only made him the more obdurate.

"We had to go through the forest. There was no way round it. We then offered to buy the trees, but he would not have that. He said the land without the trees would have no value. Then we told him we would buy as much of the land as was necessary, an acre on the summit. After he had thought over our proposition to buy he consented. When asked how much he wanted he replied $5. We would have paid him $5 a tree if he had asked it. We closed the bargain quickly, for we were afraid he would change his mind.

"After the deal was made and the money paid, I asked him if he didn't think he had made quite a sacrifice in selling the acre for $5. He replied that he was satisfied, and added by way of explanation: 'I bought it a few years ago for 80 cents; reckon I ain't lost much.' And of course there was no occasion for pursuing the subject. I suppose he thought he had beat the government and that made him happy."—N. Y. Sun.

LEFT IN SLEEPING CARS.

Many Articles Overlooked by Hastily Departing Passengers Are Found and Returned.

The sleeping car is one of the conveniences of modern life. It permits commercial travelers and others who have to go from city to city to do their business by day and their traveling by night. Thus no time is lost; and to save time seems to be the great American idea.

But the sleeping car has some disadvantages, besides being for most people very uncomfortable. It is a great place in which to lose things. When the porter rouses the occupant of a berth who wants to get out at a way station in the early morning, the passenger, in his hurry and sleepiness, often leaves some article behind him. This is so common that the railroads have adopted a system for the collection and return of such property. The porters, the conductors and the strippers and the cleaners each in turn search the cars, and any articles tucked away in the berths, under seats or carpets, or behind steam pipes, are taken to the nearest terminal station. If not called for promptly they are forwarded to headquarters.

Near the Grand Central station in New York is a lost article bureau, into which things come from all points—from Seattle to Bangor. The list of articles on hand awaiting owners usually includes purses, jewelry, railroad tickets, wearing apparel and sleeping gowns. Sets of false teeth are said to be quite commonly left in the cars, while on one occasion the porter found a wooden leg. An excited nursemaid once left a baby behind in the sleeper; the little fellow was well taken care of by the trainmen until restored to his parents.

Many things lost in the cars can never be found. Sometimes an absent-minded man will wear off the wrong overcoat, but will be so well satisfied with the exchange that he will say nothing about it, while the other man may be clamoring loudly, but in vain, for his own coat.—Youth's Companion.

Power of the Mormon Church.

Beyond a doubt the Mormon church is, considered purely as a political economist's scheme, "to-day nearer to being a successful effort to inaugurate the brotherhood of man than anything ever tried." Here, then, is a social and political force to be reckoned with. Marvelous in its power over the individual, it is rapidly becoming an actual menace to the nation. Already it numbers a million adherents. It owns Utah. It holds the balance of power in Idaho, in Wyoming, in Colorado, in California and in Nevada. When Arizona and New Mexico are admitted to the union it will control them also.—R. L. Hartt, in Atlantic.

Early Church Music.

Barrel organs were formerly quite frequent in English churches, and one has recently been unearthed in a church near Rochester, England. It has six stops and six barrels, and is capable of grinding out 60 tunes in all. Among them are such archaic specimens as "Job," "Old 11th." The organ was operated by the sexton.—N. Y. Sun.

PRICES TAKE A DROP.

But Business Continues Brisk—Heavy Export Trade.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Prices of materials are yielding. If not the best news possible for some speculators, it is the best that could come for the whole country, since industries could not long prosper without reaction from the extreme prices caused by actual or supposed scarcity of materials last year.

It is only the future that has been clouded, for as yet payments through banks, deliveries by rail and production on former orders keep ahead of the record of last or any other February.

The great iron industry has been embarrassed by prices for pig and billets which were no longer sustained by the gradually yielding prices of products. Considerable transactions are now reported at Philadelphia $1 to $1.50 per ton below recent quotations; at Pittsburg 20,000 tons bessemer have been sold and 75,000 tons billets, both iron and steel, being reported $1 per ton lower.

Cheaper hides and leather enable boot and shoe makers to take contracts for split goods at 2½ cents less than prices recently asked, and some large sales have resulted, giving part of the shops work for some time. Others are getting very few orders and some are stopping or expect to stop in two weeks.

The heaviest exports from New York ever recorded in any week might relieve some anxieties. With shipments $14,521,568 in value last week and in three weeks $35,134,689, against $28,183,105 last year, the imports here were curiously $35,680,412, against $28,531,983 last year. But many do not see that the increase of 25 per cent in each would make total exports exceed imports by $42,000,600. Cotton exports are better, and Atlantic wheat exports this week, flour included, were but 354,000 bushels less than last year, with Pacific exports larger by 358,375 bushels. In three weeks wheat exports from both coasts have been 8,692,545 bushels, against 10,147,652 last year. Corn exports make up for part of this, having been in three weeks 8,971,325 bushels, against 6,915,567 last year. Western receipts of both were larger, though soft roads hinder. Wheat rose further, but reacted, closing seven-eighths of a cent lower for the week, while corn advanced three-fourths of a cent.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

A blizzard was reported raging at Halifax.

Fifty persons were shocked by electricity on a Chicago trolley car.

Schoolboys pelted the British flag hung out by the British consul in Chicago.

The French senate sentenced Deputy Marcel-Habert to five years' banishment.

Fire destroyed the Masonic temple and many other large buildings at London, Ont.

The body of T. M. Atkinson, a marine missing from the United States steamer Prairie, was found at Havre.

Michael Farrelli, who shot out the eyes of a New York policeman, was declared insane at Sing Sing prison and was removed to Matteawan.

Military Justice In Manila.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Military justice in the Philippines has evidently been very active during the past few months, as the latest mail from Manila has brought over 200 court martial cases for the final consideration of the judge advocate general of the army. The majority are on account of ordinary infractions of the articles of war and the military regulations and with few exceptions do not call for any very severe punishment. There are, however, several serious cases in the lot just received, including one capital case, that of a soldier named George Murphy of Company C, Twenty-fourth infantry, who was court martialed for having killed Private Saul Copes of the same company at El Deposito in September last. According to the record in the case the two men had a quarrel over some personal matter, and subsequently while Copes was seated in his tent Murphy entered and fired several shots into his body.

Large Demand For Small Notes.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The issue division of the treasury department has put on a double force to increase the supply of notes of small denominations, of ones, twos, fives and tens. About 480,000 sheets of four notes each will be turned out each day. This action is taken with a view to meeting promptly the increased demand for small notes, which has been much greater this year than ever before in the history of the country.

Coal Mining Report.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Feb. 24.—Mine Inspector Edward Brennan of the Eleventh Anthracite district has given out his annual report for the past year. There were 6,308,334 tons of coal mined, 20,317 persons employed, 52 fatal and 142 non-fatal accidents. The Summit branch and Lykens valley collieries led the list for number of days worked, with 266. For every 121,315 tons of coal mined in the district a life was lost.

Life Lost In a Fire.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—A fire which broke out at 7 o'clock last night in the straw goods manufactory office of May, 721 Arch street, resulted in the loss of life of a woman employee, the injury of several girls who jumped from windows and the destruction of property valued at several hundred thousand dollars. The fire extended to the adjoining building, and some 20 firms were burned out.

Fire In Providence.

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 24.—Fire which before it was extinguished did about $25,000 damage broke out in the Paris house, one of the dry goods establishments in the heart of the city, yesterday afternoon. The damage to the building was about $7,000, and the remainder of the damage was to the stock by fire and water.

Many Deaths In Berlin.

BERLIN, Feb. 24.—The Berlin mortality statistics for last month show 200 deaths above the record for January, 1899, and 400 above those for the same month in 1898. This increase is largely due to the grip.

VOTING DAY FIXED.

Fate of Porto Rican Tariff Still In Doubt.

SENATE TAKES UP THE QUAY CASE.

Vote Was So Decisive as to Cause Surprise—Not Considered a True Test of Strength, However. Hawaiian Bill Discussed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—An agreement was reached in the house yesterday that the vote on the Porto Rican tariff bill will be taken at 3 p. m. next Tuesday. General debate will close on Monday, and short speeches under the five minute rule will follow up to the time of the vote. At the close of the day formal announcement was made that a Republican conference would be held at 8 p. m. today. The leaders continue to express the belief that the bill will pass, but the impression is growing that a motion to recommit the bill to the committee on ways and means will command strong support and may prevail. Mr. Underwood, the Democratic whip, sent out telegrams to all absent Democrats to be present on Monday, when the voting may begin.

The speech of Mr. Littlefield of Maine was the feature of the day. Yesterday he added to his laurels won in the Roberts case in a speech against the bill which for brilliancy, wit and logic rivals the best efforts of the recognized orators of the house. He made a profound impression, and when he concluded it was several minutes before the demonstration that followed could be quelled.

Among the others who spoke were Messrs. Jones of Virginia and Maddox of Georgia against the bill and Messrs. Russell of Connecticut, Bartholdt of Missouri, Gardner of Michigan and Lacey of Iowa for it.

The debate continued at a night session.

The session of the senate was unusually interesting from the very beginning. In spite of vigorous and influential opposition Mr. Penrose of Pennsylvania succeeded in getting the Quay case before the senate, and during the afternoon three notable speeches were delivered.

After a sharp parliamentary squabble Mr. Penrose moved that the resolution involving the seating of Mr. Quay be taken up for consideration. On a yea and nay vote the motion prevailed—34 to 28. The majority was so decisive as to cause some surprise. It is known that some senators who will vote if the opportunity be offered to seat Mr. Quay yesterday voted against consideration of the case, while, on the contrary, others who voted for consideration probably will vote against seating him. The vote, therefore, cannot be regarded as quite a test of Mr. Quay's absolute strength in the senate. Following the taking up of the resolution Mr. Daniel (Dem.) of Virginia delivered a speech in which he vigorously supported Mr. Quay's right to a seat.

Mr. Vest (Dem.) of Missouri and Mr. Foraker (Rep.) of Ohio delivered notable speeches anent the Hawaiian government bill. Both were constitutional arguments, Mr. Foraker's being a reply to that of Mr. Vest.

Foreign Bishops Not Wanted.

HAVANA, Feb. 24.—Yesterday a leaflet was scattered broadcast calling upon Cubans to meet Mgr. Sbarretti, recently appointed bishop of Havana, upon his arrival at the wharf and to show him by their actions the indignation they feel at the appointment. The leaflet says: "The bishop intentionally insults the people of Cuba in having arranged to land here today, which is their independence day." No signatures were appended, but the leaflet purports to be issued by "various leaders of the revolution." The Discusion observes: "Rome made a mistake in nominating Mgr. Sbarretti. Our people want a Cuban bishop. The way to protest, however, is not to go to the wharf with bells and tinpans. Although Mgr. Sbarretti will be unwelcome, he is entitled to be treated with respect."

Miss Pauncefote Weds.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Seven hundred and fifty invitations were issued to witness the wedding this morning at St. John's church of Miss Lillian Pauncefote, the third daughter of Lord Pauncefote, the British embassador to the United States, and Mr. Robert Bromley, an honorary attache of the embassy. The father and mother of the groom and also a sister crossed the Atlantic to witness the ceremony, and a number of persons from different parts of this country were present at the ceremony, which was performed by Bishop Satterlee of the Episcopal church, assisted by Rev. Mackay Smith, pastor of St. John's.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting In Washington.

Shortly after noon the delegates called on the president.

"Sapho" Has More Trouble.

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 24.—Mayor Moir threatens to prevent the road company production of "Sapho" billed for the Lyceum theater next Tuesday night. He demands that the show shall pass muster before him at a private full dress rehearsal in the afternoon and says if it does not do this he will be on hand in the evening with a squad of police to arrest all the performers at the first sign of anything on the stage that in his opinion is too immoral for the public.

Supposed Murderers Arrested.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 24.—C. C. Geary and Tom Hammond have been arrested here by Sheriff Broward charged with the murder of the Roberts family near here ten days ago. The murdered family consisted of the aged mother, her maiden sister and the son. The men arrested are nephews of the murdered man. The sheriff asserts that they robbed the Roberts family of $8,000 or $10,000 in cash.

Albany Again Fears Floods.

ALBANY, Feb. 24.—The Hudson begun to rise again yesterday, and Quay street is again submerged and the Delaware and Hudson trains had difficulty in going through the street. Many of the merchants along the street began putting goods on upper floors.

THE AMUSEMENT WORLD

CURRENT ATTRACTIONS THAT PLAINFIELDERS MAY WITNESS.

Local and Metropolitan Performances That Will Please Those Who Delight in the Art of Thespis and Mimic World

The press of all the cities and towns played by Macauley-Patton Company, which will be seen here for the first time at Music Hall next week, are unanimous in their praise. The following from a Wheeling, W. Va., paper speaks volumes: "The Macauley-Patton Company of players left such a favorable impression upon the occasion of its last engagement here, that patrons of the Grand Opera House were eager yesterday to see the company in its opening bill. There was a rush for the box office early in the morning, and in just forty minutes every seat in the theatre had been sold. Notwithstanding the 'standing room only' sign was out, the house was literally packed when the curtain rolled up in the first act of 'The Minister's Son.' The offering for first-nighters was a skillfully constructed comedy-drama, abounding in scenes which were pathetic and funny, a mixture of the graver and the gay. The play was enacted by a competent cast. It was admirably mounted, and the costumes were handsome and appropriate. It was one of the most finished productions ever seen in a local theatre at popular prices." "The Minister's Son" is the opening bill Monday night. There will only be two matinees, Wednesday and Saturday.

. . . . OUR ANNIVERSARY SALE. . . .

Today is our first birthday and we are going to celebrate the day by holding a monster one week sale that will include every department in the store. This sale is as much to commemorate our good fortune in buying goods at the old low prices as it is our birthday. For months past we have been searching for good things for this event—dependable goods at very low prices. How well we have succeeded the generous items here advertised will show. Only a firm with the tremendous buying capacity enjoyed by this house could have secured such unusual values. The past year we have tried to keep store just as well as we knew how and it is a matter of pride with us that you have generously responded to our efforts. Hereafter we are going to try to keep store still better. In the future as in the past there will be no nonsense about this business. It takes all our time to attend to our rapidly growing trade. Buying as we do for four stores that together almost equal the largest metropolitan establishments, we receive price concessions that make it always to your interest to come here where lowest prices are a certainty.

CALLERS FOUND THE PLACE CLOSED UP LAST NIGHT.

Sergeant Kiley Intercepted Venable and Latter Afterwards Had a Heart to Talk With His Honor.

John Venable has been entertaining a number of friends of the colored race in his rooms in a building on Park avenue of late. John Venable paid a visit to Mayor Rockfellow Saturday evening. But it was by request. Last night when Venable's friends assemble, they found the door locked and Venable absent. So the little gathering was not held as usual.

It has recently been reported to the police that a crap game was in progress every evening on the third floor of a building on Park avenue. It was alleged that Venable was the proprietor of the establishment, but conclusive proof was lacking.

When Venable went down to the front door Saturday evening to open up, Sergeant Kiely was waiting there. The Sergeant suggested a walk around to the Mayor's office and Venable went. The Mayor didn't make any charges. He simply gave Venable to understand that the place would have to be closed up. Venable declared that he was a "law-abiding citizen" and that the establishment would be closed forthwith and remain closed as far as he was concerned.

Venable was warned that he would be under the eye of the police and he promised to be very circumspect in his behavior. He then departed to his rooms, locked them up and when the friends that have been haunting the place, casually tried to drop in last night they found the door locked and Venable gone.

AGAINST HANGING.

Petition Sent to the State Legislature by the Local Society of Friends.

A minute was adopted at the regular monthly meeting of the Society of Friends, to be forwarded to the New Jersey Legislature, petitioning for the enactment of a bill substituting imprisonment for life for capital punishment, on the ground that the infliction of the death penalty lacks two essential qualities of punishment, in that it neither protects society nor reforms the criminal. It has for its basic principle vengeance, and, on account of its severity, greatly lessens the chances of the conviction of the guilty.

The meeting also directed that a protest against the granting of liquor licenses be sent to the Common Council of this city.

SEWING SCHOOL PRIZES.

A HAPPY TIME FOR ONE HUNDRED CHILDREN.

Pupils in Sewing School Started by Rev. W. M. Downey at Holy Cross Church Awarded Prizes.

Early last November a girls' sewing school was organized by Rev. Wm. Montgomery Downey, rector of the Holy Cross church, to which children of the borough were freely and unconditionally admitted. The sessions have been held in the parish house every Saturday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock, under the superintendence of Mrs. J. O. Stevens, and with a corps of twelve or fourteen teachers, all members of the Holy Cross congregation. Shortly after opening the school it was decided to offer prizes for the greatest improvement made in three months, and the close of this period was joyously celebrated Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Mr. Downey opened the school with prayers and then in a friendly talk expressed his hearty approval of the interest and diligence shown by the scholars, and explained to them the advantage of becoming skillful needlewomen.

Then came the prizes, six beautiful silver thimbles, which were awarded to Lizzie Parch, Pauline Smith, Edith Krietzfeldt, Francis Newman and Bessie Duffy, for the greatest improvement in plain sewing, and to Margaret Wyckoff for bringing into the school the greatest number of new scholars. Honorable mention was also given to Clara Schmidt who had brought eight new scholars and to three other girls who had helped to increase the attendance.

Following the distribution of prizes the honor roll was read and rosettes of red ribbon were given to ten girls who had been present at every session since the school was opened. White rosettes were given to twelve scholars who had been absent only once, and blue rosettes to nine who had missed but two sessions.

When all had been decorated there were songs and games, and after an hour of amusement the scholars were called to their seats to enjoy another surprise in the form of cake and lemonade, as much as anyone wanted. After another half hour of games the children were dismissed declaring as they went that they had had "a perfectly lovely time."

The school began with fifty-six scholars but has since doubled that number. Only plain sewing has been taught but it is proposed to add classes in mending, knitting and embroidery as soon as practicable. Visitors are always welcome.

CAKE AND CANDY SALE.

Conducted by Sunshine Mission Band of Crescent Avenue Church.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church had a cake and candy sale Saturday afternoon in the Sunday-school room. The sale was highly successful and was patronized by a large number of the congregation. After the sale the little folks entertained the audience with some interesting tableaux, the scenes being taken from the well-known "Peterkin Papers." The tableaux were given under the direction of Mrs. H. A. Schuyler and Miss Margaret Tracey. The little folks acquitted themselves in a manner that reflected to the credit of their mentors. The affair was delightfully arranged and particularly pleasing to all concerned.

LEGISLATURE STEERS CLEAR OF PARTY ROCKS

Leaders Fear to Touch the Bill Aimed to Abolish the Spring Election.

DEAF TO LENTZ'S PLEADING.

FEW DEMOCRATS ARE LEFT IN THE STATE COURTS.

Investigation of the State Industrial School for Girls Will Result in Good to the Institution and the State.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Feb. 26—The Legislature has now a clear field before it for the transaction of business and there will not be any more excuse for tardiness owing to the occurrence of legal holidays and memorial services and other events of an extraordinary character. By holding sessions during more of the week for three or four weeks a final adjournment in that time can easily be accomplished. No doubt this is the intention of the Republican leaders.

There do not seem to be any abstruse problems before the Legislature. There are no partisan matters to disturb the minds of the party leaders and there is no friction whatever between the executive and legislative branches of the State government. Even the Democratic minority, after having made the usual formal protests against the course pursued by the majority, feels disposed to let matters drop and acquiesce in an adjournment at as early a date as can be fixed.

With the exception of the law which has been passed to have a commission appointed to change the ward lines of New Brunswick there has not been any other partisan legislation during the session, nor will there be from present indications. The promoters of the scheme for the abolition of spring elections, it is true, are yet busily engaged trying to mould sentiment in their favor, but it is not believed that they will meet with the success they desire. With a plentitude of power the Republican majority can do as it pleases in all matters, and therefore the responsibility is so great that the conservative leaders are unwilling to risk experiments, the result of which might bring disaster to their party, perhaps, when least expected, and at a time when irreparable damage might be caused. Of course, Col. Dickinson and Major Lentz disagree with the opinions of the conservative leaders on this policy as affecting partsan legislation, and they insist that it is cowardly and not in keeping with the true spirit of the principles of the Republican party. Still, all the same, it is likely that conservatism and not radicalism will control the Legislature in such matters.

The only Democratic Judges that will be left in the State in a week or so will be as follows: Lay Judges—Court of Errors and Appeals, Bogert, Kruger and Hendrickson; Supreme Court, VanSyckle, Garrison, Ludlow and Lippincott; Court of Chancery, McGill, Reed and Stevens. District Court Judges, one each in Jersey City and Newark. Next year a Republican successor will be appointed to Chancellor McGill, which will still reduce the number of Democratic Judges. The Republicans now have a total of forty three Judges, while the Democrats have only twelve. And besides, the party in power has all the Prosecutors of the Pleas, a total of twenty-one.

The investigation ordered by the House of the Assembly into the management of the Industrial School for Girls, it is hoped, will do some good by clearing the atmosphere of that institution from the scandalous reports which have existed for some time, and which have led to so much exciting criticism. What is needed on the part of the Investigating Committee is to probe all complaints from beginning to end, to show no favoritism and to make such recommendations to the Legislature as will place the institution on the same basis of management as now prevails in all the well-regulated schools, hospitals and other such places now under the control of the State.

CRONJE IS STILL STICKING IT OUT.

No Definite News Received in London About Exact State of Affairs in South Africa.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

London, February 26.—If the latest despatches from Paardeberg throw any light on the situation, they show that Gen. Cronje's forces have far more protection from Field Marshal Lord Roberts' heavy fire than the first deepatches indicated. A despatch from Paardeberg dated Saturday, February 24th, says: "A balloon has discovered the enemy well covered by a system of burrowing in the river bank, which resembles a rabbit-warren and affords shell-proof positions."

This, perhaps, more than any other circumstance, explains why what is looked upon here as Gen Cronje's death struggle is so prolonged. Thus it will not be much of a surprise if today and tomorrow, which is the anniversary of Majuba Hill, pass without being marked by the surrender or annihilation of the gallant band so overwhelming hemmed in, though the closeness of the investment appears open to criticism.

LARGE THEFTS OF WIRE.

BRUNSWICK TRACTION COMPANY EXTENSIVELY VICTIMIZED.

Resulted in Depletion of Power and Caused Much Trouble in Running Trolley Cars.

Wholesale thefts of bond wire have been discovered on the branch of the Brunswick Traction Company from New Brunswick to Bound Brook. For some time past the company's engineers have noticed that the power was growing weak in that direction. There is a storage plant at Bound Brook, but the loss of power was so great that this plant was of no avail. The power house at Milltown had two Corliss engines of 250 horsepower each to operate the entire system, and it was at first thought that the difficulty was with the engines. A Ball and Wood vertical engine of 750 horsepower was then installed, giving a total capacity of 1,250 horsepower. Still the leakage continued.

Thursday night a number of men with instruments went over the Bound Brook branch in search of the cause of the trouble and found that nearly 100 of the bond wires which connect the rails had been stolen. The object of the bond wire is to economize the current.

It is supposed that thieves have been quietly engaged at the work of removing the bond wires and selling them, the copper being quite valuable.

PEDAGOGUE ON TRUSTS.

PROF. CLEMENT DENOUNCED THEM IN AN EMPHATIC WAY.

County Teachers' Meeting, in Which Plainfielders Took a Prominent Part.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 26th—The Union County Teachers' Institute held its semi annual meeting Saturday in the Morrell Street Public School. Prof. John R. Morey, of Scotch Plains, who is president of the institute, presided and delivered an interesting address. Papers were read by Miss Edith Verlender, of Trenton; Prof. Clement, of Cranford, and Mrs. J. Anderson Frazer, of Elizabeth.

The address of Prof. Clement was the feature of the meeting. He made a scathing attack on the trusts, which he denounced as most pernicious to the stability of the Republic. He also declared that four fifths of the people in the United States did not understand the fundamental principles of the Constitution.

Miss Lottie B. Strong, of the Franklin School, Plainfield, with Miss Bullock, the principal, took a class of children from the school for a class exercise before the county teachers, to illustrate the new method of teaching numbers that is being used in the Plainfield schools.

STRICKEN DEAD AS SHE WAS TALKING

Sudden and Startling End of Mrs. Edward J. Hillman Saturday Afternoon

IN HER EIGHTIETH YEAR.

WAS CONVERSING WITH RELATIVE WHEN DEATH STROKE CAME.

One of the Oldest Residents in This City—A Member of the First Baptist Church—Funeral Tomorrow Afternoon.

Mrs. Edward J. Hillman, of Sherman avenue, while conversing with her daughter-in-law last Saturday suddenly fell upon her face. When picked up she was dead. In the fall Mrs. Hillman received severe cuts on her face, but as blood did not flow from her wounds, it is the impression of the members of the family that death must have been instantaneous, and came upon her before she fell forward.

Mrs. Hillman was in her 80th year She was the mother of William H Hillman, of Sherman avenue, and Mrs. Clarence Woodcock, of West Seventh street.

Mrs. Hillman's death removes another of the older residents of Plainfield. Fifty years ago Edward J. Hillman owned a farm where the borough of Dunellen is located. The trees marking the old road in front of the house are still standing and are to be seen near the roundhouse. The old well used by the Hillman family half a century ago is directly beneath the sidewalk on West Front street not 100 yards west of the trolley terminus. Some years ago the farm house was moved back on a side street in Dunellen and still doing duty as a dwelling.

Mrs. Hillman was a member of the Baptist church and up to recent years was a regular attendant. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence of her son 823 Sherman avenue.

Realizing that if the unfortunate man was left to himself he would perish from the cold. With commendable forethought Carter went in seach of help, intending to assist the man to his home or to the hospital. Later when Carter returned after securing help the man had disappepred. The name of the man is not known or whether he was intoxicated or had met with an accident.

The fire was put out by the firemen with the assistance of three hand extinguishers. The damage to the house will reach $25, and to the furniture $75. Both house and contents were covered with insurance.

OLD NELSE WILL BE CALLED TO ACCOUNT

Cranford's Eccentric Character is Under Ban of the Law.

SHOT AT RAILROAD MEN.

RAILROAD AUTHORITIES HAVE HAD A WARRANT ISSUED.

The Old Fellow Annoyed by Whistling of Locomotives and Disturbed by Drilling of Cars at South Cranford Junction.

Old Nelse Davis, the eccentric Dane who has lived for over twenty years near Cranford junction, and who delighted on account of his dislikes to take chance shots at the railroad men in the vicinity, will have his career cut short by the police officials.

Old Nelse went to Cranford over twenty years ago, and has lived in his own house on Burnside avenue for that time. Surrounding the house is a half acre of ground which Old Nelse owns and protects.

Although Old Nelse is over 50 years of age he is as spry as a young man. He is fully six feet high and has a full grown beard. Many considered the old man crazy, although he had never done anything unusual up to the time he took a dislike to the trainmen on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Lehigh Valley Railroad, which pass near his property.

Having taken a sudden dislike to the railroad men, Old Nelse, reinforced by a shotgun, determined to exterminate them. When trains on the Baltimore and Ohio road came into sight Old Nelse would be lying in wait and take chance shots at the trainmen. He was liable to shoot a train crew full of holes at any time, for the old man is known to be a good shot. Several of the trainmen had narrow escapes.

The officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company at last determined to put a stop to Old Nelse's war.

Monday last George W. C. Smith, superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, appeared before Justice of the Peace W. W. Mendell and swore out a warrant for Old Nelse's arrest. Superintendent Smith charges that Old Nelse maliciously and wilfully shot at the trainmen.

ROBERTS IS SILENT.

Does Not Mention Cronje In His Dispatches.

BULLER'S FORCE NEARING LADYSMITH.

Position of the Boers at Paardeberg Considered Hopeless, but It Is Still Defended With Tenacious Bravery.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Perhaps never before in the course of the present campaign had such crowds visited the war office as went there yesterday. As The Times remarks today, "the dearth of news is somewhat trying at a time when a considerable success was generally regarded as imminent."

No diminution of confidence in Lord Roberts is felt, however, and the public is ready to believe that he has good reasons for not mentioning General Cronje in the official dispatches. Probably he is in no hurry to end a situation which is daily bringing small parties of Boers in a vain endeavor to re-enforce General Cronje. These he can deal with in detail.

Lord Roberts has already captured over 500 Boers, and at this rate he will soon have quite a respectable array of prisoners to hold as hostages for the 3,000 British already in Pretoria.

General Cronje's refusal to accept the offer of Lord Roberts regarding the women and children indicates either that the position is less desperate than has been supposed or that he has been able to dig an absolutely safe place for them.

Everything goes to show that General Buller's advance is most stubbornly contested and most cautiously carried out. It is hoped that he will soon be in a position where General White will be able to assist him materially.

The Times publishes the following dispatch from Colenso, dated Saturday:

"The British are now within two miles of being in touch with Ladysmith, but the ground still to be covered is the hardest part, and very severe fighting must be expected."

The Times publishes the following from Paardeberg, dated Feb. 21:

"General Cronje's force has good cover from the British artillery fire and has considerable stores of provisions."

Lord Roberts has sent the following additional advices to the war office, dated Paardeberg, Feb. 24:

"Methuen reports that Barkly West was occupied by our troops on Feb. 22. The loyal inhabitants displayed great enthusiasm.

"The country west of the railway from Cape Town to Kimberley is gradually settling down. A detachment has started from De Aar for Britstown, and Douglas and Prieska will shortly be visited by our troops.

"Methuen's account of the admirable manner in which the Kimberley hospital is managed made one desire to send some of our sick and wounded there.

"Parties of Boers recently arrived from Natal attacked our outposts in force again yesterday. They lost a good many killed and wounded and nearly 100 prisoners, including a commandant and three field cornets. Our casualties were four officers wounded, nine men killed, 23 men wounded and two men missing. On the 21st and 22d one officer and 13 men were wounded.

"Six men were wounded yesterday by hollow nosed Mauser bullets. The nickel case is slit with four slits, making the projectile of the most expansive and explosive nature possible. A wounded Boer brought to our hospital yesterday had 60 of these bullets in his pockets. During the advance to Kimberley the casualties were: Officers, 2 killed, 13 wounded; men, 4 killed, 78 wounded."

A dispatch from Sterkstroom, dated Feb. 25, says:

"A reconnoissance yesterday in force under General Gatacre, with eight guns, found the Boers occupying a ridge three miles beyond Molteno in the Stormberg direction. Montmorency's scouts charged the Boers, who crept around the scouts' flank, pouring in a deadly fire. The scouts were finally compelled to retire, having lost heavily. Fourteen are missing."

A dispatch to The Morning Post from Kimberley, dated Friday, says:

"General Cronje is reported to have plenty of provisions, but to be running short of ammunition. Mr. Rhodes is extremely hopeful that the war has reached its concluding stage."

October's mail arrived at Kimberley Friday by the first passenger train from the south.

CRONJE'S BRAVE STAND.

Details of the Long Fight at Paardeberg.

PAARDEBERG, Orange Free State, Feb. 26.—General Cronje's position is more hopeless than ever. Our guns dominate the sloping ascents from the river on all sides, and by the rush of the Shropshires on Wednesday night up the river bed the Boers lost 200 yards' space in their cover.

Deserters say the British fire has been very deadly and affirm that General Cronje himself is willing to surrender, but is overborne by the young Boers from the Transvaal.

There are women and children with the Boer force. General Roberts proposed to let them pass out of danger, but this suggestion, as well as the proffer of medical aid, has been rejected.

The kopje captured by the British last Wednesday, when 50 prisoners were taken, is a most important strategical position. Its possession should enable us to repulse any Boer re-enforcements from the eastward.

The fourth day of General Cronje's fine defense opened in startling fashion. Soon after dawn a most terrific rattle of rifle fire broke out, waking the sleeping camp. It was the heaviest fire during the war and all awaited with forebodings the news of its effect.

It soon developed that the Gloucesters and Essexes had lost their way and had bivouacked in error close to the Boer laager on the north side of the river. As soon as they were perceived by the enemy the latter fusilladed. Wonderful to tell, the British casualties were practically none.

There was desultory firing all day long on both the north and south banks. General Knox's brigade holding and pushing forward the line south of the river, while General Smith-Dorrien, on the north side, worked toward the laager. Meanwhile General French advanced in a far easterly direction near a kopje held by a strong force of Cronje's men, re-enforced by a Ladysmith contingent. At the same time General Broadwood's brigade, with a battery of horse artillery, took up positions to the left and rear of the same kopje.

The front of the hill was thoroughly searched by a raking fire. Suddenly the Boers bolted from every side toward General French, who headed toward the drift, shelling vigorously. A great number escaped, but many were killed by shrapnel, and about 40 were captured.

As soon as the kopje was evacuated a correspondent visited it. The position was found to be wonderfully strong naturally and to form the real key to the position in the case of defense against Boer re-enforcements advancing from the east.

Our first contact with the Ladysmith Boers was singularly unfortunate for them. A great deal of forage, provisions and equipment was captured, and the kopje was frequently dotted with blood, showing that many wounded had been removed.

The Boer method of removing their dead is to tie a couple of reins to the body, which is thus dragged off by two horsemen at full gallop.

There were several pourparlers Wednesday on the subject of a short armistice. It seems that General Cronje is willing to surrender, but that the young Transvaalers refuse. The other beleaguered Boers are anxious to give up.

A British doctor who visited the Boer lines to see the wounded found the trenches along the river full of wounded and saw many dead.

A deserter who came into camp says that Tuesday's bombardment was appalling in its effects, especially in the case of the howitzer batteries enfilading the river.

The position Wednesday was practically the same. The Boers were strengthening their intrenchments around the laager, but the case is hopeless. The capture of the kopje has given the British a splendid position and will prevent a Boer relieving force reaching Cronje.

Lord Roberts sent General Cronje an offer of a safe conduct for the women and children, together with a free pass, to any point for them and also an offer of doctors and medicine. Cronje's reply was a curt refusal, and desultory shelling was resumed.

The scene of the last five days' fighting is one of the prettiest spots in South Africa. The river at the point where General Cronje is ensconced and fighting for life resembles some parts of the Hudson river, the ground all around sloping toward the stream. All the highlands are covered by British artillery. Cronje is faced in the front and rear from both banks by the British, while General French's horse far away on the flanks prevent a sudden inrush of Boers.

During the artillery firing Wednesday evening the mules of the Eighty-second battery, which had remained hitched to the carriages, suddenly stampeded and galloped off en masse, but the wagons, with one exception, were recovered.

General French has sent in 75 prisoners. A British patrol eight miles to the west discovered 30 Boers wandering away and corralled them. Altogether this force has already captured 460 of the enemy. Many dead Boers have been seen.

The Boer prisoners are all depressed at the present course of the war, and they comment bitterly upon General Cronje's persistence, which they call "murder."

Thursday a German ambulance attached to the Boer forces was allowed to traverse the British lines in front of Jacobsdal.

The British are gradually closing in upon General Cronje from all sides and making his position more impossible than ever.

During the course of Thursday night the British artillery poured in several rounds. There was a terrible rain and thunder storm early in the evening.

The Canadians were heavily engaged in Sunday's fight, behaving most gallantly.

The British took 80 prisoners as the result of Friday's engagement.

A balloon ascended and discovered several new works, which the British guns shelled during Saturday.

FIGHTING IN NATAL.

British Infantry Gaining Ground Under a Heavy Fire.

COLENSO, Natal, Feb. 26.—The Boers, who had been re-enforced, made a stand on Thursday at Grobler's kloof and on a range of hills running east. They had been forced from all their positions on the right.

General Lyttleton's division on Thursday advanced under cover of the kopjes. The Boers fired a Creusot and a "Long Tom." The British artillery was well sheltered in the action at daybreak and until late in the afternoon, when a heavy rifle fire on both sides developed.

The British infantry had advanced a mile and a half, and a continuous fire was kept up until after dark. The Boers stuck to their positions. The British artillery fire was irregular. A few salvos were sent toward the thickly wooded spots and ravines from which the Boer fire was heaviest.

The Boers sent shells into the headquarters baggage, close to the hospital, but no material damage was done. General Wynne was slightly wounded.

Early on Friday a severe rifle fire was resumed on the right and front from the positions held over night by both sides. The British naval guns, howitzers, mountain and field batteries shelled the Boer trenches incessantly. The Boers replied with two heavy guns, some of their shells bursting over the hospital. As a result the British wounded were removed.

During the afternoon the Fifth brigade, the Enniskillens and Dublins leading, began to advance up the hills. In spite of the constant shelling the Boers stood up in their trenches, aiming deliberately down the hills.

The infantry advance was further covered by parties on the right and left firing volleys. It was slow, the British taking advantage of every bit of natural cover. The Boers on the crests of the hills, as well as from the trenches part of the way down, poured lead along the advancing line.

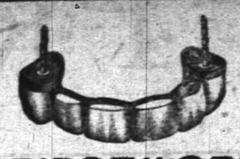
At dark the British infantry had reached within a few hundred yards of the first line of Boer trenches.

Officers Killed.

STERKSTROOM, Feb. 26.—General Gatacre has issued a divisional order announcing the killing at Schoemen's farm Saturday of Captain Montmorency, commanding Montmorency's scouts, and Lieutenant Colonel F. H. Hoskier of the Third Middlesex volunteer artillery.

Noted Homeopathist Dead.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Dr. A. R. Wright of Buffalo is dead at St. Joseph's hospital in Chicago. He arrived here Thursday to consult Dr. Nicholas Senn about his illness. After entering the hospital Dr. Wright failed to rally because of his age, 74 years. Dr. Wright was one of the foremost homeopathic physicians of America.



BRIDGE WORK

in Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. It has to be made of a material that has strength and durability and one that will not discolor. Gold is the one that stands the test. That is the secret of the expense. But the advantages of a bridge over a plate are many times more than the cost of one compared to that of the other.

OH, MAMMA DEAR!
did you hear that Woolston & Buckle has the finest wall paper in town. With Kaleidoscopic change on lovely backgrounds?
Daisies blossom on paper of azure blue,
Roses bud and bloom on an ashen hue,
Lillies of the valley are scattered on green
And flowers of all tints are everywhere seen
On colors exquisitely blended with care
To reproduce fruits, and flowers as fair
As if aid on by Nature's own hand,
Unique designs both opaque and round,
And Japanese figures on gilded ground
And fantistic Beardsley lines are found
In a bewildering array.
Transform your bare and hideous walls
Into dreams of beauty as profuse
As covered Granada's famous halls.
From any design your fancy may choose,
The walls of the cottage are covered with ease,
It's not our custom, but the wealthy to please.
We have beautiful papers at a low price.
Although not so gorgeous, are artistic and nice.

HENRY CABOT LODGE.

Junior United States Senator from Old Massachusetts.

He Is Intensely American and Always Has an Eye to the Future — A Scholar in Politics, But Not a Visionary.

A man who is pointed out a score of times a day to visitors in the senate press gallery at Washington is Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts. He is one of the most interesting figures in congress, and one of the few whose personal appearance does not belie description. Both the Massachusetts senators are men whose reputations are not confined to politics, and whose names stand for something besides prominence in legislation.

Both Hoar and Lodge are men of affairs, of scholastic attainments, of family, and of varied interests. Either would have a national reputation, even though he did not hold a seat in the senate. There are few senators of whom this could be said, and fewer states of which it can be said of both senators. They represent the old and the new. One approaches the end of his career, crowned with honor and respect; the other, though he has been a good many years in congress, may be said to be upon the threshold of a career the end of which is not yet in sight.

Mr. Lodge has been called a scholar in politics. That is an easy phrase, that is usually applied without overmuch discrimination. It is true that he is a scholar, and that he is in politics; but, says the Washington Star, he doesn't confound the two. In the popular fancy the scholar in politics is a visionary person, with high ideals, which are usually quite impractical when it comes to carrying them into effect. Lodge is practical. He has his ideals, as every man in public life ought to have; but he appreciates the limitations of human nature, and knows instinctively when those ideals are immediately capable of realization and when they are not. He understands the political wisdom of biding his time and making use of instruments at his hand for the accomplishment of that which he knows can be done.

HENRY CABOT LODGE.
(Junior United States Senator from the State of Massachusetts.)

His name has been known nationally for nearly a quarter of a century, and yet he is a young man. He comes from a long-lived race, and some of his ancestors acted important parts in the early history of the republic (his grandfather, George Cabot, was the first secretary of the navy), and there is no reason why he should not hold a place in public life for at least a quarter of a century more. Physically and intellectually he is a thoroughbred. Straight as an arrow, trim of figure, graceful in bearing, his outward presence attracts the eye and is quite in keeping with his habit of mind. His brain is muscular, like his body, and is as finely trained. His mind works with the certainty of a machine.

Lodge is a born fighter. If he had come from another walk of life, and had entered the prize ring, he would have been the champion. In whatever circumstances he might have been placed he would have risen above the surface. He knows what it is to be beaten, but he does not know what it means to stay beat. A blow aimed at him is always the prelude to another blow aimed in return. Everything he has won in public life, in literature, or in any way, has been won at the expense of hard knocks, which have helped to strengthen his power of endurance.

Before a Massachusetts audience, especially before a Boston audience, he is an effective orator. He catches the atmosphere in a way which would be impossible for one of another heritage. On the stump, in conventions in times of great excitement, his speech is kindling and uplifting to a degree which may seem strange to those who know him only in the not altogether sympathetic atmosphere of the senate. He understands the art of leading the imagination of his hearers a continual chase, while punctuating his talk with epigram and local allusion.

He is an intense American. He has confidence in the future of his own country and in the capacity of the American people to cope with any problem that may come along. He believes that the United States is the greatest country on earth, and that there is nothing too big for the American people to aspire to. He has theories, but he is not a theorist when he finds his theories clashing hopelessly with facts. He has virility tempered by sentiment. No man in public life has a more familiar acquaintance with books, and no man in public life is less under the influence of merely bookish ideas.

He is ambitious. So is every man who ever did anything worth the while.

SAVINGS BANK FACTS

Kilburn Praises New York State Institutions.

A MONUMENT TO WISE LEGISLATION

The Taxing of Mortgages Held by Savings Banks Opposed—A Bill to Limit Individual Deposits Favored.

ALBANY, Feb. 26.—In his annual report to the state legislature on savings banks and trust companies State Superintendent of Banks Kilburn says:

"With the movement to float hundreds of new enterprises which distinguished the past year, with the many schemes for reorganizing or consolidating older properties and with a wild speculative activity prevalent the trust companies of the state were under unabated pressure to enter upon transactions whose advocates minimized the question of the risk while alluringly and confidently promising unusual profits. To these unexampled temptations it is gratifying to be able to testify that the management of nearly all of these companies turned a deaf ear and adhered to conservative and safe courses of action, with the consequence that when reckless rumor and malignant attacks were directed against the institutions the strain was successfully borne by all but one, whose suspension, however, proved but temporary."

Relative to the savings banks of the state he says:

"The savings bank system of New York stands a splendid monument to the legislative wisdom of the state. It may reasonably be doubted if any other single agency has accomplished more to cultivate individual independence and, therefore, good citizenship or to keep down public charges on account of pauperism. It should require no argument or special appeal to induce the legislature to refrain from action which in the opinion of those who have made a life study of the needs of the savings banks would seriously injure them.

"The sum of about $75,000 is held by me in trust on account of unclaimed dividends due depositors in failed savings banks or in those which have closed voluntarily. The money doubtless belongs in many cases to needy people. It would be gratifying if every dollar of it could be handed over to the rightful owners."

Superintendent Kilburn is opposed to the placing of a tax on mortgages held by savings banks and building and loan associations as proposed in the Stranahan taxation bill now pending in the legislature. Superintendent Kilburn thus expresses himself on that subject:

"It has been for a generation the policy of the state to exempt savings banks from taxation, and those to whom the management of these institutions is committed cannot contemplate a departure from that policy except with anxious solicitude. In my judgment a measure should be enacted which will effectually stop the multiplication of accounts by any one individual and prevent the use of the savings banks by men of affairs or capitalists for investment purposes."

Harvard Dinner In Havana.

HAVANA, Feb. 26.—General Wood presided Saturday night at the dinner of the Harvard club, where, in addition to Harvard men, Colonel Dudley was present to represent West Point, Lieutenant Commander Lucien Young representing Annapolis, Mayor La Coste representing the city of Havana and the University of Pennsylvania and Dr. Carbonel representing the University of Havana. Several eloquent speeches were made, General Wood's, as usual, being happy and appropriate. Mr. Frye, superintendent of schools, alluded to Harvard's offer to 1,000 Cuban teachers in connection with the summer school and said it would be impossible to estimate the value of this opportunity as bearing upon the future history of Cuba.

Cuban Independence Day.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Feb. 26.—The order of General Wood making Saturday a holiday in honor of the beginning of the revolution was very popular and was observed strictly. Except for a few American houses it was impossible to find a business establishment open. The Cubans consider the day in the same light as the Americans do the Fourth of July. The principal celebration was held at the Antonio Maceo club, where the speeches were quite different in tone from any made at any previous demonstration. All the speakers accepted in good faith the avowed intention of the United States government to establish a Cuban republic.

Second Attempt at Suicide.

GENEVA, N. Y., Feb. 26.—Mary Sullivan, the young woman who procured the carbolic acid with which her friend, Mary McCarthy, killed herself last week, has made a second attempt to take her own life. This time she used a razor. She cut her throat, but before she had succeeded in severing the jugular vein she was caught and prevented from carrying out her act. Mrs. McCarthy, mother of the girl who committed suicide, was drowned Saturday while returning from her daughter's grave. She was walking along the bank of a small stream, when, it is thought, she fell into the water. The Sullivan girl has been adjudged insane.

A Chicago Blaze.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Eight firms were burned out yesterday in a fire which destroyed a four story brick building at 53 Jefferson street. The loss on the building was $30,000 and on the contents $35,000.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Seven men were killed in Pullman, Ark., by the explosion of a sawmill boiler.

Heavy thunder and sharp lightning were reported in many parts of New England.

The barge General Wiley foundered off Narragansett Pier, R. I., and five lives were lost.

Explosions at a fire in a Paris suburb injured 150 persons. The loss was 2,000,000 francs.

Four hundred mules were shipped from Kansas City for the British army in South Africa.

Grace Clarke, the 15-year-old daughter of William Clarke, Jersey City, who was under the care of a Christian Scientist, died.

THE SANTIAGO FIGHT

Famous Battle of July 3 Again Retold.

THE BROOKLYN'S "LOOP" SAVED HER

Spanish Officer Says the Maria Teresa Intended to Ram Schley's Flagship—Terrible Execution of American Shots.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The bureau of naval intelligence has issued a fresh volume of its war notes series and probably the best of them which will bear on the battle of Santiago Harbor. The present publication is a translation from the Spanish of Captain Victor M. Concas y Palau, formerly commander of the cruiser Infanta Maria Teresa and chief of staff to Admiral Cervera in the battle of July 3.

Like a number of previous articles from officers of the Spanish squadron bearing on the same subject, Captain Concas devotes considerable space to the lack of naval preparation in Spain prior to the war and also to condemning the political party in Spain which was responsible for offering up the crippled squadron as a sacrifice on the altar of an historic ideal.

The vital section of the narrative begins with the exodus of the devoted squadron from Santiago harbor. Captain Concas says in accordance with previous instructions the Teresa was headed toward the Brooklyn, hoping to ram her. This was frustrated by the Brooklyn's frequently discussed "loop" to starboard, which Concas says "brought the Texas and the Iowa between her and the Teresa." A foot note inserted in the narrative at this point reads: "The turn was made to starboard, though it would seem reasonable for it to have been made to port." There is nothing in the bureau's publication to indicate whether this foot note is by Captain Concas or not.

Continuing his story, Captain Concas tells of the successive sinking of the Teresa and the other vessels of the squadron. He dwells strongly on a point which he declares all other critics have overlooked—namely, that owing to the narrow and tortuous channel past the Morro the Spanish vessels had to come out so far apart that they were each attacked by the combined force of the American squadron and destroyed in detail, making it principally a series of combats, each time a single ship against a squadron. He calls attention also to the probability that the American estimate of 3 per cent of hits out of the shots aimed at Cervera's fleet is too low. He says the most horrible mortality in every case was in the upper works, where the shots left no marks except those wiped out by fire. He says 6 per cent of hits would not be too high.

In defense of the Spanish gunnery the writer says that Cervera's ships fought either bow or stern on nearly throughout the battle. This reduced the number of guns they could bring to bear.

He points out that the Brooklyn, which was the only vessel keeping up a parallel broadside fight at close range for any length of time, was struck 41 times. As she was under fire only of the Vizcaya, the Teresa and for a short time of the best guns of the Colon. Captain Concas says the Spaniards gave very good proof of their ability as marksmen.

He credits the Iowa with landing the two 12 or 13 inch shells which burst the Teresa's main steam pipe and put her out of action when her commander thought she had a fair chance to escape. These shots, he says, have been claimed both by the Oregon and the Indiana, but he adduces considerable evidence that they came from the Iowa.

Speaking of the nature of the wounds inflicted by modern naval shell fire, Captain Concas declares them more horrible than can be described. A boatswain of the Teresa had 14 wounds. None of the men injured at all escaped with less than two. Many, he says, were blown into unrecognizable fragments. Captain Larzaza of the Oquendo was killed, his executive officer, Lola, cut in two by a shell, the third officer, Natos, and the three lieutenants next in rank all killed, besides 121 men of the crew. The total mortality in the fleet reached the awful figure of 22 per cent of the men engaged.

Republicans Cannot Agree.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The effort to unite the Republicans of the house on a Porto Rican bill have failed, and after a long conference Saturday night it was stated that matters were substantially where they were. Other efforts at harmony will be made today. A long conference was held last night at the residence of Representative McCall of Massachusetts between the committee appointed at the Republican conference Saturday night representing the Republicans in favor of the pending Porto Rico tariff bill and a committee agreed upon by those Republicans who are opposed to the measure.

Railway Conductor Killed.

BUFFALO, Feb. 26.—A Delaware, Lackawanna and Western fast freight, south bound, ran into the rear of an irregular train of empty coal and box cars at Alden station during a blinding snowstorm yesterday afternoon. L. E. Smith of Elmira, conductor of the irregular train, was killed. Smith was in the caboose, which was crushed by the collision. His limbs were mangled, and he died while being sent to a Buffalo hospital.

Five Killed by a Train.

BUFFALO, Feb. 26.—A Geneva special to the Buffalo Courier says shortly after midnight Saturday the midnight express on the Lehigh Valley railroad struck a carriage containing seven persons at Tuttle's crossing, about 25 miles east from Rochester, instantly killing five of the occupants, fatally injuring another and badly bruising the other. All were members of one family.

Serious Street Car Wreck.

ATLANTA, Feb. 26.—A street car on the Decatur Blue line was wrecked Sunday morning near Oakland cemetery by striking an obstruction which had evidently been placed across the track. The car jumped fully ten feet into the air and rolled 15 feet down an embankment. The 12 passengers on the car were more or less injured.

Big Locomotive Order.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26.—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad has ordered 100 Vauclaitt compound consolidation freight locomotives, deliveries to be made after the 65 now being built are completed. The company also announced that it is building at Curtis bay, Maryland, the largest coal dock on the Atlantic coast.

IT is significant that in homes of wealth where the very best is demanded, Ivory Soap is used in the nursery. At the same time, in hundreds of families where economy decides the choice, Ivory Soap is selected. Thus its purity attracts the rich; its economy attracts the poor. High quality and low cost: is there any better combination?

THE WAR COLLEGE.

Secretary Root Outlines Plans For Military Instruction.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The plans of Secretary Root regarding the projected war college are set out in a letter of instruction addressed by him to the board charged with perfecting the plan. The letter is as follows:

"The main purpose of the proposed war college for the army, to be established in this city, is in general to further the higher instruction of the service, to develop and organize in accordance with a coherent and unified system the existing means of professional education and training and to serve as a co-ordinate agency through which all means of professional military information shall be at the immediate disposal of the military authorities. While it is recognized that the complete organization of the institution must be a matter of gradual growth, it is desired that the preliminary steps toward its organization shall be taken as rapidly as circumstances will permit.

"In the general plan now under the consideration of the war department, the army college will be expected to consider and report upon the various questions affecting the welfare and efficiency of the army, including organization, methods of administration, armament, equipment, transportation, supplies, mobilization, concentration, distribution, military preparation, plans of campaign and such other professional matters as may be referred to it.

"The college is also expected to supervise and direct the conduct and methods of the several service schools so as to develop their highest efficiency, and to devise rules for the harmonious and effective co-operation of all the military forces of the United States, including the organization of an instructed reserve.

"Other matters demanding its attention will be the consideration of methods for full co-operation of the military and naval forces in time of war, with a view to a thorough understanding and concert of action for military operations, defensive and offensive."

General Ludlow has been designated as president of the board. It will meet in this city tomorrow.

ASHORE ON MAINE COAST.

Steamship Californian Strikes the Rocks In a Gale.

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 26.—The big Allan line steamship Californian, which left her dock at midnight, went ashore on Ram Island ledge, just outside of the harbor, a few minutes after her pilot left her Sunday morning. All the passengers are safe, although still aboard. The condition of the vessel is uncertain. Most of the local seafaring men are of the opinion that the rocks have penetrated the bottom of the vessel in several places, and they doubt very much if she can be saved.

The master of the Californian is Captain John France, one of the oldest and most capable employees of the line. There are six cabin, five intermediate and ten steerage passengers, besides a crew of 75 men.

The Californian was in charge of Pilot Edward L. Parsons, and at the time he left her the wind was blowing hard from the southeast and was accompanied at the time by heavy rain. Pilot Parsons left the ship on reaching the bell buoy off Cushing's Island point after he gave the officers of the ship the correct course. Ten minutes later the Californian was hard and fast aground on Ram Island ledge.

This was the third trip the Californian has made this season from this port. She was bound to Glasgow by way of Halifax. She arrived at Portland the latter part of last week. Her cargo is about 3,000 tons and was valued at $300,000. The vessel was launched at Glasgow in 1891 and is valued at $3,000,000.

Work Before Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The time of the senate during the present week will be divided between the questions of the finances, the government policy toward the insular possessions and the seating of Senator Quay upon the nomination of the governor of Pennsylvania. The Hawaiian bill remains the unfinished business, subject to removal at any time by the Quay resolution and also by the conference report upon the currency bill. The event of the week in the house of representatives will be the taking of the vote on the Porto Rican tariff bill. This has been set for 3 p. m. tomorrow, although the differences which have arisen on the bill may compel a rearrangement of the programme.

Schools For Each Sect.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Roman Catholics are interested in a movement which has begun in this city to relieve church members of the burden of supporting parochial schools. According to its projectors the scope of the plan is general, so that all Christians of whatever denomination and Hebrews as well who believe that children should receive spiritual training along with mental will reap the results. All persons of the different creeds are invited to make a common cause with the Catholics "in securing a system of schools which will take in all the children of New York, securing to all secular instruction, yet giving opportunity and time to their salutary work with them also, so that they may not become clever unbelievers."

Gigantic Ice Deal.

BANGOR, Me., Feb. 26.—The most important deal in ice property ever made on the Penobscot river and one that is of much significance concerning the future of the industry here was concluded on Saturday when A. C. Nickerman, a New York broker, purchased for parties not named but supposed to be the American Ice company of New York three of the largest properties on the river, those of E. and I. K. Stetson, the Orrington Ice company and the Arctic Ice company. The price paid is understood to have been about $85,000 for the three plants, and this included the ice now in the houses. Negotiations are in progress for the purchase by the same parties of the plants of the Union Ice company and Sargent's Sons.

Sixty Mile Gale Holds Up Shipping.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Wind from the northwest blowing at the rate of 60 miles an hour lashed up a heavy sea in the upper and lower bays yesterday and made it impossible for pilots to board incoming vessels. The Munchen, from Bremen with cabin and steerage passengers, arrived at Sandy Hook at 8 a. m., but the pilots from the pilotboat New York could not board her, and the Munchen had to anchor outside the Hook. The Trinidad, from Bermuda, which arrived early in the day, came as far as the upper bay and there anchored. Only nine vessels ventured to sea, all steamships.

Severe Weather In Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—The storm which began on Friday night reached its height Sunday. The temperature here was near the zero mark, and a fierce gale from the northwest blew all day. During most of the day snow fell also. Cars on the street railway lines were operated with difficulty. The storm was general throughout northern Ohio, and in several places very low temperature was recorded, the minimum at Youngstown being 14 degrees below zero.

Fireman Killed at a Detroit Fire.

DETROIT, Feb. 26.—A fire which started last night in the plant of the Detroit Steel and Spring company's works at the Michigan avenue crossing of the Michigan Central railroad destroyed both the company's rolling mills and caused the loss of a fireman's life, besides indirectly resulting in injuries to a physician and an ambulance driver. The property loss is about $100,000, fully insured.

Grain Elevator and Mill Burned.

HALIFAX, Feb. 26.—The works of the Maritime Milling company at New Glasgow were destroyed by fire yesterday, together with the grain elevator and a large quantity of grain. This was the pioneer mill to grind grain in the lower provinces. All the flour had previously been purchased in the west. The loss is $150,000; insurance, $116,000.

Open Switch Causes Death.

FLOMATON, Ala., Feb. 26.—A north bound passenger train on the Louisville and Nashville railroad struck an open switch near this place. The engine and baggage car were overturned, but none of the other cars left the track. Fireman Sam Adams, a negro, was crushed to death and Engineer Goings injured. None of the passengers was injured.

Gunpowder Maker Dead.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 26.—Lycurgus F. Laflin of Chicago, the wealthy gunpowder manufacturer, died Sunday morning at 8 o'clock unexpectedly at the Chamberlin hotel, Old Point Comfort. He arrived from Chicago several days ago.

COMING EVENTS.

February 26—Union Bible class taught by Rev. D. M. Stearns in Y. M. C. A. Hall, 7:45 p. m.

Asbury Park may well feel proud and gratified that she has such a citizen as Founder Bradley. The Founder, whose public spirit has made Asbury Park successful and famous the world over, has offered to dispose of the mile beach front, which he owns free and clear, to the municipality for $150,000. The property is easily worth $1,000,000. If Asbury Park people are wise they will accept the generous offer of the Founder.

Bag and baggage, the Tin Plate and the Steel Trusts transplanted themselves from Chicago to New York in one day by the aid of a specially chartered train. Both corporations are organized under the laws of New Jersey, but they whizzed through this State without so much as a how-do-you-do. They undoubtedly recognize New Jersey as a very great convenience, but scarcely entitled to respect.

Seven weeks of the legislative session of 1900 have passed into history. This evening the eighth week will be ushered in, and there is a probability that the dullness that has prevailed to date will make way for a little activity.

Some idea of modern invention and progress can be gained by the knowledge that in 1850 there was only 71,000 tons of steel manufactured in the whole world, but in 1898 the United States alone made over 9,000,000 tons.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND.

Editorial Comment from Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The attention of Pastor Shott, of Scotch Plains, who has made a reputation as a zealous reformer, is called to the fact that a Fudge Club has been formed in the public school of that place, with a rapidly increasing membership. It is said that the amount of fudge devoured by the members is something remarkable. The pernicious effects of the fudge habit on the rising generation has already begun to attract the attention of scientists, and Pastor Shott should give the matter immediate attention.—Newark News.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

George C. Clark, a veteran of the Civil War, claims the distinction of being the oldest woodchopper following the business for a livelihood in New Jersey. Mr. Clark was born near Egg Harbor City in 1815 and for over fifty years he has earned a living with his axe. Although nearing his eighty-fifth birthday, the old man walks four miles to and from work and chops a cord of wood a day.

The employes of the rug mill at Millway are trying the experiment of co operation and it is apparent that it will be a success. The experiment was forced upon them, much against their will, but they are glad of it now, for they are profiting by it. The mill had made an assignment owing the workmen $1,000 in unpaid wages. One bright fellow suggested at a meeting that they raise enough money to buy the stock of the company and resume manufacturing for their own account. The money was obtained and the mill is again in operation. It has profitable orders in hand now to keep it busy for several months.

Animated nature is cutting quite a figure in South Jersey news just now. In one day's record it is told that John Ingersoll, of Tuckahoe, caught half a ton of perch in one day; that John Venable, a progressive farmer of Bridgeton, has started a rabbit farm; that a large skunk in the act of stealing eggs was captured by Fred Reune, of Sea Breeze; that S. Milton Carll, of Lower Alloway, shot a golden-eye duck, the second ever seen in that region; that a nest of opossums was found under the house of Mrs. Warner, of Woodbury, after the family had been disturbed many nights by the snoring of the animals.

OSMAN DIGNA, DERVISH SLAVE DEALER.

With the capture of Osman Digna, the wicked old slave trader, the last of the great Dervish leaders is put out of action. He is 65 years of age and is a hard citizen, even for the Soudan. Efforts have been made for a long time to capture the old fellow, and Kitchener, when at Khartoum, issued an order to take Osman Digna "dead or alive."

A PAUPER, YET RICH.

Duluth Man Dies In the Almshouse, but Left Rich Lands.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—A special to The Record from Duluth says that Johann Mueller, who died a supposed pauper, left property which has risen in value to several hundred thousand dollars. Mueller was a homesteader who took up government pine lands a few miles north of Duluth some years ago. He became so involved in financial troubles that many trifling judgments were taken against his land, on which he had also given two small mortgages, aggregating about $800. Finally, 14 months ago, he died in the poorhouse. He had no relatives in America, and his body was buried by the county.

About the time of his death it was found that valuable deposits of iron ore existed in the neighborhood of his homestead, and search was begun for Mueller. Detectives were sent all over the United States to find him, and while they were following elusive clews from Arizona to Cuba and from Maine to Washington the poor man breathed his last in the Douglas county almshouse three miles from the offices of those Duluth men who were so anxious to find him.

One of the two mortgages held against him was by a Catholic priest of Duluth, who foreclosed it and then bought an assignment of the sheriff's certificate on the first mortgage, thus shutting out the claimants who had sued for title.

In the meantime the discoveries of ore crept closer and closer to Mueller's land, and finally the priest was able to negotiate an option on half of it to the Carnegie steel interests for $200,000 cash or an annual income of $25,000 or more, the exact amount of this income being determined by the quantity of ore mined yearly. The other half he held for $100,000. Then ore was found by the Carnegie company, and within the last few days the option has been closed, and the remaining half has been absolutely withdrawn from the market as worth far more than $100,000.

Now action has been brought by still other claimants, who found Mueller's heirs living penniless in some obscure German village, and there will be a hearing before the probate court this week to determine why they shall not be declared administrators of the estate and the proceedings quashed that gave title to the priest.

If the foreclosure of Mueller's second mortgage, which was by advertisement, is valid, title rests with the priest, and he has a fortune of perhaps $500,000; if not, the heirs and the opposing claimants will reap a still greater reward, for they will not only get the property, but will be able to overturn the option and agreement that has been made with the Carnegie Steel company and can probably sell for a higher price.

Of a man employed as a candy maker at Machias, Me., one of his friends relates: "I have known him for years and until very lately I always heard him complaining about his food distressing him, and feeling more or less badly about all the time. His work naturally keeps him confined a good deal, and he has very little chance for exercise. Lately, having heard less complaint, I thought I would call and see to what he credited his improvement. He said: 'For years I have been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia. At times I would be dizzy and my head very dull, especially after eating. Then I would have distress and palpitation, caused by gas in my stomach from food fermenting. The only thing I could find that would give me any relief was soda, and from that I got no lasting benefit, but of late I have struck it rich. My employer directed my attention to

A KITCHEN OF LONG AGO.

How and What the Old New Englanders Cooked.

BY JEANNETTE DEVOE.

A copy of an ancient cookbook, compiled by "Several New England Ladies" over a century ago and known as the "Pocumtuck Housewife," recently attracted my attention. I could not but wonder as I looked it over what would a good old housewife of those days do if she were suddenly put down in a modern city, surrounded by gas ranges, electric lights, elevators and steam heat instead of the old fashioned hearth with its deep chimney seats and blackened cranes, and were obliged to contend with the gastronomic propensity of the average household of today. Probably she would raise her hands in horror and wonder if, after all, the example of her thrift and industry had been sown on sterile soil.

The following directions were considered especially adapted to the needs of young housekeepers of the time of Cotton Mather and Priscilla Alden:

"It will not be out of place to suggest to a novice what will be expected in the way of meals in a farmer's household with a good many hands to feed.

"For Sunday morning in winter fry the hasty pudding that was left over from Saturday night's supper. Eat it with West India molasses or muscovado sugar. In summer fried pudding is too heating. Pancakes, with cider and sugar, are better. Flapjacks are good on holidays or when the men folks are not working hard. Weekday mornings farmers want some meat that can be cooked quickly, so as to let them go to the meadows before the sun is up. Salt mackerel and shad freshened overnight and boiled are good. When the shad catch comes, buy a barrel of them and salt them yourself.

"Johnnycake or hoecake is a good change from rye and Indian bread. It is always best to keep flour bread in the house, but with a large family of farmhands or apprentices it cannot be eaten commonly. Nut cakes are expected for breakfast and sometimes pye.

"Some families like to get up a great dinner on Sundays and have friends who drive to meeting from a distance come in for the morning. There is no objection to this if everything is prepared the day before. The meat should be plain roast, so that it can be started and left.

"A young child can tend the spit while the rest of the family is away. In winter the pyes should be put on the hearth before meeting, so as to thaw gradually. If you wish to avoid the necessity of keeping any one at home, get some rice porridge, or brewis and cold meat. This, with pye, is enough for any one on a leisure day.

"For a weekday dinner boiled corned beef and pork, with a pudding and seasonable vegetables, is a standard dish and always relished by workingmen. Lay in a good supply of turnips, cabbages, pumpkins and squashes.

"Calf's head and pluck make a filling meal. You can have fresh meat frequently, even in warm weather, if, when you kill a sheep or calf, you pass it around to the neighbors and they return the compliment when they kill. It is usually safer to wait for cool weather before killing beef and pork. Fowls are always to be had. When the team goes to Boston in the winter with a load to sell, have it bring back a 50 pound fresh codfish and a barrel of oysters, along with the molasses and sugar supply. The fish will keep frozen for weeks. A piece can be sawed off and thawed when needed. It can be salted down and is much better than store codfish.

"Arrange the cold meat and vegetables left from dinner on a large platter for the men folks. Saturday night they will expect hasty pudding and milk, or 'samp' when corn is new. Brown bread and milk with pumpkin stewed dry, or baked sweet apples or huckleberries, are liked on a hot summer afternoon, especially if the milk is hung down the well and cooled. Pie and gingerbread and custards are good enough for common use. Keep a loaf of rich cake on hand for unexpected company.

"For a boiled dinner, at 9 o'clock make a good, steady fire that will last until noon. Place the pot on the crane and fill half full of cold water; add a large piece of corned beef or pork, and at 10:30 put in the cabbage, at 11 the carrots and turnips, at 11:30 the parsnips and potatoes. Place quarters of squash on the top. The dinner will be sufficiently cooked by 12 o'clock."

Simple and choice as these recipes are, there is as much resemblance between them and our modern day methods of cooking as there is difference between the old fashioned hearth and our drawing room gas logs. Both suggest the comforts of their day, which is, after all, enough to keep us in touch with those good old times.

FOR BRIDES TO WEAR.

Stunning New Gowns For a Most Fortunate Young Woman.

There will be a rush between now and the beginning of Lent to get married, for it is quite out of custom to be wedded during those 40 days. Some prefer to wait until Easter for their wedding, but there are others, and to those others I am going to tell about some swell wedding gowns and one or two others not quite so swell, perhaps, but fully as pretty.

The very handsomest one is for a tall and slender blond, and it is absolutely novel in every way. In the first place, it is of dead white armure as thick as broadcloth and a good deal stiffer, and there is a long, square train, with a regular fluff of silk mull ruffles beneath, but the train is plain and hangs from the shoulders. The front is a perfect empire shape, and the silk hangs in unbroken lines from the bust line, where it is sewed to a yoke of shirred white chiffon.

Around the bust from under the right arm there was a scarf, or "long shawl," of white Spanish lace draped up to the yoke on the left side, where it was caught up into a bunch with a spray of orange blossoms, and then fell to the very floor. The yoke ended at the throat, the rest of the neck being left uncovered.

The sleeves were of shirred chiffon and reached to the knuckles. A tulle veil hung to the bottom of the train in the back and to the waist in front. I should mention that there was a thin little spray of orange blossoms hanging loosely down with the lace scarf, but none are to be worn on the head. The modiste told me that the bride is to carry a large bouquet of orchids and ferns.

A stunning traveling dress for this same fortunate young lady is of pale pink pastel broadcloth. The blouse waist is tucked and run in diagonal lines. The skirt is very long for an outdoor gown and has eight or ten lines of stitching directly around the bottom. There is a seam down the front, and on both sides from about the knees in a diagonal line to the center of the back are narrow tucks, perhaps 50 of them.

The skirt is sheath shaped all around, save directly in the back, where it is laid in many narrow plaits. With this goes a black velvet pointed Eton jacket with stitched cut out bands of the pastel cloth and a high collar and the wide revers of the same. The revers are embroidered lightly with gold thread.

Brides do not have the "secondary" dresses as they did. Everything but their traveling gowns is just such as they would wear at any time.

The traditional orange blossoms are also a little out of date, and white heather often replaces them; so do other preferred blossoms. One thing I may note is that out of six dresses four had long, square trains, and the very heaviest quality of satin duchesse, armure and faille are used.

One fancy seen in three of these was a square opening in the blouse shaped waist and this filled in with shirrings of chiffon. No bride wears a low cut bodice, and most of them have the collar as high as the ears and chin will permit. Only one out of six fashionable brides will have a point lace veil. All the others must be content with tulle.

This one favored young lady says this veil and the deep point flounce down the front of her gown are heirlooms and have been in the family for generations. So they have, but not her family, for I happen to know just whose great-great-grandmother wore this lace in England. Times have changed with that English family, and so the American bride will wear the priceless lace.

This young lady will wear for traveling a mouse colored cloth. There is a pointed tunic edged with a deep applique of lace. There is a side plaited flounce of this cloth beneath the tunic. The waist is blouse shape, the upper part being laid in plaits, and the lace applique is set across the bust.

Plaits and narrow folds and tucks are largely employed as decoration upon all these wedding dresses.

Next week I am to have delightful times looking at the models for the new Easter millinery. For once I must admit that I haven't the slightest inkling as to what we are to have. We can only hope that the fates will be kind.

Brilliant Gowns Worn at Gotham Dinner Parties

This Form of Amusement Is in Vogue Among the Swells at the Present Time and Handsome Costumes are Displayed

NEW YORK society, at least that portion of it that is spending the season at home and not in Europe, is getting all the enjoyment possible out of the few remaining days of the season before the long dull days and nights of Lent put a stop to the festivities of the winter. There have been but few novelties offered society this winter, and the entire season has been unusually common so far as the forms of entertainments were concerned, when we compare it with that of last year. Mrs. Gould's theatricals were a seven days' wonder, and later Mrs. Oelrich's vaudeville show gave the gossips something to talk about for a short time. But aside from those there has been but little except the ever popular theatrical party at some of the better class of theaters, dances and dinner parties.

During the engagement of Irving and Ellen Terry theatrical parties were much in vogue, and the brokers reaped a rich harvest from the wealthy members of the aristocracy for tickets of which they held a monopoly. A few of the other shows of the season have profited by this desire on the part of society to entertain at theater parties, but at the present time there is nothing on the New York boards which they consider worthy of their attention, and so they have turned to dinner parties of a rather exclusive sort.

But while these dinners have been to a certain extent even more exclusive than usual, yet the dining-rooms of the Fifth avenue mansions have echoed the mirth of gay gatherings during the past few days, and will continue to do so until the days of Lent put a stop to the frivolity.

The Vanderbilts are wearing mourning costumes in Europe, but the Goulds, the Whitneys, the Webbs and a long list of other fashionables are at home and entertaining society at dinner.

Society folks court publicity in a quiet way. The woman of fashion likes to see her name and descriptions of her favorite gowns in print, and she does not find it a hard matter to secure the recognition she desires. An intimation to a newspaper that a representative will be graciously received and accommodated with such information as his paper desires is all that is necessary, and the representative is there. It was in this way that I was permitted to witness the merriment at one of these dinner parties a few days ago, and I improved the opportunity to secure a description and sketches of some of the elaborate dinner gowns worn.

One of the gowns worn at this party was made of a peau de soie in the new bluette color, with gold pailletes. It was made a princess with a double box plait in the back that hung in long, loose, graceful folds. The gold pailletes were at each side of the train, extending high and bordering the train. The front was covered with ruchings of white chiffon and gold pailletes, and long loops of blue velvet ribbon. The low pointed decollete was finished with a fichu effect of chiffon drawn over the shoulders above long transparent sleeves of cobwebby white lace, encircled by entwined bands of gold pailletes.

Another was of white embroidered crepe de chine. The under petticoat of this had a deep flounce of accordion plaiting, over this falling a deep pointed tunic that was handsomely embroidered around the point, and above in ribbonlike effect with a lover's knot on each corner. The low pointed bodice was gathered full in a pointed girdle, with a fichu effect of the crepe de chine brought over the shoulder and fastened in front with a large rosette. A very short ruffle, cut in vandykes, for a finish falling over the upper part of the arm.

One that I was told was an imported gown was of satin brocade with a background of ivory white with a figure of pink. The under petticoat was of the ivory white with two deep accordion plaited flounces of white mousseline de soie, each having a wee ruching of the same. A pointed tunic of the satin brocade laced at each side with bands of pink mirror velvet in a lattice work fashion. This same effect was carried out at the shoulders and elbows, where the arm was left bare, except for the bands of velvet. A large butterfly bow of pink velvet with gold buckle to finish at the left side of the decollete.

Another was of black net made over a foundation of Nile green taffeta. This was outlined with an embroidery of opalescent spangles. The under portion of the skirt was covered with a wide lace flounce. The bodice was a simple, softly draped one of the black net, and at the left shoulder was a graceful bow of Nile green velvet.

OF EMBROIDERED CREPE DE CHENE.

A princess gown that was pretty was made of pastel blue velvet, and had a low pointed neck with a zouave of rich lace coming from the point, and falling in a deep cascade under the arms. It was fastened in front with three small buckles of brilliants, and had a deep flounce of lace on the front of the skirt, the back hanging in loose, graceful folds.

Others that were equally as pretty were made of crepe chiffons, beautiful black laces covered with black paillettes, black mousseline de soie, with plaitings in great width about the skirt over a soft white taffeta. One other in particular was a princess gown of satin brocade made with a striking decollete which was daring to the extreme, as the decollete was drawn to a point in which the dress was entirely off the shoulders, and the sleeves began at a point two inches below the shoulders. There was nothing above this line to cover the figure. But such are the extremes to which some society women go.

WANTS BISON SAVED.

Col. Buffalo Jones' Plan Indorsed by Many Congressmen.

Asks for the Setting Apart of a Large Preserve for the American Buffalo in the Territory of New Mexico.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"BUFFALO JONES" is here, and will remain until he can accomplish the object of his coming.

Congressman Lacey, of Iowa, chairman of the committee on public lands, has introduced a bill "to set apart a preserve for the American bison," and it is proposed to place this preserve in charge of "Buffalo Jones."

Inasmuch as Congressman Lacey has great influence in the house of representatives, because he is chairman of the committee on public lands, and inasmuch as that committee will have charge of the pending bill, it seems likely that the measure will, in due season, become a law. It is regarded as a very important proposition by all congressmen who have had time to give it consideration, and a majority of them seem to spontaneously favor it.

The proposed preserve is to be located near the southeast corner of the territory of New Mexico, and is to be 40 miles square. Col. Jones says that any smaller area would be useless for many reasons. In the first place, he says that the buffalo is a living barometer. He can tell when it is going to rain, or snow, or blow and he knows how to conduct himself accordingly. In a range of 40 miles a buffalo can take care of himself, and hide in canyons, or race across the plateaus to dry places, when snow or rain are coming. There may be clear weather on one portion of a tract 40 miles square, while exceedingly inclement weather exists in some other part of the tract. Moreover, Col. Jones says that the buffalo is the greatest of all liberty loving animals, and close confinement has caused many a one to die of a broken heart.

"I am not a philanthropist," says Col. Jones. "I am simply trying to do what seems to me a duty. No man has killed so many buffaloes as I have killed, for my victims number many thousands. For years I made it my business to kill them, and make money out of their hides. Moreover, in my early days, I used to kill them for sport. Now I deem it my duty to the buffalo, and also to mankind on this continent, to preserve the American bison from extinction. Only a few years ago countless millions of these animals roamed over the plains of North America. They had an absolute title to, and possession of, many millions of miles, as the Indians had to their hunting grounds. They were the invincible tribes of the plains and prairies. They would never have been subdued but for the extension of railroads across the continent. Their territory had been well nigh inaccessible, but railroads made transportation cheap, and immediately there followed a demand, from all over the world, for the beautiful, warm, soft robes of the buffalo.

BUFFALO JONES.
(Dressed in Garments Made from Fur of Buffalo and Catalo.)

"The supply had to equal the demand. Millions of buffalo hides annually were sent abroad, and other millions were taken up in our own country. The slaughter became so widespread and of such proportions that annihilation became simply a question of a brief period of time.

"In 1875, when I first began thinking of the necessity of preserving the buffalo, there were fully 1,000,000 still living. Now there are less than 400 left. I estimate that before the trans-continental railways were built there were between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 of them. When I first seriously talked of domesticating the buffalo I was ridiculed by people who declared that the wildest of all animals could never be brought within the control of man. They said that nothing but a stone wall like the Chinese wall would ever hold them. The vicious old bulls had smashed many a board fence, and scattered the rails from rail fences. I tried many kinds of fence, and finally stretched barb wires around a section of 640 acres of land, and kept 150 buffaloes for a year, without any difficulty. The wire itself might have been broken by them, but they accepted it as the limit of their range, and they had no desire to break it. The wire offered no obstruction to their vision, and hence, as long as they could have freedom of sight around them, they had no fear of danger, and no desire to break loose from a confinement which was made agreeable to them.

"I have demonstrated that the buffalo can be domesticated. I have buffalo milk which is sweeter, richer and more nourishing than the milk of any other breed of cows. The meat of the buffalo is better than any produced by the cattlemen of this country. The tallow is better than any butter that has ever been made, except butter churned from the cream of buffalo milk. With the aid of the government I hope to be able to preserve for posterity the finest domestic animal given to man for this continent. Inside of 20 years there will be ten full generations of buffalo growing into domestic habits. Their wildness will disappear, and their domesticity will increase by heredity with each generation.

"I have had considerable experience in taming these animals and teaching them to work in yokes like steers. It takes time and perfect patience. But when they are properly and completely 'broken' they become accustomed to restraint, and they exceed in courage and strength any animal subjected by man to assist in his burden or labor. I have a team of seven-year-old bulls, one of whom killed a keeper who did not know how to handle him. They are gentle and work well together. They draw feed to the other animals on my ranch in winter, and are used in plowing with excellent results in summer time.

"It was very difficult to teach the vicious fellows to carry bits in their mouths. But they do it now all right. I have hemp rope lines of the best material attached to heavy forged iron bits. Formerly I had a small windlass attached to each line, and by turning the crank I could control the bulls, no matter how hard they might pull. Nowadays, however, I drive them without the use of a windlass, with as much ease and pleasure as though they were a pair of carriage horses.

"In addition to the superiority of the buffalo cow over any of the standard breeds now generally regarded as the best in the world, her longevity must be considered. I have seen some of them so old that their horns had decayed and dropped off. I saw a buffalo cow in a zoological garden which was known to be 31 years old, and I am sure I have seen wild cows 10 or 15 years older. They are good milk cows as long as they live. They are very intelligent, too, and there is no domestic animal that is more affectionate."

The Lacey bill, after carefully describing the metes and bounds of the proposed "preserve for the American bison," fixes the status of the contract in the following words: "The secretary of the interior is hereby authorized and directed to lease to Charles J. Jones, of Topeka, Kan., his heirs and assigns, the tract of land described in section one of this act for a period of 20 years, free of rental charge. Said lease shall provide that the said Charles J. Jones, his heirs and assigns, shall place upon said tract of land, within one year from the passage of this act, suitable inclosures for bison, and no less than 100 full-blooded American bison, of sufficient number of males and females for breeding purposes; that it shall be unlawful to sell, kill, maim or destroy, or otherwise dispose of or remove from said tract of land by the said Charles J. Jones, his heirs or assigns, or any other person or persons whomsoever, any female bison except for sanitary, scientific or humane purposes, during the continuance of this lease, unless the increase should be in excess of one bison to each 500 acres of land in said tract, and except the excess of one male to every 20 female bison."

The bill is a long one, but this extract shows how carefully it has been drawn, in order that the government may be protected, and the bison protected, from any possibility of Jones or any other person being tempted to take undue advantage of the privilege granted. A penalty is also provided that "any person violating any of the provisions of the act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 or imprisonment of not exceeding 90 days, or both fine and imprisonment."

"The proposed safeguards in the bill meet with my entire approval," says Col. Jones. "While I may be honest myself, and the committee may have perfect confidence in my integrity, my life is like all other lives, and may not last another day. I am 56 years of age, and hope to live another 20 years at least. But if my life should be snuffed out I want the work to go on, and I want it so guarded that nobody can willfully use this grant or lease for any personal gain."

NEW ALCOHOL CURE.

Serum Which Is Said to Destroy the Craving for Liquor.

Discovered by a Famous French Investigator—Direct Treatment of Bronchitis—Other Scientific Oddities.

[Special New York Letter.]

FROM the subjects of Bacchus in the earliest days to the worst whisky fiend of the present time there has probably been no inebriate who, at some period of his career, had not a wish to reform his habits and throw off the invisible but most powerful bonds which held him so forcibly and dominated his will. Although many leading scientists of to-day advocate the daily use of a small amount of alcohol, whisky for instance, claiming it possesses great food value, their numbers are greatly overbalanced by those who are honest enough to give the world the benefit of their actual knowledge of the evil effects of this greatest of enemies of the race. If the use of alcoholic stimulants were entirely abolished, the exciting cause of most organic diseases would have ceased and a large number of physicians would be free to seek other callings.

M. BROCA'S CURE.
(Taking Blood from a Horse for the Manufacture of Serum.)

For years many have been working out theories tending towards the cure of drunkenness, but this widespread habit seems to obtain the greatest hold of its victim and proves the most baffling of any with which the medical fraternity has to contend. The most successful and best known remedies up to the present have produced some results, but they have not completely fulfilled the hopes of the public. Most of these treatments are considered to be a toning up of the system until the craving for stimulants ceases. Just now, however, comes news from that most progressive of cities, Paris, that M. Broca, one of its prominent surgeons, who has long been working upon a cure for inebriety, has obtained most successful results.

He has secured a serum called antiethyline, which is said to be sufficiently powerful to chemically change a man's blood, at the same time producing no injurious effects. This cure is no patent compound and is likely to attract attention everywhere. It is claimed that it will prove as effective as the diphtheritic serum for diphtheria; that after it has been administered the patient's stomach revolts against alcohol in any form and that this condition is permanent. Obtaining this serum and working out its effectiveness was done on the lines followed in the case of diphtheritic serum, except that less suffering is entailed on the horses in the later experiments. In procuring anti-toxin for diphtheria, the disease germs were injected into the animal, necessitating his undergoing all the tortures of an illness of that kind, while, to manufacture antiethyline, the horse was simply fed with wheat-bran mixed with whisky. After a few meals of this kind the animal's eye became bleary and his legs shaky. Finally he fell to the floor in a state of complete intoxication. On partial recovery he was fed with more of the mixture, with a repetition of former symptoms. Nature now came to the rescue and enabled the animal to become accustomed to his stimulating food, just as, in time, a man becomes so inured that he can drink large amounts of liquors and not manifest any immediate effect, although at this period the vital organs are often attacked. M. Broca's horse after a few weeks was able to stand up under two or three quarts of whisky per day, although his disposition suffered seriously.

His blood had more power to resist alcoholic poison and was in fit condition to be drawn for purposes of experiment. As soon as the serum was prepared a few drops were injected into four guinea pigs, previously made ready.

DIRECT TREATMENT OF BRONCHITIS.

These animals were selected because they are very sensitive and may be relied upon to die or show bad symptoms if the serum is dangerous. They had been fed for several days on bread soaked in whisky, and had become confirmed little inebriates, preferring this food to any other. As soon as the serum mingled with their blood it was impossible to induce them to take the alcoholized crackers. Two were placed in a cage without other food and starved rather than touch them. The other two, who were fed with natural food, thrived and seemed no worse for the treatment. Having first obtained their permission, five inveterate topers of the degenerate class, who had outlived any desire to reform, were now chosen in the Paris prisons for experiment. From the first injection of the serum these men all showed an unconquerable aversion to all strongly alcoholic liquors, although all could drink a small amount of light wines.

Scientists account for the changed condition of the serum in the horse after prolonged use of alcohol to the presence of "stimulinus," a substance which the blood develops to protect itself from the ravages of liquor. Injected into the veins of a man, it is thought to produce the same effect as new blood from a long line of temperate ancestors, if such were obtainable. Mr. Broca has a world-wide reputation as a writer on advanced medical subjects, and his discovery is indorsed by Dr. Sapelier, Dr. Thebault and other eminent French scientists.

From the same city come reports of the interesting discovery of a new method for treating bronchitis and similar diseases. These troubles are so widespread that very few are without personal knowledge of the irritating and wearing effects of an inflammatory condition of the chest and bronchial tubes. Up to the present time, all efforts to apply direct treatment to the organs affected have been impracticable, because the lining membranes are so sensitive that contact with any foreign substance would immediately induce a fit of violent coughing. But a Parisian physician, M. Mendel, has found a means of overcoming this difficulty. He introduces the point of a curved tube of a syringe into the patient's trachea. Through this is forced a preparation which diffuses a mild warmth through the chest, without producing any disagreeable sensation, enabling the patient to breathe freely for hours. The oil introduced contains in solution vegetable essences. It immediately evaporates and saturates the air breathed into the lungs, at the same time killing disease germs. It will readily be seen how much more effective this treatment is than breathing medicated air from the outside, because the center of evaporation is inside the chest, attacking the microbes at once with great intensity. In a few hours the medicine is absorbed. In bad cases the injections are continued daily for a month, the dose being ten cubic centimeters. In a record of 50 cases thus treated, 45 of whom were tuberculosis, Dr. Mendel shows permanent successes in cessation of coughing and expectoration, return of appetite, sleep and strength and increased weight. The injections have never brought on coughing. The superiority of this treatment over that of introducing medicines into the system through the stomach is at once apparent. Nearly all remedies which could, by the latter means, reach the seat of disease, interfere seriously with digestion; while, by Dr. Mendel's method, the working of the digestive organs is not impaired.

It is interesting to watch the movements of a spider weaving its web. The weaving fingers, usually six, are at the lower end of the abdomen. They may be folded one on another, reaching the source of the silk which is drawn forth through small conduits. Through other tubes comes a liquid secretion utilized in sticking parts of the web. The central space in the network here shown is as large across as the legs of the spider reach and has no viscous bulbs. Here the insect can move freely without danger of becoming entangled. A thread usually attaches her body to this part of the web, where any jar of her abode enables her to recognize the approach of victim or enemy.

Spiders often utilize currents of air in building, being thus enabled to throw a bridge over a space they would otherwise be unable to cross. These insects are very wise, but are certainly not of the sort who "take no thought of the morrow."

Neither are the people who seem to be worrying about what is to become of their descendants when the fuel of the earth is exhausted. This problem, however, seems near to solution, as Dr. William Calver, of Washington, has nearly perfected an apparatus at which he has been working for 30 years for utilizing the sun's rays for producing heat and power. Herschel, Ericsson, Dr. Cous and many others have gave much careful thought to this subject, and if Dr. Calver attains the success for which he is striving his name will take its place beside those of the greatest inventors.

SOLD BY HER FATHER.

Three Times Chief Corndropper Has Disposed of His Daughter to Willing Bidders.

Mary Corndropper has been sold by auction for a third time. Her father, former Chief Corndropper, of the Osage tribe, stole a march on his watchers and the sale was made before any outsider could learn what was going forward. The price paid for Miss Corndropper was 300 ponies.

old, but she has been married twice before now, and each time she was sold by her father to the highest bidder among the full-blooded bucks of the tribe. Mary ran away from her two former husbands and returned to her father, only to be sold from the block for the third time.

Ex-Chief Corndropper is one of the richest of the Osage Indians. He has a ranch of 2,800 acres of fertile land, all well stocked, and his home is one of the finest in the reservation. His daughter is the princess of the tribe. She was first sold into marriage at the age of 17 to Tall Chief for 400 ponies. Her mother caused a separation after one year of wedded life. Tall Chief and his mother-in-law could not live under the same roof. An Indian mother-in-law, he says, is just as big a nuisance as a pale-face mother-in-law. Not many months later she was again sold to John Logan, a prominent member of the Osage council in 1898. He lived with her at the home of her parents until six months ago, when he left on account of the domineering mother-in-law. The young wife, who had become a mother a few months before, was heartbroken. She loved John and insisted that he loved her. For a number of days she refused to eat and for a long time she mourned his departure. She suffered a severe sick spell as a result. Her child is a boy.

OLDEST POSTMASTER.

In Point of Service Uncle Joel Newsom, of Azalia, Ind., Is Without a Rival.

Down at the village of Azalia, Ind., lives an old man, popularly known as Uncle Joel Newsom, who proudly claims the record as the oldest postmaster in the country in point of service. He first took charge of the Azalia office back in 1859, afterwards receiving his commission from Postmaster General Blair. Since 1859 he has been distributing the mail without a break. Once, when Cleveland was elected president the first time, an attempt was made to oust him, but it failed miserably, and since then no one has even ventured to dispute his right to the office. It is generally considered that the only power which will ever succeed in dispossessing Joel is the old gentleman with the scythe and hourglass. Not once during the 41 years of his occupancy has any correction been made in his accounts with the department, and he is extremely popular with all the people of Azalia.

AZALIA POST OFFICE.
(Its Affairs Have Been Administered by Joel Newsom Since 1859.)

When Joel first became entitled to write P. M. after his name only one mail a week came to Azalia. Now that enterprising village proudly boasts two mails a day. When he started to stamp letters it cost five cents to mail each letter, while the postage on weekly papers was 20 cents a year. Soldiers' letters could be franked, but were charged for at their destination.

The most exciting event in Mr. Newsom's career as postmaster occurred in 1865, when Frank Reno, a noted Indiana bandit of the old days, cracked the post office safe and disappeared with $8,000 in government bonds. The bonds were afterwards recovered, and Frank was hanged by a mob at New Albany, Ind., so "Uncle" Joel came out of that affair without loss.

Mr. Newsom is a republican, but, as befits a postmaster for life, never betrays any "pernicious activity."

Natural Color of Water.

Prof. Spring reports on his experiments of many years to explain the color of water. He has come to the conclusion that a pure blue is the natural color of water, for when we look through a long tube filled with distilled water against a brilliant white surface, a pure blue is seen, such as shown by the Lake of Geneva in quiet weather, a color which is not influenced by superficial or interior reflection.

BASKET BALL.

When it was found impossible to arrange a game between the two teams that have recently represented the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. at basket ball, the newer team, dignified by the title of the Seniors, was matched against the Juniors of the association Thursday. Marcley and Cranston were unable to play with the Seniors who were defeated. The defeat promptly upset all ideas regarding the superiority of the so-called Seniors.

The whist team from the Roseville Athletic Association will come to Plainfield this evening as challengers for the State whist trophy, now held by the Park Club team. The match will be played at the Park Club house.

CRANFORD IS WAITING.

NO ONE QUALIFIED TO BECOME LOCAL LETTER CARRIERS.

Two Civil Service Examinations Have Been Held and a Third One is Ordered for March 17th.

The people of Cranford are still waiting for the free delivery system, which was to begin Oct. 1st, 1899. Civil service examinations were held for letter carriers previous to that date, but none of the applicants passed.

Examinations were again held in Novembers, and it was believed the service would begin in December, and then when the Christmas rush came on many believed the carriers would start to work the first of the year.

Twenty-five applicants took the examination, but they were not accepted on account of not being residents of the township.

Postmaster J. Z Derby received instructions from the first assistant postmaster-general at Washington Wednesday to order another examination. The department has decided that only Cranford residents are eligible for the positions of clerk and carriers.

The examinations will be held at the township rooms on Saturday, March 17th, at 9 a. m. The examinations will be for a clerk and three letter-carriers, two regulars carriers and a substitute.

During the last few months past Postmaster Derby has been interviewed by men who have passed the civil service examinations from Newark, who were sent to this place to see if they could secure the carriers' positions, they having been on the waiting list at that place. In the coming examinations only Cranford men can make application for the positions needed.

BOREAS BLEW BLASTS

THAT SHOOK BUILDINGS AND MADE THE MERCURY DROP.

Snow Storm Follows Rain and the Sudden Change of Weather Sunday Morning Caused All to Shiver.

Old Boreas asserted his prerogative yesterday with a vengeance. It proved to be one of the most disagreeable days of the winter. When the citizens of Plainfield went to bed Saturday night it was raining hard. They awoke on Sunday morning to find the ground covered with snow and the wind blowing a gale.

The sudden change had come while they slept. All of yesterday the wind was of high velocity and blew at the rate of 40 miles an hour. With the snow came a drop in the mercury of nearly 40 degrees. At daylight many thermometers registered 8 degrees above zero, while in some instances the mercury crawled down to two above the zero point. All day long the wind howled and blew chilly blasts from the north west, the cold being particularly penetrating in consequence.

The sudden change proved detrimental to the church attendance and various congregations were somewhat depleted, notably so at the evening services. The streets, too, were deserted at night and only those who were compelled to be out were seen.

About 11 o'clock the firemen were given a short run, caused by an alarm from box 41, and much apprehension was felt lest the wind should cause the fire to be precipitated into a conflagration. Fortunately the firemen were able to check the blaze before it had assumed alarming proportions, and the fears of the citizens were allayed.

Far into the night the wind continued to blow a perfect gale that was of sufficient strength to cause dwellings to vibrate and make nervous people feel uncomfortable. Toward morning, however, the wind subsided somewhat, but the cold was the more intense. Those who arose early and glanced at their thermometers were surprised to find that the mercury was only 6 above. The predictions for tomorrow are higher temperature and warmer.

YOUNG MAN HONORED

Judge Taft Appointed Civil Governor of the Philippines.

His Friends Think That He Has the Ability and Experience Necessary to Establish a Stable Local Government.

The president has selected Judge William H. Taft, of Cincinnati, to be the first civilian governor of the territory of the Philippines when that territory is established provisionally by the executive, if congress fails to legislate to that end within the next two months.

Judge Taft's appointment and his inducement to surrender his life position on the bench are attributed to Judge Day, formerly secretary of state and president of the Paris peace commission, as well as the most trusted friend and adviser of the president. Judge Day brought Judge Taft to Washington and joined with the president in urging him to make the personal sacrifices required and to take up the great responsibility. It became known to several officials that the president's first impulse was to trust the establishment of the Philippine territorial government to Judge Day, whose health, however, was too precarious to permit him to undertake the voyage and the long confinement in the tropics. It was Judge Day who suggested Judge Taft, and secured his acceptance.

Judge Taft is only 42 years of age, and is physically fitted for the extremely arduous labors that will fall to a conscientious man undertaking the great task before him. He resigned from the bench, to take effect March 15, when it is expected that the new commission of which he is the head will start for Manila.

The Taft commission has no connection with that composed of President Schurman, Admiral Dewey, Gen. Otis, Col. Denby and Prof. Worcester. They have finished their field work and are now completing the final volumes of their report. It is not likely that any of them will be connected with the new commission, which is constituted solely for the inauguration of civil administration to replace military rule as soon as possible in the pacified portions of the Philippines. Judge Taft and his colleagues will go to Manila and will relieve Gen. Otis of all but strictly military matters.

JUDGE WILLIAM H. TAFT.
(First Civil Governor of the Territory of the Philippines.)

They will take over the customs and other services, establish schools and courts and put the territorial machinery at work, assuming the chief places themselves, according to their special fitness. The commission will take with it a large number of employes, as the government now organized will be the foundation of all others to come so long as the Philippines remain territory of the United States. Exactly what line will be drawn between the new commission's powers and the power of the military governors has not been definitely settled, but it is the president's hope to make the civil government supreme and to be able soon to withdraw a large part of the military and naval power now required.

Judge Taft's appointment as commissioner does not require the consent of the senate, for until congress provides for the government of the Philippines they will continue under the supreme control of the president, whose agents will be compensated out of the island revenues. It is understood that Judge Taft will receive $25,000 a year, and that his colleagues on the commission will be treated with similar liberality.

William Howard Taft was born in Cincinnati on September 15, 1857, and was graduated from Yale in 1878. He was at one time solicitor general of the United States. He was commissioned judge for the Sixth circuit on March 17, 1892, and has ever since held that place. He is a son of the late Alphonso Taft, attorney general of the United States.

The Space Used by Horses.

By abolishing horses travel in cities will not be as congested owing to the saving in room now occupied by the horse. There are approximately 200,000 horses used in New York city alone, and a horse increases the length of a wagon by nine feet. Taking the average width occupied by a horse and shafts as two feet, it is seen that 200,000 horses occupy about 3,600 square feet.

Age Affects the Feet.

A London physician declares that a person in robust health walks with his toes pointed to the front, while one with his health on the wane gradually turns his toes to the side, and a bend is perceptible in his knees.

Resistance of Trains.

It is ascertained on scientific data that the air resistance to a railway train of average weight moving 60 miles an hour is 11,374 pounds—nearly six tons.

SUBDUED BY A BOY.

Big Tiger Allows Himself to Be Led Back to His Cage by a Lame Little Youngster.

One day, in the Royal Zoological gardens of London, a man who had been making some repairs to the cage containing a large tiger went away, leaving the door unfastened. It seemed as if the tiger had been watching for this, for hardly had the man departed when the savage beast sprang out. The animal house was full of people, and men, women and children shouted and screamed and fled for their lives. Presently there was only one person left in the place, and that was a lame boy who could not run. The tiger snarled and growled and crouched down for a spring, but the boy stood in his tracks and looked the savage beast straight in the eyes. He had read in a book that if you look a beast full in the face he will not attack you. Thus boy and tiger stood for a long minute, and then the tiger slowly walked up to the boy and licked his hand, and rubbed against his legs. One of the keepers threw a rope to the boy and called out:

"Don't be afraid! Tie the rope around his neck and he will let you lead him back to his cage."

The boy obeyed, and a minute later he had the tiger back in his cage and the door fastened. Then a great shout went up from the people, and all came running in. No doubt the lad was badly frightened, as any man would have been, but he had captured the tiger, and it was right that he should be praised and made much of. He was given so many pieces of silver that he went home with all his pockets bulging out, and I am glad to tell you that he used this money to help educate himself, and that, when he grew up to manhood he became a great doctor. —Chicago Inter Ocean.

SCHOOL ATHLETES UNDER NEW RULES.

Reorganization of Plainfield High School Athletic Association.

OFFICERS WERE ELECTED.

MANAGEMENT IN HANDS OF BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

New Association Will Include All Boys in High School as Active Members and Girls as Honorary Members.

A prompt renewal of interest and activity is the immediate result of the radical changes made in the Plainfield High School Athletic Association. At a meeting of the High School boys held Friday afternoon, the association was practically reorganized on entirely new lines. Yesterday that organization was completed by the selection of officers.

The practical disruption of the old association last spring will perhaps be remembered. A meeting was held sometime ago when a committee was appointed to draft a new constitution and reorganize the association on different lines. At a meeting last Friday the committee reported and the results of their labors was unanimously approved.

The new association includes every male student and teacher as an active member. The girls of the High School were elected to honorary membership. As all the students are members it is impossible to have regular dues and the constitution provides that all funds shall be raised by voluntary subscription or by special entertainments. The old association had a limited membership and regular dues.

The association only holds two regular meetings a year, one before October 1st and the other before June 1st. The management of the affairs rests in the hands of a board of directors, composed of five elected from the school by the association, a faculty director and a graduate director, the two latter appointed by the principal of the school. The graduate director is required to have been out of school for at least three years.

The officers of the association, a president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, are elected by the board of directors. The directors also select the various managers of the athletic teams. An advisory board, composed of the president, the faculty director and the graduate director, is required to approve all measures involving an expenditure of the association's funds before the measure can be presented to either the board of directors or the association.

The object was to make it more literally a school association and keep the two closely in touch. The meetings will be held during school hours.

At the meeting Friday the following directors were elected: Townsend Mason, Fred Mason, Walter Squires, Hervey K. Doane and Lawrence Tweedy. Principal Travell yesterday announced his appointments as follows: Faculty director, Albert B. Meredith; graduate director, Charles B. Morse.

A meeting of the board of directors was held at the High School yesterday afternoon and the following officers chosen: President, Walter Squires; vice-president, Lawrence L. Tweedy; secretary-treasurer, Hervey K. Doane. Townsend Mason was chosen manager of the baseball team. Walter Squires was appointed captain of the team.

TO PURIFY RAHWAY WATER.

Steps Taken to Put in a New Filter, The Typhoid Epidemic.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, Feb. 27.—Saturday evening the Board of Water Commissioners held a special meeting to consider the question of a new filter at the water works. Councilman U. N. Osborn represented the City Council and Mayor Holmes the Board of Health. Steps were taken to negotiate at once for a new filter-bed. Bonds will be issued to cover the cost.

Dr. Cladek says the cause of the twenty-seven cases of typhoid fever which exists at present in Rahway is the water, and advises all his patients to boil the water before using it for drinking purposes.

Election May Not be Confirmed.

It is understood that the recent meeting of the firemen of the borough at which time J. J. Stahl was elected chief of the department, is not meeting with the approval of the Mayor or members of the Council, and there is strong doubt as to whether the action will be confirmed by the officials.

NOW A COUNSELLOR.

Irving L. Brady Passed a Severe Examination for Higher Practice of Law.

Lawyer Irving L. Brady went to Trenton yesterday and took his examination for counsellor. There were twenty-one candidates, and he was the only one from this city. He passed the examination successfully. It was considered to be one of the most severe examinations ever given by the Board of Examiners, and the Supreme Court upbraided the members for making it so strict. Mr. Brady has been practicing law in this city for sometime and his friends are congratulating him on his success.

There were fifty-one candidates before the Board for attorneyship and a small majority passed. There were no candidates from this city in this class.

WOULD BREAK THE WILL

RELATIVES START A CONTEST OVER SUMMIT PROPERTY.

It is Claimed That James Morrissey Was Not of Age When He Died.

Papers have been served on Mrs Catherine Morrissey, of Summit, in a suit that will involve at least $20,000, and which will probably lead to some interesting revelations when finally tried before the Chancery Court. Mrs. Morrissey still conducts the Morrissey Hotel, a popular headquarters for all the Democratic politicians of Union county for many years after it was established by her husband, David Morrissey, more than thirty years ago.

In the plain, unpretentious building that still answers for a hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Morrissey amassed a fortune of about $150,000 prior to his death about ten years ago. Most of this fortune was invested in real estate, but it was all placed in the name of the wife, with the exception of a few tracts valued at about $20,000. This was in the name of David Morrissey, and on his death was inherited by his son, James Morrissey. The latter survived his father only about two years, and after his death a will with his signature was filed, bequeathing all of that property to his mother.

The suit in which papers were served is entered by Mrs. Bridget Hickey and Thomas Morrissey, of Madison, sister and cousin of David Morrissey, who claim the real estate left by David Morrissey, alleging that James Morrissey was not twenty-one years of age when he died, and, therefore, his will is void, and the property reverts to the next of kin of David Morrissey. Mrs. Morrissey has always maintained that her son was twenty-two years of age when he died, but the plaintiffs claim to have positive evidence in the birth register of the city of Brooklyn to prove that he was only two months past his twentieth year.

BARBER SHOP BLACKED UP.

Caused by a Defective Oil Stove Smoking Fiercely During the Night.

When William Classen left his barber shop on Park avenue, at the head of North avenue last evening, it was bright and clean. This morning a layer of black soot covered everything. Classen's property was damaged to the extent of $100 as a result.

During the cold weather Classen has been in the habit of leaving a little oil stove burning in the shop just under the water pipes and bowl to prevent them from freezing. Last night he left the stove as usual. In some way the stove began to smoke and kept it up until Classen arrived this morning. The shop was only papered last week. The walls and ceiling will have to be redecorated. The covers to the chairs are ruined and other damage was done.

An Old Maid's Convention.

"An Old Maid's Convention," which proved to be such a success at Somerville a few weeks ago, will be given at Y. M. C. A. Hall Thursday evening, March 8th. It will be under the charge of a number of the young women of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Decker, of Somerville, who superintended the one held there, is now drilling the young women who are to take part. It will be quite an elaborate entertainment and will be very funny. The tickets have already been issued and are now being distributed for sale.

M'DERMOTT SCOFFS AT NEW TAX BILL.

Declares it Would Cost Too Much to Publish Tax Assessments in the Newspapers.

REED CONTRADICTS HIM.

SOMERSET SENATOR URGES THE PASSAGE OF THE BILL.

Committee to Investigate Girls' Industrial School Holds Two Secret Sessions—Lively Discussion Over Annexation Bill.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Feb. 27.—In the Senate last night Senator McDermott, of Hudson county, moved to strike out the enacting clause of the bill introduced by Senator Reed, of Somerset county.

This bill was introduced in the interest of tax reform, and provided that the assessment on properties shall be published in the local newspapers so that all taxpayers can discover the amount of taxes their neighbors are paying. Senator McDermott objected to the bill because in the large cities, such as Jersey City, Newark, Trenton and Camden, the expense, he said, would be too great for the municipalities. He said the publishing of such a list would cost Jersey City at least $250,000. He thought it would be better to open the tax books for the inspection of the public.

Senator Reed retorted that it would cost Jersey City only about $6,000. He urged the bill because it was a move in the direction of the equalization of taxes. He explained that a similar system was now in operation in Massachusetts and in Rhode Island, and had been proved to be a success. Senator McDermott finally withdrew his opposition until the bill comes up on final passage.

The special committee appointed to investigate the Girls' Industrial School met in secret session yesterday afternoon at the school, together with the board of trustees. They examined the buildings and grounds and then talked over the charges that had been made against the management of the school. After the House adjourned last evening there was another secret session of the committee, at which it discussed the plans of operation and the future policy of the committee as to open or closed sessions. A petition with 1,000 signatures was presented urging open sessions.

The House devoted more than an hour to an amusing discussion on the bill to annex Vailsburg to Newark. Assemblyman Mungle favored the annexation because, he said, it meant better municipal facilities. Assemblyman Dexheimer opposed the bill because he thought the borough would be affected by the bad morals of Newark, and gave a word-picture of the immorality of Newark as he had recently viewed the place on a tour of the concert halls and public drinking places.

DEMOCRATS PLANNING.

County Committee will Become More Active in Presidential Campaign Than Heretofore.

The Democrats of Union county are preparing to conduct a much more aggressive campaign for the Presidential election than has been the case in several years past, and the first step in that direction has been taken by a re-organization of the county committee. The organization plan which was formulated by William Courley, State chairman, has been gone over thoroughly, and adapted to the needs of Union county.

It had been proposed to double the membership of the committee, but it was finally decided to leave the membership the same as it is now—one member from each ward, township or borough. Where it is possible suborganizations will probably be effected to enroll the members of the party in each particular community. As soon as the National campaign is commenced headquarters will probably be established and kept open every day in Elizabeth until election.

WORKING FOR NEW STATION.

Pennsylvania Railroad Asked to Build One in Elizabeth.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 27—Former Alderman W. H. Corbin is in negotiation with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to erect a new station here, and it is understood that it has agreed to do so since the old station is not large enough.

The company has completed a new station in North Elizabeth. It is understood that the company has appropriated $500,000 for the improvement fund this year.

RUMMAGE SALE FOR HOSPITAL'S BENEFIT.

Novel Kind Of Affair Approved By Governors Of Muhlenberg Hospital.

WITH RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

WILL DISPOSE OF GIFTS OF SECOND-HAND ARTICLES.

Large Contributions of Any Old Things Expected From Friends of Hospital and Relief Association—Will Last a Week or Two.

A "rummage sale" will be held this spring for the joint benefit of the Muhlenberg Hospital and the Plainfield Relief Association. For sometime the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Hospital and the Relief Association have watched with interest the success of similar affairs in Orange and Newark, for the benefit of various charitable purposes. Last night the Board of Governors of the Hospital received a communication asking their permission to hold such a sale for the benefit of the hospital and the Relief Association. The Governors were glad to grant the request.

That was really the only action of importance taken at the monthly meeting of the Board held in the Library last evening. President E. B. Clark was absent on account of illness as were several other members of the Board. There was the usual discussion of the plans for the new hospital but no action was taken. The monthly report of the medical director was also received.

The "rummage sale," which is being planned for this joint benefit, is something new to Plainfield although it has been found to be remarkably successful in Orange and Newark. A great stock of second hand articles, clothing, furniture, kitchen utensils or anything else, is gathered from the friends of those in charge of the sale. A store will then be hired for a week or two and this collection sorted and a price put on the articles.

Of course the prices will be low, and there will undoubtedly be some great bargains in second-hand clothing and the like. There are many people in moderate circumstances who will be glad of the opportunity of adding something to the charitable cause and at the same time get a proper return for their money. In the many Plainfield households there are many things of value that are now of no use to their present owners, but would be gladly purchased by others if the opportunity was offered. The "rummage sale" is intended to offer just this opportunity.

No definite arrangements have yet been made for the sale, but it will probably be held sometime during April or May, and will last a week or two.

STOVE STARTED FLAMES

FIERCE BLAZE IN GROLLMISCH'S UPHOLSTERY SHOP.

Chemical Engine Put Out the Fire After Damage Reaching $100 Was Done—Alarm Sent in From Box 14.

An overheated stove made trouble last evening for George R. Grollmisch, whose shop is located at 202 East Front street, corner of Watchung avenue. When the firemen arrived, the interior of his shop had assumed the appearance of a fiery furnace. The total loss will amount up to $700 or more.

Exactly how the fire started, it is not possible to say. There seems no doubt, however, that it started from the stove in the upholstering establishment. Constable John Gjettiesen heard a shout of fire at 10 o'clock when the flames were first noticed. An alarm was sent in from box 14.

When the firemen arrived the interior of the room was a mass of flames. The stream from the chemical engine did excellent service and the fire was extinguished before it had an opportunity to spread to the floors above.

The building belongs to the Anderson estate. The loss to the house will amount to $250, which is covered by insurance. The exact amount of the loss to the contents has not yet been estimated, but it is believed that it is covered by $500. This is also covered by insurance, held by Liefke & Laing.

Under Auspices of Ministers.

A meeting will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Thursday evening when Rev. Walter Laidlaw, secretary of the Federation of Churches in New York city, will talk on the movement in which he is interested. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Ministers' Association.

MERRY, MIRTHFUL MASQUERADERS

Dressed in Fancy and Grotesque Costumes at Ball of Turn Verein.

TWO HUNDRED DANCERS.

LED BY HENRY HAURAND AS "PRINCE CARNIVAL."

Zulu Savages Supply Plenty of Fun for the Spectators by Their War Dance and Capture of a Lone Missionary.

Nearly three hundred people attended the annual masquerade ball of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein held in their hall last night. It was the twelfth dance given by this organization, which is one of the most popular of the German societies hereabouts. Many of the costumes were very handsome and any quantity of them highly grotesque. There were angels and devils, clowns and acrobats, dudes and Dutchmen, flower girls and flirting maids, dukes, lords and various of the nobilities, together with characters personating all nationalities.

It was 10:30 o'clock before the grand march started. In it were more than one hundred couples who were led by Director Henry Haurand dressed to represent "Prince Carnival." The Prince was accompanied by Mrs. Charles Meyers. They were followed by Floor Manager Charles F. Meyer with Mrs. Charles Keller. C. Keller and P. Cullon, the assistant floor managers, escorted the Misses. Gussie Yager and Lizzie Reick. These couples were attired in handsome Mexican costumes, as were also B. Spiegel and Frank Haurand, floor committee, and L. Fahn, Henry Roumel, Aug. Wolff and Adolf Bohren, the reception committee.

After the march, which was artistically executed and liberally applauded, the ball was formally opened. The fun for the rest of the night was fast and furious. The most amusing feature was perhaps created by twelve young men, who impersonated Zulu savages. Previous to the march John Retzer, who was dressed to represent a missionary, appeared upon the floor distributing tracts. When the Zulus caught sight of him there were cries of alarm, and something that sounded like "missionary pot-pie." The missionary was chased around the hall several times and finally up to the balcony, where he was hurled over the railing to the floor below. The savages then set upon him and with knives and clubs tore the unfortunate missionary to pieces, to the apparent horror of the masqueraders. It was found that the victim of the Zulus, after escaping to the balcony, had become evolutionized into a figure of loaves of bread and links of frankfurters.

The ball was a grand success and those who attended it were well repaid. During the intermission supper was served in the lower rooms, where also all kinds of liquid refreshments were to be bought. A number of well-known citizens attended the function as spectators.

The officers of the society are: President, Herman Klinsman; vice president, Jacob Gaub; recording secretary, Joseph Haurand; financial secretary, Henry Bergen; treasurer, Chas. Felber.

PEPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.

Borough G. O. P. Will Nominate Candidates Next Friday Night.

Friday evening of this week the Republican primary will be held in the borough for the purpose of nominating persons to fill a few vacancies in the borough government. There is very little intsrest in the coming election.

The Republicans of North Plainfield Township will probably hold their primary Thursday or Friday, March 8th or 9th. Every office in the township is to be filled this year with the exception of assessor and collector, and it is understood that there will be a great fight for the various positions. The election will be held Tuesday, March 13th, the same day the borough elects.

Exempt Firemen Invited.

The Exempt Firemen's Association has received an invitation from Rev. Dr. Rodman to attend a meeting at Grace P. E. church next Thursday evening, at which time the chaplain of the New York Fire Department will give a talk. The invitation has been accepted.

Haley Out of the Hospital.

Andrew Haley, of New Brunswick who has been at the hospital for sometime past under treatment, was discharged, cured, yesterday and he left at once for Providence, R. I.

NOT READY TO PROCEED.

Action of Otto Neher Against Rosa Frucht Dismissed on Technical Grounds.

The case of Otto Neher against Rosa Frucht was tried this morning before Justice Moffett. The plaintiff was represented by Wm. G. DeMeza and the defendant by S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer. The plaintiff swore that he had been employed to work for the defendant for one year at $12 a week during the summer months and $10 a week during the rest of the year, and that after having worked about eight months he was wrongfully discharged. The defendant did not put in any defense, as her counsel moved non-suit on technical grounds, and the non-suit was granted. It is understood that the plaintiff means to bring another action.

TO MARK HISTORIC SPOT.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION ARE INTERESTED.

Washington Rock to Receive Attention at Hands of the Patriotic Women.

The Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, have undertaken the task of doing something to perpetuate the memory of Washington in this vicinity, and the members have decided to centre their efforts on Washington Rock, where they hope to do something that shall mark the place truly a historic spot. Just what will be done has not definitely been decided, but there are plans being formed at present. It has been proposed to place a suitable tablet on the stone or to have an inscription placed in the stone that will tell the history of it to all who happen to see it. There are other plans more elaborate, but these have not assumed any definite form as yet.

Already a "Washington Memorial Fund" has been established for this purpose, and March 12th, at the Casino, W. W. Ellsworth, of New York, will deliver a lecture on the subject of "Arnold and Andre—The Story of the Treason," under the auspices of the Continental Chapter, and the profits will be devoted to the above named object. The Sons of the American Revolution have also signified a desire to assist in this worthy object, and no doubt at the proper time they will do something substantial towards assisting the daughters.

NO NEW LICENSES.

Councilmanic Committee Will Not Recommend Granting Any but Applications for Old Places.

The sixteen applications for a license in this city were considered at a meeting of the license committee of the Common Council held last evening. There was a general discussion and then the committee decided to report to the Council at the meeting tomorrow evening recommending the renewal of the fourteen old licenses and the refusal of the two new ones, one to S. Scheuer & Co., the West Front street grocers, and the other to Galbrath for a saloon on Grant avenue, near South Second street.

OLD FARMER DEAD.

George F. Kline Passes Away at the Age of 86 Years.

The death of George Frederick Kline, a well-known farmer of Somerset county, occurred Sunday at his home in North Plainfield township at the age of eighty-six years. He was born in Germany but had resided in this country for nearly seventy years, most of that time being spent in this section. He leaves ten children—seven daughters and three sons, all of whom are married. Mr. Kline was an active and prominent member of the Methodist church.

New Industries for Elizabeth.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 27—Henry H. Isham, who was called home from California by the destruction of his big building here New Year's Day, returned to the Pacific coast yesterday. Mr. Isham is having the structure entirely rebuilt, and the work on it is well under way. He predicted a big business boom for Elizabeth during the coming spring, and says that four manufacturing concerns are now seeking locations in the city. The names of the industries, Mr. Isham says, will be made public when the deals are consummated.

Exhibition of Pictures.

The members of the Plainfield Camera Club will probably give an exhibition of their work this spring. Some fine pictures have been taken during the past few months by members and a most creditable show could be given.

THE MAYOR HAD MORE VISITORS YESTERDAY.

Two Colored Poolroom Keepers And President Of Millionaires' Club Came By Request.

TOLD THEIR LITTLE STORIES.

CHASE AND SIMMS DECLARED THEY ALLOWED NO GAMBLING.

Recent Reports of Happenings at Club Rooms Led to Mayor's Investigation—Promised that it Shouldn't Happen Again.

Mayor Rockfellow had a few more visitors last evening by request. The colored proprietors of two poolrooms declared that their respective establishments were free from any obnoxious features. The president of the Millionaires' Club pledged the Mayor that the rooms of the club would be free to the police at any time and no gambling was allowed there.

Sergeant Kiely dropped in yesterday afternoon to see Chase, a colored man who runs a combination pool room and barber shop on the third floor of the building on East Front street, occupied by a feed store. Chase went to see the Mayor forthwith at the Sergeant's request.

Chase assured Mr. Rockfellow that there never had been any gambling there and that while he was running it there never would be.

Peter Simms, who has a pool room on Madison avenue, also visited the Mayor at the same time last evening. He told the Mayor that no gambling was allowed in his place and none would be. It was a perfectly respectable establishment.

Strange stories have reached the ears of the Mayor concerning the happenings in the rooms of the Millionaires' Club, an organization of young men who all wish they had a million. The rooms are located on the second floor of the same building where Chase has his pool room. Some of the members wanted a little excitement and it was reported to the police that they had a boxing exhibition by two young women. The police investigated a few evenings ago and caught one of the entertainers en route.

Last night the president of the club was politely requested to visit the Mayor again. The Mayor explained that it was necessary that every club should be conducted with care. The president promised that the actions of the club would not hereafter be such as to incur any unfavorable criticism. It was one of the rules of the club, he said, that there should be no gambling, and the rule was carefully lived up to. The Mayor then said good evening to his visitors and went home.

WOULDN'T TAKE WHISKEY.

Hotel Proprietor Claimed it was No Good—Suit Resulted in No Cause for Action Verdict.

A verdict of no cause of action was brought yesterday afternoon by the jury in the case of Russell V. Bishop, trading as the Central Kentucky Company, against Charles Jensen, proprietor of the Arlington Hotel. It was in Justice Mattison's court, and the suit was for $141.80.

The trouble was over an order for some whiskey given a year ago to Bishop's agent. The agent was so confident, it is claimed, that the whiskey was desirable that he suggested that Jensen should buy one barrel, and if that suited take four others. Jensen gave five notes for $35.45 each for the five barrels and took the one. He wasn't satisfied and refused to take and pay for the others.

So suit was brought on the four remaining notes by W. S. Angleman for Bishop. Francis J. Blatz, of the law firm of Murphy & Blatz, represented the defendant.

Death of Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Marguerite Smith, wife of Charles Smith, who is employed by A. M. Griffin, died yesterday morning of heart trouble, with which she had been a sufferer for sometime. However, her condition had not been unusually alarming and her death was sudden. She was sixty-seven years of age. The funeral will be held from the late residence tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock, but will be private. Interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

DEWEY'S CLAIM CUT.

Court of Claim's Decision In the Manila Case.

ENEMY RECKONED AT $100 PER HEAD

The Admiral Contended That the Spanish Force Was Superior to His Own—Court Decided Otherwise—An Appeal Likely.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The United States court of claims has rendered an opinion on the claim of Admiral Dewey, his officers and men for naval bounty under section 4,635 of the revised statutes for the destruction of the Spanish fleet in Manila bay May 1, 1898, the court holding that the claimants have a right to recover for each person on board the enemy's ships the sum of $100. This decision is on the basis that the admiral's fleet was superior to the Spanish fleet, excluding the shore batteries, the torpedoes and the mines in Manila bay.

Admiral Dewey's claim was for $200 for each man belonging to the enemy's fleet, including the supporting shore batteries, mines and torpedoes.

The principal question involved in determining the enemy's force was whether the supporting shore batteries, mines and torpedoes should be included.

The statute provides that a bounty shall be paid by the United States for each person on board any ship or vessel of war belonging to an enemy at the commencement of an engagement which is sunk or otherwise destroyed in such engagement by any ship or vessel belonging to the United States or which it may be necessary to destroy in consequence of injuries sustained in action of $100 if the enemy's vessel was of inferior force and of $200 if of equal or superior force, to be divided among the officers and crew in the same manner as prize money.

In the course of his brief counsel for the admiral stated that the number of officers and men on the vessels of the United States during the battle was 1,836, that the official complement of the Spanish vessels taking part in the battle was 2,037 and that several of the enemy's vessels had on board a number considerably in excess of their complement, making the actual number on the enemy's vessels about 2,973. The total number of men on board the vessels of the enemy which were destroyed, including two torpedo boats, is given as 1,914.

Taking into consideration the guns at Corregidor, El Fraile and other forts at the entrance of the bay and those at Manila and Cavite and the torpedoes and mines in the bay's entrance to it, it was contended by counsel for Admiral Dewey that the enemy's force was superior to the vessels of the United States. The government insisted that the statute failed to provide for the contingency of the co-operation of land batteries with the naval forces destroyed and that the court is powerless to supply the omission.

The court in deciding the case held that the law applied only to the force of the vessels engaged in the action and that in this instance, taking the number and character of the vessels into account, the strength of their batteries on board and all other matters which properly go to the determination of the actual fighting strength of the two opposing fleets, the United States was the superior. It is understood that counsel for Admiral Dewey will take an appeal to the supreme court of the United States. Under yesterday's decision Admiral Dewey is personally entitled to $9,570.

New Jersey Legislature.

TRENTON, Feb. 27.—Governor Voorhees sent to the senate last night the name of Peter Voorhees of Camden as a judge of the court of errors and appeals to succeed Judge Nixon, who has been made a circuit court judge. Senator McDermott's bill for the reorganization of the board of freeholders of Hudson county was advanced to a third reading by the senate. Senator McDermott made a speech in opposition to the bill of Senator Reed for the publication of property assessments. Mr. McDermott said the bill would impose enormous expenditure upon the part of large cities. No action was taken on the bill. The house, after an extended debate, defeated Mr. Mungle's bill for the annexation of the borough of Vailsburg to the city of Newark.

HAS LARGE FAMILY

Heber Z. Ricks Is the Father of Sixty-Six Children.

Married Five Times on His Journey to the Promised Land of the Mormons and Seven Times After Having Reached It.

In the valley of the Snake river, near where that stream forms the boundary line between Wyoming and Idaho, lives the father of the largest family on the American continent, and probably in the world. The owner of this unique distinction is Heber Z. Ricks, one of the faithful followers in religion and practices of the late Brigham Young. Reliable persons who have known Ricks for many years say he has 12 wives and 66 children. Many of his sons and daughters have long since taken unto themselves helpmates for life, and to these have been born 218 children, thereby bringing the number of souls in the Ricks family, exclusive of the venerable father himself, up to 296.

The members of the Ricks family are scattered over a stretch of country 14 miles long by two miles wide. Heber Ricks has an even dozen ranches, which, with those of the sons and daughters, make quite a good-sized settlement. In the center of this settlement a town calld Ricksville has been established. Here are located a general store and a church, the latter being the largest as well as the most substantial building in the Ricks empire. During week days the church is transformed into a schoolroom, and a regularly employed teacher (usually one of the Ricks daughters) labors with the descendants of Heber Z. On Sundays, and not infrequently of an evening, services, which are, of course, strictly Mormon, are held. These religious meetings are usually presided over by the elder Ricks, and are very interesting, being conducted in that manner peculiar to the Mormon faith. In case of the absence of the "bishop," as the head of the family is known in the settlement, as is frequently the case when he makes a visit to one of his wives living in the extreme upper or lower ends of the colony, one of the sons will fill the pulpit and preach the doctrine of his father.

Heber Z. Ricks is a giant in form and strength, although he is 77 years old. Little or nothing is known of his boyhood, except that he was reared on a farm in western New York. He has never been known to say much about his early life, other than that he landed in St. Louis in 1842. From that city he went to a small settlement in the vicinity of where Independence, Mo., now stands, where he joined the Mormon church. A little band of Mormons, with Ricks at their head, left the place early in the spring of 1848 and turned their faces toward Utah. Brigham Young's party of 225 persons had gone on the previous year and left a faint trail, which Ricks and his party followed with great difficulty. This trail led them across the state of Nebraska along the Platte river, up the Big Laramie river and across the state of Wyoming by way of Fort Laramie, and on into the valley of the great Salt lake via Echo canyon.

When Ricks left Missouri, it is said, he was a single man, but when he and his party reached Salt lake valley he was the possessor of five better halves. Settling near Salt Lake, Ricks continued to take unto himself additional wives until he had ten. Early in the year 1869, with the number of his wives increased to 12, Ricks pulled up stakes and moved across the mountains through eastern Idaho to the valley of Snake river. There, upon one of the most fertile spots to be found on the continent, he established himself. The first few years were ones of great activity for Ricks and his already large family. For a time all lived in one large house, which was hastily erected, but later 12 houses, composed of roughly hewn logs, were constructed at different points along the river. To these were added, in due time, barns, corrals and other outbuildings, and in a few years Ricksville was something more than a name.

While the population in the vicinity of this settlement is distinctly Ricks, there are a large number of families of other names, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. The settlement does not differ in this respect or in any other from any Mormon settlement in Utah, Wyoming or Idaho, and a visitor, were he not familiar with the history of the Ricks family, would never suspect that Heber Z. Ricks is the father of so many children.

German Juvenile Criminals.

The alarming increase of juvenile criminals in Germany is puzzling the legislators. In 1885 the juvenile offenders numbered 30,704, the total rising to 45,504 in 1894, and to 47,975 in 1898. The increase of all criminals in 1898 over the preceding year was three per cent., an increase disproportionate to the growth of population.

The statement of a Plainfield citizen:

Mrs. R. Wortman, living with her daughter, Mrs. S. E. Cook, of 204 Somerset street, says:—"I used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results for severe pain across my back and hips, which no doubt was caused by the kidneys being out of order. It was painful for me to stoop or bend forward, and I could not sit ten minutes in one position, but had to be constantly changing about. I used many different kinds of medicine recommended for kidney trouble, but I could not see that any of them benefitted me. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured for me at L. W. Randolph's drug store and it is the only remedy I ever used that gave me any relief. I always keep a supply of them on hand and would not think of being without them."

BRIDGE WORK

in Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. It has to be made of a material that has strength and durability and one that will not discolor. Gold is the one that stands the test. That is the secret of the expense. But the advantages of a bridge over a plate are many times more than the cost of one compared to that of the other.

FOUR MINERS KILLED.

Thrown From a Descending Car In a Scranton Colliery.

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 27.—Four men were killed by being thrown from a descending carriage in the Mount Pleasant shaft of the Fuller Coal company in West Scranton yesterday morning. The victims were Frank Woodward, aged 24 years, of 517 Forest court, drill machine operator, married; John Regan, aged 35 years, of 251 Railroad avenue, laborer, leaves a wife and three children; Thomas Williams, aged 33 years, of 1807 Lafayette street, laborer, leaves a wife and two children; William Gilbert, aged 43 years, of 219 North Fillmore avenue, driver, leaves a wife and six children.

Ten workmen had entered the carriage to be lowered into the different mine workings, six of whom got off at the Dunmore vein. When the carriage began its further descent toward the foot of the shaft, it struck one of the fans at the Clark vein, which are used to hold the carriage when cars are being run in and out of the opening.

There was a crash, and the floor of the carriage was separated from its holdings on one side, throwing the occupants into the shaft, all of them falling headlong to the bottom.

Regan and Gilbert were instantly killed, their bodies being horribly mangled. Williams and Woodward were alive when found, but died shortly afterward. Just what caused the accident is hard to determine, but the general supposition of the employees who are familiar with the workings is that some one who got off the carriage on the previous trip had neglected to lock the fan, and it slipped out of its place, causing the collision when the carriage was lowered afterward.

OUR SOLDIER DEAD.

Arrangements Being Made For Burial of Fallen Braves.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The quartermaster general's department is making arrangements for the interment of the bodies of about 700 soldiers who lost their lives in the Philippines or in Cuba. About 500 of these were brought home from the Philippines on the transport Hancock, which arrived at San Francisco about a week ago. All not claimed for private interment will be buried in the National cemetery at the Presidio, San Francisco.

Nearly 200 soldiers whose bodies were brought home from Cuba will be buried in the National cemetery at Arlington the latter part of this week. These include 66 bodies now on the McPherson at Fort Monroe. They will be shipped from that place by rail to Rosslyn, Va. There were 30 more bodies on the McPherson which were claimed by relatives for private interment.

The transport Sedgwick, which left Havana on the 21st inst. for New York, carries the bodies of 54 soldiers, of which 31 are destined for the Arlington cemetery and probably will arrive there the latter part of the week. The transport McClellan left Santiago on the 24th inst., also for New York, with the remains of 99 soldiers, of which number 56 will be brought to this city for interment at Arlington.

The Frick-Carnegie Fight.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 27.—John Walker guardian of Andrew Carnegie Wilson; S L. Schoonmaker and John Pontefract, on behalf of themselves and such other stockholders of the H. C. Frick company as may choose to join in the suit as plaintiffs, filed the much talked of bill in equity to annul the coke contract held with the coke company by the Carnegie Steel company, limited, in common pleas court No. 2 yesterday afternoon. The bill names as defendants the H. C. Frick Coke company, a corporation; Thomas Lynch, H. C. Frick, George Lauder, A. M. Clemson, Andrew M. Moreland, James Gayley and Thomas Mortison, composing the board of directors of said corporation and the Carnegie Steel company, limited The action is remotely connected with the trouble now existing between H. C. Frick, former chairman of the Carnegie Steel company, limited, and Andrew Carnegie and was precipitated by the filing of Mr. Frick's bill in equity in common pleas court No. 1 to secure an accounting of the affairs of the Carnegie Steel company, limited.

Mr. Daly Testifies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Marcus Daly, the millionaire miner of Montana, was the principal witness before the senate committee on privileges and elections yesterday. He was on the stand for about two hours and at the expiration of this time was excused on the plea that he was not well and that the questioning process fatigued him. Mr. Daly confessed he had contributed $20,000 or $25,000 to the prosecution of his case, but he asserted that he had not entered into any conspiracy before Mr. Clark's election to injure him. He had not contributed any of the $30,000 used in the Whiteside exposure. In conclusion he tendered his checks and checkbooks for the past five years for the inspection of the committee Mr. Clark listened attentively to Mr Daly's testimony.

CRUELTY IN RUSSIA.

Czar Rules His Big Realm with a Red-Hot Iron.

Demoniacal Punishment Inflicted Upon Men and Women—Savagery That Has Been Tabooed Even by Cannibal Tribes.

From the reports which are constantly brought by travelers and others from Siberia and other parts of the Russian empire there is no attempt being made by the czar to live up to his promise to prevent the sending of further political exiles to his Asiatic empire.

On the contrary, the treatment of these prisoners has become even more rigorous than at any period lately, and they are being shipped in increased numbers to that inferno, which is a curse to modern civilization.

To add to the horrors of the situation, the government grant of 300,000 roubles per year set aside for the maintenance of the political prisoners has been cut down to 100,000 roubles, while the number of these unfortunates grows bigger and bigger, and this means, of course, that many of them literally starve to death in the pitiless deserts of the north. Particularly is this the case in the provinces of Verkhoyansk and Kolimsk, where there is no possible means of earning a penny by any means whatever. Under the regulations these exiles receive no allowance until proof has been received that they have no relatives in Russia who are capable of being made to support them. The period occupied in securing this information usually occupies 12 months, and in the interim there is nothing but starvation ahead for the exile, who goes to his fate unprovided with funds.

The practice of branding those among these poor wretches who, according to the estimation of the czar's

BRANDED BY THE CZAR.
(Demoniacal Punishment Inflicted on Criminals in Russia.)

officials, are the most dangerous is one of the most brutal and revolting that the mind can devise.

Men and women alike, says the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, are subjected to this demoniacal punishment, which is accomplished by means of hot irons, the work being executed with an amount of savagery not even met with to-day among the fiercest cannibal tribes.

In the presence of his fellow criminals, who have the same horrible ordeal awaiting them, the shrinking victim is dragged forward and pinioned securely by brutal keepers and held tightly whilst the manipulator of the burning iron proceeds to mark the degrading brand upon his forehead. This is often done in the presence of other members of the family, and the distorted features of the unfortunate creature, the smell of burning flesh and the heart-rending shrieks of himself and others combine to produce a scene which is so nauseating as to defy description. A traveler who has been present at one of these scenes of torture says that he never saw a more frightful instance of barbarity even at the orgies of the devil worshipers of the East Indies. Civilization is disgraced and discredited by such inhuman practices conducted under its name, and one shrinks with horror at the thought of the sway of such a government being extended among civilized peoples.

It has been given out that the use of the knout as a mode of punishment has been forbidden by the authorities, but that is one of the many specious pretenses with which the Russian government seeks to impose upon the credulity of outraged humanity. The knout is as much in use to-day as it ever was. Only a few years ago a peasant at Vitebsk who had been driven from the district because of being suspected of belonging to a heterodox religious sect, was discovered by the police, who applied the knout so severely to him that he expired from the effects of his beating.

It was reported by the police that the man had compassed his own destruction in prison, but his fellow workmen learned the truth and set fire to the barracks in which the police were lodged. In consequence of this act some 50 men and women were at once hurried off to Siberia.

The slightest suspicion or accusation against a person is sufficient to secure his immediate transportation to Siberia without even the pretense of a trial.

A student accused of propagating revolutionary views was arrested in Moscow last September, and as there was no evidence against him he was subsequently discharged. Then he was rearrested and thrown into a dungeon, where he went stark mad, ending his miserable existence by igniting his clothes and burning himself alive.

The average age of the British soldier now at the front is nearly two years higher than that of the soldier who fought at Waterloo.

FIGHTING THE YAQUIS.

General Torres Has a Fierce Battle to Save Guaymas.

POTAN, Sonora, Mexico, Feb. 27.—The Mexican federal troops under General Torres have saved Guaymas from the Yaquis, but by dint of the fiercest fighting of the war and at a sacrifice of 200 soldiers. The town here is filled with wounded men. General Torres anticipated the intended surprise of the Yaquis. The Indians were accompanied by ten adventurers, miners and cowboys, who acted as commanders of separate companies of 40 men each. They had also a Maxim gun, which had been smuggled through at Bisbee, A. T., in a load of machinery. The gun was operated the Mexicans say, by two ex-rough riders.

General Torres reached here Thursday afternoon and decided to divide his army of 700 men into two divisions. The first and strongest, flanked by the gunboat Democrata, left here at daybreak Friday morning. No scouts preceded the forces and the first intimation the general had of the presence of the Yaquis was a deadly fire from their Maxim and rifle volleys from fortifications concealed in a dense thicket.

The first division of the Mexicans retired in confusion and was sheltered in the timber growth along the river. More than 100 men fell at that first fire. The Democrata then steamed up and swept the thicket with her machine guns, but ineffectively. Her forward decks were swept and her protected upper deck was peppered with bullets from the Maxim. Ten sailors and First Lieutenant Rambolo of the army were killed. The Democrata drifted for more than half a mile until a bend in the river sheltered her.

Late in the afternoon hill signals told the waiting commander of the first division that the second detachment had reached the neighboring heights to the southeast in its flank movements. A simultaneous attack was then made from the front and flank, and the Indians retreated. The Maxim gun, disabled and useless, was brought into Potam. Seventy three Indians, the official report says, were found dead. The Indians must have withdrawn in good order. During the first fire of the Yaquis 23 Mexican soldiers were driven into the river in a panic and were drowned. The total Mexican loss was 227. The Democrata has been taken to Guaymas for repairs.

That was the first time the Yaquis have made use of fortifications.

Mr. Sewall's Views.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Arthur Sewall, who was the Democratic candidate for vice president in 1896, paid his respects to President McKinley yesterday. Mr. Sewall has been to Hawaii on his way to the Philippines, but was prevented from continuing his journey by the plague outbreak. He denies a recent interview in which he was quoted as forecasting the defeat of the Democratic party this year. "I did not say anything of that kind without qualification," Mr Sewall said. "I believe in expansion in a certain way. I believe in keeping Porto Rico and Hawaii and extending to them every law of the United States. Make them territory of this country without discrimination as to tariff or other laws. I also want to keep the Philippines, but I think we should ultimately establish a republic there with our protection extended over it."

New Line to Buffalo.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company will within a short time have a line of its own to Buffalo, and the work of locating the new road will be begun shortly. The first step toward the building of the new line was made a few days ago, when the company announced it would purchase the stock of the Erie and Western Transportation company. It is stated that the reason for securing the steamship company was to prevent it from passing into other hands or eventually going into liquidation. It is the intention of the company to build a new line from Kane or Wilcox on the Philadelphia and Erie railroad, to Buffalo, a distance of about 125 miles. This road will give the Pennsylvania Railroad company a good line to Buffalo.

Troopship Delayed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The officials of the war department are annoyed at the unexpected delay in the preparation of the troopship Sumner for the Philippine transport service. She is being fitted out at the Norfolk navy yard and was to have been ready early in January. The work was more extensive than was anticipated, and according to a report received at the department she will not be in complete repair before the 15th prox. She is to carry about 1,200 troops from New York to Manila.

A Lie Nailed.

ALBANY, Feb. 27.—State Superintendent of Prisons Collins stated yesterday that there is not one word of truth in the statements made in the press that his department is being used for the purpose of securing delegates in counties in which the state prisons are situated to oppose the renomination of Governor Roosevelt. He says most positively that his department will not be used for any such purpose.

THE CUBAN PROBLEM.

A Canadian's Opinion of the Political Future of the Island.

MONTREAL, Feb. 27.—Sir William Van Horne, until recently president of the Canadian Pacific railway, has just returned from Cuba and in speaking of the island's political future said: "I don't know. Nobody knows. I traveled 1,000 miles or more through the country and met and conversed with all sorts of people, high and low, and my conclusion is that annexation to the United States if proposed now would be voted down.

"The prominent Spaniards want it, because they are needlessly, I think, afraid the Cubans will punish them for the wrongs of Spanish rule. Some of the Cubans want it, because of the material advantages it would bring to the island. Some privately favor it, but they would go with the majority of their compatriots, and this majority is as yet undoubtedly against it. The United States government would, in the absence of the clearly expressed desire of Cuba for annexation, find it difficult to get around its pledges and continue permanently to exercise its sovereignty.

"I believe that Cuba will soon be accorded self government, but that the United States government, in view of its responsibility as well as of its interests, will reserve a veto power in all matters of foreign policy and all matters of legislation affecting the public debt. The United States cannot say, 'We'll annex Cuba,' and continue their tariffs against her, and if they admit her products free of duty the tobacco and sugar interests in the southern states must suffer."

CUBAN NATIONALISTS SPLIT.

New Party Likely to Be a Powerful Factor In Insular Politics.

HAVANA, Feb. 27.—The split between the members of the National party is now the principal political topic in Havana. Already 70 of the 190 delegates have resigned, and it is expected that 30 others will follow their example. The resigning members include almost all the prominent newly enfranchised Cuban-Americans, which lends point to the assertion that the Cuban-Americans will endeavor to form a distinct political party, ultimately joining forces with the old Autonomists. Any such combination would mean the introduction of a powerful factor in the politics of Cuba.

The leaders of the National party recognize their influence and even their existence as political leaders depend upon securing as president of the organization some man of the first rank. Senor de la Torre, the present president, is virtually only a presiding officer, who fills the post until a permanent selection can be made. General Maximo Gomez was invited to accept the position, but he declined. Yesterday a similar offer was made to Mayor Lacoste, who also refused the honor. General Gomez says that he has no political ambitions and is content to be a member of the Society of Veterans.

Here is also an organization that is likely to have powerful influence in the future. Comparatively few of the veterans will sympathize politically with the Cuban-American party.

A National University.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—A new bill to establish the University of the United States was introduced yesterday by Senator C. M. Depew. It differs from the bills heretofore introduced and favorably reported in that in terms as explicit as possible it limits the institution to work exclusively post graduate and special, provides for particular attention to matters which concern the government, vests the management in a single governing body—a board of regents, nearly all of whom are presidents of institutions of learning doing advanced work—and makes no appropriation of money. Like all the bills to establish a national university it grants the 20 acre tract of land in the city which President Washington by authority of congress set apart for this purpose.

Volcanoes and Cannibals.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Mr. Grogan, an African traveler who has been exploring the volcanic region in the neighborhood of Lake Tanganyika, found several active volcanoes which are discharging enormous streams of lava. One valley 40 miles by 60 was filled in two years with lava to a depth in some places of a hundred feet. The devastation is indescribable. Forests and herds of elephants have been engulfed. The country is overrun by ferocious nomadic cannibals called Baleka from the Kongo valley. They have almost depopulated what was formerly a densely occupied area.

Samoa's Government.

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—A leading foreign office official, discussing the organization of the administration of German Samoa, said: "It is impossible to give details as yet regarding the form of government to be adopted. Dr. Solf will have large discretionary powers and will give the natives as much self government as his experience and observations will warrant. There will be as few administrative officials as possible. Everything will be kept simple. No difficulty with the natives is expected, as they are peaceably inclined."

THE PORTO RICO BILL

House Republicans Announce a Compromise Tariff.

MODIFIED MEASURE WILL PASS.

After a Long Conference It Is Decided to Limit the Operations of the Law to Two Years and Reduce the Duty to 15 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—At the conference of house Republicans last night on the Porto Rican tariff bill assurances were given that the president believed the measure constitutional and would approve it if it came to him, and an agreement was reached to limit the operation of the bill to two years and to reduce the duty imposed by it from 25 to 15 per cent of the American tariff. As a result the Republican leaders claim that the bill will have the support of all the Republicans except four, Messrs. McCall of Massachusetts, Littlefield of Maine, Lorimer of Illinois and Crumpacker of Indiana, and that this loss will be offset by affirmative votes of the opposition. They claim the passage of the modified bill is certain.

After the conference adjourned at 11 o'clock Chairman Cannon gave out the following statement of the amendments agreed upon by the conference:

"The conference requested the ways and means committee to offer an amendment to the bill as follows: 'Amend the title to make it an act temporarily to provide revenue for the island of Porto Rico and for other purposes,' and to add the following section: 'This act shall be taken and held to be provisional in its purpose, intended to meet a pressing present need for revenue for the island of Porto Rico, and is not to continue in force after March 1, 1902.' These amendments were adopted with practical unanimity. Another to reduce the duty imposed by the act from 25 to 15 per cent was adopted by a vote of 105 to 11. A further amendment is to be offered by the ways and means committee to make it clear that no double duty is imposed—that the payment of an internal revenue tax is the total tax on importations."

A memorial of "protest and petition from the people of Porto Rico to the congress of the United States" was presented to the senate and house yesterday. The petitioners ask that the military be withdrawn, that Porto Rico be declared an integral part of the United States, that unrestricted free commerce be established between the United States and the island, that American money be substituted for Porto Rican money and that a commission be appointed to codify the laws and consider insular interests. The petition is signed by the Porto Rican delegates in this city.

Discussion of the right of ex-Senator Quay to a seat in the senate as a member from Pennsylvania was begun yesterday by Mr. Turley of Tennessee. He presented a constitutional argument against the seating of Mr. Quay, which was given close attention by his colleagues. He will conclude today. Consideration of the Hawaiian government bill brought out a lively discussion between Mr. Tillman of South Carolina and Mr. Spooner of Wisconsin, in which the former admitted that ballot boxes had been stuffed and negroes had been shot in the south to maintain white domination. An amendment was made to the bill striking out the property qualification of voters for members of the legislature, but little other progress was made.

More Native Troops.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Secretary Root is so well satisfied with the record made by the troops recruited from the natives of Porto Rico that he has determined to increase the number now in service. There is now a full battalion of these troops, and the secretary has issued orders for the enlistment of another battalion, the whole to be put in command of Major James A. Buchanan of the Fifteenth infantry, who has been nominated for the position of lieutenant colonel. The new battalion will take the place of the United States regular cavalry, which will be brought back to the United States. Horses for mounting the men will be purchased in the island, as the American animals do not readily acclimatize.

Fort Slocum Desertions.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Colonel Woodruff, commanding at Fort Slocum, telegraphed the adjutant general yesterday, in response to a request for information as to the truth of the press report that about 200 soldiers deserted from that post last week, that the records of the post show desertions as follows: August, 2; September, none; October, 2; November, 3; December, 19; January, 45, February, 14—a total of 85 during the past seven months.

Sharkey and Fitzsimmons.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Tom O'Rourke, the manager of Tom Sharkey, announces that he will cover Robert Fitzsimmons' forfeit of $5,000 on Monday, when he will meet the former champion and arrange a match on behalf of Sharkey. O'Rourke said that he would like to have the contest decided at Coney Island, but if any other club would offer more money for the battle than the seaside organization he would gladly accept its bid.

A Watch For Captain Miller.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The German government has made a graceful acknowledgment of the treatment received by its commissioner, Baron Sternberg, while on the United States steamship Badger engaged in the settlement of the Samoan complications last summer by forwarding a handsome chronometer watch through Embassador Holleben to be presented to Captain Merrill Miller who commanded the ship.

Californian Still Aground.

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 27.—The steamship California still remains hard and fast on Ram Island ledge, but after a thorough investigation of the situation the Allan line officials are extremely confident that not only will a considerable portion of the cargo be saved in an uninjured condition, but the steamer herself will be floated in a very short time after the wrecking equipment on the way from Boston gets to work.

Frozen to Death.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Oliver Thompson, 76 years old, an inmate of the county house, was found frozen to death at the roadside several miles from the home. He is supposed to have died Monday while attempting to walk home from Goshen after being ejected from a train for not paying his fare.

The boastful, egotistical attitude of the editor of the News in yesterday's issue is arrogating to himself the credit of closing-up a resort of questionable character, through the intervention of the police and a subsequent interview of the alleged promoter and manager with the Mayor, will go tearing down the corridors of local history to rival the nursery tale of Little Jack Horner and his famous plum pie. Editor Runyon is as good a counterpart of Little Jack Horner as we have ever observed. Just as the ridicule of ages is upon the head of the little boy who pulled the plum from the pie and ejaculated "What a great boy am I," the derision of the public of Plainfield is directed at the plastic mind of the editor whose thoughts of himself are superior to a proper appreciation of modesty and common sense.

Democratic Leader Robert Davis yesterday declared in favor of holding in the first week in June the Democratic State convention for the election of delegates to the Democratic National convention in Kansas City. Davis said he does not believe in snap conventions, and thinks it would be well to defer the election of the delegates as long as possible. Newspapers opposed to the nomination of Col. Bryan will doubtless construe the attitude of Leader Davis to mean that at the eleventh hour he will desert the Nebraskan and throw his influence to the candidacy of some other aspirant. Though Mr. Davis has not publicly said that he is "for" Bryan, he has given as broad intimations to that effect as it is possible to convey in private conversation.

A Washington correspondent gives it as an opinion that from the present indications Senator Quay will be seated. Thirty-four Senators voted Friday to consider the case. This much was accomplished by Senator Penrose after a good deal of parliamentary sparring between the sitting Senator from Pennsylvania and Senators Hoar and Foraker. A careful canvass has been made of the Senate, and judging from the results that have been obtained Mr. Quay can count on forty-eight votes. This will be enough to seat him, and on these he can place absolute reliance.

Referring to the bill introduced by Senator Reed, in behalf of President Johnson, which gives Boards of Freeholders the right of applying to county courts for the appointment of a county board of commissioners to equalize assessments of taxes, the Passaic News doubts if it would prove as effective in securing equal taxation as the proposition of Senator Reed that the assessed valuations be published in the newspapers in the localities to which they apply. But the News says that the bill which proposes to advertise the assessments will not pass this year.

The get-up and get-there people of Kansas City propose to show the prosaic citizens of Philadelphia a thing or two in carrying out methods of modern political financiering. If the westerners raise the $100,000 offered for the convention in the time they expect to, Philadelphia may gain some worthy points to be used in time to help it out of the hole into which it fell by its liberal offer to the G. O. P.

The indignation that the good people of Elizabeth expressed over the proposition to present "Sapho" in one of the local theatres was only equalled by the disguest of those who went to see the performance and found missing all those words and scenes that are being railed at. The science of satisfying the public is a hard one.

Newark is just now agitated over a scandal growing out of the establishment of a defective heating apparatus in the high school building of the city. The scholars may be freezing, but this very fact seems to be making it especially warm for some of the officials who are charged with being responsible for the condition of affairs.

New Jersey is not the only trust-ridden State. Didn't the Tin Plate Trust and the Steel Octopus go winding its way across several commonwealths in their hurry-up trip from Chicago to New York the other day in the desire to escape the just laws of Illinois?

In the eyes of the world Gen. Cronje is a hero despite his surrender. He is a gallant warrior, and in the hour of his defeat nothing but words of praise will be heard of him and his men who defied the overpowering force of superior numbers for so long a time.

The people of this State will appreciate a straight-forward, open investigation of the State Industrial School for Girls if there is to be any investigation at all. Star chamber sessions seldom prove satisfactory.

"In the trustees I trust" is the rule by which Governor Voorhees views all the contention about the affairs of the State Industrial School for Girls.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Dunellen, February 27.—The borough election, which occurs March 13th, promises to be quite lively. Though no call has yet been issued for the primary, it is possible that Dr. Brakeley, as a member of the executive committee, may decide to issue a call for Thursday, March 8th. There are to be elected two councilmen in place of Messrs. Gaskill and Gaston; two assessors in place of Charles and C. A. Coriell; a collector in place of George W. Day; an overseer of poor in place of William H. Cole; one constable and a pound master. There is always quite a strife for assessor. Among those who are anxious to secure the coveted prize are William Laughlin, Arthur Gaston, George Huff and Charles Coriell. There is believed to be no serious opposition to the candidacy of George W. Day, the present incumbent, who has filled the office satisfactorily.

Though the Plainfield Street Railway promised Messrs. Woodhull & Martin that they would place electric lights in the waiting-room at the terminus of the trolley line; patrons of the road still have to grope about in the dark. As the waiting-room did not cost the trolley people one cent that company might well afford to extend a little comfort to its patrons by supplying the light.

Fred Nelson, formerly of this place, but late of Basking Ridge, will take possession of the Washingtonville Hotel in the "Notch" that has been kept by Mrs. Kate Finger, widow of Peter Finger.

A trolley car on the Brunswick Traction Company's line became stalled for several hours yesterday near Stites' blacksmith shop, owing to a defect in the running gear.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff, of Dunellen avenue, are the happy parents of a daughter, born to them early Sunday morning.

William Brokaw, who has been ill with pneumonia for several weeks, is slightly improved.

W. J. Kuhns is not improving as fast as his friends wish. He is still very ill.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Scotch Plains, February 27th—The monthly consecration meeting of the B. Y. P. M. was held in the parlors of the church last evening. Dr. J. H. Parks led the meeting.

Miss Winnie Clark led an interesting Epworth League meeting in the Methodist church last evening.

Mrs. Charles Grant, of Plainfield, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Paff, Sr.

Owing to the cold weather of yesterday only one session was held in some of the rooms at school.

Miss Sadie Reger has returned from a visit at her home at Succasunna, Morris county.

Fanwood Council, R. A., will hold an important meeting in their rooms this evening.

Philip Hunt and son, of Newark, were the guests of relatives in town yesterday.

Miss Amy Cook is visiting friends at Patchogue, L. I.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

Westfield, Feb. 27.—Sometime during Saturday night thieves visited the henery of S. D. Ball, on Elmer street, and stole three leghorne chickens. Mr. Ball thinks he has a clew to the thief and an arrest will shortly take place.

Rudolph Brunner, of Brooklyn, has purchased the jewelry business of Wm. Woidt & Son, of Broad street, and will take charge of the business on March 1st.

Those tied in the head-pin bowling tournament at the Westfield Club will roll off Friday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The Republican primary will be held in Armory Hall Monday evening of next week.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD

(Special Correspondence to The Press.)

South Plainfield, Feb. 27.—The coaling station is running over time. The capacity of the bins is so small that they do not hold enough to allow the men to stop dumping for the night. The railroad company is contemplating the erection of an addition to the plant.

There will be a big shooting match at the Lehigh hotel Friday. Some fine shooting will be done.

Mr. Weaver's children have the mumps. Also some of Mr. Steingraff's family.

John Bodenheimer is suffering from a bad cold, contracted Saturday night.

Miss Hamilton, of Fords Corner, is visiting her brother Wm. Hamilton.

The pond is again frozen over but it is too rough for good skating.

Jessie Terrell is detained at home with the mumps.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Archibald Cox, of West Seventh street, is detained at home with an atttack of tonsilitis.

Would Have Prohibition.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Now that the Plainfield Council is composed entirely of members of the Republican party, and as the often quoted motto of that party is, "The greatest good to the greatest number" may we not hope that the members in the Council will be consistent and carry out that grand principle by refusing this year to permit what every intelligent person knows to be "the greatest evil to the greatest number"—the inevitable result of granting liquor licenses. Mrs. DeForest.

Proving Popular to Travelers.

The recent superior service of the Jersey Central Railroad between Jersey City and Atlantic City, by the way of Lakewood, is becoming very popular. Saturday forty-five through passengers were carried to the popular winter resorts. The company has completed all arrangements to shorten this line materially and when this is completed the run will be made from Jersey City to Atlantic City in two hours. The line is to be shortened near Lakewood, and it will be one of the most popular routes in this part of the country. The work will be started this spring and it will take thirty days to complete it.

The Fourth Day

Of our Grand Anniversary Sale—Wednesday—finds us still ready with all goods as advertised to meet your buying demands. None but a large store, such as this, could have stood the test of the last few days; we knew the prices were attractive enough to make you buy generously and were well prepared with monster stocks. Just a word about the quality of these advertised goods—do not think because the prices are so low that any article is second quality; for, unless we plainly state it as a "second," it is the best grade and quality that can be purchased and it carries our broad guarantee of your money back if you are not perfectly satisfied. Late additions to the Sale today are the new showings of the latest effects in Embroideries, Laces, All-Overs and Hamburgs. These you may see in our window and the display there will give you a better idea of the values than anything we can say here.

YOU KNOW the "P. L." Glove always sells for $1.10 everywhere and it's a mighty good glove for that money, too, but just think what it is for our Anniversary Sale, price 87c.

Some pretty selections are in the window today, Anniversary Sale price 6c yd. New Spring patterns in Zephyr Ginghams, dainty designs that far outshine any previous season's productions. Anniversary Sale price 10c the yard.

Ladies' Jackets There is still a fair lot to select from, of course, not all sizes in all styles, but all sizes in some styles, but enough that they are this season's styles when you can get a $5, $6 or $7 Jacket for the Anniversary Sale price of $1.49.

You may have unrestricted choice of any remaining Jacket in our store, garments that actually sold for from $6 to $10, at the Anniversary Sale price of $5.

Carpets A simple, honest story of economical carpet buying is in just two words—"Come here"—we can save you money and give you choice of more new and brighter, worthier patterns than can be found within the limits of many miles. Our showing today is the largest and most complete line ever brought to Plainfield. See the window for prices and particulars.

LAURA. I bought my first supply of Ripans Tabules more out of curiosity than anything else, and was very much surprised at the good results which followed their use. I had often seen them advertised, but being a little prejudiced against patent medicines I thought they would do me no good. In future I never want to be without them. I had been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia for a long time, and although I tried many kinds of medicine, I never found anything really to do me much good until I tried Ripans Tabules.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING.

Some of the Unusual Activities of the Unquiet Sex.

Miss Maude Gonne, the "Irish Joan of Arc," will speak in Chicago on March 3 about the feeling in Ireland toward the war in the Transvaal. The effect of her speech is looked to with eagerness by her many friends. Her striking oratorical gifts, her clear thinking and her personal charms have on several occasions done much to win friends for the country to whose welfare she has devoted her life.

Mrs. Jack Williams of Philadelphia rode 3,562 miles on a tandem because her husband had said she could do it. There was a $1,000 stake that they would cross the continent in 90 days, exclusive of Sundays, starting penniless and earning their way as they went. They won their money, but it was at the cost of many inconveniences and much suffering and the experiencing of many thrilling adventures on the trip.

The novel means adopted in a New Jersey town to pay for a church organ might be tried in less enterprising districts with good results. The Women's Missionary guild invented the scheme by which every young man calling upon them must pay a fine of 10 cents a visit.

Miss Mary Weber of Edina, Mo., won a beautiful gold medal in a spelling contest. She passed unscathed through the 2,000 word fusillade.

After a severe struggle in which Miss Clara Bett Martin enlisted the sympathies of the International Council of Women, Miss Martin finally succeeded in gaining admission to the Canadian bar. Her recent success in winning two important cases opposed by two of the ablest lawyers in Canada is another proof of the ability of women in that profession.

Comparatively few of us can claim the distinction of being direct descendants of the Mayflower heroes. Miss Ethel May Hebard of Chicago not only claims that distinction, but traces her descent in a direct line back through ten generations to the stripling said to have been the first to leap ashore on Plymouth Rock, the handsome matrimonial emissary of Captain Miles Standish, John Alden and Priscilla Mullins.

Drawing room entertainments are on the highroad to popularity. Mrs. Henry Gielow has been making a hit in Philadelphia by her clever sketches in "mammy" dialect. Some of her sketches she does from the memories of the tales told her by her own "mammy." English people have received her with much favor, and they made great demands on Mrs. Gielow's time during the past season, which was spent in England.

Mrs. May Wright Sewall of Indianapolis has made a wonderful record for herself as clubwoman, educator and housewife. Her name is almost as widely known as that of Miss Frances Willard, who said that "every public woman needs a wife." It may seem remarkable that a woman who is in the midst of important social functions of the International Council of Women at London could take time to choose tints for repainting her kitchen. Mrs. Sewall is one woman of many who have not permitted their club duties to take them from their homes.

One of the many precautions a woman should bear in mind, if she proposes to visit Paris during the coming exposition, is to load a capacious medicine case before she leaves her native shore. While many things are much less expensive in Paris than at home here, drugs are difficult to find and expensive, as compared to our prices, and, moreover, it is not possible in that gay French city, as in our little towns and villages, to shop for powders and potions all night long, if necessary. It is only by the aid of a policeman that a clerk can be roused and the purchase of a precious commodity made after 8 o'clock in the evening.

Miss Laurence Alma-Tadema is achieving success as an author. Her works in fiction show talent and promise of great fame. Recently she has won new laurels as a dramatist. Her latest effort, "The Silent Voice," was presented by amateurs in London, at Albert Hall. It was pronounced a charming production both by the distinguished audience and the critics that were present.

Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden in an address before the convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs at Rochester made the sweeping assertion that women lack conscience and bases her statement upon her belief that women are not able to share the responsibilities of men. Her words have aroused a storm of comment throughout the states.

An ingenious woman who was thrown upon her own resources very early in life found remunerative employment in dusting libraries in private households. This new library woman has been well received. Her work is very remunerative, $15 and $25 being the price for one or two days' labor.

The crown prince of Austria is about to take a morganatic wife. Countess Sophie Chotek is the bride elect.

BRIGHT YOUNG MAN.

J. C. W. Beckham, Democratic Governor of Kentucky, Comes of Distinguished Stock.

J. C. W. Beckham, who was declared governor of Kentucky by the democracy of his state immediately after the demise of William E. Goebel, is a young man, having been born August 5, 1869, at Bardstown, Ky. His father was William N. Beckham, and his mother Julia T. Wickliffe, daughter of Gov. Charles A. Wickliffe, former chief executive of the state. His earliest education was received in a private school in Bardstown. In the legislative session of 1881 and 1882 he acted as a page in the house of representatives. In January, 1884, he entered Central Union college, of Richmond, Va., graduating in 1886.

Immediately after leaving college Mr. Beckham began the study of law, and while pursuing his work in this direction acted as principal of the Bardstown high school for three years. In 1893 he began the practice of law on his own account in Bardstown. He was elected a member of the Kentucky house of representatives in 1893. He declined to be a candidate at the next term, but the representative who succeeded him having dropped out, Mr. Beckham accepted the position and served the unexpired term. He was reelected in 1897 and made speaker of the house in 1898.

In 1899 he was nominated for lieutenant governor on the same ticket with William Goebel at the Louisville convention.

In person, Gov. Beckham is of slight physique and of a somewhat boyish appearance. He is gifted with exceedingly pleasant manners and is very popular personally with all who know him.

MAKES TRAINING PAY.

How John H. Lake Keeps in Racing Form and Makes a Living Grinding Skates.

A queer contrivance for the training of bicyclists is that invented by John H. Lake, of Richmond terrace, Port Richmond, S. I. The machine was constructed so that he might be in position to train during the winter months, thereby enabling him to keep in condition for bicycle races in which he anticipates entering at Philadelphia within a few weeks. To obviate loss of energy in his training he has erected a stationary stand in the window of his store, to which is fastened his bicycle. From its rear wheel he has connected a belt with an old bicycle hub, on one end of which is secured a four-inch pulley and at the other end an emery wheel about six inches in diameter.

(How He Keeps in Training and Makes a Living Grinding Skates.)

From seven o'clock to nine o'clock every evening Mr. Lake may be seen pedaling on his peculiar invention, while his partner is busily engaged in grinding skates, scissors and knives, much to the amusement of the merry villagers who congregate in front of his window.

Mr. Lake is required to pedal a distance of about one and a half miles in order to sharpen one pair of skates. His bicycle is geared at 112 and has a 28-inch rear wheel. When pedaling moderately the emery wheel is driven at a speed of about 3,500 revolutions to the minute, but when pedaling at racing speed the revolutions of the wheel are increased to 5,000 a minute.

Mr. Lake, says the New York Herald, is one of the crack riders of the Harlem Wheelmen and has captured a great many trophies for the club, among them being a cup which he won in the 75-mile pursuit race at Madison Square garden.

The Depopulation of Peru.

The population of Peru is illustrated by the fact that the valley of Santa, which in the days of the Incas had a population of 700,000, now has only 5,000.

IN FASHION'S GLASS.

Pretty Things That Are Reflected from the Maze of Feminine Finery.

In spite of the assertion that separate waists are going out of fashion, there are just as many on sale in the stores and figured in the journals des toilettes. The truth is, they are too pretty, stylish, economical and useful to be resigned. Many of them are very elaborate, being intended for dressy wear, and they are quite different from the shirt and blouse waists meant for wear with the coat and shirt costume.

A smart waist that may be attempted by a good home dressmaker is made of colored satin, some light color showing the decoration best. It is much trimmed with machine stitching in black silk. It has a wide double box plait down the front, and a graduated plait of the same character comes from each shoulder, narrowing to the belt. The space between the plaits is entirely filled with rows of machine stitching put on to give the effect of points. The cuffs and collar are covered with machine stitching. The upper part of the sleeve repeats the points seen between the plaits; the under part is plain. The belt is narrow, is like the waist, and is not stitched; it is slightly pointed in front.

A use for lace in the piece is found in the lace waists that are so popular just now, both in black and white. It is put on over a fitted silk lining, and a beautiful mode requires a V-shaped piece at the throat, and the lace draped in upward turning plaits, and gathered under an enormous velvet bow or chiffon rosette on the left, lapping over upon the right.

Another pretty waist has a front laid in a plain box plait down the middle, with three broad, backward turning plaits on each side, tapering to the belt. On these plaits may be applied lace figures or embroidery, in two rows, one high across the bust, the other a little below it. There is a deep yoke covered with guipure lace, which comes well out over the shoulders, and which in the model is edged with fur.

Blouse waists are still being made up numerously. The latest fancy dispenses with the yoke in the back, and runs three groups of tucks from collar to belt. The fronts are tucked in clusters. Another mode, pretty in the opera flannel, etc., so much worn, is to tuck back and fronts alike in the narrowest of tucks—so narrow as to give the effect of cording—about seven-eighths of an inch apart. The same effect is seen on the sleeves.

Some of the new waists are tucked horizontally, in clusters of four, the tucks being as above described. The sleeves are tucked also, and fashion decrees that when the arm is dropped the groups of tucks in the sleeves shall seem to continue those on the waist.

All the new modes show a much lengthened shoulder seam. Everything is being done to give a long line on the shoulders, thus making them broader and the waist apparently smaller. It is predicted that an era of small waists is upon us, and that the woman who has no perceptible hips or stomach is to have her innings. That means the banishment of a lot of aids to the toilet.

Skirts promise to become more voluminous, though no less sheath-like round the hips, as the year advances. Sleeves are growing smaller very fast. They are comfortably snug already, and fit the arm's-eye with very, very little fullness. They remain absurdly long, half-covering the hand, and thus necessarily flare at the wrist or are cut off, and flaring cuffs added, after the mode that has prevailed for several seasons. —Detroit Free Press.

Anecdote of Cecil Rhodes.

Once while transacting some business in the government office at Johannesburg Cecil Rhodes had to stand in line, and he did not like it. "Please attend to me at once," he said. "I can't wait." "When your turn comes, mister," mumbled the clerk. "Confound you, sir! Do you know who I am? I'm Rhodes." "Oh, yes, I know that, but that doesn't worry me," was the unruffled reply. "If you were in Cape Town I'd have you discharged in a minute," roared Mr. Rhodes. "Yes, I've heard that they discharge people in Cape Town for doing their duty," answered the clerk, "but we are not in Cape Town; this is a republic."

Proceedings of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, Feb. 1st, 1900, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll-call showed all members present excepting Freeholder Adams—1.

The minutes of the previous meeting, (reading of bills being omitted), were on motion approved as read.

No petitions, memorials or communications were presented.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Freeholder Roll, chairman of the County Board Committeee, reported that the committee had conferred with the chairman of the Cranford Township Committee, and an agreement had been arrived at for the extension of the Cranford sewer to Garwood, as heretofore petitioned for, on the south side of the avenue, and that the interests of the county had been protected, which on motion of Freeholder Brucklacher was received, and ordered spread on the minutes.

By Freeholder Wahl:

"Resolved, That the road petitioned for by the citizens of the Township of of New Providence, beginning at the west end of the Union county road at the intersection of Springfield avenue and the road leading to Plainfield, known as South street, and extending westerly to the dividing line between Union and Morris counties at Townley's bridge, is, in the opinion of this board, of sufficient general importance to warrant the expenditure of the county and state moneys necessary for the improvement thereof; that the expense thereof will not be an unnecessary public burden, and be it further

"Resolved, That the work on said road be commenced in the year 1900."

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution, which was duly seconded.

Freeholder Wahl said that the road in question was a continuation of the present county road system, and he had been assured that Morris county would macadamize the road in said county, known as the Valley road, and leading to Townley's bridge, making a continuous road through Essex, Union and Morris counties.

Freeholder Roll said that State Road Commissioner Budd had assured him that the State would appropriate money to aid in macadamizing the said Valley road.

Some discussion arose relative to maintenance of road mentioned in the resolution, during which the county attorney read from the laws governing such matters, and which provided that the road when constructed must remain under care of the county. The resolution, Freeholder Brucklacher said, was one that he did not desire to oppose, although he thought roads so constructed entailed a great deal of expense on the cities in the county without giving compensating benefits. The resolution was then adopted on roll-call by an unanimous vote.

By Freeholder Wahl.

"Resolved, That the clerk of this board be authorized to notify the State Road Commissioner of the action of this board regarding the road from New Providence to Townley's bridge and that said clerk be authorized to request said commissioner for the customary and legal appropriation in said matter."

Freeholder Swain moved the adoption of the resolution and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

On request of Freeholder Robison the clerk then read a petition heretofore presented to this board at meeting of May 18th, 1899, requesting that the road extending from the bridge on Mountain avenue over Green Brook, being the dividing line between Union and Somerset counties; thence easterly to Park avenue and the westerly end of the county road of Union county, be macadamized under the State Aid Road Act.

Said petitions was signed by George Kyte and others, owners of at least two-thirds of the lands and real estate fronting or bordering on the said road. Attached to the petition was a map showing the section of road petitioned for.

Freeholder Robison then presented the following resolution, viz.:

"Resolved, That the road petitioned for by the citizens of Fanwood township as set forth in the petition filed with this board on May 18, 1899, petitioning for the building of a road: Beginning at a point in the centre of the bridge on Mountain avenue over Green brook, said point being the division line of the counties of Union and Somerset counties; and the easterly end of the county road in Somerset county, said road being known as Mountain avenue; thence easterly to its intersection with Park avenue, is, in the opinion of the board, of sufficient general importance to warrant the expenditure of the county and State moneys necessary for the improvement thereof, and, that the expense thereof will not be an unnecessary public burden, and be it further

"Resolved, That work on said road be commenced within one year after the necessary and legal appropriation be made therefore."

Freeholder Farrell moved the adoption of the resolution, which was duly seconded.

Freeholder Robinson said that the road petitioned for connected the counties of Summit and Union and would cost about $2,000, a little over one-half of which would fall on this county.

After some discussion the resolution on roll call was adopted, receiving sixteen affirmative votes. Freeholder Brucklacher being excused from voting, and Freeholder Adams absent.

By Freeholder Robison:

"Resolved, That the clerk of this board be authorized to notify the State Road Commissioner of the action of this board regarding the road extending from the bridge on Mountain avenue over Green Brook, being the dividing line between Union and Somerset counties: thence easterly to Park avenue, and the westerly end of the county road of Union county, and that said clerk be authorized to request said commissioner for the customary and legal appropriation in said matter.

Freeholder Miller moved the adoption of the resolution and on roll-call it was unanimously adopted.

SHE RODE 3,562 MILES.

And by This Feat Won a Big Bet for Her Husband.

Traveled Across the Continent on a Wheel, Accompanied by Her Lesser Half—Her Most Thrilling Adventure on the Trip.

Mrs. Jack Williams, of Philadelphia, has two possessions which she values beyond price. One is her husband, the other is his word of honor.

It was to enable him to keep his word that she has just completed a journey which no other woman in America has ever taken—a journey that involved nearly four months of hardship and danger that few men would care to face.

She traveled 3,562 miles on a tandem wheel because her husband had said that she could do it.

She crossed the continent from Philadelphia to San Francisco, to make good her husband's signed statement that he could manufacture a wheel which would carry himself and wife the distance designated.

Not only was his word at stake. There was a wager of a thousand dollars cash—all the money saved by the young couple since their wedding day—that they would cross the continent in 90 days, exclusive of Sundays, starting penniless and earning their way as they went.

The start from Philadelphia was made at 7.30 in the morning of August 6. These are some of the things this little woman did, that Philadelphia might not say her husband was a braggart:

She starved and went ragged; she slept in sheds, stables, in a wheat bin, by barbed wire fences, in prairie dugouts, station houses, on the edge of a water tank, in sheepherders' wagons and under shelter made of railroad ties. She dodged engines in dark, slimy tunnels and on high bridges. Here is her own story of her most thrilling adventure on her trip, as told to a New York Journal reporter:

"My first real scare was up in the Ozark mountains, about five miles out of Jefferson City, which is midway between Kansas City and St. Louis. Finding the mountain roads impracticable for riding or walking, we had gone 14 miles out of our way to reach the railroad track. This brought us to the Gasconade bridge, and it was on this dizzy elevation that a freight train disputed the right of way with us.

MRS. JACK WILLIAMS.
(Wheeled Across the Continent to Please Her Husband.)

"It was misting heavily, and we could not see through the gloom far enough to discern an engine, nor could we hear one for the noise of the rushing waters below. We decided to take chances Gasconade bridge is a third of a mile long, and part of it is a drawbridge. On the middle span a freight train thundered down upon us. One has to think and act pretty quickly when in a crisis like that.

"'Crawl under!' shouted my husband.

"I made a dash for the open space and swung over, bracing myself against an abutment of the bridge. Jack held the wheel over and swung beneath the bridge, resting the wheel against the abutment. I hung between the freight train and the river.

"It seemed hours rather than minutes while the bridge shook with the terrific weight that was tearing over it. All I remember thinking was: 'What muddy water to drown in!' How we ever crawled up again, I scarcely know. I was nearly dead with nervousness, and sat down on the bridge in the rain to shed some very damp, discouraged tears."

Quaint Servian Customs.

A quaint custom obtains in Servia, where, in some towns, it is usual for the inhabitants to hang a dressed doll, and sometimes two or even three of them, in the principal window of the house. This indicates that there is living there a marriageable woman, sometimes more than one, who is willing and anxious to become a bride. Another Servian custom is that of hanging a small sheaf of grain outside the house. The superstition is that if the grain is stolen there will soon be a wedding in the house; if the lady dwelling within is anxious to wed, the sheaf is hung low, quite within the reach of the suitor, who may possibly be as anxious to steal it as she is to have it stolen.

Not Every Bullet Kills.

In the Cuban war about 99 out of every 118 American soldiers shot made complete recoveries. The employment of the modern high-power rifles, with their small bullets, tends to put more soldiers out of the fight temporarily, but actually decreases the mortality. A queer aspect of the investigation was that a majority of the bullets found lodgment, not in the trunk of the body, but in the arms, legs and head. The proportion in the Spanish-American war was 40 in the legs, 30 in the arms, 20 in the body and ten in the head and neck, out of every hundred bullets that hit a human target.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

During the past few years amusement lovers of this city have had the opportunity of witnessing some of the best repertoire companies playing at popular prices, and in this way the clientage that the Music Hall management depends upon for support during such engagements has come to demand and appreciate only that which will bear the test of comparison with companies that have visited this city heretofore and made a favorable impression. It is not too much to say that the opening performance of the Macauley-Patton company last night won favor for the actors at once. It is one of the best—if not the best—repertoire companies that has ever appeared in this city. For the opening performance "The Minister's Son," written by W. B. Patton, who played the title role, was presented. "The Minister's Son" is a pastoral drama telling an old story, but depicting it in a new and clever way. It posseses many strong dramatic possibilities, and they were made the best of by an exceptional capable cast of players. As "Simon Ray," the minister's son, Mr. Patton dressed the hero of the piece in a new dramatic garb that was not only entertaining and popular, but fresh and original. Mr. Patton acted the character in sympathy and finish, and scored an artistic success. Carl Stockdale was one of the best—or the worst—villians that has been seen on the local stage this season, and though his part was an unpopular one with the sympathies of the audience he portrayed it with excellent ability. As a young preacher, and the bosom friend of the minister's son, J. G. McFarlane was very effective in the subdued but sincere action which he accorded the character. As "Rose Ray," who fell under the wicked wiles of villian, and afound whose fate the intense action of the piece was carried out, Anna Pomeroy furnished an impersonation that was pathetic and touching. She acted with splendid judgment of its emotional requirements. In the role of "Mollie," the sweetheart of the minister's son, Geraldine Russell supplied the feminine comedy element in a manner that classes her as among the best soubrettes seen here. The rest of the support was all that was necessary to make a satisfactory performance. Between the acts specialties are given. All of them are good. Tonight "A Wasted Life" will be presented.

Borough Board of Education Discussed the Matter at the Meeting Last Night.

The Borough Board of Education held a regular meeting last evening and transacted very little business. The members devoted most of their time to fixing up the budget for next year, which will be advertised within a few days. This promises to be a trifle higher than last year for the fact that there are now two schools to look after, where before there was only one. The finance committee presented its report and this will be published in a few days. All of this work is in preparation for the annual meeting which will be held March 20th, when reports will be presented and three school commissioners will be elected to fill the vacancies that will be left by Paul Loizeaux, George D. Hallock and H. A. McGee, whose terms expire. As yet there has been little or no talk as to who will be selected for the positions.

The members devoted a little time to discussing the need of repairs at the school on Somerset street. These repairs will have to be made and provision for them will be made in the budget for the year's expense.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A Long Branch newspaper asserts that a certain clergyman living less than two blocks from Broadway was called upon one night recently to perform a marriage. After the nuptial knot had been tied the groom started to leave the parsonage without stepping up to the captain's desk and paying his bill. He was reminded of the fact. He stooped, looked confused, finally acknowledging that he was short of money. "How much is it, dominie?" he asked. The response was, "Whatever you think she's worth." The groom handed the minister a bright half-dollar.

As a champion pie eather, William Wood, of Jersey City, has established his title in New Jersey. At an entertainment of the Call Athletic Club he devoured eleven pies in nine and a half minutes, afterward conversing rationally. Two other contestants who started with high hopes were distanced easily. Wood is ready to meet all comers, though he says he prefers an antagonist who does not hail from New England. The doubtful part of this story it that which describes Wood as conversing rationally, weather before or after his gastronomic feat.

Frederick Evans, who was Vice-President Hobart's secretary, and continued with acting Vice-President Frye for sometime, is now secretary of McDonald, the contractor for the rapid transit tunnel in New York and was last week made the secretary of the company which the contractor has formed. Mr. Evans was once editor of the Daily Advertiser and has kept his newspaper associations throughout as an occasional contributor to New York Journals. Possibly he is influenced in his new departure by the success of G. B. M. Harvey, whose abandonment of newspaper work to become secretary of William C. Whitney, opened the door of fortune to him.

The Daily Press is in receipt of a communication from E. Lanphear, in which complaint is made of the unjust treatment he claims to have received at the hands of the city authorities. He says: "In 1873 the city presented to me an assessment of $62.91 for constructing the New street sewer. It came in an official way and I paid it. The assessment was declared by the courts to be illegal and another assessment was made which was set aside as being illegal. Another assessment was never made, the debt being paid from the city treasury. Now the city has my money but the Council has refused to refund it to me. As I cannot sue the corporation I am without remedy. I have asked the Council to allow me to turn my claim towards paying my city taxes. I have neglected to pay the taxes for 1879-80 on the property where I live (amounting to $20.10), until the city refunds me my money. The city will not allow me to turn my claims and have advertised my property to satisfy the two years of unclaimed taxes. Where is my redress?

"It seems to me that I am left in about the condition of the man who went down to Jerico and fell among thieves. The officers of the city are like the Priest and Levite, who came along and passed on the other side. The pickpocket is not the only thief in the world. I believe the thief who took my pocketbook on the occasion of Mr. Bryan's visit to Plainfield no worse than the city officials who have taken my money and refuse to return it to me."

Mrs. Frank Rowley, who contracted a severe cold last week, has recovered sufficiently as to be able around the house.

CRONJE GIVES UP.

The Gallant Old Boer Gives in to Force of Superior Numbers.

(Special to The Daily Press).

London, February 27.—Gen. Cronje surrendered his army to Field Marshal Lord Roberts at Paardeberg at dawn today. The news was contained in in the following despatch from Lord Roberts.

"Paardeberg, February 27—7:35 a. m.—Gen. Cronje and all of his force capitulated unconditionally at daylight, and is now a prisoner in my camp. The strength of his force will be communicated later. I hope her Majesty's government will consider this event satisfactory, occurring as it does on the anniversary of Majuba."

In the War Office lobbies, when a clerk posted the news of the surrender, quite a crowd was waiting, and the tidings were hailed with enthusiasm, and in an incredibly short space of time the news had spread to all parts of London. At the Mansion House, when the news was posted, it was received with great excitement by the crowds of business men hurrying to their offices, and cries of "Bravo, Roberts!" and "Majuba!" were heard.

The Lord Mayor of London said to the correspondent of the Associated Press that while the surrender of Gen. Cronje had been a foregone conclusion, the news was received with a great sense of relief, and the result of the capitulation, he thought, would be the rapid conclusion of hostilities.

Further details of the surrender are eagerly awaited. The Boer commander's forces are variously estimated at 4,000 to 8,000 men.

WOES OF THE PRETTY WOMAN

She Has Her Troubles the Same as Her Sister of Plainer Features.

The pretty woman has her woes as well as her plainer sister.

"Do you know, I think that plain women have the best of it, after all," remarked a woman who is so undeniably pretty that she can afford to talk despondently about it. "Take the woman in business, for instance. Who would worry about a pretty woman's success? A man admires her for her appearance or else doesn't think about her. His sense of chivalry isn't troubled, because he thinks everyone else will be nice and considerate to a pretty girl. As far as business is concerned he doesn't think about her at all. He considers, on principle, that a pretty woman isn't useful or clever. On the other hand, a very plain woman, who has neither beauty, style nor manner, is apt to rouse his sympathy. She may not want it, of course, but he unconsciously thinks: 'Well, here's a girl with odds against her. I'll give her a chance.' If she proves clever it doesn't come as such a surprise as when the pretty woman proves that she is not entirely devoid of intelligence. Then men distrust the pretty woman and women envy her and she always gets credit for being designing and vain, whether she is or not. All of this does not render her position in life very genial, if she is poor and comparatively alone in the world, and if she adds graces of mind and charm of manner to beauty of face and figure she is not apt to make many well meaning friends."

"Seems to me you are rather bitter this morning," observed the pretty woman's friend. "Which 'spiteful cat' has been criticising you now, I wonder?"

"None. They don't bother me very much. I was just thinking of the trials and woes I have had which are directly traceable to what people call my 'piquante face.' If I were handsome it would be different. I could be majestic and awe-inspiring then, but I am only just ornamental enough to look useless in an office or a schoolroom and not sufficiently dazzling to pose as a professional beauty. I don't care to be a typewriter or go on the stage, and in all other professions good looks seem to be a drawback. I mean it. They may enable one to get positions easily. But do they help one to keep them? I tried teaching small children once. Their mother accused me of flirting with her husband—a short, stout, apoplectic man of 50—because he remarked in her hearing that I was a fine looking girl. Men—the most of men whom my sisters have married—don't marry really pretty girls. They marry plain girls with pretty points, girls whose looks depend a great deal upon the way they dress their hair or put on their clothes. The average man fights shy of a beautiful wife. I shall probably end by marrying an old gentleman who wants an attractive person to preside at his dinner table."

And then she sighed and put on her hat—without looking in the mirror.—Chicago Chronicle.

PARKS HOLD TROPHY.

DEFEATED ROSEVILLE A. A. IN EXCITING WHIST MATCH.

Park Club Won Its Ninth Victory Last Night by a Score 17 to 11—New Jersey Whist Club Next.

The whist team of the Roseville Athletic Association returned home last evening but the State whist trophy is still in the club house of the Park Club. By defeating the Roseville team last evening, the Park Club team tied the Elizabeth Chess and Whist Club in scoring nine victories for the trophy. It takes fifteen to win the cup permanently.

It will be remembered that the Parks captured the trophy at Orange last week and the Rosevilles were the first of the challengers to make a bid for it. The Park Club was represented by the same old four, Peter B. Matthews, Arthur A. Freeman, Albert C. Woltmann and Ralph Willis. Messrs. Downes, Hegeman, Toppin and Hoffman, represented the Roseville A. A.

The fight was hot from the start and the Parks opened in great form. The first round showed the home team well to the front, the score being 8 to 2 in favor of the Parks. The second round was decidedly close, but showed just a trifle in favor of the guests. They won it 6 to 5. Both sides played determinedly in the third and last round, but the skill of the local whisters was superior and they fairly won out in the round, 4 to 3, making a total score of 17 to 11 in favor of the Parks.

The next game will be here next Tuesday evening with the New Jersey Whist Club as the challengers.

PROVED AN ALIBI.

Colored Man Serving Sentence in Jail When Coat He Was Wearing Was Stolen.

The tailor shop of Randolph Dunham on Fourth street was broken into about a month ago and an overcoat stolen. Mr. Dunham recently saw Watson Randolph, a young Negro, wearing the coat. This morning Sergeant Kiely and Roundsman Frederickson went in search of Watson with a view of arresting him. To the surprise of the officers the accused established a complete alibi by proving that at the time the tailor shop was burglarized he was serving a sentence in the county jail at Elizabeth. He explained his possession of the coat by stating that his mother had found the garment hanging on the picket fence in front of their residence several days after the burglary. When Watson returned from his enforced visit to Elizabeth his mother suggested to Watson that he had better wear the coat as his old one was becoming shabby. Mr. Dunham said he did not care to take further action and the case was dropped. Mr. Dunham told the police he cared more for the depredations the burglars committed in his shop than he did for the loss of the coat.

NEAR THE ZERO POINT.

Thermometers of Weather Observer Neagle Registered Two Degrees Above This Morning.

Though the mercury hovered about the zero point last night, this was not the coldest morning of the season. Weather Observer Neagle is authority for the statement that his official theremometer registered but two above zero this morning, while on the 2d of this month the mercury dropped to one degree above zero. However, one degree does not make any preceptable difference to the average mortal who had to be about early. Notwithstanding Mr. Neagle's well known reputation for reading the thermometer accurately, there are a number of people who will solemnly affirm that their thermometers registered exactly zero while occasionally a man of known truth and veracity was to be found who maintained that the mercury even went below the cipher point.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1900. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

THE LENTEN SEASON COMMENCES TODAY.

Services Will Be Held In Roman Catholic and Episcopal Churches.

ANNUAL FAST OF 40 DAYS

SOCIETY WILL BE INACTIVE DURING LENTEN SEASON.

Fast is Carefully Observed in Roman Catholic and Episcopal Churches and Recognized By Other Denominations.

Today is Ash Wednesday and Lent begins. Society enters on a period of inactivity that does not end until after Easter, which this year falls on April 15th. Meanwhile, the Lenten season is carefully observed by the Roman Catholic, the Protestant Episcopal and the Lutheran churches, while almost all of the other denominations recognize it to a greater or less extent.

Lent is an annual forty days' fast that was inaugurated by the early Christians. It begins with Ash Wednesday and ends with Good Friday and Easter Sunday. The day on which it begins is fixed by the phases of the moon.

In Plainfield, as in the other cities of this country, it is particularly observed by the Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches. During the period it is customary to give up all social gaities. In the Catholic church the fast is also observed. Meat is only to be eaten at one meal a day except on Wednesday's and Friday's when it is given up entirely. The second and last Saturday's of Lent are also observed as special fast days.

It has been the habit of many attendants of the Episcopal and other churches to observe the fast by giving up some favorite delicacy during that period or make some other sacrifice to the personal convenience or enjoyment.

Services will be held here every day during Lent at the St. Mary's R. C. church. On week days there will be a Lenten service every morning at 8 o'clock, with vespers every Wednesday and Friday evenings at 8 o'clock. The usual services will be held Sundays.

At the Grace P. E. church, five services are to be held today. Holy Communion was at 7:30 and 10 o'clock this morning, and morning prayer and sermon by the rector, Rev. E. M. Rodman at 10 o'clock. At 4 o'clock this afternoon and 8 o'clock this evening short services will be held.

During Lent services will be held in that church daily. On Sundays there will be the regular services. Mondays, Tuesdays and Saturdays services will be held at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Wednesdays and Fridays the service will be at 11 o'clock in the morning and Thursdays at 8 o'clock in the evening.

PATROLMAN FINED $5.

Police Board Punish Officer McCarthy for Intoxication—Laugh at Editor Runyon.

The police board of this city was in session last evening. Patrolman McCarty was brought before the board on the charge of intoxication and fined $5, which is the limit of the power of the board. A more severe punishment would necessitate a trial before the Council. He was warned that a second offense would be treated severely.

The board discussed various other subjects and laughed at the idea of Editor Runyon that Plainfield was never so "wide open" as it is today. Circumstances, they said, did not bear out the statement.

Chaplain Johnson Unable to Come.

It was expected that Chaplain Johnson, of the New York fire department, would deliver an address tomorrow evening at Grace P. E. church to the Plainfield firemen, but Dr. Rodman received a telegram yesterday from the chaplain in which he states that his wife is quite ill, and the physician has advised a trip abroad. As he and his wife will have to leave within a few days Chaplain Johnson will be unable to come to this city. Dr. Rodman announces, however, that Rev. Archdeacon Weeks, of Long Island, will take his place and the firemen will be welcome just the same.

Death of Mrs. Roberson.

Rev. E. E. Jackson, of Liberty street, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, received a telegram last evening from Frank Roberson, of Hartford, Conn., asking him to come to the latter place today and attend the funeral of his wife, Mrs. Eliza Roberson, who died a few days ago. She was formerly a member of Mr. Jackson's church.

NOT OPPOSED TO CITY HALL.

Councilmen Mellick and vanHerwerden Do Not Want Front Street Site Selected.

The statement was made in The Daily Press a week ago, and was through a misunderstanding allowed to go uncorrected until now, to the effect that there were four of the members of the Common Council who were opposed to the building of a City Hall at present. The four Councilmen were not opposed to a City Hall but only to the site then referred to, the Gardner property. It is understood that one of the four Councilmen is opposed to a City Hall on any site for the present. Councilmen vanHerwerden and Mellick state that they favor a City Hall but not on a Front street property. They think that the site on Park avenue and Fifth street is better fitted to the demands than the others.

SITE FOR NEW HOSPITAL

COMMUNITY SICK ROOM TO HAVE A NEW LOCATION.

Board of Governors Have so Decided—Option Secured on Available Property.

In addition to Plainfield having a new High School and a City Hall she will also have a new hospital before long. This is practically an assured fact, despite the rumors that little is being done from time to time. The board of governers of the hospital are now unanimously agreed that the hospital shall be established somewhere besides its present location. This will be welcome news to many Plainfielders who are interested in the matter.

As regards the new site, an option has been secured on it after a great deal of trouble. It is one of the finest locations to be found in Plainfield and when it becomes generally known where it is, it is believed that the people of the city will be much pleased. It is not near the centre of the town, but is comparatively easy of access and can be reached within a short time from most any point. The great advantage in this site is that it is in a quiet place and the noise of cars will not interfere with the comfort of patients. The surroundings are delightful and when the necessary buildings are erected an attractive site will be presented.

When the land is purchased and becomes the property of the board of governors then the location will be made known, and it is expected that the purchase will be made witnin a short time.

CRANFORD CHURCH FIGHT.

Lien on Building Splits the Congregation—$2,000 for a New Society.

The Methodist churchgoing people of Cranford, are in a ferment over the split in the church caused, it is said, because the owner, Robert E. Ham, who is a devout member and holds a lien on the structure, refuses to sell the church to the congregation unless they pay $2,000 cash. He refuses, it is said, to take a mortgage.

Sunday the congregation held a religious and business session, and it was announced by the pastor that there were forty more recruits offered to the membership of the church and $2,000 subscribed if the members would agree to build a church in the south side of the town. The announcement was received with much enthusiasm and it was decided to move and build the church.

Fourteen of the members decided to stick to Ham and will worship with him at the old church. Rev. Mr. Thompson will continue to preach in the old church until his year is up, by which time the new place of worship will have been erected.

TO EXAMINE WAR RELICS.

Fear That Some of Them May Be Filled With Death Dealing Loads.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held a regular meeting last evening, when a committee was appointed to examine the number of shells that are in the post room as relics. The veterans realize that in case a fire should break out in the building and the shells are loaded there would be serious results, hence this action for the purpose of ascertaining whether the shells are loaded. These shells came from various battlefields, and heretofore no one has ever raised the question as to their being loaded.

BURLESQUE ON "SAPHO"

GIVEN AT ANNIVERSARY AFFAIR OF CHOSEN FRIENDS.

Presented by Two Elizabeth Young Men Who Entertained in a Clever Manner.

The members of Plainfield Council, No. 44, Chosen Friends, celebrated their fifth anniversary last evening in their rooms in the Babcock building. There was a large number of members and friends present. W. D. Williams presided and in his jovial manner kept everyone in the best of humor. Miss Ida Tallamy rendered a piano solo, which was followed with phonographic selections. Then Supreme Representative Westervelt, of Dover, was introduced and he gave a short talk concerning the objects and purpose of the order.

The hit of the evening was made by Messrs. Chartrand and Morgan, of Elizabeth, who, under the direction of Joseph McManus, Jr., of the same place, gave a burlesque on "Sapho." Mr. Chartrand took the part of "Sapho," and Mr. Morgan played the part of "Jean." The sketch from the play included that part where the two make love to each other and where "Jean" carries "Sapho" up stairs. Owing to the limited amount of room the latter scene was omitted. The young men introduced a number of new songs and jokes which kept the audience roaring with laughter. They also gave some clever impersonations.

After a few more selections on the phonograph all were invited to adjourn to the banquet room, where refreshments were served under the direction of the committee in charge.

The above is one of the most prosperous in the city. It was organized five years ago with a small membership, and today it has fifty members. The total membership in this country is about 22,000, and the local council is receiving new members constantly.

SUBURBAN CLUB BURNED.

Old Historic Landmark in Union County Passes Away After Eventful History.

The Suburban Clubhouse, near Elizabeth, one of the oldest landmarks in Union county, was destroyed by an incendiary at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. The building was erected in 1716, and was used for many years by the maternal great-grandfather of Chief Justice William J. Magie, of New Jersey's Supreme Court. It afterward passed into the hands of the Linn family, who seven years ago sold it to a manufacturing company in Elizabeth.

There was no one in the clubhouse when the fire started, the Negro steward, John Jones, and his wife being away at a party. The flames spread with great rapidity, there being no fire apparatus to fight them. The steward says no fires were burning in the house when he left it.

CHANGED FAITHS AND PULPITS.

Curious Coincidence in Cases of Clergymen of Pottstown and Rahway.

Rev. C. L. Cooder, of Pottstown, Pa., has accepted the call to the parish of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rahway, and will fill the pulpit early in March. Rev. R. P. Cobb, whom he will succeed, will go to the Episcopal church of Troy, N. Y. A singular coincidence of the lives of the two dominies is that Rev. Mr. Cooder before he assumed the pastorate of the Pottstown church was a Presbyterian minister, while Mr. Cobb was a Presbyterian before he went to Rahway to take charge of St. Paul's church. Why the two clergymen changed their faith is not known.

A course of Lenten talks will be given by Miss Dorothy Wilberforce Lyon, Ph. D., (B. M.,) in All Souls' Unitarian church on six successive Monday mornings beginning March 5th, from 11 to 12 o'clock. Further information regarding the lecture can be obtained from Miss Mary H. Miller, 309 LaGrande avenue.

CITY HALL MEASURE PASSED BY ASSEMBLY

No Opposition to the Enabling Act in the Lower House of Legislature.

5 PER CENT. BILL OPPOSED.

ASSEMBLYMAN COOPER'S MEASURE DOOMED TO DEFEAT.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall Argues for the Passage of New School Bill—An Ocean Boulevard Proposed.

(Special to The Daily Press).

Trenton, February 28—The only bill of especial interest to Plainfield with which the Legislature has to deal at this session was favorably acted upon yesterday afternoon by the House of Assembly. It is the measure enabling Plainfield's Common Council to bond the city to the extent of $100,000 for the establishment of a City Hall building. It was passed without a dissenting vote. It will now go to the Senate and undoubtedly be passed there, and then to Gov. Voorhees for approval.

The House Judiciary Committee gave a hearing yesterday on the five per cent. interest bill, introduced by Assemblyman Cooper, of Somerset. No one appeared to argue in favor of its passage, but there was much opposition to it.

D. D. Denise, president of the New Jersey Agricultural Society, denied that the farmers wanted the bill. Money could not be loaned profitably, they say, if the legal rate of interest is reduced, considering that the tax upon money amounts to 2 per cent.

Ex-Secretary of State Kelsey, General J. W. Plume and J. B. Dill were among the speakers against the bill. Several representatives of small banks said the passage of the bill would close them up.

Other speakers said that New Jersey would lose money to New York and Pennsylvania, if the rate became 5 per cent. because in those States it was 6. The committee will report the bill in a day or two. It is not thought that it will pass.

The Senate Committee on Education gave a hearing yesterday afternoon on the general school introduced by Senator Stokes. After hearing arguments for and against the bill announcement was made that a further hearing would be given next Tuesday.

Mrs. Williamson, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, said that on behalf of eight thousand women of New Jersey she had come to indorse the bill, which the Federation believed was the best measure ever considered by the Legislature. Many features of the bill, she said, were worthy of unqualified indorsement, and especially the kindergarten provisions, transportation of children to schools in sparsely settled districts, the doing away with the ward system and the choosing of school boards by elections at large.

Mrs. David P. Hall, of Plainfield, a representative of the Federation, also spoke for the bill.

Senator Francis introduced a bill authorizing the construction of a boulevard along the ocean front between Sea Bright and Sea Girt, under the State Road law. The bill will be opposed by Ocean Grove authorities, as it provides for going through that place, which is maintained as a private corporation and keeps its gates closed Sunday.

The Senate confirmed the nominations of Stephen J. Meeker and Robert S. Green, who were reappointed as members of the State Board of Assessors.

Evenings With Thackeray.

"Five Evenings with Thackeray," will be a pleasing diversion during Lent at All Souls' Unitarian church. The meetings will begin at 8:15 o'clock. The programme is as follows: March 13th, "Vanity Fair," A. H. Atterbury; March 20th, "Pendennis," E. B. Smith; March 27th, "The Newcomes," Rev. A. C. Nickerson; April 3d, "The Four Georges," J. R. Joy; April 10th, "The Virginians," Alexander Gilbert. Each book will be introduced by a paper, after which a general discussion will follow.

Lovers of the Birds.

The Audubon Society of the State of New Jersey will hold their annual public meeting at the Crescent Avenue church chapel Thursday afternoon, March 8th, at 4 o'clock. A business meeting for members will be held at 3:30 o'clock, and at 4 o'clock William Dutcher will give a talk on birds, illustrated by views with the stereopticon.

SIX STAND TOGETHER.

MAJORITY OF COUNCIL FAVOR MACDONALD PROPERTY FOR CITY HALL.

Four Want Building Located at Park Avenue and Fifth Street—One is Non-Committal.

Since the present administration has been considering the question of a City Hall for this city there have been many perplexing problems to confront the members of the Council. There are six members who stand together practically pledged to purchase a certain site for the City Hall, and four other members are dead against the scheme, while the eleventh man is an unknown quantity in the fight. For this reason City Hall matters have not progressed as rapidly as one might hope.

The piece of property that the "Big 6" stand pledged to buy is located on East Front street and is known as the Thomas MacDonald property. It is here that they want the City Hall, and if they so decide the other five members of the Council cannot prevent the purchase of the land. It is in the hope that some of the other members may join the majority and thus make it more unanimous that the matter has been "hanging fire" for some time. It is understood that the "Little 4" want the municipal building on Park avenue, corner of Fifth street, as they think that is the most central location, and they are persistent about it. They do not feel disposed to give up their ideas, even though the majority do rule.

Just as soon as the law giving the Council the authority to go ahead is passed it is believed that the property on East Front street will be purchased.

STORK VISITS HOSPITAL.

Little Baby Girl Makes Her Debut to the World in Community Sick Room.

Those in charge at Muhlenberg Hospital were given quite a surprise early this morning when a bright little girl made her appearance to change the dull and monotonous routine of events. Mrs. Sarah Fegan is the mother of the little one. She formerly resided in Brooklyn, where her husband died about two months ago. Since that time Mrs. Fegan has been living at Raritan, where she was employed. Early this morning she left Raritan for Brooklyn, where she expects to reside. When the train reached this city Mrs. Fegan's condition was such that she had to be taken from the train to the hospital. It was about 7 o'clock when she arrived there and an hour later the little one was born. Both mother and daughter are doing very well. In the course of a short time they will go to Brooklyn to take up their residence there.

PROGRESSIVE HEARTS.

Pleasant Card Party Given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rushmore to Seventy-five Friends.

One of the delightful social functions of the season in Plainfield society was the "Progressive Hearts" party given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rushmore, at their handsome home on West Eighth street. There were about seventy-five people present.

The decorations in the parlors were very handsome and quite elaborate, consisting principally of palms and smilax. Prof. P. Ludwig Conde supplied the music. The first ladies' prize was won by Mrs. Fred Yates, while Mrs. W. A. Pinto was a close second. E. H. Ladd captured the first prize for the gentlemen and F. O. Herring the second. The affair proved to be one of the many pleasant social gatherings, and Mrs. Rushmore sustained her excellent reputation as the ideal hostess.

Supper at Oak Tree.

The residence of Martin Giles at Oak Tree contained a merry gathering of young people last night. The affair was a supper given under the auspices of the Marconnier chapel, of that place. Plainfield sent a delegation of thirteen from Trinity Reformed church, who had the pleasure of a delightful ride in one of Hand's stages. The supper served was one of the old-fashioned kind and was thoroughly enjoyed. The evening at the farmhouse was one that will not soon be forgotten.

A QUIET WEDDING.

Miss Lizzie G. Maltby Becomes the Wife of Harry L. McIntosh.

Yesterday at noon a quiet, but pretty, wedding took place at the home of Erastus C. Maltby, Grant avenue, near Sherman avenue, when his daughter, Miss Lizzie Maltby, was united in marriage to Harry L. McIntosh, of 451 West Seventh street. Both are well-known in this city and their many friends will join in congratulating them. Mr. McIntosh is engaged in business in New York and commutes. His wife is a most estimable woman, and both have a host of friends.

The ceremony was witnessed by only the immediate relatives and was performed by Rev. Dr. Rodman, rector of Grace P. E. church. Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh will reside in this city.

UNITED CHRISTIAN WORK

THAT IS THE AIM OF THE FEDERATION OF CHURCHES.

The Plans to be Explained Under Auspices of the Ministers' Association Tomorrow Evening.

The object of the federation of churches is the writing of Christian workers in efforts to improve the material, social, economic, civic and spiritual interests of the family life, and through inter-denominational conference and co-operation to meet existing religious and moral needs. The founding or the strengthening of churches; the opening of public baths, libraries, and the park; the location of a successful industrial settlement; the bringing of hundreds of families before unknown into churches of their choice; the gathering of information most helpful to pastors—these are some of the results of federated church work in New York city.

Tomorrow evening Rev. Walter Laidlaw, Ph. D., the executive secretary of that movement, is to speak in the Crescent Avenue chapel, under the auspices of the Plainfield Ministers' Association, and a large attendance of Christian workers of all denominations is hoped for.

A New York pastor says that the systematic methods of federated church work have given him a knowledge of the religious condition of his neighborhood that for twenty-five years he had not been able to acquire.

If the entire city of Plainfield was divided into inter-denominational parishes; every home visited at least once a year by some Christian worker; and the information gained turned over to the proper pastor, church, or benevolent organization, who does not believe that great good would come from it?

A MISSIONARY TEA.

Given by First Methodist Church Workers at the Home of Miss Anna Smalley.

A missionary tea was given last evening under the the auspices of the members of the Sunday-school classes at the First M. E. church that are taught by Miss Anna Smalley and Miss Susie Jackson. The affair was held at the home of Miss Smalley, on Manning avenue, and was given for the purpose of raising money for foreign and home missionary work which is carried on by the Sunday-school of this church.

During the evening a pleasing programme was presented including a vocal duet by Miss Mabel Templin and Miss Eva Jenkins, and another one by Miss Templin and Miss Weston. W. J. Romain gave a piano solo and also recited "At the Opera." The programme closed with a very interesting dialogue "Getting Ready," in which Miss Mabel Jenkins, Miss Cora Harris, Miss Mabel Vail, Miss Eva Jenkins and Mr. Laing took the various parts.

BIG FIRE LOSS IN BANGOR.

Flour Mill and Shirt Factory the Buildings Burned.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 28—Because sparks flew from an overheated belt, the large flour mill belonging to Milton Flarrey and a shirt factory belonging to Salent Horwitz & Co., of New York, were burned in Bangor yesterday.

Flarrey's loss is estimated at $16,000, while Horwitz & Co.'s loss is $12,000, partly covered by insurance.

Her Seventy-sixth Year.

Mrs. Susan Adams, of Duer street, was surprised last night by a number of her friends. It was the old lady's 76th birthday and her friends from this city and Westfield, to the number of about 30, were present to extend hearty congratulations. Mrs. Adams received a number of useful gifts, including a solid silver spoon. The evening was made pleasant by light refreshments and household games.

WRETCHED SERVICE OF LOCAL TROLLEYS.

Frequent Trouble at the Fourth Street Switch Upsets the Regular Schedule.

IT HAPPENS ALMOST DAILY.

PASSENGERS LEAVE THE WAITING CARS AND WALK HOME.

General Dissatisfaction Over Service of the Plainfield Street Railway—Yesterday's Experiences No Unusual Thing.

There was the usual interruption of traffic on the lines of the Plainfield Street Railway Company yesterday noon, caused by the derailing of a car at the switch at Watchung avenue and Fourth streets. Just at the hour when business men wanted rapid transportation to their homes for lunch, the schedule was completely disarranged and it was some time before the cars were running again in proper order.

As the motormen and conductors labored hard to get the car back on the track a little crowd of passengers and passersby gathered on the sidewalk and passed various comments regarding the interruption of travel.

"It's a wonder to me," exclaimed one well-known business man, "that the people of Plainfield allow this wretched condition of affairs on the trolley line to continue without a strong objection. There isn't a day passes but that this same thing is repeated, some times several times during the day. I have gotten so that I make no attempt to catch a car. I can make better time afoot."

Another speaker called attention to the fact that now winter had come and the cars might really be a convenience to the people, the schedule was cut down and they were run on longer intervals and at a slower rate.

There is evidently something the trouble with that switch at the corner of Watchung avenue and Fourth street. Repairs have recently been made but the trouble does not seem to be overcome. Hardly a day passes but a car is derailed at that point and a general mix-up invarably results. Sometimes these little incidents happen more than once a day. They all tend to reduce the effectiveness of the service.

It would seem that so many accidents of that kind would see the street railroad company prepared with some effective apparatus for getting the cars on the track again rapidly. Yesterday it was nearly three quarters of an hour before the trouble was remedied and two other cars were caught on the track from Netherwood. After fifteen minutes delay, the Fourth street line resumed its runs. It was just at the hour when the men were hurrying to and from their homes for lunch while the school children were also bound homeward on the same errand. Some of the passengers in the cars waited for a time and then started to walk to their various destinations.

SIR KNIGHTS DANCED.

Pleasant Social Affair Arranged by Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias.

A social dance of more than passing interest was that of last evening in the Plainfield Camera Club rooms, given under the auspices of Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P. The members, their families and friends gathered to the number of about seventy-five and thoroughly enjoyed an evening of dancing. Music for the occasion was furnished by Rogers. The floor and reception committee consisted of all the Sir Knights present, while Sir Night Wm. Clifton was the floor manager. He was assisted by Sir Knights Jacob Blimm, Jr., and S. J. Higham.

The affair continued until 3 o'clock this morning and everyone agreed it was one of the most pleasant affairs of the season. During the evening a collation was served which all enjoyed.

Results of Contests at a Fair

The fair held last week by Friendship Degree Lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, and which closed Saturday evening, was very successful. Several contests have been decided by the committee in charge. Mrs. Jacob Kettenring secured the chair, and Mrs. Peter A. VanFleet the lamp. The set of dishes went to Mrs. Fred Welch. Mrs. McKane won the handsome Odd Fellow quilt and Miss Lizzie Dunlap secured the sofa pillow. The other contests will be determined later.

VICTORY BRINGS JOY.

Surrender of Cronje's Army Hailed With Delight.

ROBERTS CAPTURES 3,000 BOERS.

Surrender Occurs on Anniversary of Majuba—Buller Seems to Be Having a Slow Time In His Attempt to Relieve Ladysmith.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—From John O'Groat's to Land's End there has been cheering today for the queen and a universal singing of the national anthem. This, with mutual congratulations, is the Briton's way of celebrating the most cheerful day of the war.

Already he is taking stock of the situation and measuring the future. There is no disposition to overestimate the success. The government entertains no illusion. As announced in the house of commons, 10,000 additional troops will immediately go out, and the effective will be kept near 230,000.

Lord Roberts has done more than to capture 4,000 Boers and a few guns. He is within striking distance of one of the Boer capitals and is master of a large district of the Free State. He has given a shock to Boer confidence and immeasurably restored the spirit of his own troops. In capturing Cronje he has taken a leader whose presence alone was worth thousands to the Boer cause.

The best opinion here is that the Transvaalers are certain to continue the fight with undiminished valor, but it is not so certain about the Free Staters.

Mr. Spenser Wilkinson, reviewing the military situation in the light of General Cronje's capitulation, says this morning:

"On a moderate estimate one-tenth of the Boer army has been taken out of account by the capture of Cronje. The battle of Paardeberg is a miniature Sedan.

"Tomorrow the whole of Lord Roberts' army, say 45,000 men, will be ready for a fresh advance, if indeed the start be not made today. The objective must be the next Boer army of importance, which is in Natal.

The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts dated Paardeberg, Feb. 27, 7:45 a. m.:

"General Cronje with all of his force capitulated unconditionally at daylight and is now a prisoner in my camp. The strength of his force will be communicated later. I hope that her majesty's government will consider this event satisfactory, occurring, as it does, on the anniversary of Majuba."

The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts dated Paardeberg, Feb. 27, 11 a. m.:

"From information furnished me daily by the intelligence department it became apparent that General Cronje's force was becoming more depressed and that the discontent of the troops and the discord among the leaders were rapidly increasing. This feeling was doubtless accentuated by the disappointment caused when the Boer re-enforcements which tried to relieve General Cronje were defeated by our troops on Feb. 23. I resolved, therefore, to bring pressure to bear on the enemy. Each night the trenches were pushed forward toward the enemy's laager, so as to gradually contract his position, and at the same time I bombarded it heavily with artillery, which was yesterday materially aided by the arrival of four 6 inch howitzers which I had ordered up from De Aar.

"In carrying out these measures a captive balloon gave great assistance by keeping us informed of the dispositions and movements of the enemy. At 3 a. m. today a most dashing advance was made by the Canadian regiment and some engineers, supported by the First Gordon highlanders and Second Shropshires, resulting in our gaining a point some 600 yards nearer the enemy and within about 80 yards of his trenches, where our men intrenched themselves and maintained their positions till morning, a gallant deed, worthy of our colonial comrades and which, I am glad to say, was attended by comparatively slight loss.

"This apparently clinched matters, for at daylight today a letter, signed by General Cronje, in which he stated that he surrendered unconditionally, was brought to our outposts under a flag of truce.

"In my reply I told General Cronje he must present himself at my camp and that his force must come out of their laager after laying down their arms. By 7 a. m. I received General Cronje and dispatched a telegram to you announcing the fact. In the course of conversation he asked for kind treatment at our hands and also that his wife, grandson, private secretary, adjutant and servants might accompany him wherever he might be sent. I reassured him and told him his request would be complied with. I informed him that a general officer would be sent with him to Cape Town to insure his being treated with proper respect en route. He will start this afternoon under charge of Major General Prettyman, who will hand him over to the general commanding at Cape Town.

"The prisoners, who number about 8,000, will be formed into commandos under our own officers. They will also leave here today, reaching the Modder river tomorrow, when they will be railed to Cape Town in detachments."

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Pietermaritzburg, dated Monday, describes at considerable length the "enormous difficulties of General Buller's task" and says:

"The real advance began last Wednesday. The stupendous nature of the task was only understood when, being on the spot, one was able to realize what it means to hurl infantry at positions aligned in every direction with carefully prepared trenches and with breastworks defended by practically invisible riflemen armed with the most deadly rapid firing weapons and aided by quick firing guns which put all but our cannon of the largest caliber into the shade."

The Daily Mail has the following from Ladysmith, dated Saturday, Feb. 24:

"Yesterday the Boer retreat continued. A party of about 70, en route for the north, drew rein near Limit hill. A battery of 15 pounders placed not far off suddenly opened fire and practically annihilated the party. A Boer ambulance was later on seen collecting the dead and wounded.

"The Boers are trying to form a bridge or drift across Klip river south of Umbulwana, evidently for the purpose of permitting the passage of wagons and artillery in their retirement from Colenso. Our guns are preventing this work being carried on."

Commenting upon Friday's fighting, The Daily Mail's correspondent says:

"As it would have been madness to seek an outlet from the amphitheater of hills by way of Grobler's kloof, on the left, a route had to be found on the right and at 2 p. m. on Friday, amid the incessant crackling of rifle fire and the roar of cannon, the Irish brigade was dispatched along the river to take Railway hill, on the other side of Pieter's Station.

"This hill is commanding enough to insure our final advance, provided we could hold it securely and could mount cannon on it. From Onderbrook spruit railway bridge the track runs along the Tugela, and it was perilously open to the Boer marksmen disposed on the kopjes back from the river, and after passing Pieter's Station many men would be bound to be hit.

"Beyond the station the line passes over another small bridge crossing a deep donga, and it was in the approach to this bridge and onward to the base of Railway hill that the greatest danger from enforced exposure obtained. It was necessary to cross by the bridge at the mouth of the donga, which, besides being difficult of access, ran into the Tugela. The path between the railway and the river was almost always in full view of the enemy.

"Every man of the Irish brigade had therefore to run the gantlet of Boer marksmen, and numbers dropped on the bridge, where the Boer bullets fell dangerously thick, until the bridge was sandbagged and only one man allowed on it at a time.

"Very soon 50 men were put out of action in the race from the bridge to the rendezvous, and several members of the volunteer ambulance corps were wounded in following the troops."

The End Not Yet.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 28.—The evening papers generally express the opinion that General Cronje's capitulation does not mean the end of the war. The Algemeen Handelsblad says: "It is a long way between Lord Roberts and Pretoria. If he is finally victorious, a more dangerous guerrilla warfare will begin, and the Boers will smite the British everywhere. The Cape Dutch will form a permanent danger to South Africa."

The Telegraf says: "The Boers, embittered, will continue the war with greater fury. Will Europe any longer stifle the voice of conscience?"

The Surrender In Rome.

ROME, Feb. 28.—The capitulation of General Cronje has produced a painful impression in Rome. The newspapers are unanimous in expressing their admiration for the Boer commander and his troops. The Tribuna says, "The capitulation is undoubtedly important, but it does not conclude the war." The Sanfulla says, "General Cronje attained the object he desired—namely, to enable a great part of General Joubert's army to reach Bloemfontein."

Germans Disappointed.

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—The German newspapers are disappointed at the surrender of General Cronje. They admit that Lord Roberts has shown real military ability and dash and that the Boers have lost in Cronje their most skillful leader.

That Island Purchase.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—If Prince Poniatowski or any individual has secured possession of Basilan island in the Philippine group, as reported in a press dispatch, the acquisition was made in a purely personal capacity and of course does not affect in any way the sovereignty of the United States now existing over the island. It is said at the state department that no concessions have been granted to any one in the Philippines, so that if there has been a change of ownership as to Basilan island the purchaser stands merely in the capacity of a private land owner.

A Maryland Murder.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Feb. 28.—Owen Edwards, aged 24 years, recently of Scranton, Pa., was murdered at Borden Shaft, this county, yesterday. It is alleged that Edwards and Richard Wade were rivals in a love affair and that Wade escorted the girl, Miss Rosa Crowe, home after a hop and that Edwards followed the couple and tried to get into the house, when Wade first fired a pistol to frighten his rival and then aimed a Winchester rifle at the fleeing man. Edwards was left to lie in the road all night and died there. Wade was arrested.

Smallpox Scare In Detroit.

DETROIT, Feb. 28.—Nine students of the Detroit College of Medicine and a helper are detained in the smallpox hospital. They all worked over the body of a man who died of what was believed to be blood poisoning. Now it turns out to have been smallpox. The first case reported outside of Detroit is from Williamston, Mich., where Lorenzo Zimmer, a medical student, lives. The entire town has been exposed, as Zimmer visited all his friends after he returned from the dissecting room.

Washington's Headquarters Burned.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—An old two story frame house on Macomb's Dam lane, which was once part of the Jumel estate, was yesterday destroyed by fire. The loss was small. The principal interest in the fire is the fact that the building was at various times during the Revolutionary period the headquarters of George Washington. During the old days it was owned by Thomas Tone, and it remained in the possession of the Tone family for many years.

Three Men Killed.

MARIETTA, O., Feb. 28.—Three men were killed in the oilfields near this city yesterday by explosions of nitroglycerin. Harvey Benedict and Chester Campbell of Williamstown were blown to atoms while preparing to shoot a well. A few minutes later, near the scene of the first accident, a load of nitroglycerin exploded, annihilating Samuel Fleming, his team and wagon and shaking the country for miles around.

Defaulting Treasurer Caught.

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 28.—Word has been received here that Charles Ingersoll, the defaulting treasurer of Tompkins county, had been arrested in Iola, Kan. Ingersoll admitted his identity and surrendered $250 to the sheriff who arrested him. He was contemplating going to Peru. In addition to the shortage in the accounts of the county Ingersoll owed several thousand dollars in private debts.

Death at a Fire.

CLARION, Pa., Feb. 28.—Fire destroyed the business section of Clarion today and resulted in the death of ex-Judge W. W. Barr, who dropped dead from excitement. Fourteen business houses were destroyed. The loss will amount to $150,000.

BRIDGE WORK
In Dentistry is the best substitute for nature's work that can be done. Sound roots may be built up and crowned and thus fill up an unsightly space. It has to be made of a material that has strength and durability and one that will not discolor. Gold is the one that stands the test. That is the secret of the expense. But the advantages of a bridge over a plate are many times more than the cost of one compared to that of the other.

BICYCLES and MOTORS

THIS YEAR'S BICYCLES.

Commendable Features Noticed in the Exhibits at the Recent New York Show.

Some of the striking features in the new styles of wheels that will be on the streets and roads with the opening of the coming cycle season are thus noted by the Sun in telling of the annual cycle exhibition at Madison square, New York:

One thing that the show seems to demonstrate is that the low crank hanger craze and the short head fad have reached their limit, and are beginning to react. There is, in fact, a commendable absence of the faddism that confused seekers after the truly best by introducing features of no proven value simply for the sake of exciting interest. There are no specimens of "curleycue" tubing and a lack of the "hexagonal," "spiral" and "ovoid" oddities in this line which have made big pretensions at previous exhibitions. There is something of what might be called freakishness in enameling, such as the idea of giving the headpost and the diagonal strut one color and another color to the rest of the wheel, but this, when it is done, has been handled in a way that finds favor in many eyes. There are no wheels striped like barber poles, however. The striping idea has been transferred to the rims, which in many cases have been made to look handsome by thin stripes in the middle and along the outer edges. Options in color are given by practically all the makers, but the array of wheels is free from a considerable of the gaudiness that has been seen. The long cranks and the moderately high gears prevail, but the inclination toward overdoing these features seems to have been checked. The general length of the crank on the "stock models" of road wheels is seven inches, with options on smaller ones. It is noteworthy, though, that a parts maker who supplies many makers catalogues 7½ and 8-inch cranks as regular stock, so that the experimental riders who wish to follow the fad that was started in England can be supplied.

The changed conditions of manufacture that have tended toward making wheels look alike and yet have been truly improving quality are noticeable in the number of concerns that are using such parts as cranks and sprockets made by the same specialists in these branches. The progress of the parts makers is well emphasized. The fact that factories in which all resources are devoted to making a few things with special machinery can often produce a better and cheaper article than a factory that makes only one for its own wheels has apparently been impressed upon many makers of the highest reputation. In respect to hubs and spokes and the fastenings of the latter, there is much that is original and distinctive. One bright idea is found in the wheel of a western maker, who obviates the necessity of removing the sprocket from the rear hub in order to put in a new spoke by making the hub flange on the sprocket side with buttonhole slots, so that the spokes can be hitched in and drawn up taut easily.

VERY LATEST TIRE.

It Differs Widely from Those Now in Use Both in Construction and Materials Used.

The newest and most radical departure in improvements connected with bicycles and automobiles is a tire constructed of rubber disks 3-16 inch thick and 7-16 inch apart, held in place by three ribs at the tread and securely vulcanized to the case. The 3-8 inch hole at the bottom of the disks near the rim receive the weights, giving the necessary spring and taking the spread of the tire away from the tread, giving only ½-inch to ⅝-inch running surface at the tread. This tire is made in all sizes, and carries all weights by adjusting itself instantly by using only the number of disks necessary to carry the weight. Using the best quality of rubber, and only a single piece of fabric, this tire must have all the life and resiliency possible to obtain from rubber. Having no valve, there is no use for pumps and tools to repair. The tire needs no attention, and is as durable as any other part of a bicycle.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The Latest Cycling Disease.

Bicycling-knee is the latest cycling disease to which doctors are turning their attention. According to the medical papers, a number are afflicted. It is a pain something like gout, that affects the leg just above the knee and comes on gradually. It is usually felt after a ride is finished. The cause is, naturally, excessive cycling, probably by people who have not taken to the pastime till they were well on in years and have muscles fairly set. One of the most distressing things is to see small boys and girls struggling along on bicycles that are much too large for them. Their muscles are overstrained—the youngsters, prizing themselves in their powers, think nothing of exerting themselves much beyond their physical strength. Indeed, even with a bicycle of proper size, children should be allowed to ride only occasionally, for wheeling undoubtedly gives great exercise to one set of muscles and in no way helps the others.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE

Newark, N. J., Has a Disastrous Conflagration.

MANY PERSONS MISSING AND INJURED

Fierce Flames Drove Back the Fire Fighters, and Intense Cold Hindered the Work—Many Business Firms Suffer Loss.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 28.—The most destructive fire in the history of Newark totally destroyed 13 buildings in the heart of the business section of the city last night.

Four firemen were buried under falling walls, and two of them will probably die. One man was fatally burned and others were injured.

The fire was discovered at 6:30 o'clock in the rear of the third floor, and in a few minutes the whole four story structure was on fire. Fifteen minutes later the flames had spread until they covered a frontage on Broad street of more than 200 feet north and south of Cedar street. The entire fire department of the city was called, and the firemen had four hours of the hardest kind of fighting before the flames were under control. The loss, it is believed, will reach $1,000,000. That of W. V. Snyder & Co. was more than $500,000. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it is thought it was started by an electric wire.

Superintendent Shackleton was cut off on the third floor, and he, too, barely escaped. Some one who saw the blaze sent a telephone call to No. 1 chemical engine house by mistake.

This caused a delay of several minutes. The bell alarm was then sounded by Watson Snyder. The first apparatus to reach the fire was No. 1 hook and ladder. When they arrived, Shackleton was preparing to jump from a third story window. The firemen shouted to him to wait, a ladder was raised, and three members of the company scrambled to the rescue. Flames were all around Shackleton and his clothing was afire when the firemen seized and carried him, fighting madly in his excitement, down the ladder. He was terribly burned. He was bundled into an ambulance and taken to St. Michael's hospital. He may die.

Ten minutes after the flames were discovered the fire had leaped across Cedar street and had started in a southerly and westerly direction and had gone northward along Broad street in the opposite direction. Within half an hour the fire was plainly beyond control, and the firemen turned their attention to stopping it beyond the points it had reached. Again and again they took their stand and were as often driven back.

Rome Aids Maine Fund.

ROME, Feb. 28.—The ball given at the Grand hotel last night in aid of the maintenance fund of the hospital ship Maine was a great success. It was organized by a committee including Princess de Brancaccio, Marquise Theodoli, Countess Telorier, Marquise de Talleyrand, Marquise Vita Dannarco and Mesdames Chandler, Leslie, Mortimer and Waldo Story. Among the elite of Rome and the representatives of foreign society who filled the splendidly decorated rooms were Marquise di Rudini, the mayor of Rome and the embassadors of France, Great Britain, the United States, Russia and Turkey. Prince Doria supplied the flowers.

Bank Cashier Arrested.

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., Feb. 28.—Robert E. Spencer, cashier of the bankrupt firm of R. D. & Robert E. Spencer, bankers, was arrested here on a charge alleging forgery and after a preliminary hearing before Judge J. T. Davis was held in $5,000 bonds for appearance before the superior court, which convenes in Hartford Tuesday, March 6. Mr. Spencer, after several futile attempts to secure bail, was taken to the Hartford jail last evening.

Mr. Bryan's Southern Tour.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 28.—W. J. Bryan spoke to an audience of 1,500 people in the representatives' hall yesterday afternoon, dividing his time equally between free silver, trusts and imperialism. His denunciation of the latter was especially severe, the policy of the administration in the Philippines and Porto Rico being compared with that of the government toward the south during the reconstruction period.

Rough at Cape Cod.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Feb. 28.—A northwest gale has been sweeping over Cape Cod for 24 hours, and the temperature is very low. The coast guard experienced a very severe night, their chief trouble coming from the flying sand raised by the gale. A fleet of about 12 vessels, including the tug Lockhart with barges, found safe harbor here. The shores are lined with ice.

Rush to Cape Nome.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Passenger agents of the railroads entering the northwest from Chicago estimate that during the next three months 3,000 persons will be taken from this city to Cape Nome, in the Alaska goldfields. Nearly 200 prospectors have left Chicago during the past two weeks for the new El Dorado, and 75 others will depart within a fortnight.

Barrow Goes to Asylum.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—George B. Barrow, who with his wife kidnaped Baby Clark in Central park, this city, last year, and who was sent to Sing Sing prison for 14 years, has been taken to the asylum for insane criminals at Matteawan, having become insane.

A Gift to Missions.

RICHMOND, Ind., Feb. 28.—By the settlement of the estate of the late Eleanor Scott $10,000 now awaits the demand of the general foreign missionary societies of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches. The money will be divided equally between them.

Picture Slot Machines Doomed.

ALBANY, Feb. 28.—After a brief hearing on the Wagner bill for the prevention of picture slot machines the committee on codes of the assembly agreed to report it favorably. It has already passed the senate.

Girl Accidentally Shot.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Feb. 28.—At Ridgebury, Pa., last night, while playing with a gun, 12-year-old Loretta Chambers was accidentally shot and killed by her brother, Bernard, aged 14.

SAME AS FREE TRADE

Porto Rican Bill Provides Relief Much Needed.

INSULAR USE OF ALL REVENUES.

This Fact Has Reconciled the President to Accept the Compromise Measure—Island Delegates Say Bill Is Unfair.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—It is stated by a member of the cabinet that the provision in the Porto Rican compromise bill which stipulates that all the revenues collected on Porto Rican goods and goods imported from the United States and elsewhere shall be expended in the island for the benefit of its people is the prominent feature which reconciles the president to its passage. With this provision in the bill, he said, the net result would be in a measure the same as free trade, which the president recommended to congress in his last message. It was said that in making that recommendation the president had taken into account all of the factors that entered into it—the great need of schools, the provisions which must be made for the suppression of epidemic diseases, the necessity for the construction of roads and bridges and the other necessary public improvements which the situation in the island imperatively demands. He also took into account, it is said, the fact that business on the island is in a deplorable situation and that the people are well nigh helpless to meet the ordinary demands of government. In this situation it was the president's view that the United States from its abundance should extend a helping hand, and he had in preparation at one time a message to congress asking for an appropriation of $3,000,000 to be expended for the public schools of the island.

Another phase of the subject which has occupied the attention of the administration is that involving the open door policy. This government having secured from the European powers a pledge that the United States shall have equal trade rights with them in the east could not, it was said, with any degree of consistency shut the doors to their trade with the Philippines. Although it is admitted that a declaration in favor of free trade with Porto Rico might establish a precedent which would be difficult to overcome in dealing with the Philippines, yet, it was stated, a declaration in the bill itself of the right of congress to deal with these two questions separately and as in its judgment it might deem best would simplify the problem and leave this government free to treat the Philippines as an entirely independent proposition. The one point in the determination of the Porto Rican problem which the president, it is believed, will steadfastly insist upon is that the nominal duties collected by the Porto Ricans and those collected in the ports of the United States on Porto Rican goods shall be expended for the sole benefit of the islanders themselves.

The members of the several delegations from Porto Rico now in Washington, having read the compromise measure adopted at the Republican conference last night, have united in a statement to congress in which they say that the idea and theory of a tariff is repugnant to them and that they are content to stand before their people and the people of the United States on the general broad proposition that the island is entitled to receive absolutely free commercial relations at once. They call attention to the fact that the United States government, through the state department, recently negotiated a treaty with the island of Trinidad, in the West Indies, which is a British province and a direct competitor of Porto Rico, by the terms of which Trinidad is to receive from the United States free of duty all articles of machinery and implements and articles of husbandry and nearly all food supplies, the free list for Trinidad in this treaty being larger than the list of articles now admitted free in Porto Rico by executive order, all of which it is proposed to tax under the tariff bill now pending in congress. The delegations consider this unfair.

The Clark Case.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The proceedings of the senate committee on privileges and elections in the case of Senator Clark of Montana yesterday dealt with the bank accounts of some of the members of the Montana legislature. One of these accounts was that of Representative Stephen Bywater of Flathead county, who deposited $15,000 in the Bank of Montana at Helena on the 3d of last March after the adjournment of the legislature. Mr. Bywater was put on the stand. He said that he had brought $6,000 of this sum to Helena with him and kept it in his trunk all winter, while $9,000 had been received from his brother as purchase money on a sale of mining stock. He declared that he had not received any pay for his vote for Mr. Clark for the senate, but said that Mr. Whiteside had told him that he could get $5,000 for supporting Mr. Clark.

Strike In Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 28.—The first important strike among Porto Rican laborers began Monday morning, when 500 men who had been constructing the military road from Ponce to Adjuntas marched into the latter town, waving flags and carrying banners with the inscription, "We workmen demand 5 cents an hour." The strikers, who were orderly, appointed a committee to consult with the contractors. The present rate of pay is 3 cents an hour, and the men complain that they are compelled to work from sunrise to sunset for 30 cents.

Armor Plate Tested.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—A six inch armor plate intended for the Russian government was tested at the Indian Head proving grounds yesterday. A six inch gun was fired at the plate, the projectile having a velocity of over 1,900 feet per second. The plate was unharmed, the penetration being less than an inch.

Burned to Death In Postoffice.

FIFE LAKE, Mich., Feb. 28.—The postoffice at Ivan, five miles east of here, was burned yesterday, and Herbert Bates, the postmaster's son, perished in the flames. The shock and exposure caused by getting to the nearest neighbors, a quarter of a mile distant, may prove fatal to Mrs. Bates.

Rubber Factory Resumes.

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—The American Rubber company's factory at Cambridgeport has resumed operations at full time, thus giving employment to 1,000 people. The shutdown has lasted ten days.

DIRT CLEARANCE.

IT is a good plan for every bather to know something of the soap he uses. There is a well-founded objection to using a floor-cleaning soap upon the human body. Ivory Soap is the bather's soap. It costs more than common soaps, but the difference is in the ingredients and making. Why not treat yourself with a little respect. Is not the human skin with its marvellous delicacy entitled to pure soap? Ivory Soap—it floats.

THE CIENFUEGOS TROUBLE.

Mayor Frias Superseded—The Strike Declared Off.

HAVANA, Feb. 28.—General Wood presided yesterday at an important meeting of the cabinet. The Cienfuegos strike occupied a large portion of the time, and it was decided that Mayor Frias should be ordered to Havana to explain his active connection in favor of the disorder. He will not return to Cienfuegos, but another mayor will be appointed, Senor Frias reverting to his former position as a professor in the University of Havana. Senor Tamayo, secretary of government, will go to Cienfuegos today and will immediately place municipal affairs there on a basis which will render impossible a repetition of recent events.

While the meeting of the cabinet was in progress word was received that, as the strike managers fear government interference, the strike had been declared off pending an investigation by a committee to be composed of two merchants, two strike leaders, the mayor and Captain Parker.

Civil Governor Gomez telegraphed that the strike had been declared off shortly after arriving at Cienfuegos, and Mayor Frias wired that the strike was off on his advice, which convinced the cabinet that if his advice were so promptly accepted on the first offer it should have been offered before compulsion became necessary.

REAR END COLLISION.

Three Killed and Eleven Injured Near Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 28.—A rear end collision occurred last night on the main line of the Missouri Pacific railroad a few miles out of Kansas City. The St. Louis day express, due in Kansas City at 5:45 last evening, stuck in a snowdrift two miles south of Independence, Mo. The prevailing blizzard was driving the snow in blinding sheets, and the St. Louis local passenger train, due here at 6:25, crashed into the rear end of the stalled train. Both trains usually run at high speed.

Three persons are reported killed and 11 badly hurt. Two of the persons killed were burned to death in the Pullman coach of the train ahead. All efforts to release them failed. At this hour their identity is unknown. The other person killed was Mrs. J. G. Schmidtloff of Cincinnati. Her husband, her daughter and her mother are among the injured. L. F. Sheldon of Sedalia, assistant superintendent of telegraph of the Missouri Pacific, is also hurt. Others reported injured are Charles Palke, Eliza Titus, W. R. Vaughn and W. R. Vanlette, residences unknown.

NEW YORK'S CHARTER.

Fallows Bill Passed to Probe Its Workings and Suggest Changes.

ALBANY, Feb. 28.—The Fallows bill, authorizing the governor to appoint a commission of 15 persons to revise the charter of New York city and suggest legislation thereon, was passed in the assembly yesterday by a vote of 82 yeas to 53 nays.

This action was taken after several amendments offered by the minority had been rejected.

The Fallows bill provides for the appointment of a commission of 15 by the governor to investigate the workings of the New York charter and report back to him such changes as may be deemed necessary to be made to the charter.

The commissioners are to serve without compensation, and New York city is required to appropriate $20,000 to pay the expenses of the investigation.

Kentucky's Dual Government.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 28.—Two state governments completely officered and each claiming to be the regular and legal officials are in Frankfort and will remain, each claiming the right to administer the affairs of state until the question is adjudicated in the courts. As anticipated, the banks refuse to recognize either of the contending factions, and as a result both are without money and the state funds are as securely tied up as they could be. Legislators, county as well as state officials and all kinds of contractors with the state will have to wait until somebody is authorized by a decision of the court to pay them, and the state will have to wait for what is due it until the courts say who is authorized to receive it. The Democratic state officers have opened offices in the State hotel. The charitable and penal state institutions are among the sufferers.

Counterfeiters Arrested.

COUDERSPORT, Pa., Feb. 28.—W. J. Flynn of the United States secret service, Pittsburg, arrested George Austin Sunday afternoon on Tamarack mountain, Clinton county, between Renova and Cross Fork, for the manufacture and passage of counterfeit money. At his house were found counterfeit $5 notes on the Gallatin National bank of New York city and counterfeit $10 notes on the First National bank of Hornellsville, N. Y., and 15 different plates for making counterfeit notes which the officer declined to describe. Yesterday Flynn arrested Claude C. Kimball, a photographer of Coudersport, on the charge of making counterfeit paper money by the use of a specially constructed camera. While the officer would not state the full result of his search sufficient evidence was presented to justify committing the prisoner.

The Paris Mardi Gras.

PARIS, Feb. 28.—A drizzling rain and a leaden sky yesterday threatened to make the fete of Mardi Gras a complete failure so far as Paris is concerned. Nevertheless a goodly number of people gathered along the boulevards where confetti battles were allowed and, splashing through the mud and rain, exchanged volleys of these festal missiles. As evening approached, however, the rain ceased. Crowds flocked to the Avenue des Champs Elysees and the boulevards, where all the stores were closed, and soon the traditional gayety of the Parisians asserted itself, and king carnival reigned supreme.

Actors In an Ice Jam.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—Between 30 and 40 tired and famished actors and actresses of the Reeves company drifted into the Iroquois hotel Monday. They left Milwaukee Sunday morning, and at 11:30 Sunday night their car was run on to a flat at Detroit and a start made for Windsor. The river was full of big blocks of ice, and the float was carried down the river and wedged into a jam of ice. It was intensely cold. Repeated efforts were made to get across the river, but the float went with the ice and for hours drifted in the river until finally got clear early in the morning.

Philippines Customs.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The war department has announced the customs receipts in the Philippine Islands by ports for the month of November. The total amount of import duties collected was $327,607, of which $293,400 was collected at Manila, $18,836 at Iloilo and $15,371 at Cebu. The total amount of export duties collected was $24,912, of which $8,679.77 was collected at Manila, $1,759 at Iloilo and $14,473.41 at Cebu. Other dues collected brought the total collection of customs in the islands for the month up to $369,308, of which $318,504 was collected at Manila, $20,743 at Iloilo and $30,059 at Cebu.

Assemblyman Bradley, of Camden, has introduced a bill that is apt to incur the displeasure of trolley companies, but will be hailed with joy by property owners and advocates of good roads. It provides that no railroad, trolley, traction, horse railroad, electric railroad or street car company, may locate its route or construct its road upon any improved road, without first obtaining the whole consent of every property owner fronting on the said road or along which the tracks are to be laid, or upon repayment to the property holder what he shall have paid as an assessment; second, the consent of the State Commissioner of Public Roads, third, the repayment to the county of one-half it paid toward such road.

The appointment of Franklin Murphy, chairman of the Republican State committee, as a United States Commissioner to the Paris Exposition, has been regarded as an indication that he was to retire as the executive head of New Jersey Republican politics. But it is now stated that Mr. Murphy's duties abroad will not interfere with his relation to the political machine of which he is chief engineer. Probably there are other men who could do as good work at the head of the G. O. P. forces in this State, but as long as Mr. Murphy is available it would not be the best of political policy to change executive heads on the eve of a struggle for the Presidency of the country.

Senator Cross has introduced a bill in the Legislature which gives courts additional powers in cases where applications for the appointment of surveyors of highways are made, wherein through mistake awards have been made to some person other than the true owner of the land taken for the laying out of a public road. The proposed law is designed to fit a case in Union county.

The Republican Congressmen of New Jersey will respond to the crack of the party whip and vote to impose a tariff on the products of Porto Rico. Their action will not be a true reflex of the marjority sentiment in relation to this measure in this State. It is a blunted sense of justice which will permit this unfair bill to become a law.

Up to the present time Cranford has been without a lawyer qualified to practice in the State courts, but now a disciple of Blackstone, who is a New York practitioner, but resides in Cranford, has qualified for the New Jersey Bar. The Cranford Chronicle congratulates the town on this fact. What for?

The determination of Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to establish some permanent mark at the historic spot known as Washington Rock is commendable. The patriotic women should receive hearty encouragement in their project.

In the New York State convention, which is to choose four delegates-at-large for the National Republican convention, an attempt will be made to indorse Colonel Roosevelt for a renomination for Governor of the Empire State.

The Cleveland Humane Society has taken possession of a bear that by dancing and doing tricks earned $15 a week, which served to support forty gypsies. Such action is bruin trouble for the gypsies.

Yesterday's World said that Cronje laager would take its place in history with Valley Forge. The World's good opinion scarcely fits the news that came a few hours later.

Tomorrow is the first day of spring. A joint inspection of the thermometer and the calendar is liable to confuse the mind, however.

At its own request the Flour Trust has had a receiver appointed to close up its affairs. Too much water in its stock, probably.

The irony of war is displayed in the desire of Spain to control three of the Philippine Islands for a coaling station.

An oyster trust is to be formed. Another evidence that the people are regarded as clams.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The fight between Typographical Union No. 6 and the New York Sun is still on and neither side has up to this time shown the least inclination to weaken. No. 6, it is stated on good authority, has thus far expended over $100,000 in the fight and are willing to expend $100,000 more if necessary. On the other hand, despite the fact that the Sun's advertising is noticeable for its absence, they evidently stand prepared to lose considerable more before yielding.

It has been decided that the enumerators who will take the eleventh census will be required to wear badges. The contract for 60,000 badges which will be required has already been given, and they will be completed by the time they are needed. These badges will be made of German silver, an inch and a quarter long by five-eights of an inch wide. The shape is that of a shield surmounted by an eagle. Across the face of the shield will be the words, "United States Census, 1900."

Robert J. McDermott, a lawyer, of Paterson, is trying to have the United States Treasury Department refund him $100. He was counsel in a land deal and affixed the stamp to the deed and cancelled it. Five minutes later, when the transfer of the deed was about to be made, a hitch arose and the deal eventually fell through. The lawyer was left with a cancelled, but unused $100 stamp on his hands. He forwarded the $100 stamp, deed and all to the Treasury Department. Acting Auditor Litterick threw out the claim, holding that the law did not cover the redemption of spoiled stamps of large denominations. Mr. McDermott has appealed from this decision.

THE FACILITIES OF THIS STORE

Were never better demonstrated than during this Grand Anniversary Sale that is being held here all this week; the facilities for buying especially. It is an old saying that "quantity commands price," and that is just what we do here. Our selling facilities are far and away ahead of even the largest city stores, less expense in every way, less rent, less delivery expense, fewer clerks for the same amount of business and no expensive bookkeeping force to maintain; so you may now see and understand why we often sell lower and always as low as any big city store you know. These exceptional buying facilities are only made possible by the united business policy of our four big stores, these constantly create for you such economical chances as is examplified in this Grand Anniversary Sale.

It was the storekeeper at a little Iowa town who related that the first he ever heard of Ripans Tabules was from a runner for a Burlington house, who gave him a few. "I had been telling him that I had been a pronounced victim of dyspepsia for several years, when he took from his pocket a small vial, saying: 'Here is what you want.' Well, from that it came about that I began to use Ripans Tabules. It may be that I would have got well anyway, but of this I am certain: I have not been troubled at all with dyspepsia during the last year."

PREVAILING MODES.

Plaited Gowns Are the Principal Novelty Shown.

Plaited skirts, bodices, sleeves, vests and boleros, with bodices draped above the bosom, and a revival of some empire effects are the novelties in the wardrobe of the present and the immediate future. The skirts are very limp about the foot, where the outside is usually separate from the lining, and is simply faced with silk. The lining skirt is slightly stiffened around the foot with very light crinoline or haircloth, the bands of stiffening being cut in curves to fit the curve of the edge and applied flat.

Sleeves are very tight up to the top of the arm. There they expand somewhat to allow of being properly adjusted to the armhole, and any extra fullness is taken up by short darts, which are pressed flat. The top is re-enforced by stiffening, which is included in the darts. The bottom of the sleeve extends beyond the wrist, whether it is cut in points, rounded, flared or simply left plain and straight. It is better to stiffen this part of the sleeve, also, in order to keep it from wrinkling.

EMBROIDERED BODICE.

Collars are very high, and the height increases behind the ears to the back of the head. They are well stiffened and shaped to the neck, flaring a little at the top, to allow freedom of movement for the head.

The cut depicts a bodice of black satin, having a wide plait at the middle of the back and gathered at the waist in front. The short basque is composed of square tabs, and the tight sleeves form points at the wrists. The front is heavily embroidered in an iris pattern in colored silks, and the upper part of the sleeves is similarly adorned. The collar is fastened by a chou of white mousseline de soie. The silk belt has an oriental buckle.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

EVENING GOWNS.

Prevailing Mode For Full Evening Costume.

Whatever may be the style of the skirt of an evening or ball gown, it now invariably has a train, not necessarily long, but still a decided train. Nothing can be more graceful than these clinging skirts, expanding into soft, trailing folds around the foot.

A great deal of crepe de chine is used, with fringes, embroideries, velvet, feathers, mousseline de soie and especially flowers which are very delicately and beautifully made. A flower trimming must, however, always be fresh; otherwise it is a disfigurement. Hence it requires to be frequently renewed, and is, therefore, an expensive sort of decoration.

Ball gowns are enriched with many elaborate ornaments. Boleros, plastrons, cuirasses and tabliers of skirts are covered with embroidery, spangles and jeweled effects which are magnificent under artificial illumination. Sometimes silks, metals and jewels are all combined. A bodice of white satin is thus adorned, the skirt being plain.

DINNER GOWN.

An illustration is given of a princess dinner gown of black velvet. Rows of stitching accented by spangles appear a little above the foot, and a decoration of spangled embroidery gives a coat effect to the upper part of the gown. There are no sleeves, and the decolletage is round. A display of pink mousseline de soie surrounds it, fastened at the left side by a chou of the same material, the fringed ends being allowed to hang loose.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION HINTS.

The Present Mode Favorable to Plump Women.

It has been said that rings are much in vogue, bare hands covered with jewels being seen at even the most elaborate functions. Circumstances alter cases, however, and women with short, plump fingers will do better to avoid overloading them with rings. Women inclined to be fat would also be wise if they would avoid the collar necklace composed of rows of tiny beads, linked tablets or medallions, as such close ornaments make the neck appear shorter.

The fashionable figure of the period is one favorable to stout women. The low bust and loose bodice are replaced by the rigid Louis Quinze form, tight and straight, with a high bust and a deep point at the waist. Fashion usually favors the slight, but the present time shows an exception to that rule, slender women appearing to less advantage than plump ones in the ultra modish bodice. The wise woman will adhere to the form which suits her best, regardless of the exact mode.

The costume illustrated is of light periwinkle blue bengaline. The skirt is trimmed with ten almost flat ruffles and forms a single flat plait at the back. The back of the bodice is tight, but in front it is cut in three bands, which are draped across a plastron of guipure de venise and fastened by rosettes of satin and jeweled buttons. The large guipure collar is a continuation of the plastron. The sleeves, of elbow length, are horizontally plaited and are finished with a frill of lace and a satin chou with a jeweled button.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WARM WRAPS.

Outside Garments to Accompany Calling Costumes.

Capes and similar loose wraps are better for accompanying a calling costume than are jackets, as it is always desirable to enter the drawing room without an outside garment, which conceals the gown. A wrap is easily slipped off and left in the hall, or at least it may be allowed to drop away from the figure.

A chamois skin corset cover is a most convenient thing to have in cold weather, as it gives a great deal of warmth, while adding very little to the bulk of the figure. It is best cut in the bolero form, ceasing above the waist, as a basque is a quite unnecessary adjunct. The armholes and the neck should be large. A lining is not desirable, as it makes the vest much thicker and does not add greatly to its warmth. These vests may be washed in warm soapsuds as easily as a handkerchief. They will be stiff and hard when first dried, but a little rubbing and puffing will make them quite soft again and bring them into shape.

A picture is given of a gown of sapphire blue cloth. At the left side is a pointed panel of sapphire velvet striped with white, decorated with black and white satin galloon. The tight bodice is slightly draped across the bust and closes at the left side under a bow of fringed blue velvet and an ornament. The revers and the cuffs of the close sleeves match the skirt panel, and the high collar is bordered with black and white galloon. The toque of blue velvet has a bow of the velvet with fringed ends and a cluster of black ostrich feathers.

AN ARISTOCRATIC ORDER.

The Noble Ladies of Prague, Bohemia, Secular Canonesses and Royal Abbesses.

The secular canonesses of Prague belong to the proudest religious order in Europe. To their rank no maiden is admitted who cannot prove on both sides 16 quarterings of nobility. It was founded by Empress Maria Theresa, and has had ever since for its abbess a daughter of the imperial house.

Intended as a provision for the "penniless lass, wi' a lang pedigree," its rules are not of the strictness to be found in less aristocratic associations. Its members are free to marry—if they get a good offer—and though they are required to spend a certain number of months annually in the royal palace of the Hradschin, they are allowed to visit when they like, to receive visits, and to seek change of air in summer. Each canoness has at her disposal a carriage and horses, and a box at the theater, while medical attendance and drugs are provided. In addition, she receives a pension of over 100 guldens a month, or about $45.

While Marie Theresa's foundation affords a retreat for many girls of high birth, but limited means, it must not be taken that all the members are impecunious. To belong to the Stift is esteemed an honor. A sister of the present Count Taaffe (one of the many Austrian nobles of Irish descent), Countess Walbburga, Clementina Taaffe, was a canoness. At the present day Count Taaffe's own daughter is numbered amongst the members of the community.

QUEEN REGENT OF SPAIN.
(Once was Abbess of the Secular Canonesses of Prague.)

Amongst those who have held the post of abbess have been the unfortunate Marie Antoinette, and the present queen regent of Spain. The Stifts Damen are privileged to appear at the Austrian court attired in black.

Besides the private apartments allotted to each lady in the Hradschin or royal palace at Prague, two fine reception rooms with paraquet floorings and lofty windows are placed at the general disposal for large gatherings. These contain portraits of former abbesses painted on their resignation. In one of these salons stands a curious fire screen embroidered delicately by poor Marie Antoinette with flowers in silk. From the balcony there is a beautiful outlook on the city beneath, with its slopes, its innumerable towers, the winding Moldau, and the height of Weissberg beyond.

One of the obligations of the ladies who are so comfortably endowed for life is to pray for the soul of their founder. This they do in the adjoining cathedral of Saint Vitus, remarkable for the huge mausoleum of Saint John Nepomucen in solid silver, containing a silver coffin inclosing a second in crystal in which are his remains. At the end of the choir is the hereditary burial place of the kings of Bohemia. Beneath a monument of marble and alabaster lie 12 monarchs with their queens. The last to be buried there was Rudolph II., in 1612. Close by is a second church dedicated to Saint George, and adorned by fine dog tooth moldings. It contains the crown of Saint Wenceslas, which has been worn only by Emperor Ferdinand (The Good) since Bohemia became an appanage of Austria. That it should be once more placed upon the head of his ruler is the desire of every true-born czech.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Plants in Sleeping-Rooms.

It is not wise to keep plants in the sleeping room at night, because the exhalations of these plants are not considered wholesome. The soil in which they are cultivated is prepared from rotted leaves and earth, taken from various localities where the soil is suitable for the purpose. Sometimes this soil is filled with malarious germs and may be a constant source of danger. "In the moist, warm air of a closed living-room," says an authority on this subject, "malarial germs grow luxuriant." It is said that malarial fevers have been traced to the flower pots in which plants were growing.

THE FILIPINO BABY.

As a Rule He Is a Lusty Youngster, Although He Does Not Receive Much Coddling.

Babies are babies all the world round. The little dark fellow in Egypt cries for the moon just as does the white baby in Boston. But the mammas may differ.

This story is about the little Filipino baby and how it is carried about by its mother; for, after all, that is the main point of difference. Of course, the Filipino babies do not wear nearly as many clothes as babies do in this country, and do not have pins stick into them and make them cry. They lie around on the bamboo floors, with maybe one garment on, and sleep; and when they grow old enough their mammas take them out to market. It is very seldom that they wear anything on their heads, though most of the older ones have nice little silk bonnets. They got them when they went to the big stone church and were christened. But they seldom wear them, and many a daughter is christened in the cap that her grandmamma was christened in. Sometimes the mother shades her infant daughter's head from the sun with an umbrella, but the boy babies receive no such attention.

But the way the Filipino mother carries her baby is the queerest, and probably the easiest for the mother, that is practiced in any country. The child rides astride on the mother's hip—one chocolate foot in front and the other behind. The mother places her hand against the back of the little one, and the "nino" (infant) holds on by grasping its mother's arm. And that is all there is to it. In Japan the women carry the babies in a blanket on their backs, much as an Indian squaw carries a pappoose. In Egypt the little ones are carried on the shoulders of their parents, while in this country the small child is carried in the arms.

The Filipino babies are not always carried on the hips, however. In some of the richer homes there are perambulators, or baby carriages. There is nothing artistic about them. They look for all the world like clothes baskets mounted on four very small wheels. Sometimes the perambulator does for a cradle as well, and is so arranged that the basket sets in a frame and can be swung. Another kind is simply a box on two wheels. Often the baby is put into this box and an older sister pulls it back and forth along the street in front of the house. The photograph which goes with this sketch was taken at Las Penas, south of Manila. This "carriage" was the only one in all the village, and whoever made it had a view to comfort, as you may surmise from noticing the little wooden awning over it. Filipino babies learn to talk quite young. It is amusing to hear the little ones lisping over the Tagalo language and struggling with words that sound much like "ung" and "ong." When they are six years old the children are started off to school, and spend the days swinging their feet under the benches, learning the Spanish alphabet in the forenoon and the Tagalog in the afternoon. Now there is an hour a day given to the English language, or, as they call it there, the "Americano."

The Filipino little ones have few things to play with, and do not know what a doll is. They never see a picture book, and know only the tales that are told them after they are large enough to understand. It is not till childhood passes that they learn the meaning of the songs that are crooned to them when they are put to sleep—songs of the sea and of the battles of their fathers.—Harry A. Armstrong, in Chicago Record.

Baked Almond Pudding.

Beat fine in a mortar four ounces of almonds with a few bitter ones, and a little unfermented grape juice. Beat up separately the yolks of six eggs, grate the peel of two lemons, four ounces of butter, three half-pints of cream and the juice of one lemon. Mix all these ingredients well together; make a rich paste, put it in the bottom of a dish, pour the above upon it and bake half an hour. Serve plain or with a liquid sauce.

Americans Will Compete in the Athletic Contests at the Coming Paris Fair

SHOULD the Olympian games be held at Paris this summer, and there is every reason to believe that the commission superieure of the Paris universal exhibition will successfully carry out the scheduled programme, many American athletes will participate. Collegians, both undergraduates and graduates, have not forgotten the olive wreaths that the American representatives earned for their pains in the Stadium several years ago. The glamour of visiting the spot where once the ancient Grecian athletes contested, to see the dust of the road over which the Marathon runners flew and the eclat of the occasion of so much importance from a historical point of view, appealed greatly to the man of muscle who competed with the colors of the United States universities on their bodies. If Paris were to offer but a disk of iron for a triumph in a 100-meter race there would be found many collegians who would make the trip, undergo the "rigeurs" of training for, say five weeks, and pay their own expenses to contest in the athletic events.

FOUR AMERICAN ATHLETES WHO WILL PROBABLY COMPETE IN PARIS.

But at this early date it cannot be said that a single university has actually planned to send representatives to Paris. Reports recently sent out from Princeton and Pennsylvania indicated that the faculty had decided to send teams, but there was one point left open for future consideration—the question whether the school should be represented wholly by student athletes or whether graduates who had made records on the path and in the field events would be eligible. One thing is regarded as certain, if Pennsy and the Tigers decide to put graduates on the teams, other universities will follow suit. Strictly speaking, the plan is perfectly legitimate and it should not destroy the amateurism of the team. It will be found that England and the continent will do this and amateurs are closely watched over there.

Many at the universities discussed the Paris games, but few had the remotest idea of what they would be, except in a general way it was thought that they would be patterned after the intercollegiate meets. Of course it is a foregone conclusion that there will be sports for the professionals as well as for the amateurs. To get the programme as it has been arranged, I wrote to Paris and received the information that the commission superieure had set aside July 1, 3 and 5 for the professionals and that July 1 the world's championships would be contested at 100 meters, 400 meters, 1,500 meters, 110 meters, hurdle race, long jump, high jump, putting the weight and 2,500 meters' steeplechase. Several hundred dollars in cash will be given for the prizes. July 3 there will be a six hours' race with $425 in prizes. The last date for the profs will be marked by handicap performances, in field events, and track races from 100 meters up to 5,000 meters.

For the amateurs the committee has prepared a list of events almost as long as one of those new bridges over the Seine. The best men of the world will compete in these and in no case will the victor receive anything more than a medal, the obverse and reverse sides of which will bear figures and legends emblematic of the games and events, or "objects d'art" worth $80 to the winner, $40 to the second and $10 to the third man. In the team races the prizes, of course, will be of greater intrinsic value.

Amateur world's championships will be decided July 15, 17, 19 and 22. There will be 100 meters, 400 meters, 800 meters, 1,500 meters events, 2,500 meters steeplechase, hurdle races, and the regular field events as recognized by the intercollegiate associations in the United States. With the handicap races and miscellaneous events the programme will be well filled, to say nothing of the tug of war competitions and the team events. The amateur championship at lawn tennis will be decided in a tournament to begin June 17 and to continue until July 1. The play will include singles, for men and women, as well as handicap competitions for souvenirs worth $175 and $120 each. Professional tennis players will have their turn, and the prizes will be liberal.

I have it on excellent authority that J. Fred Powers, the Notre Dame athlete who is surprising the western intercollegiate world by his great efficacy in point gaining for his school in the annual meet, and who subsequently took the all-around amateur championship of the United States by his work at Bergen Point last year, will wear the colors of Notre Dame at Paris. It was said that ex-Capt. Powers would become a coach. But the spirit of the true amateur is so firmly fastened in him that he could not bring himself to put aside his amateur standing. He will remain an amateur, and if his returned health permits it, he will endeavor to show the athletes who compete against him that he can jump as far or as high, pole vault as gracefully and as high, and hurl the discus and weights as far as he could last year. If Powers is himself again, there is an excellent chance for him to take high honors.

Then there is Tewksbury, of Pennsy. He has begun a mild form of training, and if he goes to Paris as a graduate member of the red and blue team, he may be expected to give the foreigners the hardest fight they ever had to beat his marks. Baxter, too, of the Quaker team, will give a good account of himself.

Duffey, the Georgetown man, is in rare form, as his recent indoor exploits have shown the athletic world. With the coming dual meets so bountifully scheduled, to say nothing of the A. A. U. indoor championships, both east and west, to prepare for the athletes, may find themselves tried out enough to warrant their giving in their entries before June 14.

The appearance of Alvin C. Kraenzlein, in the colors of Pennsylvania, in the high and low hurdles, running against the crack foreigners, should be one of the remarkable features of the Olympian games.

J. FRED POWERS.

That this remarkable turner from Milwaukee, who is regarded as quite the most phenomenal athlete the United States has produced, would hold his own in the hurdles and eventually take the finals, is not doubted by followers of sport. He can jump, too, as is well known by his remarkable record performances. The Irish broad jumpers, Newburn and O'Connor, would find in him a man worthy of their generalship. Tom Fisher, of Yale; John Flanagan, the gigantic hammer thrower; Boardman, of Yale; Dick Grant, J. F. Cregan, Princeton; Meyer Prinstein, Quinlan, of Harvard; Jarvis, of Princeton; Alex Grant, of Pennsy; Maxey Long, of Columbia; J. T. Roche, of Harvard, and many others suggest point winners may be found in the list of American athletes who will make the trip to Paris.

If the Parisians do but half of what they promise for the success of the athletic adjunct of the exhibition, there will be plenty to talk about next summer.

OLD BOUNDARY POSTS.

They Mark the Famous Mason and Dixon Line Between Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Great bodies move slowly, and perhaps that is the reason why it has required such an unconscionably long time to get the commonwealths of Pennsylvania and Maryland to act in unison in the matter of restoring the stone posts which mark the famous Mason and Dixon line. But as a bill was the other day introduced in the Maryland legislature appropriating $5,000 for this purpose, it is expected that the work will be soon completed. Several years ago the Pennsylvania general assembly appropriated a like sum for the purpose, on condition that the Terrapin state would defray the other half of the $40,000 required.

OLD BOUNDARY STONES.
(Erected to Mark the Famous Mason and Dixon Line.)

When it is remembered that this boundary line between the two states was marked 133 years ago, and that stone posts then set up have never been repaired where injured or replaced where destroyed, it is seen that the work of restoration is a matter of necessity. In fact, comparatively few of the original posts remain, and those which still stand have been sadly chipped by the ubiquitous relic hunter

It is curious to note that every transaction connected with this boundary has been carried out only after protracted delays. There was much serious contention about it in England long before Richard Penn and Lord Baltimore agreed in London, in 1766 that Charles Mason and James Dixon should be sent over to survey and establish the line with visible and durable marks. It was no easy task. The territory to be traversed was wild and rough, and the Indians were troublesome. In fact, in 1767, when the surveyors had completed the monument to within 36 miles of the Delaware line, the chiefs of the still powerful Six Nations compelled its cessation.

The stones used to mark the boundary were quarried and carefully cut in England and shipped to America as they were required. At the end of each mile a stone having the letter P on one side and M on the other was set up; and a larger post of the same material was erected at the end of every fifth mile, having upon their respective sides the arms of the Penn family and those of Lord Baltimore. But it was not until 1767 that they ended their labors, and even then a good deal of the line was signalized only by heaps of stones.

time. Though English by birth, they had been for a number of years resident in the Transvaal before their son was born. He spent his boyhood, and in fact most of his life in South Africa. As he reached man's estate he developed a liking for a business career, and opened a store in Johannesburg, where he first attracted the attention and won the esteem of President Kruger. Oom Paul put much faith in Mr. White's good judgment, and not many years ago made him commissioner of mines and gave him a voice in the affairs of the republic. Two years ago President Kruger sent Mr. White to London as consul general, and he was immediately recognized by the British government. He was well liked in England, and contributed many reviews to the daily press and periodicals, in which he always presented the Boer side of the controversy strongly and tersely, yet without anger or prejudice. Mr. White is a quiet, courtly and amiable man, who makes friends easily and has the faculty of retaining them. He is gifted with a fine memory, and is possessed of exceptional judgment.

NEW RAILROAD IN HAYTI.

It Will Do Much for the Development of the Little Republic.

HAYTI is slowly recovering from the effects of the last revolution which depleted the government coffers and left a deplorable business depression in its wake. Needed capital is now going into the island and stimulating its industries, cultivating its rich tropical lands and building permanent public improvements.

Among the latter is the railroad now being constructed from Cape Haytien to La Grande Riviere. This is the only railroad in the republic and promises to become an important feature in the development of the country. United States Consul Livingston, at Cape Haytien, says of this enterprise:

"The concession for this enterprise, as amended and now in force, is the most liberal one ever granted by the Haytian government, allowing the formation of a joint stock company in which foreigners not only can hold shares, but are able through their holdings to acquire a controlling interest. One of the most active members of the syndicate is an Englishman, a merchant residing at Cape Haytien. All material for the construction and equipment of the road is admitted free of duty. The concession is for 60 years, and the government offers to guarantee an interest of six per cent. on $24,000 per kilometer in the construction. The government also grants to the company for a period of 20 years the tolls of an iron bridge at the Cape Haytien terminus, which at present amount to $800 a month in Haytian currency. The distance from Cape Haytien to La Grande Riviere is only 15 miles, but the concession includes the privilege of constructing branch roads to Ouanaminte, a distance of 35 miles and to Limbe, about 19 miles. The region through which these roads are to pass is one of the most fertile plains on the island, adapted to the cultivation of all the tropical products for which Hayti is noted. The government lands granted to the company include 4,000 acres specially suited to banana growing. Deposits of iron and coal have been discovered within easy access of the road, for the exploitation of which concessions can be secured by the company. The company is now soliciting capital to complete these roads, cultivate the fertile lands included in its grants, and develop the iron and coal mines in the neighborhood."

COAL FAMINE IN EUROPE.

Conditions That Have Produced an Unusual Scarcity of Fuel.

PRACTICALLY all of Europe is suffering from a coal famine at the present time. In England, which supplies much of the coal for the continent, the price has jumped for coal in London from $4.83 a ton to the enormous price of $19.30, and is not procurable at that in London. The effect has been to stop all exports, and France, Germany and Russia are unable to supply the unusual demands made upon their mines.

The Transvaal war is responsible for the jump in the price of English coal, both at home and abroad. Many of the British miners have been withdrawn from the collieries to join the army, and the coal that those at work are getting out cannot all be transported to the points of consumption, because the government has requisitioned all available rolling stock for the transportation of troops and war material. The small supply that is being shipped from the mines is taken by the government for use in the ordnance foundries at Birmingham, Aldershot and Woolrich, and for the depot at Southampton.

In both France and Germany coal syndicates control the market, and supply fuel on annual contracts. But while at the present time they are unable to fill their contract orders, they have the market so thoroughly under control, because of their contracts, that they will not permit outside buying. In France thousands of factory employes are at present out of work, because of the scarcity of fuel, and the government is considering drastic measures to relieve the situation. Ordinarily, the best of the English Cardiff coal is sold in France, delivered in bunkers in bond, at $8.50 per ton, but it cannot be procured at any price at the present time. At Marseilles the local port charges, custom house dues and lighterage increase the price 85 cents per ton, if the coal is to be delivered to vessels in port, or $1.08 if intended for the inland trade.

In Germany the coal trust has sent the price of coke up from $3.80 per metric ton to $9.99. But so strong is the hold on the trade, because of the contract system, that it is practically impossible to supply the demand with outside fuel. These contracts bind the consumer not to use any foreign coal or coke, and the penalties covering this feature of the contract are heavy. But in addition to these penalties the trust can, under its contracts, decline to fill future orders under existing contracts with firms who violate this feature of the contracts, so that German consumers must either procure all their coal outside or none of it.

In Russia the demand for coal so far exceeds the supply that the government has repealed the duty for the time being, but even that offers but little relief, so long as the scarcity in other European countries continues.

Mediterranean marine interests are feeling the effects of the coal famine. At Malta, the principal coaling station of the Mediterranean, it is almost impossible to procure coal at any price. At this port most of the coal sold to ships is imported from England, but that supply has been practically shut off. During the latter part of the past year the United States government bought coal at Malta for naval purposes for $4.72 per ton, for which the dealer has to pay $6.33, but the contract at that price expired with the end of the year.

FRENCH INTERESTS IN TRANSVAAL.

Realization of Their Extent Has Added Fuel to the Fire of French Hatred for England.

ONE of the recent reports of the French consul at Pretoria has done much to add fuel to the already burning fire of French hatred for England in connection with the war in South Africa. The report has been given wide circulation in the French press and has been liberally commented upon by French editors. Probably the greatest of French economists, Paul Leroy Beaulieu, comes out with a statement that the French possess not less than $300,000,000 in Transvaal mining property, and that the French, German and Dutch stockholders own probably more than one-half of the mines.

The report of the French consul says that indications are that should the Boers be successful in the conflict now being waged, they will be inclined to favor France in preference to other nations when the war is over. Up to the present time France has obtained but a small percentage of the business of the Boer republic. Of a total of $51,145,000 of imports during 1898, France supplied but $1,384,000 worth, and $386,000 of this was for war munitions.

At the present time French stockholders in the Transvaal mines are moving for a combination of French, German and Dutch interests. The foundation of the movement is the belief that if the English are victorious the cost of the war will be taxed upon the mines; that if the fortunes of war incline to the side of the Boers, a heavy tax may be imposed upon outside stockholders, which nonbelligerents wish to avoid. MAX OWEN.

Kinsmen Across the Border.

Many Americans gladly acknowledge their kinship with the Anglo-Saxons beyond the water, but we must remember that we are still more literally cousins of the great people to the north of us. For a century and a quarter Canadians and Americans have intermarried freely, and the border cannot divide ties of blood. Not long ago the dispatches from South America announced the death of Lieut. Wood, of Halifax, the first Canadian to die for the British empire in the Boer war. It is an interesting comment on our relations with Canada to note that this young lieutenant was the great-great-grandson of Zachary Taylor, who was a major in the war of 1812, and fought against the British with all the zest for fighting that was in him, and that his great-grandfather was Jefferson Davis, who, as a young man, married Taylor's daughter. It is usually represented as a runaway match, but Mr. Davis himself wrote that it was nothing of the sort. In spite of such American antecedents, Lieut. Wood lived a loyal subject of the queen, and died for her majesty's empire.—Youth's Companion.

CHAMBER MUSIC.

Excellent Concert Given at Westfield Last Evening by Kaltenborn String Quartette.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Feb. 28.—The music lovers of Westfield were given a chance to enjoy a delightful musical programme last evening at the hands of the Kaltenborn string quartette of New York, assisted by Miss Carrie Harding Beebe, pianist, and Miss Mary H. Mansfield, soprano. It was a chamber music concert, arranged under the auspices of the choir of the Congregational church.

The concert opened with Schumann's E Flat Op. 44, by the quartette, with Miss Beebe at the piano; An Aria from "Samson and Delilah" (Saint Saens,) then followed by Miss Mansfield.

Mr. Kalterborn charmed the audience by his fine rendering of Chopin's most popular Nocturne and the "Csardas" of Hubay. He was of course recalled, and gave as an encore Handel's "Largo," with an organ accompaniment by Louis Dressler.

The quartette then gave an Andante by Tschaikowsky and a Sherzo by Kiengel.

Miss Beebe's three piano solos were all marked by fine expression and superb technique.

Primary Saturday Night.

The North Plainfield Republican Primary will be held Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the basement of the Somerset street public school, and not on Friday evening as stated a few days ago.

—A mandolin club will be one of the special attractions at the meeting of the Cracker Barrel Club at Spencer's Hall tonight.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

The droll acting of W. B. Patton, who heads the Macauley-Patton Company, was seen to excellent advantage again last night in Music Hall in "A Wasted Life." The piece is a comedy drama, written by Mr. Patton. Where he protrayed the character of "hero" in the opening performance Monday evening, last night Mr. Patton appeared in the guise of a villian. His treatment of the role showed him to be a versatile actor. The opportunities for intense acting are many in "A Wasted Life," and every climax is developed with clever dramatic force and interest. The subordinate characters also gave the other members of the company a chance to be seen in personations that were different from those in which their debut was made the evening before. The supporting roles were acted with a spirit and sympathy necessary to a finished performance. The company is undoubtedly the best reportoire aggregation as has ever been seen in Plainfield, and in truth is possessed of much better talent than ninety per cent. of one-night attractions, playing at regular prices, which have been seen here this season. This evening "Royal Rags," another of Mr. Patton's pieces, will be presented. Tomorrow night "Hazel Kirke" will be produced, and this sterling old attraction will undoubtedly receive a strong presentation. Friday night "In Mizzoura" will be given. Mr. Patton is said to be especially strong in this piece, and the company is particularly fitted for a capable interpretation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Carey, of Manning avenue, are rejoicing over the arrival of a baby boy.

PROGRESS OF THE NEGRO

PORTRAYED BY ONE OF THE RACE WHO KNOWS THEM.

Rev. James Ed. Mason D. D., of Livingston College, Made Address at Grace Parish House Last Night.

Rev. Dr. James Ed. Mason, financial agent of the Livingston College and Industrial School, of Salisbury, N. C., addressed a small audience at the Parish house of Grace Episcopal church last night on "The New Negro." Previous to the lecture Dr. Rodman spoke of the Negro as the wards of the nation and said that he believed the Government at Washington and the church had neglected their duty toward these people. If the Government would co-operate with the church in trying to elevate the Negro their efforts would in a few years be crowned with a success far beyond the fondest hopes of all who are interested in the elevation of the colored race.

He then introduced Dr. Mason, who began an eloquent address replete with passages of oratory that electrified the few who had the pleasure of listening to him, by giving a pictorial representation of the Negro as depicted by Jefferson Davis.

Since the emancipation of the Negro striking changes have taken place that show him to be advancing towards a higher plane. In reference to the religious life of the Negro, Dr. Mason said there were fully 3,000,000 of professed Christians while there were but about 2 000 preachers.

He referred eloquently to the position the Negro had secured from a monetary standpoint, and said that the colored race in the south paid taxes on more than $500,000,000 worth of property. As regards to the education of the Negro Dr. Mason said the colored man's education and elevation lay in that direction. In this connection he took occasion to state that 1,500,000 scholars were attending the Negro schools that are taught by 43,000 teachers. The Negro can boast of 500 lawyers and an equal number of doctors, while the colored man controls $10,000,000 worth of property. There are 400 newspapers edited by Negros and about 400 authors and three Negro banks. To give an idea of the industry and frugality of the Negro Dr. Mason said that last week $18,000 had been deposited in one bank in Richmond, Va.

The speaker expressed the opinion that before the Negro could be recognized socially it would be necessary for him to remove the prejudice that existed in that direction in the south and also to eliminate the industrial prejudice against the Negro in the north. It is the condition and not the theory that confronts the Negro. He emphasized the importance of the Negro putting forth his best efforts to help himself by securing an education. Money, character and education, he said, were factors, the Negro must possess if he would succeed. In closing Dr. Mason made an urgent appeal for aid in support of the Livingston College and Industrial School.

TRIMMED HATS.

Men of Unitarian Church Found New Occupation at Sociable Last Evening.

The men of the Unitarian church had an opportunity last evening to exhibit their skill in the art of millinery. One of the chief features of the church sociable, held in the church parlors last evening was a period devoted to the trimming of hats by the men of the congregation.

The women brought the hats and the necessary trimmings and the men were called upon to show their skill in combining them. The sociable was largely attended and the plan proved a popular one. The guests were then called upon to select the best and worst trimmed of the hats. Alex. VanOss received the prize for the best and Henry V. Ryder for the worst.

There was also an informal musical programme which included vocal duets by Miss Julia J. Ketcham and Alexander VanOss, and vocal solos by Miss Ketcham. Miss Emily Haff gave a recitation from Eugene Field. The affair was arranged by the social committee of the church of which Mrs. Stephen Haff was the chairman.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson read Markham's latest poem on Lincoln during the entertainment.

Raising Money for Missionary Purposes.

The patronesses were Mrs. L. M. French, Mrs. Harry Gee, Mrs. A. B. Meredith, Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Mrs. H. A. Miller and Mrs. John Lewis. The object for which the sale was held was to raise money for foreign and home missionary work.

Another Political Smoker.

BULLER CARRIES PIETER'S HILL.

British General Says He Took Sixty Prisoners and Scattered the Enemy.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

London, Feb. 28.—The War Office has received the following despatch from Gen. Buller:

"Headquarters, Llandwani, Feb. 28th, 5 a. m.—Finding that the passage of Langewacht's Spruit was commanded by strong intrenchments, I reconnoitered for another passage of the Tugela. One was found for me below the cataract by Col. Sandbach, Royal Engineers, on Feb. 25th.

Tuesday General Barton, with two battalions of the Sixth Brigade, and the Dublin Fusileers, crept about a mile and a half down the banks of the river and ascended an almost precipitous cliff of about five hundred feet, assaulted and carried the top of Pieter's Hill.

We took about sixty prisoners and scattered the enemy in all directions. There seems to be still a considerable body of them left on and under Bulwana Mountain. BULLER.

THE DEBATE CLOSED.

House Votes on the Porto Rico Bill Today—Depew's Eloquent Speech.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The general debate on the Porto Rico tariff bill closed yesterday in a blaze of glory. The galleries were banked to the doors, and every seat on the floor was occupied when the rival champions of the respective sides, Mr. Dolliver of Iowa and Mr Bailey of Texas, made the closing arguments. Each spoke for an hour and a half. The speech of Mr. Bailey, devoted as it was almost exclusively to the legal phases of the controversy, which was profound and impressive, did not arouse the unbounded enthusiasm which swept galleries and floor while Mr. Dolliver was speaking. The Iowan was at his best, and his wit, eloquence and sarcasm in turn drew salvos of applause from his Republican associates.

Before these closing speeches were made Mr. Cannon of Illinois, chairman of the appropriations committee and one of the veterans on the Republican side, made an exceptionally effective speech in support of the bill. Messrs. Carmack (Dem., Tenn.), Clayton (Dem., Ala.), Kleberg (Dem., Tex.) and Pearce and Dearmond (Dems., Mo.) had also made speeches in opposition to the bill. The Republican managers are now confident that with the modification agreed upon at the conference last night the bill will command a narrow majority on the final vote today.

Mr. Depew of New York addressed the senate on the Philippine question. His oration was beautiful in thought and diction. He strongly upheld the policy of the administration and in conclusion pictured so brilliantly commerce and civilization moving hand in hand for the happiness and uplifting of the people of the Philippines as well as those of this country that the galleries were swept by a storm of applause.

After Mr. Turley had concluded his speech on the Quay case the Hawaiian government bill was again taken up, but little progress was made. An agreement was reached that a final vote should be taken on the measure today.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Senator Turley of Tennessee will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for vice president.

By the California supreme court's decision upholding the trust clause of Senator Fair's will his children, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.; Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs and Charles Fair, get only the income from the estate.

—The St. Valentine sociable, which was planned by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh Day Baptist church, has been given up on account of the illness of a number of the members.

Whist Was Played.

The Tuesday Evening Whist Club was entertained last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Horace Huff, of Coddington avenue, and a very pleasant time was had by all present. The first and second prizes for the women were won by Mrs. Walter Apgar and Mrs. Wm. Angleman, while Horace Huff and Robert Crosson won the prizes for the men. After the game dancing was indulged in, and at a late hour supper was served. The club will meet again in two weeks, when Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Rogers, of Westervelt avenue, will entertain.

—The monthly meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held at the home of Joseph Hawkins on LaGrande avenue tomorrow evening.
